By HALLETT ABEND.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SHANGHAI, June 16.—Shuddering with fear of Communist domination in the Yangtse Valley, and fighting on five distinct war fronts, China today is in the worst situation she has experienced since the overthrow of the Manchu dynasty. The politico-military situation is accentuated by the crisis caused by the drop in the price of silver, which has depreciated Chinese currency to the point where one American dollar is worth four Chinese dollars, or taels.

Northward Feng Yu-hsiang's forces are exerting new pressure down the Peking-Hankow railway, while on the Lunghai railway and eastward in Shantung Province Yen Hsi-shan is pausing apparently in a stalemate. South of the Yangtse River the Nanking Government is massing reserves in an effort to check the advances of the Kwangsi rebels and Chang Fa-kwei's "Ironsides." At the same time Pro-Nanking forces are being rushed from Canton northward to Shiuchow railhead, from which point the Nanking commanders are planning to bring pressure against the rear of the Kwangsi rebels and the Ironsides.

Communists Control Area.

If that succeeds, the rebels will have no option except to move eastward through Kiangsi and Chekiang provinces toward Shanghai. And if they did that, they would be in territory already controlled by Communists and bandit bands which are hostile to the Nanking Government and are forcing it to deplete its armies which are north of the Yangtse facing the armies of Feng Yu-hsiang.

The Communist menace in the Yangtse Valley overshadows even the challenge to Nanking's authority by the Northerners. Already missionaries are voluntarily evacuating Fukien and parts of Chekiang Province. It is noteworthy that the Communist area has grown under an apparently well-prepared plan and now stretches from Swatow and Amoy inland to the banks of the Yangtse.

Vessels of a Russian volunteer fleet from Vladivostok are known to be harboring in islands off the coast, loading arms and ammunition into junks which land their cargoes on deserted coasts directly to the Communists. Refugees from regions controlled by Communists bring appalling tales of lootings and massacres by Communists, who have declared that four classes of Chinese must die—(1) political opponents of the Communists, (2) the wealthy and socially undesirable, (3) the incurably diseased and (4) the aged poor. The Reds' theory is that overpopulation is one of China's main ills.

All titles, deeds, land markings and official records are always destroyed by the Communists. All businesses with a capital in excess of $500 are confiscated.

Nanking Favored to Win.

The lack of political cohesion among Nanking's enemies is causing comment here, and the feeling is growing that Nanking probably will eventually be victorious in the civil war. The Kwangsi rebels and the Ironsides are believed to be unwilling to cooperate fully with the Northern coalition, and Feng and Yen are believed to differ radically over domestic policies and therefore are unlikely to remain united.

Today, for the first time in the civil wars of China, a successful attempt was made to disrupt the National unity of the customs administration. Yen Hsi-shan sent Lennox Simpson, a British subject, authorized to take over the customs at Tientsin on behalf of the Northerners. At the same time Yen announced that a percentage of collections would be earmarked for payment of foreign loans and be deposited in the custody of a bank, as heretofore.

The Commissioner of Tientsin Customs who had been appointed by the Nanking Government had sought refuge in the British Consulate at Tientsin with the records of the offices. Yen's appointees are now in full charge and have announced that all employes who will be loyal to the Northern coalition will remain in their jobs while all Nanking adherents will be dismissed.

Lloyd George Offers MacDonald Support To Cope With Emergency of Unemployment

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 16.—Prime Minister MacDonald returned by airplane from his Scottish holiday tonight and tomorrow, when Parliament reassembles, he will read in the columns of his own party newspapers an offer which David Lloyd George, leader of the Liberal party, has made for cooperation of both parties to obtain a dependable Parliamentary majority for emergency measures necessary to wage war on unemployment.

According to The Daily Herald, Mr. Lloyd George today declared that unemployment, which is now nearing the 2,000,000 mark, must be treated as a national emergency—as much an emergency as the situation that arose in the great war. His offer to Mr. MacDonald is to support the Labor Government in an emergency session of Parliament, "working under emergency procedure to pass emergency measures to deal with an unquestionable emergency in trade and employment."

In this special session, Mr. Lloyd George explained, the government would have to go further than either the Liberal party or the Labor party heretofore has suggested.

"Roads will be a part of many necessary schemes," he said, "but to make roads the dominant feature would be quite inadequate. The position now is so serious that it must be examined anew."

Mr. MacDonald today will open an employment conference at the London Guild Hall, at which all the local authorities in Britain will be represented: The task of the conference will be to produce work schemes calculated to absorb a large number of unemployed.

LONDON, June 16 (AP).—If all of the Liberals support the Labor party, the MacDonald Government should be able to put through any legislation it proposes. The Liberals hold the balance of power in the British Parliament. All of the Labor victories have been recorded with Liberal support, and the defeats have come when Liberals either voted adversely or abstained.

David Lloyd George said he was consulting friends about proposals to be submitted to the government. He added that he would make no conditions for Liberal support while the situation was so serious, but would trust to Labor's sense of justice to redress the grievances under which "millions of Liberal electors are suffering."

The Daily Herald treats the former Premier's offer coldly, emphasizing that the government will have no Labor-Liberal coalition and asserting that it is impossible to regard Lloyd George's declaration without a certain degree of suspicion.

Unemployment in the United Kingdom has been the chief torment of the Labor party, with the number of the idle steadily increasing.

At the end of last month the number of unemployed had reached the unprecedented total of 1,700,000 and there was no immediate relief in sight.

VAUSE IS FOUND FIT; GOES ON TRIAL TODAY

GRAND JURY CALLS WALSH

Prosecutor Seeks Light on Doyle Fees—Doctor Pleads Not Guilty to Perjury.

Former County Judge W. Bernard Vause must go on trial this morning on an indictment charging him with using the mails to defraud, although he is "petrified with fear" and has not yet retained trial counsel, Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe ruled yesterday.

At the hearing United States Attorney Tuttle charged that Judge Vause had sought unsuccessfully to delay his trial on the mail fraud charge resulting from the $400,000 failure of the Columbia Finance Corporation by a bogus appendicitis operation. He also alleged that an attempt had been made to bribe two alienists retained by the government to examine the former Kings County jurist and determine whether he was mentally and physically able to defend himself.

The government alienists, Drs. Edward E. Hicks and Frank Wade Robertson, testified that, aside from extreme nervousness and fright, which Mr. Tuttle said were natural in any rational person in the predicament in which the former judge found himself, there was no reason why Mr. Vause should not be placed on trial at once.

Cuts Arguments Short.

After listening to their testimony and that of Dr. Thomas S. Cusack, a psychiatrist retained by the defense, who alleged that Mr. Vause had "a psycho-medical condition," and was in a state of "agitated depression," Judge Coxe cut short the proceedings and ordered that the trial begin this morning at 10:30. If Mr. Vause has not retained trial counsel by that time, he said, counsel would be appointed by the court.

In the course of the court session, Mr. Tuttle revealed that he had held two secret conferences with Mr. Vause at the latter's request within the past fortnight, talking with him on one occasion until "nearly 2 o'clock in the morning." Nathan D. Perlman, attorney for Mr. Vause, objected to the statement of Mr. Tuttle, declaring that he had understood that "all that was to be confidential."

"I am not revealing the substance of our conversation," said Mr. Tuttle, explaining that he merely wanted to show that at the time of the conferences the former judge was rational and clear-minded. At the time of the conferences, Mr. Tuttle said, he was accompanied by George J. Mintzer, his chief assistant, who has been actively directing the investigation into the $250,000 fee received by Mr. Vause from the United American Lines, supposedly for services in connection with obtaining leases to two city-owned piers for the steamship company.

The United States Attorney's revelation of the meeting with Mr. Vause revived rumors to the effect that the former judge might be willing to unburden himself of the whole story of the pier leases. Mr. Tuttle, however, did not amplify the statement he made in the courtroom.

The hearing on the fitness of Mr. Vause, who has been indicted for mail fraud, grand larceny and perjury, to stand trial at once on the first of three charges opened with two sensational charges by Mr. Tuttle, who opposed a motion by Mr. Perlman to delay the trial for the fifth time for another week.

The first charge was that Mr. Vause, in an effort to delay the time

ON BOARD THE BARK CITY OF NEW YORK, AT SEA, June 16.—With Admiral Byrd's arrival at New York only two days off, the crews of both the City of New York and the Eleanor Bolling have been cleaning up the decks and other works of the ships as much as possible, painting, scraping and washing.

But nothing which can be done at sea can remove entirely the battered appearance of the vessels, which have encountered some of the worst weather in the world in the past two years and sailed much further than a trip around the globe.

The sides of the Bolling are grimy and rusted and the New York carries a belt of green weed around and above the water line. Her sides are rough and there are holes in her bulwarks and many a broken piece of sheathing.

The men themselves are trying to clean up their gear and get ready to go ashore. Clothes are being aired and some attempt is being made to get out the wrinkles.

The long trip in the tropics ruined many a suit of clothes, for the damp heat makes mold sprout on anything, no matter how carefully it is packed. So it may be a rather bedraggled looking bunch of men when they first step ashore.

Bill Haines, our meteorologist, is back at his old job of cutting hair. Stripped to the waist, he clips and snips and waggles his shears threateningly under his victims' ears. He is rather good at it now, for he cut hair all Winter on the Barrier.

Yesterday Admiral Byrd went over to the Bolling for dinner while both ships lay to for a while. And today Dr. Laurence M. Gould, second in command, came over from the Bolling with some of the crew to have Dr. Nelson, the dentist, look over their teeth. Dr. Clyde A. Nelson has fixed up more than fifty men since leaving Panama, for the weather has fortunately been smooth the past week, enabling him to work easily.

Unless something very unforeseen happens, the ships should be lying at Quarantine, very early Thursday morning.

At noon today the ships of the Antarctic expedition were 196 miles south of Ambrose Lightship, having leisurely coasted along forty-two miles in the preceding twenty-four hours.

Kin Gathering to Greet Expedition.

The families of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd's companions, who will take part in the welcome to be accorded to the explorer and his men on their arrival on Thursday, began assembling here yesterday. Most of them are expected to be in the city tomorrow. Some of them are being quartered in the Hotel Biltmore and others with friends.

Thursday morning they will meet at a place still to be decided upon and will go down the bay on a boat to be chartered by the Mayor's Com-

Three Square Blocks Will Be Leveled and Project Is to Be Finished in 1933.

FOUR THEATRES PLANNED

Oval Building and a 60-Story Skyscraper to Face Garden Plaza Three Blocks Long.

Underground and Tower Parking Spaces Proposed for Centre, Which Will Cost $250,000,000.

The demolition of three square blocks between Forty-eighth and Fifty-first Streets and Fifth and Sixth Avenues will begin this Fall, according to a statement issued yesterday for John D. Rockefeller Jr. and a group headed by the Radio Corporation of America, who will erect on the tract a great distributing centre of entertainment and culture.

The new centre is to be completed within three years, according to the statement, as an architectural unit through which Forty-ninth and Fiftieth Street will run in underground boulevards, while the three square blocks of surface are occupied by two buildings with a garden plaza between them, parallel to Fifth Avenue. One building is to extend along the Sixth Avenue side, sixty stories high, serving as a background for an oval-shaped building on the Fifth Avenue front. The garden plaza, three blocks long, between the skyscraper and the oval building, is to contain fountains and statuary.

The design includes subterranean parking space and a parking tower; provision for shops on the Fifth Avenue level of the oval building, and for a bank on the first floor, as well as a restaurant on the roof, surrounded by an outdoor promenade. The boundary streets will be widened.

Four Theatres Planned.

As previously reported, the centre is to contain a variety theatre seating 7,000 and a sound motion picture theatre seating 5,000, as well as theatres for musical comedy and legitimate drama, and there is "under consideration" a symphony hall. All are to be equipped for broadcasting.

Samuel L. Rothafel (Roxy) is scheduled to become managing director of the huge enterprise. Mr. Rothafel would not discuss his appointment yesterday, pointing out that he was still under contract to a film company. Formal announcement of his appointment is expected on the expiration of his contract. He has taken a leading part in the discussions which led to the formulation of the plan.

In the skyscraper twenty-seven broadcasting studios will be provided for the Radio Corporation's subsidiary, the National Broadcasting Company. Some of the studios are to be three stories high and ten are to be equipped for photography and for the making of records by the Radio-Victor Talking Machine Company, another subsidiary.

The statement describes the new centre as a "radio metropolis, combining the entertainment and educational arts with the new electrical art." The cost of construction is set at $250,000,000, which is to be financed "by the Rockefeller interests." The component theatres will be leased and operated by the Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corporation, in which the General Electric and Westinghouse Electric Corporations have substantial holdings, as they have also in the Radio Corporation of America. All these corporations will take space in the new office build-

Fall Applies for a Pension As Veteran of Spanish War

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, has applied to the government for a pension for his service as a Captain in the army during the Spanish-American War.

Mr. Fall, now at liberty on bond on his conviction of receiving a bribe of $100,000 from Edward L. Doheny in connection with naval oil leases, has been reported in financial difficulties, and a ranch in New Mexico was sold to satisfy creditors.

Under the Spanish veterans' pension bill, recently enacted over President Hoover's veto, Mr. Fall, who is 69 years old, would receive $40 a month. His application is on file at the Bureau of Pensions. Bureau officials said his service apparently entitled him to a pension.

NATION AWAITS VOTE IN NEW JERSEY TODAY

ORDERLY PRIMARY EXPECTED

Envoy's Nomination for Short Term Held Sure—His Backers See Double Victory.

The New Jersey electorate will go to the polls today to choose Dwight W. Morrow, Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, Franklin W. Fort or John A. Kelly as Republican nominee for the United States Senate.

The three leading aspirants for the nomination—Mr. Kelly himself admitting he has not much chance to win—awaited the voting today with the attention of the nation fixed upon them, after a campaign that was watched not only from all parts of this country but from many foreign nations.

Mr. Morrow, Mr. Frelinghuysen and Mr. Fort wound up their campaigns last night with final appeals over the radio and several speaking engagements. Their managers reiterated confidence in the nomination of each, although the supporters of the Ambassador to Mexico were most forthright in predicting victory.

The polling places in New Jersey will open for today's primaries at 8 A. M., and will not close until 9 P. M. Political leaders will endeavor to induce voters working in their home communities to vote early in the day so as to clear the way for commuters, many of whom will not return home before 6:30 P. M. Arrangements are also being made to get commuters to the polls during the two and one-half hours between their arrival home and the time the polls close.

Prohibition Is Chief Issue.

There will be other contests in the primary, several for places on party Congressional slates, and some for county and municipal offices; but it has been the fight for the Republican Senate nomination that has received practically all the attention, due to the prominence of the candidates and the fact that prohibition is the chief issue in the contest. Mr. Morrow and Mr. Frelinghuysen are both wets, while Mr. Fort is a supporter of the Eighteenth Amendment and has the backing of the Anti-Saloon League.

Mr. Fort and Mr. Frelinghuysen will oppose Mr. Morrow only for the "long term" nomination—that is, for the term commencing March, 1931. Mr. Morrow is also a candidate for the "short term" nomination for the term from election day to March. He will be opposed for this only by Mr. Kelly, who is also seeking the "long term" seat.

Dr. Thayer Will Succeed Kieb on July 15 As State Commissioner of Correction

Dr. Walter N. Thayer was appointed New York State Commissioner of Correction by Governor Roosevelt yesterday afternoon. The news was telephoned to relatives of Dr. Thayer here last night.

Dr. Thayer's appointment has been regarded as a certainty since Dr. Raymond F. C. Kieb, whom he succeeds as commissioner, asked to be relieved of the post last month. Since that time Dr. Thayer has resigned as Maryland State Superintendent of Prisons, a position which he had held from Nov. 1, 1929.

Dr. Thayer said last night that his appointment had been made effective as from July 15. It is expected that Dr. Kieb, whom he succeeds, will return to the superintendency of the State Hospital for the Criminal Insane at Matteawan.

Earlier yesterday Dr. Thayer had refused to talk for publication. Asked concerning the appointment at the Orange County Golf Club, at Middletown, N. Y., he said:

"I expect Governor Roosevelt will make an announcement this week that will clear up the situation. I prefer that any announcement should come from him. It is generally known that he has conferred with me on the Commissioner of Correction position."

In many years during which he served as superintendent of the New York State Institution for Defective Delinquents, at Napanoch, in Ulster County, Dr. Thayer expressed positive views on the proper handling of prisoners and on the "backwardness" of most present-day prisons.

The point he has most frequently made is that the fixing of a definite period of confinement to punish a definite offense is merely a "legacy of old-time legal procedure" and should be done away with. He believes that any prisoner should be confined only until a staff of experts shall decide that he is fit to return to a normal place in society, and that if the prisoner continues to show anti-social tendencies he should be confined all his life.

Of the prisons themselves he has said that "we still substitute chilled steel and concrete in construction for brains and management." He declares that "each correctional institution should contain facilities for the study of the individuals committed to it and the application of the methods of corrective treatment indicated by those studies to be necessary."

SELLING SWAMPS EXCHANGE

Leading Issues Tumble as Wall Street Assails the New Tariff.

COTTON AND WHEAT DOWN

MANY MARGINS WIPED OUT

Much of the Liquidation Due to Brokers Calling in Vain for Further Deposits.

Coming on the heels of President Hoover's announcement that he would sign the new tariff bill, a torrent of liquidation swept over the stock market yesterday with devastating force, driving prices to the lowest levels of the year. The decline on the New York Stock Exchange, ranging from 3 to 22 points in active issues, was the widest since the dark days of last November.

Renewed pressure against the commodity markets was also associated with the tariff legislation. Cotton prices were reduced sharply, sinking to the lowest basis at which the staple has sold in three years, while grain prices in Chicago went into new low ground for the season. Stock lists elsewhere in the country reacted sharply either to New York's example or as aftermath to the tariff news.

A total of 5,657,320 shares changed hands on the Stock Exchange here at swiftly falling prices. The market, deprived of any kind of concerted support, broke almost perpendicularly. Wall Street seemed stunned as the slaughter of values proceeded without interruption for the full five hours of trading.

Signs of Outside Liquidation.

Yesterday's selling was of an entirely different character from that which has accompanied recent declines. In the first place, there was evidence of outside or non-professional liquidation, the first that has been seen in any considerable volume in many weeks. Coupled with this was heavy selling of a necessitous character, representing the cleaning out of impaired margin accounts. Brokers saw little indication of fresh activity by bearish professionals. The speculative operators for the decline, who have been accused of raiding the market periodically, were said yesterday to be resting on their oars, satisfied to have the public supply the impulse for further declines.

That impulse came in the form of the market's response yesterday to President Hoover's approval of the tariff bill. As Wall Street appraised the situation, the tariff approval fitted in perfctly with the hopes of the bearish element. For the first time, yesterday, the stockholdings of the outside public were dislodged in sizable blocks. This has been the objective of bearish traders for weeks—to bring about frightened liquidation by the rank and file of security owners.

Another reason assigned for yesterday's acute unsettlement was the renewed weakness in commodities. There was a feeling of discouragement that extended to all of the speculative markets. Everywhere the disposition was to lay the blame at the doors of Congress. Loud lamentations against the tariff bill were heard throughout the financial district. Traders, gathered in the customers' rooms of brokerage houses, berated the administration and Congress. One disgruntled person posted a placard in a brokerage house reading, "A Business Administration—the Only Party Fit to Rule?"

All Stock Groups Decline.

The decline on the Stock Exchange and the Curb was not confined to any particular groups. Every active stock on the former Exchange, without exception, crumpled under the weight of the day's liquidation. United States Steel common, ordinarily one of the steadiest issues on the list, was sold in steadily increasing volume and at the end of the day showed a net loss of 4¼ points.

The highly volatile J. I. Case was down 20 points on the day, Vanadium 15¼, United Aircraft 11⅜, Westinghouse Electric 11½, Worthington Pump 18⅛, Standard Gas and Electric 9½, North American 8, Stone & Webster 9, American Machine and Foundry 22, Allied Chemical 22, American Can 10¼, American Tobacco 10, A. Goods Rushed In on Old Law; New Tariff Rules Sent Out

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—The usual race of importers to bring in huge shipments before a new tariff act takes effect is on. Customs officials announced today that $11,000,000 in duties were collected at the Port of New York Saturday. Ordinarily only about $1,000,000 is collected on that day.

Frank Dow, assistant commissioner of customs, said shippers were quick to take goods out of bond to take advantage of old rates.

In view of the President's announced intention to sign the bill copies already have been dispatched to the forty-nine customs districts. Telegrams were sent to all collectors notifying them that new regulations and copies of the administrative provisions were on the way.

"We feel we are prepared to administer the new law and expect no hitch," said Mr. Dow.

BOYCOTTS ARE ADVOCATED

Economic Disarmament Parley Is Suggested to Prevent Ruinous Customs War.

By CARLISLE MacDONALD.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 16.—From the great mass of critical and often bitter press comment provoked by the passage of the American tariff bill, it seems there is a conviction in the minds of many that the Hawley-Smoot measure is the beginning of a struggle to the finish between farseeing persons who believe that excessive protectionism will increase rather than diminish economic troubles and those Americans who, in attempting to decide the nation's industrial future, are looked upon as stubbornly refusing to see beyond their noses.

The Paris-Midi, perhaps better than any other Parisian daily, sums up the thought in this way: "Between the Owen D. Youngs and the Babbitts the conflict has opened. Given time, it will not be the Babbitts who will triumph, although the period of miscomprehension may be long.

"America has already contributed to the lowering of prices of grain, sugar, cotton and copper, and today she adds another story to her tariff barriers without stopping to think that she will cause another reduction in the purchases of raw materials by foreign buyers. The other day in San Francisco, the author of the Young plan, Owen D. Young, declared that tariffs only increased the difficulties of the situation and that the old theory of prosperity upon which the tariff was based was now worthless. Despite this world vision, America still counts many Babbitts who seem unaware of Europe's existence and who believe they can develop their prosperity without a liaison with the rest of the world."

The majority of commentators again urge reprisals, although one or two writers are skeptical of the ability of Europe to agree upon a united plan of action. Nevertheless, there may be said to be a general impression that, individually or collectively, Continental countries will act to reduce purchases in the United States whenever this can be accomplished without loss to the purchaser. This may be difficult in the case of raw materials, it is admitted, but even here new sources of supplies are rapidly developing sufficiently to make possible the diversion of orders from America.

Conference Suggested.

Those who anticipate the eventual success of liberal American opinion, as exemplified in the expressions of Mr. Young, ask whether the time will not soon be ripe for calling an "economic disarmament conference," to which the industrial nations of the world would be summoned to discuss the peril of a tariff war. Between the United States and Europe these observers think a tariff war as costly as any conflict of blood may be well be envisaged unless radical means for its prevention are soon considered.

HARRISON IN FINAL ATTACK

Calls Hoover's Statement "Misleading" and Rallies Smoot on Stock Market Drop.

POLITICAL CHALLENGE MET

Watson Says Republicans Are Ready to Go to Elections on Issue of Protection.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Denunciation of President Hoover's defense of the tariff bill, and of the bill in general, continued today in the Senate immediately after the last legislative step had been taken with the signing of the bill by Vice President Curtis.

Senator Harrison, Democrat of Mississippi, charged that the exposition of the measure by the President was "deceptive and misleading" and predicted the Republican party would meet the same reverses at the polls in November that followed the enactment of the Payne-Aldrich bill. Senator Watson, the Republican leader, accepted the challenge on the floor.

"Let it be an issue," Mr. Watson said. "We have never lost yet on that issue. The American people have prospered under tariff protection."

The signed bill was forwarded to President Hoover soon after noon and by him referred to Secretary Mellon for study and recommendation. Treasury experts have already carefully scanned it and it is presumed the formal recommendation will be sent to the President by tomorrow or next day.

Conferees to Witness Signing.

The President will sign the bill in the presence of the six Republican Senate and House conferees on the tariff soon after it comes finally to him. The new law and the new rates it carries will take affect after midnight of the day of signing.

The law is expected to be in force Wednesday or Thursday.

Republican leaders approved the President's statement that he would sign the bill and use the flexible provision to make any advisable rate corrections. While surprised at the downward trend of the Stock Market, they asserted that there could be no connection between the final action on the tariff bill and the decline in securities.

Some of them hinted that the decline resulted, perhaps, from international bankers failing to stand behind the market with the idea of showing their feeling against the tariff bill. But responsible opinion among Republican leaders was that general conditions and lower commodity prices caused the market reaction.

Senator Harrison, in a two-hour oratorical attack in the Senate, was emphatic in accusing the President of being misleading in his statement on the bill. Mr. Harrison also again severely arraigned the rates in the bill as immoderately high.

"There never has been, in the consideration of any measure of this magnitude, such deception and hypocrisy practiced as has been practiced by the Republican leadership," Senator Harrison said. "This hypocrisy has been displayed from the time the bill was first considered in the committee and down through the long weary months of its consideration and passage through the House, then through the Senate, until this day when it is about to be signed by the leader of the Republican party in the White House.

He Recalls Raising of Doubts.

"Here is the statement of the President, published this morning and which was prepared before the tariff bill had passed the House of Representatives; yet those who gave out messages from the White House were constantly stating that 'It is not assured that the President is going to sign the bill, he may disapprove it; he is going to give painstaking consideration to it after it shall have been passed by Congress.'

"Do the proponents of this measure think they are going to fool the American people by such practices as that? How can the American people have confidence in a party which, from its head in the White House down to its leadership in this body, with the championship of the chairman of the Senate Finance Committee and all of its followers, practices hypocrisy upon them?

"I do not know that I should pay any attention to this mere statement of the President if it were not for the fact that he has all the advantage in the world, because of his exalted position, of getting the ear of the country and having this stuff smeared over the newspapers so that even the most unsuspicious reads it and might be fooled by it.

"I do not suppose, however, that there was ever a document sent out with the approval of a President of the United States that had more misleading statements in it and more alleged facts that do not exist than that statement of the President of the United States."

Senator Harrison asserted that the rates on sugar and hides would increase the cost of living and that those on agricultural products would not benefit the farmer. He said that probably Senator Smoot had given the President the facts that were put in the "misleading statement."

Mr. Smoot said that he had not, but that the facts were correct and he approved them.

"The Senator is just a blind follower of the President; that is all," Mr. Harrison replied.

Smoot Reminds Him of Cotton.

"Wait a moment," said Mr. Smoot. "Does the Senator feel that the duty of 7 cents a pound on cotton goes into the clothing of people and is that not a duty to benefit the farmers of Mississippi?"

"Oh, that will help a few," replied Mr. Harrison.

Senator Smoot interrupted again to insist that the President's statement was not misleading.

"The Senator may take that view of it because the Senator has made just as many misleading statements as that," retorted Mr. Harrison. "He believes in fooling the people, and the President has fallen into the error of trying to fool somebody in this instance.

"I say that, whenever the President says this bill, to the extent of 93 per cent, benefits agriculture, that is an attempt to make the farmer believe he is going to get 93 per cent of all the increases afforded by the bill; and the statement is misleading."

Senator Smoot remarked that Mr. Harrison was merely "ranting" and saying irresponsible things.

Discussing lobbyists, Mr. Smoot said:

"I never saw as many of the importers as appeared here during the consideration of this bill. I do not know how much money they have spent, but I think it is untold thousands and tens of thousands, and perhaps hundreds of thousands, of dollars."

Referring to many assertions that the stock market could go no lower, Mr. Harrison said the reiteration of these statements, in the face of developments, "is the reason why business has no confidence in the Executive branch of the government."

Argue on Stock Market Action.

When Senator Robinson, Democrat, of Arkansas, interrupted to ask if Mr. Harrison was aware that stocks had declined with the passage of the tariff bill, the Mississippian said he was "just coming to that."

"But they are up again today," interposed Mr. Smoot.

Mr. Harrison's reply was to read the press account of this morning's decline. Mr. Smoot had preached the doctrine of tariff prosperity so long that he really believed it in the face of facts, Harrison observed.

"In view of this news," Mr. Robinson again intervened, "I would like Senator Smoot to explain why he made the declaration that stocks were up today."

Mr. Smoot informed the Senate that he had received a report "within the last ten minutes" that stocks had begun to rise.

"Perhaps that was White House information again, and it was wrong information," remarked Mr. Harrison. "And I want to tell the Senate one more thing.

"The Democrats in Congress, back in 1909, when the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill was before Congress, told President Taft that he ought not to sign the bill. We warned President Hoover. He would not take our advice.

"He will suffer like consequences at the first opportunity given to the American people to express themselves on the matter."

Smoot Calls on President.

Senator Smoot later in the day conferred with President Hoover at the White House, but said afterward that he had not discussed the tariff.

"I am confident the enactment of the bill will have a splendid effect on business," Mr. Smoot stated. "It will end existing uncertainty in the business world due to agitation over the tariff. I am sure the tariff has nothing to do with the general decline in stock market prices today.

"The farming districts of the country will be the first to benefit from the tariff."

The President's announcement that he would sign the bill was replied to in two statements issued by Democrats.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas asserted that the new tariffs would greatly increase living costs and would invite retaliatory action by foreign governments.

"The President's statement," he said, "is an approval of the tariff bill with emphatic and important reservations. He asserts that the bill is defective in material particulars and that the rates which it carries require further revision.

"Whether his confidence in the ability of the Tariff Commission to afford relief from unduly high rates is justified can only be determined by future events. The history of the operation of the flexible provision does not seem to me to justify his conclusion that the reorganization contemplated by the bill renders probable 'prompt and scientific adjustment' of the serious inequities and inequalities incorporated in the measure.

"The President recognizes the import of complaints of foreign countries that duties have been made unduly high and declared that these complaints, if found justified, can be remedied by proper application to the Tariff Commission. Since the complaints referred to cover many of the most important schedules, it is clear that the approval of the tariff bill does not relieve uncertainty, if the commission is to be expected to reopen the rates complained of on applications prompted by foreign influences.

"Experience has not established the correctness of President Hoover's conclusion that the flexible provision 'gives great hope of taking the tariff away from politics, lobbying and log-rolling.'"

Shouse on President's Statement.

Jouett Shouse of the Democratic National Executive Committee said:

"Only those who believe in Santa Claus had any doubts as to President Hoover's course when the Grundy tariff bill came before him.

"His announcement printed in this morning's papers that he would sign the measure vindicates the Democratic contention expressed all through the tariff struggle that the President did not share the general abhorrence of the extortion and favoritism embraced in the bill, and that he was prepared to accept at the hands of the tariff boosters anything they gave him so long as it did not diminish his own power over rates.

"More and more the political year of 1932 takes on the same appearance as that of 1910, when President Taft, after deploring the enormity of the Payne-Aldrich tariff, signed it and by that act signed his retirement from the White House two years later. The only difference in the course of these two Republican Presidents is that, while Taft stressed the faults of the measure, Hoover palliates them. But the ostensible reason given by both for approving a bad tariff bill is the same.

"Gayly admitting that the inequities in the tariff bill which he announced he will sign are due to 'lobbying and logrolling and the activities of group industries,' the President promises to correct them under the flexible provision. He, however, indicates some doubt that this will be sufficient to compass the revisions he has in mind, and in case the foreboding should be realized he announces he will ask Congress for further authority for the commission.

"It required the vote of the Vice President to retain the power of rate revision for the Executive, half of the Senate contending that rate making was wholly a Congressional function and never should have been delegated to the President and the Tariff Commission.

"In view of the certainty that the administration majority in the Senate will be cut down perhaps to the vanishing point in the November elections, his assumption that Congress will extend for him the abrogation of this authority is optimistic, to say the least.

"The whole tenor of President Hoover's reflections on the flexible tariff as a method of correcting Congressional misdemeanors is a tacit assumption that it rests with him to make what changes seem to him expedient.

"During the long struggle over the flexible provision, the chief argument of its opponents was that inevitably the President dominated the commission because of his absolute power to retain or get rid of members at his own pleasure. It was to avoid this interference with a body supposed to be composed of impartial, economic experts that the Democrats and the independent Republicans in the Senate sought to make the Tariff Commission report to Congress instead of to the President.

"There is something naive in the assumption suggested in the President's statement that the Tariff Commission is bound to take the same view of each individual duty that he does."

Senate Will Not Adjourn Without Chance To Repass Veterans' Bill Over a Hoover Veto

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Final adjournment of Congress will not be agreed to by the coalition forces in the Senate until the pending veterans' relief program is passed and acted on by the President. This understanding was reached in the Senate today when Senator Robinson of Arkansas called attention to reports that the plan of the Republican leaders was to pass the veterans' bill so late in the session as to permit President Hoover to kill it by a "pocket veto."

Senator McNary of Oregon assured him that no such thing was planned. Senators Johnson and La Follette interrupted to say that there would be no agreement for adjournment until after the President had acted on the veterans' bill and after the Senate had an opportunity to override a veto if such action were taken by the President.

This development and the inability of factions to agree on rivers and harbors legislation has upset plans of the leaders for adjournment by June 25.

However, with all eager for adjournment, an agreement may be reached at any moment and adjournment still be had next week.

Until the Senate leaders agree on pending legislation, the House will withhold its adjournment resolution.

SHIPS SPEED CARGOES TO BEAT NEW TARIFF

Seventeen Arrive in Day and Enter Manifests Quickly—Fog Delay Reports Cause Anxiety.

Seventeen steamships arrived yesterday from foreign countries and had their cargoes entered at the Custom House so that they would come in under the old tariff law. Five other steamships arriving during the night will have their manifests ready for deposit at the Custom House at 9 A. M. today when its doors open.

The steamship offices were flooded yesterday with inquiries from American concerns which had large consignments of dutiable goods in the holds of incoming ships that were reported to be delayed by fog. News from Washington as to whether President Hoover had signed the new tariff bill was awaited with feverish interest in commercial circles.

A. G. Fetterolf, vice president of the International Mercantile Marine Company and one of the veteran experts on freight in this city, said yesterday a few hours or a few minutes might mean thousands of dollars of additional duty under the new rates, which are 13 per cent above the old. The freight situation at present is said to be worse than it has been since 1882, and vessels arriving from foreign countries are not half laden and leave here with still less cargo.

Among the vessels whose manifests were entered at the Custom House yesterday were the Samaria, Minnetonka, Westernland, Vulcania, Roma, American Farmer, Arabic and France, as well as the Europa, Hamburg and Aquitania which arrived Saturday but did not enter until yesterday morning.

CANADA HAS 2 AIMS IN TARIFF CHANGES

Seeks to Protect Herself From Our Higher Duties and Increase Her Trade With Britain.

PREMIER EXPLAINS FRANKLY

Opening Campaign, He Expresses Strong Desire for Friendly Relations With Us.

BRANTFORD, Ont., June 16 (Canadian Press)—The Canadian budget of 1930 was the "response of the present government to a combination of internal and external factors in our economic situation," said Premier Mackenzie King in opening the Liberal party's election campaign tonight.

His address referred to the new United States tariff and the influence the American legislation had on the government in framing a Canadian tariff with a view to increasing British Empire trade, and trading with countries willing to trade with Canada on equal terms.

"The budget of 1930 was framed first of all to meet a situation in Canada arising from the requirements of different sections and economic classes for policies suited to their needs. It was influenced also and in a special degree by our relation with two countries, Great Britain and the United States.

"When Mr. Hoover assumed office on March 11, 1929, the United States Congress began carrying out a far-reaching revision of the tariff in conformity with the pledges given by the Republican party during the campaign. As that revision proceeded, it became apparent that the duties against Canadian agricultural products would be raised to such an extent as to cut off considerable of the Canadian exports to that country. In these circumstances the government gave instructions to the tariff advisory board to make a careful survey of the tariff schedules then applying against American imports.

"Subsequently, a condition developed in Great Britain which led to a marked curtailment of purchases of Canadian wheat. It became apparent that if Canada was to maintain a British market for Canadian wheat it was desirable that measures should be taken by diverting to Great Britain many of the purchases being made at present in the United States, and in other ways to increase British imports to Canada and thus create an economic and psychological condition in Great Britain more favorable to the importation of Canadian wheat.

The Premier here discussed features of the budget which embodied the proposals for changes in the tariff. Of the countervailing duties he said that they were "designed to give a practical illustration to the United States of the desire of Canada to trade at all times on fair and equal terms."

He added:

"The present administration has watched the revision of the American tariff with the closest interest. We cannot but regret that in respect of a considerable range of commodities the tariff duties have been raised against the importation of Canadian products. The wisdom of this policy, however, is for the United States to decide for itself. We on our part, through the countervailing duties on a selected list of commodities which are the subject of exchange between Canada and the United States, announce our intention of trading with those who are equally prepared to trade with us. For the present we raise the duties on these selected commodities to the level applied against Canadian exports of the same commodities by other countries, but at the same time we tell our neighbor frankly and sincerely that we are ready in the future, as we have been in the past, to consider trade on a reciprocal basis.

"On this point there can be no misunderstanding of our attitude. Friendly, not hostile, trade relations with the United States, as with every other country, have always been a primary concern of the present administration. This is a sound neighborly attitude. But we are resolved, in the interests of the Canadian people, that our commercial relations must not be one-sided."

ITALY URGED TO HALT IMPORTS OF OUR GOODS

Giornale d'Italia Editor Says Way Must Be Found to Hit at American Tariff.

By ARNALDO CORTESI.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, June 16.—Italian economists have always maintained that America, in order to be reimbursed for her war debts, should not prevent European countries from trading in the American market, but the new American tariff bill ends all such hopes here.

The noon edition of the Giornale d'Italia says that considering the protectionist policy followed by the United States since the war, only a miracle could have prevented the passage of the tariff bill and that miracles are very difficult in modern times. The newspaper says that President Hoover has never resisted any accentuated protectionism for American agriculture or industry.

For Italy the problems now are: How to continue to pay the war debt, amounting to $5,000,000 yearly, which she is determined to pay to the last cent, and how to prevent importation of American goods in order to prevent exportation of Italian money to America?

Tonight the Giornale d'Italia publishes an article by the editor saying that Italy must organize her production, technically and economically, in such a way as to continue export to America despite the high tariff.

At the same time, the article says, Italy must make every effort to import as few American products as possible, substituting for them Italian products or products from other countries favoring Italian goods in their markets. Italy must intensify her efforts to gain South American and Far Eastern markets, where Italian products can be sold advantageously as compared with American commodities, the article asserts.

IMPORTERS SKEPTICAL ON ADJUSTING TARIFF

Traders Here Say Rates Will Not Be Easy of Correction by the President.

Local importing circles yesterday were skeptical of President Hoover's ability to cure "inequalities" in the rate schedules of the new tariff bill through the channels open to him under the flexible provisions of the measure. However well intentioned his efforts might be, they assert, the President will be so circumscribed by provisions and limitations of the flexible provision that the results accomplished will be negligible.

A single change in rates, according to Peter Fletcher of Lamb, Finlay & Co. and president of the National Council of American Importers and Traders, Inc., would require from eighteen months to two years under the most favorable circumstances before it could be put into effect.

"An exhaustive study must be made by the Tariff Commission in each instance," he said yesterday, "and all interested parties must be given an opportunity to present their claims.

"In addition, the adjustment of rates must be limited to equalizing the costs of production between articles manufactured here and abroad. Under the law no other reason for a change is recognized."

Mr. Fletcher, who sails tomorrow for a business trip abroad, expressed the belief that although importers are far from satisfied with the bill as it stands, they are relieved to find the uncertainty under which they have been operating since last year at an end.

Others in the trade echoed Mr. Fletcher's views on the flexible provisions of the bill. A weakness which they saw in the measure was that, in finding the costs of production, investigators of the government examine the books of foreign manufacturers and make their own deductions, yet domestic manufacturers are permitted to supply figures that the officials cannot verify.

At the offices of the National Council of American Importers and Traders it was announced that the council's views on the President's statement would be issued today.

WHITE HAS LEAD IN MAINE PRIMARY

GOV. GARDINER IS RENAMED

In Minnesota Republican Poll, Senator Schall Is Leading for Renomination.

Special to The New York Times.

AUGUSTA, Me., June 16.—Representative Wallace H. White Jr. of Lewiston was an apparent victor over former Governor Ralph O. Brewster of Dexter for the Republican nomination for the Senate at today's primaries, with the vote of most of the State counted. Dugald B. Dewar of Portland, wet candidate, was a poor third.

Governor W. Tudor Gardiner, seeking renomination, won over John Wilson, former Mayor of Bangor, his sole opponent. The vote for both Senator and Governor was surprisingly light.

Returns from 540 precincts out of 632 in the State gave for the Senatorial nomination: White, 38,974; Brewster, 32,745; Dewar, 4,995.

The Senatorial nomination is for the seat made vacant by the retirement of Senator Arthur R. Gould. Frank H. Haskell of Portland is the unopposed Democratic candidate.

Both White and Brewster are prohibitionists in a State where prohibition had been a by-word since the days of Tom Reed, and both are tariff protectionists.

Two years ago Brewster was defeated for nomination to the Senate by Frederic Hale, who was renominated by about 35,000 votes. Since then Mr. Brewster had greatly improved his political fortunes by his stand against the export of water power.

Mr. Wilson based his campaign for the Gubernatorial nomination on charges of inefficiency in the Gardiner administration. The Governor confined what slight campaign he made to the benefits he claimed his administration had brought the State. Edward C. Moran Jr. of Rockland was unopposed for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

Schall Leads Minnesota Count.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 16 (AP).—Returns from 202 precincts out of 3,698 in Minnesota in the Republican primary today give for the Senatorial nomination: Governor Christianson, 11,502; Senator Schall, 16,497; Selb, 1,762.

In the Republican gubernatorial race, twenty-one precincts gave J. A. A. Burnquist, 469; Ray P. Chase, 786; N. J. Holmberg, 138; Paul F. Dehnel, 5; Albert Lagerstedt, 6; Dr. Eivind Klayeness, a wet, 5.

Both Senator Schall and Governor Christianson expressed hostility toward the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill in their campaigns, favored prohibition and continued affiliation of the State's Senators with the independent Republican faction, but made up for their agreement on national issues with bitter personal attacks.

In the Farmer-Labor ranks two former Representatives in Congress sought the party's favor for the Senatorial nomination. They are Knud Wefald and Ernest Lundeen, each of whom has served in the House previously. Five Republican Representatives were unopposed and one, Mr. Selvig of the Ninth District, will have no opposition in the general election.

CALLS TARIFF STABILIZER.

National Manufacturers Group Predicts Relief to Industry.

The Hawley-Smoot tariff bill, when it becomes a law, will bring "a breath of relief to all industry and all business" and, when fully understood and properly administered, will result in stabilization of business conditions, said a statement issued yesterday by John E. Edgerton of Lebanon, Tenn., president of the National Association of Manufacturers, and H. L. Darby of New York, chairman of the association's tariff committee.

"President Hoover's signature to the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill, making it law, brings a breath of relief to all industry and all business," says the statement. "The new law should result in taking the tariff out of logrolling and political manoeuvring and relieve business from the disastrous effects of general revisions for years to come.

"Unquestionably there are many inconsistencies in the rates in the bill. There has never been a tariff bill which was free from these conditions, but industry and the American people in general have nothing seriously to fear on this score for the reason that the new law contains its own antidote for these inconsistencies.

"The National Association of Manufacturers believes that business conditions are fundamentally sound, that the future prosperity of the country is not endangered and that the present tariff law, when fully understood, will result in stabilization of business conditions."

RUSH AT PHILADELPHIA

Ships In Ahead of Schedule to Avoid New Tariff Rates.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, June 16.—Import business in this port was speeded today as the tariff bill, with its many higher rates, awaited the signature of President Hoover. Masters of several steamships arrived ahead of schedule and the custom house remained open until 5:30 P. M., an hour later than usual, in order to facilitate the landing of cargoes.

Clearings on Sunday are seldom permitted, but John P. McGovern, in charge of the Customs Navigation Bureau, said that the Habre Maru was permitted to clear for New York with a residue cargo after arriving here Saturday night from Otaru, Japan, with a general cargo.

Saturday's import taxes here, it was announced, totaled $4,984,938.18. Two local importers paid $3,000,000 on sugar, while tobacco imports brought $1,000,000 more.

FRENCH SEE FIGHT DUE ON TARIFF HERE

By CARLISLE MacDONALD.

Europe will only result in many more American companies establishing factories over here is given color by the disclosure that the General Motors Corporation has increased the capitalization of its French subsidiary and acquired two French manufacturing concerns. While no announcement of plans has been made, automobile men predict that at least one of the new plants will be rebuilt as an assembly works.

General Motors products were the hardest hit in the recent rise of French automobile duties, and a move to manufacture or assemble cars in France would not be surprising. The capital increase was from 1,000,000 to 5,500,000 francs, and the companies purchased were the Northeast Electric Company and the A. E. Spark Plug Company.

La République, organ of the Radical-Socialist party, views the new tariff as a political move which astute American business leaders will not long tolerate.

L'Avenir, organ of the French steel trust, asserts that if Frenchmen have any spirit of national solidarity they will abstain from purchasing goods coming from the United States or from American firms.

Doubtful of Boycott.

"However, since we witnessed French wine-growers, who are severe sufferers from the American dry régime, purchasing Yankee tractors and trucks, we are inclined to doubt the effectiveness of methods of boycott," it adds.

Pertinax, the political writer of L'Echo de Paris, who recently returned from a lecture tour of the United States, with his usual frankness warns Frenchmen not to await the workings of the law of economics to redress their wrongs.

"God helps those who help themselves," he writes. "Measures of reprisals force themselves upon us. Since manufactured goods constitute half the American exports, the United States is in a vulnerable position. Furthermore, we must dispose of this organization of customs spies which is operating on our own soil and which we had the weakness to permit to re-enter a year ago."

La Liberté asserts that France must change her ideas regarding the United States. It says:

"The United States is no longer the country of liberty. It is a country of every kind of prohibition."

Léon Bailby in L'Intransigeant demands to know who will pay the cost of the new economic war which the United States is provoking and which will be as ruinous as a war at arms. "When America finds European markets closing to her, will her industrialists be content to operate within the confines of the United States?" is his concluding question.

Officials Refuse to Comment.

PARIS, June 16 (AP).—The French Government takes no official notice of American tariff legislation. All comment on the tariff bill or President Hoover's decision to sign it was refused today, both at the Ministry of Commerce and the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

It was said in official circles, however, that France at the end of the war had renounced all her commercial treaties and has been remaking her arrangements with all her customers. The time will come, it was said in obvious allusion to Ambassador's Edge's plans, when the United States may want to make an arrangement similar to those of other customers of France, and that will be the proper time to cast up accounts and determine advantages and disadvantages which must be set against one another in such arrangements.

Denies Canceling Copper Orders.

BRUSSELS, June 16 (AP).—The director of the General Society of Minerals today denied cancellation by Belgian firms of American copper orders. He said: "We are copper sellers, not buyers." He added that negotiations between Belgian, German and British concerns still were being carried on.

SEES US HURT BY TARIFF.

But Panama Paper Doubts Act Will Affect Our Trade With That Nation.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PANAMA CITY, June 16.—While admitting that imports into Panama from the United States probably will not be adversely affected by the signing of the tariff act by President Hoover, The Star Herald will refer editorially tomorrow to the fact that no other American tariff law has been the subject of such world-wide discussion. This paper points out that a test of the law will come soon. "Now more than any other time American manufacturers must look to foreign markets to dispose of their surplus products," The Star Herald will say. "There can be little doubt that these foreign markets will be more than usually hostile. For more than a year the talk of reprisals in foreign markets has been frankly outspoken."

Calling attention to the fact that the hostility to the bill has been almost as marked in the United States as abroad, the editorial adds, "The United States as a nation will lose good-will and American manufacturers great quantities of business. It may be quite true that the United States can get along fairly well without the good-will of the rest of the world, but its great manufacturers cannot exist long unless they can dispose of their products."

CALLS TARIFF UNECONOMIC.

Peruvian Newspaper Sees Injury to Other American Republics.

LIMA, Peru, June 16 (AP).—The newspaper El Tiempo today attacked the new American tariff as a measure which will injure sister republics of the United States in the Americas.

The paper asserts that the tariff is an uneconomic barrier erected by the United States and predicts that it will have an unfavorable echo in the economics of other American nations.

Spain Plans Protective Tariff Move.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, June 16.—It was stated on good authority today that the Spanish Government has every intention of taking protective action after President Hoover signs the tariff bill. The government, however, will move cautiously, waiting to see how the other thirty-three nations objecting to the new tariff proceed, and, if possible, adopting their methods.

STOCK PRICES BREAK WITH COMMODITIES

More than 315 stocks went into new low ground for the year, while a considerable portion of the market approached closely the low levels reached in the collapse of last Autumn. Many stocks actually broke through their lows of last year.

Averages of the Losses.

The average price of fifty representative stocks, as compiled by THE NEW YORK TIMES, showed a net loss of $11.81. This is the sharpest decline since Nov. 11 of last year, when the average price of these stocks fell $11.85. That was two days before the market collapse ended on Nov. 13. The widest recorded break in these averages was $22.96 on Nov. 6 of last year. Twenty-five industrial stocks showed an average decline yesterday of $19.76, comparing with $37.24 on Nov. 6. The average price of twenty-five rails declined $3.86 yesterday.

The Stock Exchange ticker ran behind the market a good part of the day and it was 3:48, or forty-eight minutes after the close, before the final quotations were printed.

Outside of the tariff and the depressed commodity markets, Wall Street had no explanation to account for the day's selling. The first burst of liquidation came at the opening, when leading stocks fell sharply on heavy selling orders. Shortly thereafter certain stocks showed a firmer tendency, but the general list continued to sag.

The market slid off gradually until shortly after noon, at which time liquidation assumed such proportions that the Stock Exchange, in order to guide traders, resumed the practice of printing the quotations of important stocks on the bond ticker at ten-minute intervals. The selling gathered momentum the rest of the afternoon, and the market was weakest when trading ended at 3 o'clock.

The following table gives yesterday's low and closing prices and the day's net declines in the weakest stocks, together with the lows reached when the market hit bottom at the height of the break last November:

4,000 BEWILDERED AS EINSTEIN SPEAKS

Scientist Before World Power Conference in Berlin Traces Rise of Relativity Theories.

FULL TEXT OF THE SPEECH

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, June 16.—Professor Albert Einstein stepped up to the rostrum on the stage of the Kroll Opera House this afternoon and in the most matter-of-fact conversational manner he told the 4,000 delegates to the World Power Conference all about relativity.

Like a professor addressing a class in advanced calculus, the scientist smiled apologetically and launched forth into forty minutes of bewildering differential coordinates, continuums, four-dimensional space, and metrics of various kinds, which it is doubtful more than one-half of 1 per cent of the audience really understood. It was the first time Dr. Einstein had ever consented to speak on Einstein, and it was the first serious public utterance he ever made without recourse to gigantic equations and mystifying mathematics.

Traces Development of Theories.

The author of the theory of relativity traced the development of ideas about geometry and space. After discussing the theories of the Greeks, Descartes and Newton, Dr. Einstein showed how the special theory of relativity had established that space and time must be united in a single four-dimensional continuum.

Then he went on to show the place of the general theory of relativity as a system which could embrace all Gaussian coordinate systems in this four-dimensional space and answer the question:

"What are the simplest mathematical conditions to which Riemannian metric in four-dimensional space can be reduced?"

This theory, Professor Einstein said, would have been ideal if only gravitational fields and not electro-magnetic phenomena had existed in nature, but electro-magnetic phenomena could not be represented by Riemannian metric. This necessitated the development of the unified field theory, which he believes has solved the difficulty.

Summing up, Dr. Einstein said:

"Space, brought to light by the material object and raised to scientific reality by Newton, has in the last few decades swallowed up ether and time and is about to swallow up the field theory and the corpuscular theory as well, so that it will remain as the only theory representing reality."

Professor Einstein was introduced by President Oskar von Miller of the power conference, who told the audience, with a twinkle in his eye, that it was about to hear an interesting little discussion of a few points on which Professor Einstein was especially well-qualified to speak and expressed the hope that all would find enlightenment.

As Dr. Einstein rose a corps of cameramen began clicking and grinding, while the batteries of floodlights edged nearer the rostrum. The professor was obviously uncomfortable, but refrained from objecting until one huge floodlight was within six feet of his head. Then he turned toward Herr von Miller and murmured, "This is unbearable." Then the troop of photographers was shooed briskly away.

Dr. Einstein, who is accustomed to speak before the Prussian Academy of Science and other such bodies, maintained the same manner he would have employed in lecturing to a small group of specialists. He gestured sometimes with his hands, indicating how clear and obvious his reasoning was, and occasionally he looked up from his paper to smile upon his intent hearers who, he seemed to assume, were grasping everything.

TEXT OF THE ADDRESS.

The text of Professor Einstein's address on "Space, Field and Ether Problems in Physics" was as follows:

Conceptions and conceptional systems, logically regarded, never originate from sense experiences. But they are always caused, however indirectly, by sense experiences; they are related to sense experiences and in this relationship lies their meaning and their significance.

If we wish to be clear on the meaning of the pre-scientific conception of space we must seek to visualize those characteristics of our world of experience which have given rise to the formation of a conception of space and of geometric conceptions in general. Regarded from this standpoint, the conception of a real world of externals and material bodies undoubtedly preceded the conception of space.

We need not further analyze what characteristics of our world of experience have led to these fundamental conceptions and in what the close linking up of these concepts with the world of experience consists.

Among the many things which are included in the term "material objects" one category plays a particular rôle. This we call "the relative position of solid bodies." Conceptions of space as well as the conceptions of the system of Euclidean geometry are based upon this idea. The most important conceptual element for the comprehension of the law of "the position" of motionless bodies is that of their contacts. On this are based the most important concepts of congruence and measurement.

Significance of Greek Geometry.

The great significance of the geometry of the Greeks lies in the fact that, so far as we know, it represents the first attempt to comprehend a complex of sense experiences through a logical deductive system. Instead of starting from matter with its manifold forms, it is based on a few formal elements: point, line, plane and distance.

From these were constructed material forms and positional relations between bodies which were purely theoretical and were founded on certain established rules: the axioms. These fundamental elements are themselves idealizations of material objects.

The conception of a space continuum does not appear at all in Greek geometry, although it certainly forms a part of pre-scientific thought. It was first introduced into mathematics by Descartes, the founder of modern geometry. The Greeks were satisfied to study reciprocal relationships between their idealized material objects: points, lines, planes and distances.

Their conception of space was based on the idea that it was easier to study the relationships of all bodies as compared with one than as compared with one another. This one body, however, is the fiction of an infinitely extended body or one with which all the others can be brought into contact. It is clear that the existence of a quasi-rigid earth surface, or the existence of drawing paper in a study of plane figures, must have given rise by means of drawn representations to the formation of this conception.

The service which Descartes rendered to mathematics through the introduction of a space continuum cannot be too highly estimated. In the first place, it made possible the study of geometrical figures by means of analysis. Secondly, it strengthened geometry as a science in a decisive manner. Henceforth a straight line and a plane were no longer favored in principle over other lines and surfaces but all lines and surfaces received equal treatment.

One Axiom Replaces System.

A single axiom took the place of the complicated axiom system of Euclidean geometry. This axiom, in the words of today, reads: There are systems of coordinates compared with which the interval as of neighboring points P and G may be expressed by coordinate differentials dx_1, dx_2, dx_3 in the formula:

$$ds^2 = dx_1^2 + dx_2^2 + dx_3^2.$$

However, perhaps the most important thing is that, without the introduction of a continuum of space, in the Cartesian sense, a formulation of Newton's mechanics would have been impossible. The fundamental conception of acceleration used in this theory must be supported by the conception of the Cartesian coordinates of space, for accelaration in no wise may be deduced from concepts which only relate to relative positions of bodies, or material points and their time changes.

It may rightly be said that, according to Newton's theory, space plays a rôle of physical reality, as Newton well knew, although this fact was later overlooked.

The Cartesian coordinates of space had therefore to begin, from the point of view of physics, with two independent functions. It established through the Pythagorean theorem possible positions of practically rigid bodies, as well as the inertial movement of material points. It seemed absolute in the sense that it worked but that nothing could work upon it or modify it. It was the infinite, the eternally unchanging repository of all that is and happens.

The frame of the Newtonian theory is distinguished by concepts of space-time and ponderable matter. To this there came in the nineteenth century a new element—ether. As soon as the undulatory character of light had been established by Young and Fresnel it was considered necessary to accept an inert substance which permeates all bodies and completely fills all space—ether, the vibrations of which were supposed to be light.

Faraday-Maxwell Theory.

Newton's theoretical framework was completely destroyed by the Faraday-Maxwell field theory of electro-magnetic phenomena, for the realization gradually grew that electro-magnetic fields, which are also to be found in empty space, could not be regarded in a satisfactory manner as mechanical conditions of the ether without encountering objections.

One became accustomed to regarding electro-magnetic fields as fundamentals of no mechanical nature. Moreover, they were still regarded, as heretofore, as conditions of the ether, which, however, could no longer be regarded as a form analogous to solid matter—all the less, since at the turn of the century the concept of the molecular structure of matter gained more and more ground.

Even though these electro-magnetic fields had established themselves as not mechanically comprehensible, fundamental substances, there still remained the question of the mechanical characteristics of their medium, the ether. H. A. Lorentz answered this by stating that all electro-magnetic facts force us to the conclusion that ether is everywhere motionless as opposed to Cartesian and Newtonian space.

How close was the thought: The fields are conditions of space; space and ether are one and the same. That it was not realized lay in the fact that space, as the basis of Euclidean metric and Galileo-Newtonian inertia, was considered absolute; that is, incapable of being influenced. It was considered a rigid frame of the world, which, so to speak, existed before all physics and could not be the basis of changing conditions.

The next step in the development of the conception of space was that of the special theory of relativity. The law of the spreading of light in empty space in connection with the relativity principle regarding uniform movement resulted in the necessity that space-time be united in a single four-dimensional continuum. For it was recognized that reality did not conform with the conception of simultaneous events.

A Time Coordinate Used.

A Euclidean metric had to be ascribed, as Minkowski was the first clearly to recognize, to this four-dimensional space, which, by the use of an imaginary time coordinate, would be completely analagous to a metric of three-dimensional space of Euclidean geometry.

On the existence of a space structure expressible through Euclidean metric was founded the later development, which has become known under the terms of "the general theory of relativity" and "the unified field theory."

After it has been realized that no absolute character could be ascribed, not only to speed but to acceleration, it was revealed that reality did not conform to the conception of an inertial system in nature.

It was clear that laws must be so formulated that this formulation could claim validity in a four-dimensional space in terms of every Gaussian system of coordinates—a general covariance of equations which express the laws of nature. This is the formal content of the general principle of relativity. Its force lies in the question: What are the simplest general equation systems of covariance?

This question in this generalization has not yet been productive. A statement has still to come as to the character of the structure of space. This is supplied by the special theory of relativity, the validity of which for small areas must be granted. That means: There is a structure of space which for the infinitesimal surroundings of every point can be expressed mathematically through a Euclidean metric. Or: Space possesses a Riemannian metric.

On the physical ground it was clear that this Riemannian metric also formed simultaneously the mathematical expression of the gravitational field.

The mathematical question corresponding to the gravitation problem was, therefore, this: What are the simplest mathematical conditions to which a Riemannian metric in four-dimensional space can be reduced? In this manner the field equations of gravitation of the general theory of relativity were found, which have received the well-known confirmations.

Space Loses Absoluteness.

The significance of this theory for the recognition of the structure of space can be characterized thus: Space under the general relativity theory loses its absolute character. Until that phase of the development, space was accepted as something the inner substance of which was not capable of being influenced and was in no wise changeable. Therefore, a special ether had to be accepted as a basis of the field conditions localized in empty space.

Now, however, the real quality of space, the metric structure, was recognized as changeable and capable of being influenced. The condition of space gained a field character; space became analogous in structure to the electro-magnetic field. Separation of the concepts of space and ether was thus to a certain extent automatically removed after the special theory of relativity had already removed the last bit of substance from ether.

The general theory of relativity in its former shape would have been, from the logical standpoint, an ideal physical theory on account of its completeness, had there been only gravitational fields and no electro-magnetic fields in nature. The latter, however, could not be represented through Riemannian metric.

One had to seek a structure of greater richness of form which would encompass the Riemannian metric structure and at the same time be able mathematically to describe electro-magnetic fields. This task is to be solved through the unified field theory by the establishment of a space structure the mathematical characteristics of which are as follows:

The hypothesis of the metric structure states that the quality of the two line elements may be spoken of intelligently; more generally, that line elements are comparable in respect to their size. The Riemannian character of the metric is expressed by the hypothesis that the square of the size of the line element may be expressed by a homogeneous function of the second degree of differential coordinates.

On the other hand, a statement within the frame of Riemannian geometry about a direction relation, for example about the parallelism of the two line elements PG and P'G', has no meaning. If the hypothesis is added that parallel relations of line elements can be intelligently spoken of, then one attains the formal basis of the unified field theory.

Space Representing Reality.

To attain completeness it is now only necessary to add the hypothesis that the angle between two line elements going out from the same point is not changed by a parallel movement of elements. The mathematical expression of the field law should be the simplest mathematical conditions to which such a space structure can be reduced.

The discovery of these laws appears to have been made and they correspond, in the first degree, in fact, with the known empirical laws of gravitation and electricity. Whether these laws also supply a useful theory for particles of matter and their movements must be shown by further mathematical investigations.

Taken together we can say symbolically: Space, brought to light by the material object and raised to scientific reality by Newton, in the last few decades has swallowed up ether and time and is about to swallow up the field theory and the corpuscular theory as well, so that it will remain as the only theory representing reality.

POWER MEN OPEN BERLIN CONGRESS

AMERICAN HITS ISOLATION

Merrill, Head of Delegation, Says Each Country Should Be Free to Do What It Does Best.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, June 16.—The second international power conference got under way this morning with a plenary session at the Kroll Opera House, where Professor Albert Einstein spoke this afternoon, with 2,000 German and 2,000 foreign delegates from more than fifty countries participating.

After President von Miller of the conference had made the delegates welcome, Chancellor Bruening addressed the gathering and read a message from President von Hindenburg, which said in part:

"At its foundation the conference was called 'a technical League of Nations,' and nothing is better calculated to league the nations of the world together than a mutual endeavor of this kind to further the common weal. By developing the transportation of power across political frontiers, engineering is about to exercise a greater influence on the economic life of peoples than ever before.

"The supplying of light, power and heat will tend to reduce unemployment and thus counteract the difficulties under which the economies of almost all countries are now laboring.

"With all my heart I wish you success—the success which the world expects from your endeavors."

Acting Mayor Speaks.

Other speakers this morning included the Acting Burgomaster of Berlin, Dr. Scholz; Sir Charles Parsons, the British vice president of the conference; George Magnier, French vice president; Dr. Charles Camsell, Canadian Deputy Minister of Mines, and Professor Masawo Kamo of the Tokyo Imperial University.

This evening the government gave a reception for the delegates in the Zoological Gardens, where O. C. Merrill, chairman of the American committee, replied on behalf of the conference to the government's official welcome. He said in part:

"This conference deals with mechanical power and its production, distribution and use. We cannot therefore overlook the technical elements of the problem. However, we have seen emphasis changing at the discussions to the broader considerations of economics and general public welfare.

"In the field of international economic cooperation as distinguished from rivalry lies the fairest hope for future peace and the most effective means of promoting the well-being of all. While many countries might be able to exist behind a wall of isolation, we want more than existence. Each nation has some faculty, product or special skill wherein it excels. It is to our common benefit that this should be given free play."

Three Topics Discussed.

Electricity in the household and in agriculture, the production, preparation and commerce of solid fuels, and problems relating to water rights were the three topics discussed at today's first group meetings. A paper relating to the development of the domestic use of electricity in the United States had been prepared by Marshall E. Sampsell of Chicago, while Dr. F. A. Gaby of Canada had a paper on electricity in the home and on the farm.

A résume of papers presented surveyed the achievements of American long-distance light and power supply plants and the development of the application of electricity for light, heat and labor saving in the home, and stressed the close collaboration of the supply companies and manufacturers. It said that the next few years would show to what extent the application of electricity to dairies, the preparation of fodder and plant growth was practicable.

The American Home Economics Association presented a paper on "Application of Electricity to Domestic Use." In the section on the production, preparation and commerce of solid fluids the Americans were also represented by Scott Turner, director of the Federal Bureau of Mines, and the Bureau of Mines staff with a paper on "Mining Bituminous Coal by Stripping Methods," and F. G. Tryon and H. O. Rogers with one on "Statistical Studies of Progress in Fuel Efficiency."

Government Representatives.

Ten of the Americans taking part in the international power conference at Berlin are doing so as officially designated representatives of the government of the United States, bearing credentials from the State Department at Washington. These delegates are Chairman Merrill, Professor Robert Sibley of the University of California, Henry J. Pierce of the Electric Bond and Share Company of New York, H. M. Addinsell of Harris, Forbes & Co., New York, treasurer of the American committee; David B. Rushmore of New York, noted consulting engineer; Ely C. Hutchinson of New York, editor of Power; Dr. H. C. Dickinson, chief of the heat and power division of the United States Bureau of Standards; George A. Orrok, New York consulting engineer; Dr. H. Foster Bain and Scott Turner, director of the United States Bureau of Mines.

Members of the United States delegation will preside at important sessions of the conference. Professor Sibley will be chairman of Section 2, devoted to the subject "Electricity in the Crafts and Industry," and Irving E. Moultrop, chief engineer of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston, will preside over Section 7, given over to the topic "Construction and Operation of Large Power Plants."

NEW YORK COMPOSER SUES BOOK DEALER

Jerome Kern Seeks Return of $32,998.10 Paid Philadelphian for Translation by Goldsmith.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, June 16.—Jerome Kern of Bronxville, N. Y., composer of "Show Boat" and other musical plays, brought suit in the Federal court here today against Charles Sessler of Merion, well-known book dealer, asking for the return of $32,998.10, the purchase price of Oliver Goldsmith's translation of Vida's "Game of Chess."

Mr. Kern declares he bought the manuscript, which is composed of 679 lines of 34 pages, from Mr. Sessler on the latter's representation that it was in Goldsmith's handwriting. On Jan. 29, 1929, he contends, he learned that the handwriting was not Goldsmith's, and says that the manuscript therefore is "of no value whatever." In his complaint the composer asserts that he has demanded the return of the money on several occasions, but that Mr. Sessler has refused to refund it.

The Philadelphia dealer in February, 1928, purchased through an agent in London the purported manuscript of the translation at a reported price of $28,000 and sold it to Mr. Kern. Early last year the composer included it with the rest of his notable private collection of rare books and manuscripts which he placed on the auction block. The collection netted him almost $1,800,000.

The manuscript, which was catalogued at the sale as the longest poetical manuscript by Goldsmith known to exist, went for $27,000 to a bidder whose name was given out after the sale as Mr. Perkins. The bidding had opened at $10,000.

Mr. Sessler said that the purchaser of the manuscript at the auction returned it to Mr. Kern, but the Philadelphia dealer declared he personally still believed it was in Goldsmith's own handwriting.

CRITICIZES HOOVER IN BUSINESS SLUMP

Prof. P. H. Douglas Says President Has Tried to Cure Economic Evils by Mental Healing.

The Hoover Administration was criticized last night by Professor Paul H. Douglas of the department of economics at Illinois University for "attempting to cure economic evils by the practice of mental healing." The statement was made at a discussion on unemployment before the American Woman's Association at 353 West Fifty-seventh Street.

Professor Douglas said that Mr. Hoover, for the past eight months had been speaking of the betterment of the economic situation while things were "actually getting worse." Then, in an analysis of unemployment based on a thirty-year study of conditions in the manufacturing, mining, construction and transportation industries, he sought to prove that 6 per cent of unemployment was due to seasonal or chronic causes and 4 per cent to cyclical causes, such as recurring business depressions.

Seasonal unemployment might be remedied, Professor Douglas declared, by standardization of products not subject to sudden changes in style, and cyclical unemployment, dependent on certain international factors, might be lessened, but only by international action, "for which there seems to be but little hope in the predictable future." He outlined a plan for unemployment insurance by which the rates would be graded so that the employer who has less individuals idle would pay a lower rate than the employer whose unemployment rate is high. This, he said, might give employers an incentive to keep unemployment at a minimum.

STATE PATRONAGE STIRS DEMOCRATS

CHIEFS GATHER AT ALBANY

RIFT FEARED BY MRS. O'DAY

New York Leaders Executive's Guests at Dinner—Women Discuss Organization Plans.

By W. A. WARN.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 16.—With Democratic party leaders from all sections of the State gathering here tonight for the State committee meeting tomorrow, which is to fix a time and place for the State convention, the patronage policy of Governor Roosevelt is the topic of intensive discussion this evening at many informal and secluded conferences of party bosses from counties north of the Bronx.

The resignation today of Harry T. Foley as chairman of the Westchester County Democratic Committee over Governor Roosevelt's failure to name a Democrat from that county as successor to Justice Frank L. Young of Westchester, a Republican, who died recently, brought about a situation whereby for the first time since the Democrats have been in control of the State administration a Governor may be called upon to face, if not a demand, at least a suggestion that the old plan under which the Governor proposed and the party bosses disposed be more generally applied in the dispensation of patronage.

Governor Roosevelt this evening declined to comment on the action of County Chairman Foley or the trouble that has been stirred up as a result of his appointment of John E. Mack, prominent lawyer from the Governor's home county, Dutchess, for the judgeship.

Mrs. O'Day Brings Resignation.

Mrs. Caroline O'Day, vice chairman of the Westchester County Democratic State Committee, arrived here this afternoon much perturbed, bringing with her the written resignation of Mr. Foley, which had been handed to her as she was about to start for the Capitol. What Mrs. O'Day had to say about the resignation of Mr. Foley and the developments that led up to it was plenty.

"There is no doubt," she said, "that the resignation of Mr. Foley was due to the fact that Westchester was passed over in the appointment of Justice Young. The Governor's action has caused quite a lot of feeling among Westchester County Democrats, and other members may follow the chairman out of the organization, I am afraid. They feel that the Westchester County Democratic organization has not been getting the patronage to which the county is entitled from the Governor.

"I have called a meeting of the county committee for next Monday, and I hope we will be able to persuade Mr. Foley to remain. He has done a lot to build up the party in our county, and I do not know what we will do without him. Of course, what has happened is being taken full advantage of by the Republicans, who are losing no opportunity to stir up dissension in the Democratic ranks—and that is one of the bad features of the situation, as I see it."

A circular letter sent to party leaders by Patrick E. McCabe, former Democratic leader of Albany County, now in retirement, assailing Colonel Greene, State Superintendent of Public Works, for failure to use the vast patronage of his office to create jobs for Democrats, and calling upon Governor Roosevelt, for that reason, to remove him, also was the topic of some talk here tonight. It is not likely, however, that Mr. McCabe's contribution to the patronage controversy will be taken seriously.

"Considering the very great contribution to party success, Mr. McCabe made when he was leader here, I think his statement should receive a great deal of attention," said Colonel Greene tonight with a touch of irony. All through the years of the McCabe régime, Albany, now strongly Democratic, was a Republican stronghold.

Report Governor Expected Move.

It was stated this evening on good authority that Governor Roosevelt in appointing a successor to Justice Young from his own county instead of John B. Coyle was aware that Chairman Foley would retire as county chairman unless the Westchester County Democrats were recognized when the appointment was made.

Mr. Coyle, who is a Democratic lawyer from Westchester, has a record of party service in that he was willing to and did "take a licking" in two elections to give the Democrats a candidate for Supreme Court Justice of good standing in the party and the community.

The Governor and Mr. Foley had their final conferences at the Capitol on Wednesday of last week, when Mr. Coyle was formally proposed for the position.

While the Westchester County Democracy is chiefly concerned in the present situation, not a few of the party chieftains from other localities profess to sympathize with their Westchester conferees and to feel badly about the way they have been slighted.

While there is no danger of a rift in the party over the grievances of the Westchester Democrats, it was recalled among the leaders here tonight that Governor Roosevelt, following his election in 1928, had stated in so many words that patronage would be intelligently used during his administration for the upbuilding of the Democratic party in the State, a hint that Governor Smith's policy of naming or retaining Republicans in party office would not be continued.

Now it is pointed out that in ignoring the recommendation of the Westchester organization in the matter of a position which the Democrats there feel "belonged" to the county, the Governor has made a radical departure from his policy.

Much valuable State patronage to be dispensed in the near future, the new parole board of three members with $12,000 salary, and a director who will receive $9,000, is to be appointed prior to July 1, in addition to the other personnel required.

Leaders Guests of Governor.

John F. Curry, Tammany chieftain; John H. McCooey, Democratic leader in Kings; John A. Theofel, the Democratic leader of Queens, and Edward J. Flynn, Secretary of State and Bronx leader, were at the Executive Mansion this evening as dinner guests of Governor and Mrs. Roosevelt.

In Kings Mr. McCooey has a candidate for the vacancy created through the resignation under fire of County Judge W. Bernard Vause, and in Queens Mr. Theofel is interested in putting over Municipal Court Justice John A. Hetherington as Surrogate to succeed Richard S. Newcombe, who died recently.

Mr. McCooey presented to the Governor the name of Albert Conway, State Superintendent of Insurance, who is a Brooklynite, for the county judgeship. It is expected that another Kings Democrat will be backed for the job now held by Mr. Conway. The Kings leader laughingly dismissed as entirely unfounded a suggestion that he would like to see John McCooey Jr. appointed as successor to County Judge Vause. There is a very strong impression in well-informed Democratic circles here that Mr. Conway will be appointed, although several days may elapse before the announcement is made.

The names of many candidates for the two positions on the bench are before the Governor, who has admitted that in the selection of a Queens County Surrogate he is confronted with one of the most difficult situations that have arisen since he has occupied the Governor's chair.

Syracuse, upon the arrival at the Capitol of William H. Kelley, Democratic leader of Onondaga County, appeared today as a bidder for the Democratic State Convention. Rochester has already invited the Democrats to hold their convention there.

Governor Will Speak Today.

Aside from a "keynote" speech by the Governor, the State committee at its meeting tomorrow will transact only routine business incidental to the State convention. All possibility of a move to have M. William Bray of Utica replaced as chairman of the State committee, prior to the expiration of his term, after the September primaries, is said to have been eliminated. Mr. Bray arrived here this evening and is being entertained at the Executive Mansion tonight with the leaders from New York City.

There was a large influx today of feminine members of the Democratic State Committee, of whom there are 150, and of women county leaders. The women associated in the leadership of county organizations held a meeting which lasted all afternoon in the tea room at the Hotel Ten Eyck, with Mrs. O'Day, who has just returned after an absence of five months in Europe, presiding.

The meeting was held behind closed doors for the purpose of receiving reports of the work among the women in the several counties up-State and discussing plans for the campaign, when an unprecedented drive will be made to corral the bulk of the women's vote.

"I was gratified at the progress that was reported and the bright prospects for a big Democratic vote among the women in the autumn," Mrs. O'Day said.

"The Democratic women from New York City who have more experience in organization work than the women up-State gave some very instructive talks for the benefit of their up-State co-workers.

"As a pleasing feature of the reports, we were told that the old generation of men, who, so far, have been inclined to look upon the political activities of women as an intrusion in a field reserved for the men, are working in closer cooperation than they have been doing with the women in the up-State Democratic organizations."

About 300 women attended the reception given by Governor and Mrs. Roosevelt this evening at the Executive Mansion. Mrs. Roosevelt greeted them in a brief address of welcome. Later the Governor, Messrs. Curry, McCooey and Flynn delivered addresses.

Governor Roosevelt told the women that the Democratic party had a claim on the votes of women throughout the State as a result of what had been done in the promotion of social welfare legislation at Albany by recent Democratic State administrations, frequently in the face of stubborn opposition from the Republicans.

The three Democratic leaders from New York City declared that Democrats there could be depended upon to make their usual large contribution to the party vote this Autumn, if the up-State Democrats did their share.

Fire Razes Home of Gen Stark, Hero of Bennington Battle

Special to The New York Times.

CONCORD, N. H., June 16.—Fire today destroyed the homestead of General John Stark of Revolutionary War fame in the village of Dunbarton, near here. The blaze, of unknown origin, gained such headway as to preclude any attempt to save this historic shrine.

The Stark homestead was erected in 1779 as a gift of the country to General Stark, the hero of the battle of Bennington.

Four Men and Two Women Seized in Bowery Raids to Be Tried July 3.

Four men and two women indicted last week following raid on "smoke" shops in the Bowery and lower east side in a campaign against poison liquor which has caused more than thirty deaths in Manhattan, in the last month pleaded not guilty yesterday when they were arraigned before Federal Judge Coxe on a charge of violating the prohibition law.

Judge Coxe continued the defendants, Henry and Israel Seligman, Anna and Morris Skigin, Herbert Wilke, and Frank Leddy in bail of $2,500 each for trial on July 3. C. H. Finklestein, Assistant District Attorney, announced that he would appear this week before a Federal grand jury and ask indictments against thirty-five additional defendants.

At the same time an unidentified woman, who is believed to have been abandoned by two male companions was taken from a taxicab at 190th Street and Jerome Avenue, to Fordham Hospital, suffering from alcohol poisoning.

QUITS IN PROTEST TO NAMING OF MACK

H. T. Foley, Democratic Chairman in Westchester, Favored Coyle for Supreme Court.

RESENTS "SLAP IN FACE"

Committeeman Warren Is Out, Too —New Justice Praised as He Is Inducted Into Post.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., June 16.—The appointment of John E. Mack to the Supreme Court bench by Governor Roosevelt to fill the vacancy created by the death of Justice Frank L. Young resulted today in the resignation of Harry T. Foley, chairman of the Westchester County Democratic Committee. Mr. Foley succeeded Benjamin Moore in the leadership of the county upon the latter's appointment to the Children's Court bench about a year ago.

Oscar Leroy Warren of this city, former county chairman and one of Mr. Foley's adherents, followed his leader and resigned as a county committeeman. Other leaders are expected to follow Mr. Foley's example. Although no statement was given out by the resigned chairman, he made it clear that he felt Justice Mack's appointment to approximate a "slap in the face" to Westchester County Democrats and to himself as leader because Governor Roosevelt failed to appoint John B. Coyle of White Plains to the Supreme Court vacancy.

Mr. Coyle received the unanimous approval of the county committee and his name was forwarded to the Governor for appointment. It was felt by the local Democrats that since Justice Young was a resident of Westchester County his successor should also have been from here. Justice Mack resides in Poughkeepsie, not far from Hyde Park, the home of Governor Roosevelt. Mr. Coyle has twice run on the Democratic ticket for the Supreme Court and is recognized by his political associates as one of the hardest workers for the organization.

Mrs. Caroline O'Day of Rye, vice chairman of the county committee, received Mr. Foley's resignation and is expected to present the situation to the Governor at Albany. She called a meeting of the county committee for next Monday night in Grace Church, this city. At that time Mr. Foley will be asked to reconsider his action.

"I took plenty of time to think it over," Foley declared today, "and I do not think it possible that my mind can be changed."

Mr. Mack was inducted into his new post here today. Members of the bar and bench joined in welcoming the new justice. Justice George P. Taylor Jr., senior presiding trial justice of the Supreme Court, presided and introduced Albert Ritchie of New Rochelle, president of the Westchester Bar Association. Tributes to the character and legal ability of Justice Mack were paid by speakers, including Justice Joseph Morschauser and former Supreme Court Justice Humphrey J. Lynch.

CANNON'S ACTIVITIES TO BE TOPIC IN HOUSE

Tinkham Announces He Will Address Members Today on Bishop's Stock Trading.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—The Stock Market activities of Bishop James Cannon Jr. continued as a topic of Congressional discussion today with the announcement by Representative Tinkham of Massachusetts that he would speak on this subject on the floor of the House tomorrow.

Mr. Tinkham's speech, he indicated, will be concerned principally with the financial affairs of Bishop Cannon, matters which the Bishop successfully kept out of public records when he protested that these were none of the Senate Lobby Committee's business and the committee voted in his favor.

Senator Norris deferred offering a resolution to ask the Department of Justice for any correspondence it might have concerning an alleged commutation of H. L. Goldhurst, head of the defunct bucketshop, operated as Kable & Co., where Bishop Cannon dealt. He said he would first make a further study of the report that Goldhurst either had had his sentence cut to two years or would have it shortened soon, making him eligible for parole by Fall.

The preparation of the case against Goldhurst was handled by Ella Marie Failor, assistant to United States Attorney Tuttle and an alumna of Blackstone College, of which Bishop Cannon was president until 1918.

Also scheduled for tomorrow is the presentation to the Senate by Senator Caraway of Arkansas, chairman of the Lobby Committee, of the resolution upholding the Bishop adopted by the committee's five members last week.

No action is expected by the Senate on the case, although Senator Blaine of Wisconsin had indicated that he may conduct a lone fight to have the Bishop cited for contempt.

HEADS OF POLICE RESIGN IN CHICAGO

But Russell and Stege Retain Captaincies—Blame Prohibition for Crime Situation.

FORCE TO BE INVESTIGATED

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 16.—Developments of the day in the city's war against gang rule and the alliance of criminals, police and politicians, through which gangsters and racketeers are allegedly enabled to maintain a $6,000,000 corruption chest, were:

Police Commissioner William F. Russell and Deputy Commissioner John P. Stege, under fire since the murder of Alfred Lingle, Chicago Tribune crime reporter, a week ago today, resigned as chief of the Police Department and head of the Detective Bureau, respectively.

The mystery surrounding the Lingle murder was reported solved.

The City Council Committee on Police and Municipal Institutions voted unanimously to investigate the Police Department.

Forty-eight business leaders, members of the Association of Commerce, voted to replace the Secret Six, a committee appointed to investigate crime and assist authorities with evidence against criminals with a committee of sixteen to carry on and enlarge the work of the Secret Six.

Chief Justice D. J. Normoyle of the Criminal Court ordered the grand jury to inquire into the slaying of Lingle.

Thompson Promises Aid.

John H. Alcock, First Deputy Commissioner, was placed in temporary command of the police following the retirement of Commissioner Russell after sixteen months in office. Whether or not he will retain the post for the remaining eight months of the term of Mayor Thompson has not been decided.

Mayor Thompson and Corporation Counsel Ettelson announced themselves as ready to cooperate in every way with the proposed Council and grand jury investigation. In charging the June grand jury Justice Normoyle said:

"When gunmen go beyond their guerilla warfare and attack the ranks of private citizens it is time to curb them before they go one step further. I want to warn you that never at any time in my experience has a vigilance committee been necessary or such measures required."

Report Has Murder Solved.

Reports attributed to a source close to the retiring commissioner have it that Lingle was a victim of the Aiello faction of the Moran gang, chief rivals of Scarface Al Capone. This gang is made up of the remnants of Dion O'Banion's followers, Joe Aiello and his kinsmen, Ted Newberry, recently under arrest with eight other Chicago gangsters in New York; Jack Zuta, described by police as boss of the white slave traffic of the midwest part of the city and listed as one of the "twenty-eight public enemies," and Leo Mongoven among others.

While this report predicted the arrest of Lingle's killer within a day or two, some police officials expressed the opinion that the assassin, who had been hired and imported for the deed, was by this time buried in quicklime, because, like his victim, he "knew too much."

The City Council committee was warned by Russell and Stege that revelation of facts concerning the Lingle investigation would defeat the ends of justice.

"We took six of the outstanding men of the department and put them in charge of squads to go where they please, and told them if they found any gangsters with guns to protect themselves," Stege testified. "I had the assurance of big business men that any liability these men might incur would be underwritten."

Meeting of Business Men.

The forty-eight business leaders were called together by Colonel Robert I. Randolph, president of the Association of Commerce, who issued the following statement after the meeting:

"A definite plan has been adopted, providing for the immediate enlargement of the secret investigating activities being carried on by the committee for the prevention and punishment of crime. The committee has been enlarged to increase its effectiveness, and it now includes active representatives of all the powerful business organizations of Chicago."

One business man who attended the meeting but refused to allow his name to be used, said:

"The meeting was typical of what happens when forty-eight men, no matter how prominent, get together and try t osettle something. Some worthwhile ideas were expressed but lost in a cloud of words, tossed out indiscriminately by others present. It was a piteous spectacle."

The Political Action Commission of the Church Federation created a "fact-finding committee" to press investigation of the crime situation in all directions at a meeting of the federation today. The federation adopted a resolution alleging an interlocking of gang leaders, politicians, race-track operators and newspapers here.

Ralph J. Capone, elder brother of "Scarface Al," was sentenced today to three years in Leavenworth Penitentiary and ordered to pay a fine of $10,000 for income tax frauds. His attorneys have sixty days in which to file a petition for a supersedeas for an appeal to the Circuit Court of Appeals. Capone's bond of $35,000 was allowed to stand.

Officials Blame Prohibition.

CHICAGO, June 16 (AP).—While Police Commissioner Russell and Deputy Commissioner Stege resigned their posts today they have not left the force, each remaining a captain. Both blamed prohibition for the crime situation. Russell, too, complained of an inadequate force, necessitated, he said, by the impoverished city treasury.

"I am an illustration of man's inhumanity to man," he said, "but I have met insurmountable obstacles, by that I mean prohibition, and I don't care who knows it."

Stege told the council police committee he regretted leaving the detective bureau before he could solve the Lingle murder.

"We did the best we could," he said. "There has not been one conviction of one gangster for killing another since prohibition went into effect except in Chicago, and in that case the Supreme Court reversed the decision of the jury. In another case there was positive identification, but the jury turned the defendant loose.

"All over the United States prohibition is responsible for all of this."

Colonel Randolph, Association of Commerce president, said:

"Unless the successors of Russell and Stege are given absolute authority to clean up without any interference of any sort, the removal of Russell and Stege is a mere gesture."

The body of a supposed gang ride victim, from which the head, hands and feet had been removed to prevent identification, was taken from the Sanitary District Canal at Lockport, near here, today.

Ball Players, Game Stopped, Invoke Sunday Law on Mayor

KEENE, N. H., June 16 (AP).—For driving his automobile on pleasure bent yesterday, Mayor Forrest L. Carey of this city was charged in Municipal Court today with violating the Sunday blue laws.

The complaint was lodged by nine irate members of the Keene White Sox Baseball Club, who were arrested yesterday afternoon on Mayor Carey's order for playing a game on the Lord's Day with the Turners Falls (Mass.) nine.

Five other persons also were arraigned today on complaints lodged by the club after the game was stopped, alleging that they had sold chewing gum and soft drinks.

Mayor Carey appealed, and most of the other cases were placed on file.

Judge Madden, who heard the cases, announced at the outset that he had played golf Sunday.

TARDIEU FACES ATTACK ON TREASURY RESERVES

Minister Refuses to Tell Exact Amount, but Total Is Said to Approach $200,000,000.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 16.—An element of mystery has always surrounded the question of the amount of the reserves which were accumulated by the French Treasury during the three years when Raymond Poincaré and Henri Chéron were successively Ministers of Finance, and even more mystery seems to surround the question of how much of that sum is now left after four months of another administration.

It was said at the end of last year that, through surplus taxation, the treasury, under M. Chéron's direction, had accumulated more than $700,000,000. During last week's discussion by the Finance Commission of the amount available for the first instalment of Premier Tardieu's proposed measures to improve the national equipment in roads, canals, docks, telephones and electric power, it was allowed to leak out that the present figure of available treasury reserves was much nearer $200,000,000.

Paul Reynaud, the Minister of Finance, refused to yield to the Finance Commission's request for a report on the exact amount of the treasury holdings, and that refusal has, of course, led to some wild reports as to the rate at which the surplus has been eaten into to make up the deficits in revenue during the past few months since the Chamber voted repeated cuts, overthrowing M. Chéron in its ambition to reduce taxation.

That suspicion, coupled with the somewhat disastrous situation on the Bourse, has whipped the normal political condition of the Chamber into a new turmoil and a severe attack is likely to develop within the next two weeks against M. Reynaud and, through him, against the Tardieu Government. It is perfectly possible the Premier will be able successfully to hold his majority, for the Opposition forces are divided and know their own inability to take advantage of a government defeat.

Both in the Finance Commission this coming week, and in the Chamber next week, the debate promises to be hot and not without an element of danger.

Grand Jury to Hear Ewald Today.

Magistrate George F. Ewald, who resigned recently as a director of the Cotter Butte Mining Company and who has appeared in the office of Federal Attorney Tuttle to answer questions concerning that company's sale of stock, will appear today before the Federal grand jury, Mr. Tuttle announced last night.

Magistrate Ewald, who has denied any wrongdoing in connection with the sale of stock, said last Friday that he had offered to help Federal and State authorities in their investigation.

WALSH SUMMONED BEFORE GRAND JURY

MOVE DEEMED SIGNIFICANT

Tuttle Believed to Be Seeking Light on Doyle Fees—Doctor Pleads Not Guilty to Charges.

A subpoena calling for the appearance of William E. Walsh, chairman of the New York City Board of Standards and Appeals, before the Federal grand jury this morning was placed in the hands of a deputy marshal yesterday afternoon for service, United States Attorney Tuttle announced. This grand jury will continue the John Doe investigation in which its predecessor returned two indictments last week against Dr. William F. Doyle, whose practice before the Board of Standards and Appeals is said to have netted him and others upward of $2,000,000.

Dr. Doyle pleaded not guilty yesterday before Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe to each of the indictments, one of which alleges perjury and the other the filing of false income tax returns. He was released in $5,000 bail under the indictments and $1,000 bail under the contempt of court order and thirty-day sentence imposed on him recently by Federal Judge John M. Woolsey for defiance of a court order requiring him to disclose to the grand jury the names of persons with whom he had split fees.

Move Seen as Significant.

The subpoena for Mr. Walsh is considered the most significant move yet made by the Federal investigators. Mr. Tuttle said last week, following the indictment of Doyle, that the chief ojective of the investigation to be carried on by the June morning grand jury was to ascertain the identities of those with whom Doyle split his fees. Significance in Mr. Tuttle's line of procedure is also found in the fact that representatives of the Internal Revenue Department have been going over income tax returns of persons other than Doyle in the hope that these might disclose discrepancies which would force into the open persons whose names he refused to furnish.

It was confidently believed at the Federal Building that the United States Attorney had hit upon some information which led him to believe Mr. Walsh might be able to throw some light on facts which Doyle has so closely guarded.

Mr. Walsh was asked recently by District Attorney Crain if he would appear before the New York County grand jury and waive immunity from prosecution. He did not reply to the request, but his attorney later informed Mr. Crain, the latter said, that Mr. Walsh would not waive immunity. As a result, he was not taken before that grand jury.

Witnesses before a Federal grand jury are not so protected except when testifying in investigations under the prohibition or anti-trust laws. Mr. Walsh will not be asked to waive immunity before the Federal grand jury.

At his home last night Mr. Walsh said he had heard nothing of a Federal grand jury subpoena for him. When it is served, however, he will have no alternative but to present himself at the Federal Building.

Mr. Walsh has consistently refused to discuss matters related to the charges with respect to the conduct of his board. Once, soon after the two criminal investigations had started, he said that if there had been anything irregular going on, he himself would certainly like to know about it.

Mr. Walsh's attitude in refusing to waive immunity before the county grand jury and Doyle's refusal to answer certain questions even when ordered to do so by the court, have furnished the two greatest obstacles in the way of the Federal and State investigations. Throughout the inquiries Mr. Walsh has continued to preside over the meetings of the Board of Standards and Appeals. The board is scheduled to hold its regular weekly meeting today. Mr. Walsh is required by the subpoena to appear before the grand jury at about the time his board is to be in session this morning.

Tuttle to Question Walsh.

Mr. Tuttle said he would take part in the questioning of Mr. Walsh before the grand jury today and would be assisted by two of his aides, Lowell Wadmond and John A. Wilson. Mr. Walsh can, should he so desire, it was pointed out, refuse to answer certain questions on the same ground taken by Doyle—that to answer them might tend to degrade or incriminate him. There is no intimation from any source that he will take this course, or that such a course would be necessary, and it was merely pointed out as a legal method which could be adopted by Mr. Walsh or any other Federal grand jury witness.

Meanwhile, the country grand jury has been investigating the matter of Mr. Walsh's reported occupancy of a $4,000 apartment for a rental of $1,500, unsecured by lease. The person with whom Mr. Walsh was said to have negotiated for the apartment or the man who was reported to have told the owners Mr. Walsh should have an apartment at the low figure, was recently reported to be abroad. The building is located at 25 East Eighty-sixth Street. The permit for its erection is said to have been granted after Dr. Doyle appeared before the Board of Standards and Appeals on behalf of the owners.

Nn date was fixed yesterday for the trial of Doyle. Mr. Tuttle asked Judge Coxe to set June 26. Alfred J. Talley, of counsel for Doyle, said it would be impossible to prepare for trial in so short a time. He asked that the trial go over until August and that counsel be allowed fourteen days for motions. Judge Coxe granted counsel ten days for motions and said that, at the expiration of that time, he would fix a trial date.

Samuel Falk, also of Doyle's counsel, told Judge Coxe the indictments had taken Doyle's attorneys by surprise as Mr. Tuttle had advised them he did not believe an indictment was pending, and that he was most desirous of learning the names of persons with whom Doyle had split fees.

This recalled that, immediately after Doyle had been indicted, Mr. Tuttle said the indictment had been hastened by Doyle's "dilatory tactics" in refusing to furnish information desired and by the action of his counsel in insisting upon their legal right to fifty days' delay before the hearing on Doyle's appeal from the contempt sentence could be heard.

Doyle and his attorneys still refuse to consent to any reduction of the time they are allowed for printing records and preparing briefs in the appeal from the contempt order. As a result, it will not be possible to hear argument on the appeal for fifty days. It was said to be more likely that the appeal would not be argued in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals before its October term.

The county grand jury which is investigating matters related the Board of Standards and Appeals will meet again today and hear the testimony of a number of witnesses, it was said. This grand jury expects to pay particular attention to a case in which Doyle was said to have presented to the Board of Standards and Appeals a false list of names as being names of owners of property adjacent to the site for which he sought a permit for a building.

The county grand jury is expected to hand up either an indictment or a presentment before the end of the week.

URGES REPUBLICANS TO REPUDIATE SAXE

Victor, Anti-Saloon Leader, Calls Wet Party Group Here an "Al Smith Annex."

Former State Senator Martin Saxe and his associates on the Committee on Legislation of the New York County Republican Advisory Committe are doing everything in their power to repudiate the Republican national platform and frustrate the pledges and efforts of President Hoover, Fred A. Victor, State superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, declared yesterday in commenting upon the report of Mr. Saxe's committee.

The report with two resolutions, one declaring for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and the other for modification of the Volstead act to permit each State to determine what percentage of alcohol is in fact intoxicating, will be presented to the advisory committee at a meeting at the Hotel Astor tonight and to the county committee Thursday night. Adoption of the report and resolutions by large majorities is expected at both meetings.

"For many years the Republican organization of New York has been suspected of being an Al Smith annex, but now Mr. Saxe and his sub-advisory committee seem determined to prove it," Mr. Victor said.

"Just why a little handful of wet Republicans in New York think the world at large is interested in their attempts to embarrass a Republican President by boosting the program of his defeated opponent does not appear. President Hoover was not elected upon a platform calling for a policy of scuttle and retreat, but upon a platform promising observance and vigorous enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment. Today, the President is reported as saying, 'Platform promises must not be empty gestures.' Mr. Saxe and his group are doing everything in their power to repudiate a Repubiican platform and bring to nought the pledges and efforts of a Republican President. Leaders without vision, they must be made to understand there can be no victory for booze in this republic.

"If the Republican party in this State is wise it will set aside this noisy wet group in New York City, fearlessly endorse the program and policy of President Hoover, reiterate and make its own the platform upon which he carried the State, nominate a candidate honest enough to dare and courageous enough to fight for both platform and policy and go forth to victory."

12 DIE AS BRIDGE CRASHES.

Rumanian Structure Had Just Been Declared Open for Traffic.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUCHAREST, June 16.—Just after it had been blessed and declared open for traffic a new concrete bridge over the Jil River, near the village of Plopsor, collapsed yesterday.

Twelve persons who had been standing on the bridge were drowned and forty others were rescued.

VAUSE FOUND FIT; FACES TRIAL TODAY

of answering the charges against him, had tried to induce a physician, whose name was not revealed, to operate upon him for appendicitis. The doctor, after making an examination which showed that the operation was unnecessary, refused to operate, although a substantial sum of money was offered him, it was said later.

Mr. Tuttle also charged that an attempt had been made by a "Mr. Brogan" to bribe Drs. Hicks and Robertson to make their findings "right."

This is the story of the attempted bribe as related in court by Mr. Tuttle:

"Yesterday Dr. Hicks went to the home of Mr. Vause with Dr. Robertson and the two examined the judge for an hour. Then they made an appointment to see him again in the afternoon. They were at dinner when a telephone call came and a voice at the other end inquired:

" 'Is this Dr. Hicks?'

" 'It is,' " answered Dr. Hicks.

" 'Well, you would know me by sight but not by name,' said the voice. 'I am Mr. Brogan. Some of the boys are interested in Barney Vause and they want the report about him to be right. You will be taken care of. We will see you this afternoon at your office.' "

Dr. Hicks agreed to meet "Mr. Brogan," according to Mr. Tuttle, and then after explaining the situation to Dr. Robertson, communicated with Mr. Mintzer. Arrangements were then made for trapping the would-be briber who, however, failed to keep his appointment.

Disavows Telephone Call.

Mr. Perlman insisted upon receiving his right to deny any knowledge of the telephone call. Neither he nor any member of the former judge's family had telephoned Dr. Hicks, he said, characterizing the call as "most outrageous." The attorney also asserted that any conversations his client had had with Mr. Tuttle were "without knowledge of counsel." He would not be trial counsel for Mr. Vause, he said, and so far as he knew none had been retained.

Mr. Perlman asserted that his client was suffering from a "mania depressive condition," and said he had been unable to consult with his client for the past week.

"He cannot possibly go to trial for another week," said the lawyer.

Dr. Hicks took the stand. He testified that Mr. Vause was mentally and physically able to defend himself if he would cooperate.

"The only thing wrong with him is that he is petrified with fear," he added.

"You mean," asked Mr. Tuttle, "that he is scared to death?"

"That is exactly the case," replied Dr. Hicks.

In his opinion, Dr. Hicks said, Mr. Vause's condition was due to the multiplicity of his troubles. The best remedy for that, he said, was to "get the thing over with." During his examination of Mr. Vause, Dr. Hicks said, the former judge, who is an old friend, was moaning and crying almost continually.

"O my God, this is awful. I am ruined. I am disgraced," the alienist quoted Mr. Vause as repeating over and over.

Dr. Hicks said later that he had found it the most difficult task of his life to decide the issue fairly, in view of all the circumstances, including his long acquaintance with Mr. Vause. Dr. Hicks testified at the murder trial of Earl Francis Peacox, and later, as a speaker before the Crime Commission, criticized the present methods of allowing both sides in a criminal case to employ alienists instead of having them retained by the court as impartial experts.

Dr. Robertson corroborated the findings of his colleague. Dr. Cusack, who was retained by Dr. Frank Vause, brother of the former judge, then took the stand and testified that in his opinion Mr. Vause is unable to go to trial because he is "mentally retarded," and unable to confer with his counsel.

"He has a mental-medical condition and is in a state of agitated depression," Dr. Cusack said. "He has a psychosis——"

Tries to Explain in Greek.

The court wanted an explanation of what he meant by "psychosis," and Dr. Cusack, after admitting that he did not believe Mr. Vause "legally insane," undertook to explain in Greek, causing Judge Coxe to remark that the testimony was "becoming a bit abstruse."

In cross-examination Dr. Cusack admitted that he was appointed to a lunacy commission by the former judge last February.

District Attorney Crain indicated that he was hopeful the mail fraud charge might reveal whether Mr. Vause bribed any public officials in the pier leases case. Should Mr. Vause take the stand in his own behalf the cross-examination "may extend to matters not directly at issue affecting his credibility as a witness," Mr. Crain said.

The District Attorney said also that he is awaiting written answers to seventy-five questions submitted last week to George W. Vause, a brother of the former judge, who maintained a bank account under the name of William Jerome, into which a large part of the United American Lines fees found their way.

EGYPTIAN CABINET DECIDES TO RESIGN

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CAIRO, June 16.—Egypt is once more in the throes of a political crisis. It has been known for some time that King Fuad and the Wafdist Cabinet have been in direct conflict and now the Cabinet has decided to tender its resignation.

Matters came to a head when the Government submitted to the King the draft of a bill which was intended to safeguard the Constitution by inflicting dire penalties on any Minister who attempted to emulate the example of former Premier Mohammed Mohmud Pasha by suspending constitutional liberties.

This bill was sent to the palace three weeks ago by the Cabinet with a formal request for the King's signature. His Majesty, however, has not shown any desire to comply with the request and even went so far as to express dissatisfaction with the bill's provisions.

The Cabinet, having become exasperated with the King's attitude, decided this evening to resign and the resignation is expected to be tendered tomorrow. Premier Nahas Pasha declared tonight that the Cabinet's decision was dictated by a desire to preserve its dignity, which was untenable under present conditions, the Cabinet finding it impossible to carry out its task of consolidating the constitution.

It is noteworthy that the British residency has been holding aloof in the conflict between the palace and the Cabinet, and both the Euroepan and native population are exercised as to the outcome of the crisis.

CHINESE REPUBLIC IN GRAVEST PERIL

By HALLETT ABEND.

tse was heavily fired upon by Communists at Hwangshihkang. A Japanese gunboat replied with its full armament and silenced the attackers. At Soochow, near Shanghai, convalescent and unpaid wounded soldiers mobbed and seriously injured three Japanese students and then mobbed an official.

The serious situation along the Yangtse has resulted in British merchant steamers resuming a full complement of armed guards. In view of this perturbed situation and the fact that the Nanking Government today controls less than a tenth of the area of China, cables from Washington reporting that the United States is considering removal of the American Legation from Peking to Shanghai have aroused comment which has been critical in the extreme.

A spokesman for the legation at Peking today, however, said:

"Under present circumstances with things so unsettled there can be no saying as to the possibility of establishment of another government at Peking, and it is futile to plan immediate removal of the Legation from Peking to a southern city. In fact, we have not yet discussed the matter with Nanking. True, we have decided to augment the personnel of the Shanghai Consulate General. Other governments are doing the same."

A new factor of importance today was the delivery to embassies and legations at Peking and consulates at Tientsin of a notification by Marshal Wu Pei-fu sent in care of W. W. Yen, Dr. Wellington Koo and other Chinese notables. Wu Pei-fu, who has been in retirement in a Buddhist monastery in the far-off Szechwan Province for more than two years, announces:

"In view of the fact, and as a result of the prolongation of the civil war, the distrust of the people and the subjects of friendly foreign nations have been greatly affected, and at the urgent persuasion of the people of the different provinces, I, the Marshal, cannot but decide to proceed out of Szechwan in order to act as mediator in regard to the general situation, to promote peace, so that both foreigners and Chinese can reside in safety and freedom of body, residence and property.

"I am going to Hankow to stay and actually to persuade and mediate. I hope the Ambassadors and Ministers and their governments, basing their attitude upon the benevolent will to maintain humanity, love and peace, will favor us with sympathy and understanding."

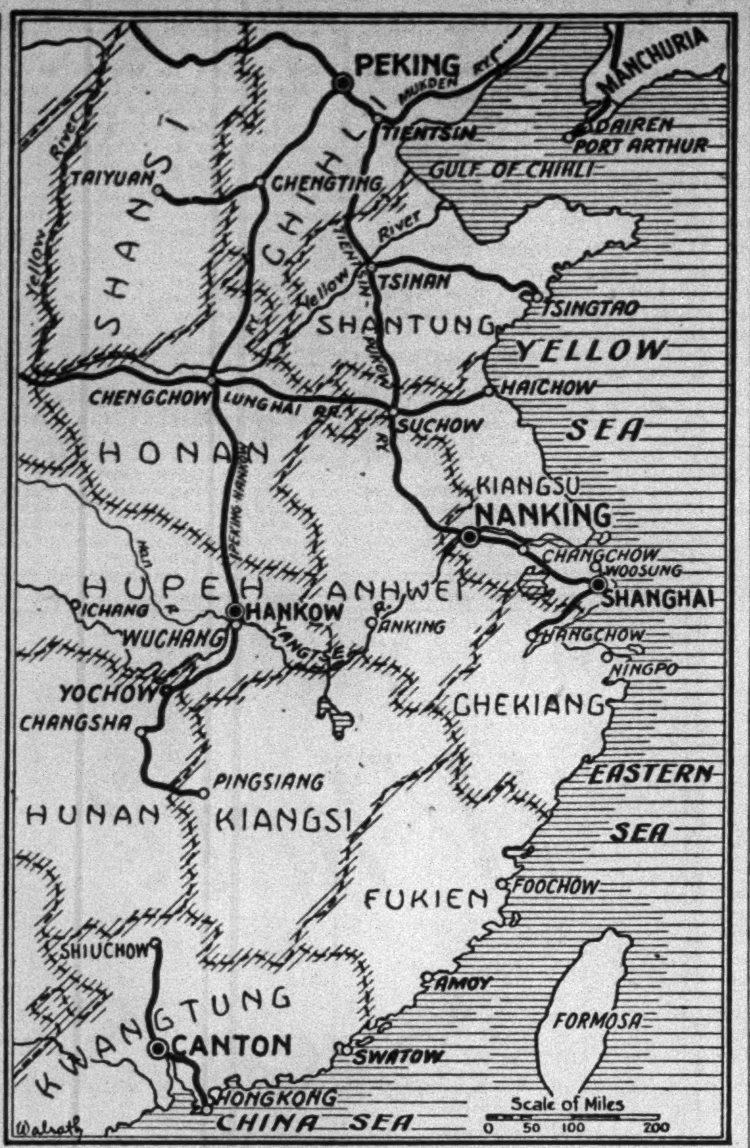
Lu Huan-yim Assassinated.

This emergence of Wu Pei-fu is coincident with the shocking political assassination this morning of General Lu Huan-yim, Kwangsi Governor, following a military conference at Canton. He was shot in the back by bodyguards, who after their capture charged that Pai Chung-hsi, Kwangsi leader, had offered a bribe of $10,000 cash to the colonel's commission for the murder.

Wang Ching-wei, noted Left Wing leader, tarries at Hongkong, showing an unwillingness to proceed to Peking to establish a civil wing of the government under Feng Yu-hsiang and Yen Hsi-shan. This hesitancy is resulting in rumors of a political split and a likelihood that Chiang Kai-shek, President of the Nanking Government, is seeking an alliance with Wang Ching-wei, which if successful would end the peril of the Ironsides and the Kwangsi militarists.

Authoritative denials from Mukden brand as unfounded the Nanking Government's report that Manchuria was mobilizing to assist the Nanking Government by attacking the Northern coalition. Mukden is still selling products of its arsenal to both factions and is maintaining neutrality in the belief that the time is not ripe for mediation or intervention.

Industry and commerce have been paralyzed by the collapse of silver values with depreciation of Chinese currency resulting in enormous price increases. Since last March the prices of many imported articles in Shanghai have doubled. A $3 American book is now selling at 12 Shanghai dollars; liquor prices have doubled, and cigarettes have increased 35 per cent in price. Foreigners receiving their salaries in Chinese money are in real distress, as rents also are soaring because of the enormous influx to Shanghai of wealthy persons seeking safety.



WAR-RIDDEN AREAS IN CHINA.

Communists are overrunning a large part of Fukien and Chekiang Provinces and are obtaining a grip in parts of the Yangtse Valley. Nanking troops are holding off rebel forces seeking to attack Hankow. A stalemate exists in the warfare along the Lunghai railway and about Tsinan in Shantung. Yen Hsi-shan has seized the customs revenues at Tientsin.

New Customs Head at Tientsin.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PEKING, June 16.—Yen Hsi-shan, who, with Feng Yu-hsiang, is leading the Northern campaign against the Nanking Government, carried out his threat today and seized the customs revenue at Tientsin. He installed B. Lennox Simpson, who, as Putnam Weale, is a well-known writer on Chinese affairs, as commissioner in place of the Nanking appointee, Colonel Hayley Bell.

Mr. Simpson lately has been acting as adviser to Yen, in addition to editing an English newspaper which Yen maintains in Peking. The transfer in Tientsin appears to have been made without resistance and Yen's representatives here have assured the legations concerned that the service of foreign loans will be maintained as usual. Surplus funds are being retained in Tientsin on deposit in the Chinese Bank of Communications.

In a statement issued tonight Yen's representatives declare the step was taken only after long negotiations with Nanking had failed to produce a satisfactory compromise. Reports began to circulate last April that Yen proposed to seize the customs revenue at Tientsin except that part accruing from 5 per cent of tariff required for service of foreign and domestic debts.

Collections at Tientsin, which includes Chinwangtao, last year exceeded $8,000,000, of which virtually half belonged to the 5 per cent category.

Rebels Checked South of Wuchang.

HANKOW, June 16 (AP).—Fifty thousand Nanking Government troops stiffened their defense south of Wuchang today and checked the advance of the victorious rebels from Kwangsi Province.

Personally commanded by President Chiang Kai-shek, the government troops, entrenched just south of the walled city of Wuchang, halted the rebels who drove the Nanking troops from Changhsa and Yochow recently in their march upon the tri-cities of Wuchang, Hankow and Hanyang.

Japanese reports said the eastern wing of the Northern alliance forces had made a sharp advance southward to Chumatien, about 225 miles north of the three cities, on the Peking-Hankow Railway. Nanking forces were said to be withdrawing.

One hundred persons were killed, 300 injured and heavy property damage resulted from the explosion of a munitions dump at Chichow, about thirty miles south of Changsha, Hunan Province, June 10, delayed Chinese press advices revealed today.

The dispatches said Kwangsi rebels captured the government dump and attempted to move the explosives stored therein. A soldier was reported to have handled a hand grenade roughly. The explosions which followed continued for six hours.

"Shell and bullets shot in all directions, killing 100 officers, privates and civilians and wounding hundreds more. The people were terrorized, and pathetic scenes were enacted among the dead, which littered the ground.

"Convicts in a near-by jail attempted to escape during the explosions and guards fired on them, killing many."

British Aide Gave Away Liquor; Fear Vain, He Finds on Landing

A young British Vice Consul, who arrived last week to take up his new post in one of the Western cities, brought with him four bottles of very choice old brandy which had been given to him by his grandfather before sailing, it was learned yesterday.

On the way up the harbor he consulted persons on the ship about the prohibition law, and decided not to violate it.

The Vice Consul gave away the four bottles of liquor, and when he got to the pier received from the Deputy Collector in charge, as all diplomatic officials do, a free entry, so that his baggage was not touched. The young Englishman murmured, "Too late," and walked sadly up the pier.

GILBERT BACK, PLANS TARDY WEDDING TRIP

LAUDS GERMAN REVIVAL

Avoids Tariff Questions and Says Assurances of Peace in Europe Now Are Obvious.

S. Parker Gilbert, Agent General of Reparations in Germany under the Dawes plan, returned from Europe on the French liner France last night, his task of nearly six years ended. As indicated strongly in his report made public two days ago. Mr. Gilbert was optimistic of Germany's ability to re-establish herself in the world and declared that the United States could expect some serious competition from her in the field of European trade.

Although he avoided questions on effects of the tariff abroad, Dr. Gilbert said that international relations were considerably much more hopeful than when he went to Germany nearly six years ago. Assurances of peace were obvious now, he said, whereas in 1924 and 1925 no one knew just what would happen in Europe.

Says France Is Friendly.

He was asked if commercial relations between France and Germany were good at the present time and replied that not only were they excellent, but that the two countries were on excellent terms in every respect, including trade interchange.

Referring to his statements reviewing his work under the Dawes plan and outlining Germany's condition on his departure, Mr. Gilbert said that the statement "speaks for itself."

He stood on the after deck of the France as the liner came up the bay in the twilight and answered some questions, avoided others and spoke what he said was uppermost in his mind on his return to the United States, a honeymoon delayed since October, 1924. He and Mrs. Gilbert, who accompanied him yesterday, were married only three days before they sailed for Germany, and both declared they were planning a delayed honeymoon to last several months.

In answer to questions on German budgetary weaknesses, Mr. Gilbert said it was clear that the country had every facility to "rationalize her finances as she has her industry."

"Germany has made an astonishing recovery. They have talked about rationalizing her industry. What they now need is to place their finances on the same sturdy basis. Now they have more incentive, since they are free to do it. And I am certain they have the ability."

Sees Consistency in Trade.

Speaking of German conditions generally, Mr. Gilbert said there was a gratifying consistency in the direction of German commercial growth and foreign trade had improved at the rate of 1,000,000,000 marks a year. Each year shows an increasing collaboration between France and Germany, he added, pointing out that the main part of Germany's trade was in Europe.

Mr. Gilbert was asked to comment specifically on the efect on Germany of America's tariff rises. He answered that that question fell without his bailiwick and that he preferred not to discuss it.

The question of the general feeling in Germany and other European countries toward American commerce also was brought up and he was asked if there seemed to be more bitterness toward this country since the recent tariff discussions. He replied that he had not noticed much bitterness in Germany and less in France. Naturally, the feeling of competition will exist, he added.

Depression Also in Europe.

He said the same business depression exists in Germany that exists here and all over the world, but denied that business losses in any one country might be traced to a high or prohibitive tariff in any other country.

The subject of Franco-Italian disputes was suggested and he was asked if he considered that anything serious might result.

"No, I don't think so," he answered. "Both countries have too much sense."

He praised the "new generation" in France and said that the youth of that country was a studious, intelligent group and a seeming guarantee for the future of France.

Sees No Need for New Loan.

In reply to questions on the bank, regarding bond issuances and the possibility of a new loan, he replied that such matters were in the hands of the bank and not within his province. Personally, he said he saw no immediate need for a new issue.

Germany still has her unemployment problem, but there is more employment than there was six years ago, he said, adding that France is on a stable basis and has no great problem of the unemployed.

Mr. Gilbert said he did not know what he would do now, and had no plans for the future. He was told that rumor had connected him with the house of J. P. Morgan and said he knew nothing of it except what he saw in the newspapers.

He and Mrs. Gilbert will be in New York for a few weeks before starting on their trip.

Mr. Gilbert, who is in his thirty-eighth year, is one of the youngest men ever to hold a position of such responsibility.

Both he and Mrs. Gilbert expressed delight at returning home again, and he insisted on standing on the promenade deck for the interview so he could see the New York skyline as the France steamed up the Hudson to her pier.

REICH PRESS ADMITS GILBERT WAS RIGHT

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, June 16.—Despite the severe criticism leveled at the Reich's financial procedure by S. Parker Gilbert, retiring Agent-General for Reparation Payments, most of the press accepts his strictures calmly, the consensus of opinion being that there is no disputing the justice of his censure in view of existing facts.

The Lokalanzeiger, the principal organ of Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, Nationalist leader, who has been most persistent in his assaults on Germany's reparation commitments, praises the comprehensiveness of Mr. Gilbert's report and admits the objectivity of his criticism, but blames the Agent-General for failing to admit the disastrous effects of reparations on German economy.

This view is also shared by the Boersenzeitung, which, however, charges Mr. Gilbert with failure to come forward with positive counsel.

"His farewell message to the German people sheds no new knowledge nor does it establish new facts," the Boersenzeitung observes.

To the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung Mr. Gilbert's criticism suggests humiliation for the Reich, notwithstanding the fact that the fundamental drift of his criticism conforms to the facts.

"Never before have the sins of German financial policies been exposed so convincingly by a third party," this paper says. "His diagnosis is quite clear and merely reiterates other criticism of the government and the Reichstag."

The Tageblatt, in the course of a lengthy review of the report, says:

"This report must not merely be placed in the archives; it should be carefully perused and its obvious warnings heeded. Mr. Gilbert is no longer among us, but in Wall Street, where he will now be domiciled, his verdict on German finances will receive the same attention as here."

No comment on Mr. Gilbert's farewell message was forthcoming from official quarters, and Chancellor Bruening's Cabinet tonight was pondering the question of whether this week-end would see it still in office.

A Democratic party caucus today voted to oppose the program of Dr. Moldenhauer, the Minister of Finance, on personal tax increases, and similar action is expected from the People's party, in whose camp dissatisfaction with the proposed financial reforms is also smoldering. They will come up for discussion in the Reichstag on Wednesday.

WORLD BANK INVITES MORE TO BUY STOCK

Asks 12 Nations, Making Return to Gold Basis Condition for Portugal and Yugoslavia.

$2,000,000 LIMIT FOR EACH

Gold Standard Stipulation Bank's First Move in Promoting General Financial Well-Being.

By CLARENCE K. STREIT.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BASLE, Switzerland, June 16.—With the successful flotation of the first slice of the Young plan reparation loan behind it, the Bank for International Settlements took the first positive step toward carrying out its other function, the general promotion of the world's financial well-being, at the second regular meeting of its board of directors here today.

The board not only decided to invite twelve more European central banks to subscribe to its capital stock but decided to attach to two of these invitations, those to the banks of Yugoslavia and Portugal, the significant condition that their countries must first establish a de jure plan for putting their money on a gold basis.

The international bank, it is stated authoritatively, has good reason to believe that both countries as a result will soon ask for its help in stabilizing their finances. It is not contemplated, however, that the help asked will be similar in extent to that which the League of Nations gave Austria and Hungary.

To Submit Own Plans.

Instead Yugoslavia and Portugal, it is understood, will submit their own plans for returning to a gold basis to the Bank of International Settlements, asking for its advice and approval. The loans necessary in both cases will then be handled through private banking groups with which the two nations are already negotiating. The fact that both have to stabilize before getting shares in the world bank is expected to stimulate their governments to push these negotiations and the fact that the bank will pass on the stabilization plans is expected to encourage the private group to accept them, thus doubly promoting the cause of the gold standard.

There is no doubt that the world bank took this step today in order to stress its intention not to be concerned alone with reparations but to fulfill without delay its function of furthering sound currency everywhere. This is made even clearer by the fact that both Yugoslavia and Portugal have a special right to holding shares in the international bank, since they are reparation creditors, and the board, if it desired, could invite them outright on this basis alone. Its statute, however, gave it the right to restrict invitations to countries on a gold basis and it deliberately used this right.

The ten central banks which the board today invited outright to subscribe to the bank's shares are the national banks of Austria, Hungary, Poland, Rumania, Greece, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, Finland, Denmark and the free city of Danzig. The presence on the list of three former enemy States obviously makes the pressure exerted on Yugoslavia and Portugal stronger.

It was decided that all twelve States would be entitled to subscribe up to a maximum of 4,000 shares, representing roughly $2,000,000, the maximum fixed for Sweden, Switzerland and Holland, which had previously been invited. Since all twelve have already made overtures for such an invitation there is no doubt that they will accept it, though not all of them, it is understood, plan to subscribe for the maximum.

The board of directors also had a long discussion on what its future investing policy would be, views being exchanged on the relative desirability of long and short term investments and whether to invest in government bonds, and so forth. The discussion was ended by naming an investing subcommittee composed of Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England; M. Moreau, governor of the Bank of France; Dr. Luther, governor of the Reichsbank, and Signor Beneduce, director of the Bank of Italy, and this group will meet tomorrow with the world bank's president, Gates W. McGarrah; its vice president, Leon Fraser, and its director general, Pierre Quesnay, to lay down rules for the bank's policy in this regard.

Names Englishman.

The board appointed Francis Rodd of the Bank of England to the staff of the world bank today to assist Director General Quesnay in all problems of liaison with the banks of emission. Since the absence of any Englishman on the bank's staff has been interpreted in many circles, particularly in France, to the effect that the Bank of England is trying to "sabotage" the world bank, this appointment is considered proof that whatever friction may have been in this regard no longer exists. Indeed, Mr. Norman seems to have taken special pains to overcome the impression that he lacked interest in the world bank, for he was the first member of the board to arrive, coming here on Saturday.

The board also decided on the form for the bank's monthly balance sheet, which it ordered published on the first of each month, beginning in July. Before adjourning, the board decided to hold its next meeting on July 14.

All comment on S. Parker Gilbert's last report as Agent General for Reparations Payments was rigidly excluded from the meeting, the bank directors seeking thereby to stress that all that phase of reparations was ended and that the bank's rôle was different. Much satisfaction, however, was expressed over the success of the bank's first two operations, the emission of the first part of the capital stock and the emission of the first slice of the Young loan.

STRICKLAND IN LONDON.

Prime Minister of Malta Seeks Aid on Holding an Election.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 16.—After a dash by air and fast destroyer from Malta, Lord Strickland, Prime Minister, arrived in London tonight to tell the MacDonald Government that "the constitutional position has become impossible" in that island.

"How can one hold a Parliamentary election when the Roman Catholic authorities have issued instructions to vote against my candidates?" he asked newspaper men.

He added that it might be necessary to legislate for fair elections and explained that as the law stood in Malta, if a man were elected through undue influence he might be fined and imprisoned, but his election remained valid.

"How this legislation can be effected while the Maltese Parliament is not sitting is a complicated legal question I cannot discuss," he said. He will have an interview with Lord Passfield, Colonial Secretary, tomorrow.

LOCK 3 MEN IN BANK SAFE.

Thieves at Lodz Imprison Manager —Get Away With $50,000.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, June 16.—The manager and two clerks were imprisoned a whole day in a safe at the Lodz Bank by burglars who stole about $50,000.

One of the directors went to the bank last night to fetch some papers and met a man who was not supposed to be on duty. This caused the director to look around closely. He found the outside gate broken and the inside safe door shut, with voices coming from behind. Efforts to open the door failed and the three men remained prisoners until experts arrived from Warsawn this morning. The men had suffered badly from lack of air and food.

News of the robbery caused great anxiety until it was announced that the savings had not been touched and that the bank was the only victim.

PESETA AT NEW LOW MARK.

Falls to 8.56 to the Dollar—Oil Monopoly Called One Cause.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, June 16.—The peseta fell to a new low of 8.56 to the dollar today, and the petroleum monopoly now is blamed as one of the causes. The newspaper Informaciones lists the exportation of capital to buy Russian and American oil, the costly expositions at Seville and Barcelona and the large importation of luxuries as among the causes.

After tomorrow's Council of Ministers, according to the Nacion, an announcement on the fall of the peseta may be issued, and the wheat question, which has been causing trouble, dealt with.

RUMANIAN ATTACKS ON JEWS NEGLIGIBLE

AGGRESSORS WERE ROUTED

Police Report Shows Four Severely Hurt and Fourteen Only Slightly —Four Held for Trial.

By G. E. R. GEDYE.

Special Correspondence, THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUCHAREST, June 4.—I have just returned from a tour of the town of Roman, for which Professor A. C. Cuza, anti-Semitic agitator, was returned in the by-election of May 5; Turgo Frumos, where anti-Semitic disorders occurred after the election, and Jassy, a university town which is an anti-Semitic centre, where Professor Cuza occupied a chair until the Maniu government pensioned him off.

Careful investigation on the spot goes to show that Professor Cuza's election was partly accidental and certainly an unpleasant surprise for the government. I am convinced that the rioting at Turgu Frumos, which by general consent was the worst incident since Dr. Maniu became Premier, was a negligible incident, in which the assaulted Jews gave at least as good as they got and routed their aggressors, but it was important because symptomatic. It is further clear that the authorities at Jassy look with an indulgent eye on student anti-Semiticism, which may become unusually dangerous because the new move is spreading propaganda among the starving and ignorant peasantry.

Roman is a pretty little Rumanian town of handsome white one-storied villas amid scattered farms. Its main street exemplifies how fertile the soil of such Rumanian townships must be for sowers of anti-Semitism.

I looked vainly for one purely Rumanian name above the shop doorways. Even if here and there was a Rumanianized surname, the German-Jewish first name betrayed the race of the storekeeepr. This is a consequence not only of the Jew's inborn business aptitude and the Rumanian incapacity, but also of his long exclusion from practically every career except that of trader.

Cuza Attacked Liberals.

I found public opinion unanimous that Professor Cuza was elected with the covert but definite support of the Liberals. If his election was not due to a revival of anti-Semitic feeling, it passed without the slightest incident at Roman. Professor Cuza himself attacked the Liberals.

"The Liberals," he said, "also have exploited in the cleverest manner possible the terrible economic distress of the peasantry. 'Three years ago your crop fetched 60,000 lei,' they would tell the peasant. Today the Jew gives you only 20,000. But for clothes and boots he demands as much as ever. If you return Cuza, he will form a government and issue paper bonds entitling you to take anything from the Jews' stores without payment. Your debts to the Jews will be annulled and finally they will be expelled and their property distributed among the exploited peasantry.' "

The chief rabbi at Roman, whom I visited at his home, said: "It is untrue that there has been any revival of anti-Semitic persecution in Rumania, although the Turgu Frumos rioting showed what might happen if the government continues supine. Personally, in this village where the Liberals dominate, I consider that the local Jews should support the Liberals, but in general the Jews can never forget the horrors at Cluj and Oradeamare in 1927 under the Liberal régime. That the present government is philo-Semitic is untrue. In Rumania a philo-Semitic government is, unfortunately, inconceivable, but this one at least is no worse than its predecessors and does not encourage anti-Semitism."

Then, almost in the words which Shakespeare put in the mouth of Shylock, "For sufferance is the badge of all our tribe," the rabbi said. "From time to time we are cuffed and kicked and pushed off the pavement under Maniu as under his predecessors. We are used to that. If the government is only energetic and sees that nothing worse happens, we will not complain. But Cuza's incitement of the peasantry against us arouses dangers of terrible jacquerie and pogroms, against which dangers we demand the most energetic action."

I found Turgu Frumos the scene of the most serious trouble which occurred under the present government, a typical ramshackle Rumanian village. Outside their grimy one-storied booths lounged the village storekeepers, almost without exception Jews. From these I learned their version of the disorders.

Threatened by Students.

On May 3, they related, Professor Cuza, with his son, also a professor, and two others motored through Turgu Frumos from Jassy to conclude his election campaign in Roman, fifty kilometers away. They were accompanied by a Ford van containing anti-Semitic youths, mostly Jassy University students, who shouted to the Jewish storekeepers, "Just wait until after the elections."

On May 5 Cuza's car returned with the victorious candidate and his friends. While they were drinking wine at the Jassy end of the village, the younger Cuza severely cuffed a Jew who, he said, had brushed against him. Watching the Roman end of the village through field-glasses, young Cuza said, "In three minutes you will get your deserts."

Sure enough, the Ford van with seventeen anti-Semites soon appeared. After stopping to collect a supply of stones they entered the village, shattering a window of the first shop, kept by a family named Herzokovitch. One of the daughters told me of her terror when a hail of stones began first striking her on the leg.

Half way through the village the van halted, the anti-Semites descended, armed themselves with axe handles seized in a shop and attacked the first victim, Hersco Zeilig, cantor of the synagogue. The trembling old man of 70 showed me scratches and bruises, still livid after four weeks, and his wife told how the students deliberately aimed a stone at her head.

Aroused by the cries of the terrified women and children, the Jewish shopkeepers rushed together and set upon the assailants. In that they followed the recent advice of the Under-Secretary of the Ministry of Interior, who recently told the Jews to defend themselves. In twenty minutes they had routed the entire band. Cuza fled in a motor car to Jassy and his bodyguard escaped across the fields into the woods, promising to return one day and wreak bloody vengeance. That promise is still unfulfilled. The outraged Jewish people then wrecked the students' van.

Four Severely Hurt.

The police report states that two Jews and two students were severely hurt and nine students and five Jews slightly. Thus it is clear the whole incident was not important.

The serious side is the action of the Jassy authorities, which shows a pronounced anti-Semitic bias. One of the Jews told me he heard the State Attorney who was investigating the case say over the telephone from Jassy that no students must be implicated.

Actually nine Jews were arrested and taken to Jassy and no students were arrested. Now those arrested have been released and proceedings have been ordered taken against two Jews and also against two anti-Semites, non-students. I spoke to one of the accused Jews, a so-called notorious Communist, David Loshneanu, now at liberty pending trial.

"It is true my brother, sentenced for communism, and I read Marxist books," he said, "but I am no Communist and have never been punished. I did no more than the other Jews rushing to help the terrified old men, women and children from cowards. We taught them an unexpected lesson. It is foolish for the authorities to try to make me the scapegoat."

AMERICANS AID SEARCH FOR MISSING AVIATOR

Attaches at Santiago Soar Over Snow-Covered Andes in Quest of Latecoere Pilot.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SANTIAGO, Chile, June 16.—Captain Ralph H. Wootan, military attaché of the American Embassy, and Commander Irwin Masefield, naval attaché, disregarding the dangers of the enterprise and the uncertain weather conditions, left here yesterday to fly over the Andes in search of a missing French pilot of the Latécoère Company. The pilot left Santiago for Buenos Aires, carrying mails, on Friday, but he failed to reach the first stopping place, Mendoza, and has not been heard of since. It is believed he crashed in the deep, snow-filled ravines in the Andes range during the heavy storms which raged for two days without a break.

Captain Wootan and Commander Masefield used a Curtiss Falcon plane with an open cockpit. By ascending high over the mountains they hoped to sight the missing plane in spite of the fact that its aluminum body would be difficult to see against the white background.

A search party has explored the valleys and plateaus, but the snowfalls, which have been extraordinarily heavy, have laid a white mantle over the entire extent of the Andes.

Soaring across the Chilean-Argentine frontier in face of strong winds, Captain Wootan searched the valleys and the Pampas near Mendoza, but the quest proved fruitless and he returned when his gasoline was exhausted after four hours' zigzagging between Aconcagua and Tupungato.

The Americans' search, undertaken in a small plane and without preparations, is considered a fine example of good feeling toward local aviation services.

ARAB TAKES GUILT OF CONDEMNED MAN

Brother of One of 3 Sentenced to Die Today Swears It Was He Who Killed Safed Jew.

DEMANDS FOR REPRIEVES

Executive Decides to Call Strike as Token of Mourning if the Sentences Are Carried Out.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

JERUSALEM, June 16.—Although the Arabs are hoping against hope that the three Arabs condemned to death will be snatched from the gallows by the High Commissioner, Sir John Chancellor, in a last minute reprieve, there seems to be little chance that two of the men—Atta Ahmed Elzeer and Mohammed Khalil Jumjum, who were convicted of the murder of Jews in the Hebron riots on Aug. 24—will escape execution tomorrow.

A startling development, however, has occurred in the case of Fuad Hassan El Hedjazi of Safed which is likely to lead to the postponement of his execution upon legal grounds. His brother, Ahmed El Hedjazi, appeared before the British magistrate at Acre, saying "My brother did not murder a Jew in the Safed outbreaks. It is I who am guilty of the crime." He declared on oath that he was the actual assassin.

As soon as Ahmed El Hedjazi had confessed the Jerusalem authorities were informed and he was sent to the Jerusalem prison.

The High Commissioner, it is learned, conferred with Chief Justice McDonnell today on the legal aspects of the case, but their decision is not known.

Musa Kazem Pasha Hussein met Chief Secretary Mills this afternoon to make a last appeal. Arab circles are doing their utmost to obtain a cancellation of the executions. The Arab Executive met this evening and decided that if the death penalties were carried out, a general strike would be called tomorrow as a token of mourning.

The police chiefs are now assembled at Haifa or Acre in readiness for the executions fixed for tomorrow at dawn. Jewish families living at Acre quitted the town during the week-end. It is reported that many Arabs from Safed and also a few Hebronites are now staying in Acre including the families and relatives of the condemned men.

Testimony has been given here tending to show that Joseph Mizrachi Urphali, the only Jew sentenced to death, is innocent of the murder of which he was convicted. A Moslem policeman, attended by a leading British detective, swore before a Jerusalem magistrate that he saw the mother of the Arab whom Urphali is alleged to have killed weeping over the corpse of her son immediately after the police, under the command of Captain Alfred Riggs, had fired a volley on the approaching mobs. If this evidence is accepted it will show Urphali had not fired at the time the Arab was killed.

Jews returning from the Wailing Wall this afternoon said corrosive fluids had been used to erase the Hebrew inscriptions which have been on the wall for many generations. These inscriptions were inked upon the huge stones by pious Jews.

DECRIES ARGENTINE POLICY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUENOS AIRES, June 16.—The cordial reception extended to President-elect Julio Prestes de Albuquerque in the United States leads La Nacion again to lament editorially the vacancy of the Argentine Embassy at Washington.

The paper remarks that Mr. Hoover, as President-elect, visited Argentina at the same time he visited Brazil and that, while Brazil appreciated the significance of this act of international courtesy sufficiently to have its President-elect return the visit, Argentina has allowed its embassy to remain vacant ever since Mr. Hoover was here.

It goes on to say that as a result of the Argentine policy of diplomatic isolation, Argentina is spoken of in the League of Nations only with constraint, that delegates of other nations have replaced the Argentine delegates in the International Labor Bureau at Geneva and that a Brazilian instead of an Argentinian has been designated as a Cardinal to fill the South American vacancy.

The editorial states that Argentina has lost the leading position she once held in the concert of nations and is rapidly and steadily sinking into insignificance. It urges the appointment of an Ambassador at Washington as the first move in the urgently needed diplomatic reorganization.

TELEPHONE PARLEY OPENS.

More Than 100 Delegates Attend Meeting at Brussels.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BRUSSELS, June 16.—The International Telephone Consultative Committee began its seventh congress here today. Representatives of the League of Nations Transit Committee met with more than 100 delegates from various countries. The International Railway Union and electrical manufacturers of many nations also were represented.

The congress has seventy questions to consider, mostly technical, such as the protection of telegraphic lines against outside disturbance, cooperation between wireless and telephone systems, tariffs, and whether international communications should be charged by the single minute or by a minimum unit of three minutes.

FASHIONS MAY ECLIPSE RACING AT ASCOT TODAY

Long Skirts, Picture Hats and Ruffles to Dominate, Though Some Order Raincoats.

ASCOT, England, June 16 (AP).—Frocks and furbelows threaten to eclipse the racing at tomorrow's opening of the season's most fashionable racing meet in England.

Ascot has always been London's greatest fashion show, but this year is particularly interesting because of 1930's right-about face in the matter of fashion. Long skirts, ruffles and the picture hats of pre-war and even Edwardian days will hold the scene. Mere horseflesh will be overshadowed by lace hats and chiffons.

Preparation on an Ascot frock is almost as much of a ritual as the preparation of court gowns, for Ascot gives the authentic stamp of approval to the season's accepted afternoon gowns. Materials of delicate hues, chiffons patterned in the most extreme floral designs, demure organdies and even old-fashioned dotted Swiss are to be seen.

Long skirts, short sleeves, long colored kid gloves and large hats were the only uniform predictions made by London's fashion experts today. The styles will vary from slim, close-fitting outlines in soft plain materials to frocks with silhouettes cut by innumerable series of ruffles, jackets, shawls and capes.

Some of the confirmed pessimists among the feminine racegoers have provided themselves with raincoats—of the prescribed twelve inches below the knee length—and small weather-proofed rain hats for use in case of Ascot's proverbial downpour.

For the first time in many years the entire royal family will attend the race.

OCEAN FLIERS CHANGE PLAN

Kingsford-Smith Will Start From Beach if Weather Improves Soon.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BALDONNEL AIRDROME, Dublin, June 16.—Although there is no prospect of the Southern Cross taking off before Wednesday morning at the earliest, Major Charles Kingsford-Smith today expressed the opinion that Atlantic weather conditions were changing so as to permit the start of his westward flight across the ocean within the next few days.

It was decided today that if the start was made in the next few days, the take-off would not be from Curragh Camp, where a specially prepared runway is ready, but from the 2½-mile stretch of level beach at Port Maroneck, about six miles northward of Dublin. Low tide will occur just before daylight in the next few days, permitting a take-off there which later would be impossible.

Major Kingsford-Smith said he believed a take-off would be easier and less risky from the fine beach than from the Curragh runway.

As Irish as blackthorn

There's a feeling of Ireland itself in the homespuns they weave for us. The shades and tints are culled from a landscape of deep greens and from every brown—from the underside of a sky-lark's wing to the black-brown of peat.

How cleverly they dye the yarn and make the rich mixtures so perfectly tuned to the making of sport suits and coats.

We import Irish homespuns of exclusive patterns and colorings and make them up into standard-sized suits. Should you prefer it, our custom department will make clothes to your individual measure.

FRENCH HONOR DEAD OF FOREIGN LEGION

General Mariaux Bestows on an American Mother Accolade of Nation's Gratitude.

FIVE DIED IN SAME CHARGE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 16.—Before the American volunteers' monument in the Place des Etats-Unis today the French General Mariaux gave the accolade of gratitude to Mrs. Alice Standish Weeks of New Bedford, the mother of the first American writer who was killed in the World War.

Her son, Kenneth Weeks, a student in Paris and the author of several books, enlisted in the French Foreign Legion on the day war was declared and died gloriously in an attack on a German machine gun position near Souchez, June 16, 1916.

The ceremony in his honor today was organized by the American volunteer combatants' organization, Trench and Air. Assembled at the Seeger statue was a large gathering, including numerous former American volunteers and members of the French veterans' associations, the army and the diplomatic corps.

Seymour de Ricci, on behalf of the French writers who are former combatants, exalted the ideal for which Mr. Weeks gave his life. Ralph Heinzen, on behalf of the Anglo-American Press Association, quoted from Mr. Weeks's letters to his mother, giving an insight into the sincerity and lack of heroics in Mr. Week's devotion to the French cause.

Wreaths were placed on the monument by "Trench and Air" and by French veterans in memory of Mr. Weeks. Wreaths were deposited also in memory of John Earl Fiske of Wooster, Ohio; Harmon Dunn Hall of St. Paul, Minn.; Lawrence Scanlan of Cedarhurst, L. I., and Russell Kelly, all of whom were killed on the Western front the same day as Mr. Weeks. A bouquet was deposited in memory of Jack Casey, a former soldier, who died April 25, this year.

PARIS, June 16 (AP).—All members of the "F" party, sixth group of Gold Star mothers, today left Paris in buses for the cemeteries in which their sons lie buried. With the exception of the St. Mihiel group, they will all reach their base towns in the battle area this evening.

The St. Mihiel group will pass the night at Bar Le Duc. Group "E" returned to Paris last night and spent today sightseeing. They will sail for the United States on Thursday on the liner America.

Mrs. Sarah Ann Loomis, at the American Hospital with tonsilitis, this afternoon was reported improved, and probably will rejoin "F" party in a few days.

G-38 Flies From Dessau to Paris—45-Passenger Craft Has 150-Foot Wing Spread.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 16.—The forty-five-passenger Junkers monoplane G-38, carrying a crew of seven and eighteen passengers, arrived at Le Bourget this evening from Dessau, Germany, stopping en route at Cologne. Following the formal greeting by M. Girardot, chief of the civil airport, the big all-metal ship was inspected by a large number of French officials and invited guests who marveled at its wing spread of 150 feet.

The four motors installed in the wings of the craft are capable of 2,400-horsepower. Without passengers and with the tanks empty, the ship weighs thirteen tons. Her cruising radius is 2,000 miles.

Demonstration flights will be made over Paris tomorrow.

CAROL'S CORONATION IS SET FOR OCTOBER

President Hoover and King of England Will Be Invited to Attend Ceremony.

MARIE LEAVES BUCHAREST

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUCHAREST, June 16.—The President of the United States and the King of England are among the heads of governments who will be invited to attend the coronation of King Carol at Alba Julia in October.

General Peter Presan, head of the Serbian Army in the World War, will leave Bucharest at the end of this month to convey the invitations to the governments and royal families of Yugoslavia, Italy and Belgium and the President of the French Republic. Professor Nicolas Jorga will personally invite King George and President Hoover.

Dinou Cesiano, sporting editor of the newspaper Adeverul, has been appointed Minister to France in succession to M. Diamandi. Unlike M. Diamandi, who acted as a spy on Carol's activities at Paris, M. Cesiano is an old friend and was the only civilian present to see Carol leave Munich in an airplane for Bucharest.

Queen Marie, disappointed in her publicly expressed hope to be the mediator between King Carol and Queen Helen, has gone to Castle Balcic, on the Black Sea, where she will await the return of Princess Ileana, announced for Wednesday.

King Carol, after speaking in English and French for a movietone, left today with his brother, Prince Nicolas, for Scrovistea, where Queen Helen had preceded him with Prince Michael. After staying at Scrovistea two hours, King Carol proceeded with his son and Prince Nicolas to Snagov, while Queen Helen returned alone to Bucharest.

It was announced that the King would spend part of the Summer at Constanza with Prince Michael and Queen Helen, but there still is nothing to indicate whether the latter is prepared to resume the marriage ties.

WEST POINT REVIEW HONORS DR. PRESTES

ENTERTAINED BY ROBBINS

Stops at Tuxedo Park for Tea on Motor Trip Back to City—Dinner Guest Tonight.

Standing in front of the green emblem of his country, Dr. Julio Prestes de Albuquerque, President-elect of Brazil, watched the black and gray and gold of the corps of cadets of the United States Military Academy pass in formal review at West Point yesterday in the army's traditional tribute to distinguished visitors.

The swinging cadence of the marching "yearlings," 350 strong, the only class now at West Point, brought to an end a hurried inspection of the Academy by Dr. Prestes and his party of twenty-five. The party left New York yesterday morning by yacht and reached West Point about 2:40 P. M. Dr. Prestes left the reservation at 4:10, was whirled by motor at a sixty-mile-an-hour clip to Tuxedo Park, where he paused for tea and then returned to New York. Last night he remained in his suite at the Ambassador Hotel, attending to correspondence.

The trip was arranged by the State Department, acting in concert with the army authorities and a special reception committee of the Pan-American Society and the American Brazilian Association, headed by Frank C. Munson and James S. Carson. Dr. Prestes was escorted to the landing of the Columbia Yacht Club at the foot of West Eighty-sixth Street. There he boarded the yacht Jamaroy, owned by Roy W. Howard, and others of the party boarded the Ranora III, Mr. Munson's yacht. The destroyer King followed them as a naval escort. The Jamaroy, with a distinguished party of representatives of the State Department, the army and of business men interested in Latin-American affairs aboard, led the way, the Brazilian colors flying from her masthead.

At the academy Dr. Prestes was escorted through the sally-port by colored cavalrymen and as his automobile rolled through the gate a national salute of twenty-one guns was fired. Escorted by Major Gen. William R. Smith, the superintendent of the academy, Dr. Prestes first inspected Cullum Hall, stone and marble memorial to all that is dear in army tradition. For his benefit a stringent regulation, making the bounds of cadet camp inviolate to all outsiders, was lifted and the President-elect and his party saw how the cadets live in their Summer canvas city.

From the camp the party was driven to the dimly lighted chapel and beneath the battle flags of a dozen wars Dr. Prestes paused in his nine-day visit of amity and listened to the martial organ music of "West Point's Alma Mater." There followed a hurried ride past the stadium and polo field, an inspection of the riding hall and mess hall, and then the review, the culmination of all West Point ceremonials.

"I gained a magnificent impression of the discipline of the cadets and of the entire equipment of West Point," Dr. Prestes said through an interpreter before leaving. "The entire arrangement is splendid and I particularly like the corps' love of tradition as exemplified by Cullum Hall and the battle flags and class windows of the chapel. I was much impressed."

At Tuxedo Park Dr. Prestes was entertained at tea by Warren D. Robins, Minister to San Salvador and special representative of President Hoover. He returned to the city via the Holland Tunnel.

Among those who made the trip to West Point were:

Mr. Howard
S. Gurgel do Amaral
Dr. Sebastio Sampaio
Mr. Robbins
Mr. Munson
Mr. Carson
Rudolf E. Schoenfeld
Commander A. T. Beauregard

A dinner under the auspices of the Pan-American Society, the American Brazilian Association and the Merchants Association will be given for Dr. Prestes at 8 o'clock tonight at the Commodore Hotetl. During the day the President-elect is expected to visit the Stock Exchange and other points of interest. Tomorrow he will go to Philadelphia to receive the degree of doctor of laws from the University of Pennsylvania.

WASHINGTON, June 16 (AP).—Dr. Julio Prestes, President-elect of Brazil, had never seen a woman member of Congress until he met Representative Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts on the last night of his visit in the Capital City.

"Ah, a deputada!" he delightedly exclaimed. Sensing his interest, his host, the Brazilian Ambassador, arranged an interview. The President-elect chatted with Mrs. Rogers, by interpreter, discovering that she herself planned to fly to Brazil as soon as she can arrange it conveniently.

Refugees Protest, but Venizelos Is Determined to Ratify Accord.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ATHENS, June 16.—Premier Venizelos received today a deputation of deputies representing Greek refugees from Asia Minor, which protested against the signature of the new Greco-Turkish agreement.

M. Venizelos adopted a firm attitude, saying the government was determined to ratify the agreement and that he himself hoped to go to Angora in October to sign a treaty of friendship and arbitration with Turkey. He said if opposition to the agreement grew, he would not hesitate to put the issue before the country by holding new elections.

In the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Chamber, M. Venizelos later repeated his energetic defense of his Turkish policy. All the party leaders opposed the refugees' demands for further indemnification, but M. Tsaldaris and M. Kafandaris refused to vote for the Venizelos agreement. M. Papanastasiou agreed to support the Premier. A critical debate is expected in the Chamber tomorrow.

BIGELOW VISITS EX-KAISER.

War Guilt Discussed in Week-End at Doorn—American "Forgiven."

BERLIN, June 16 (AP).—Mr. and Mrs. Poultney Bigelow were the guests of the former Kaiser Wilhelm and Princess Hermine at Doorn, Holland, over a week-end recently. The former Kaiser told Mr. Bigelow he freely forgave him for what he allowed were misapprehensions under which Mr. Bigelow had been laboring as a result of enemy propaganda.

The entire week-end visit was taken up with discussion of the war guilt and the former Kaiser was said to have presented his case fully. Mr. Bigelow was greatly impressed with the vigor of the former Emperor and the judgment he displayed in discussion of political issues.

After their visit at Doorn Manor Mr. and Mrs. Bigelow visited other friends in Holland and left for England. They are returning to America this month.

WITNESS MURDERED IN COUNTERFEIT CASE

Federal Judge Reveals Slaying When Six Are Arraigned Here on Bogus Money Charge.

Six defendants charged jointly with conspiracy to circulate counterfeit money were arraigned yesterday in Federal Court in Brooklyn and pleaded not guilty. Judge Inch held them in bail and set June 26 as a tentative date for trial. The accused men and the amounts of bail asked are:

James Russo, 1,073 Willoughby Avenue, $15,000; John Chickarella, 999 Lorimer Street, $10,000; Michael Coggiano, 243 Devoe Street, $5,000; Joe Arnone, 939 Metropolitan Avenue, $5,000; Joseph Catrone, 32 Starr Street, $5,000, and Philip Villiano, 185 Skillman Avenue, $3,000. All of the addresses are in Brooklyn.

James De Sapio of 1,012 Banner Avenue, Coney Island, the seventh man named in the indictment, pleaded not guilty last Thursday and was held in bail of $20,000, which he has not yet been able to obtain. Yesterday counsel for De Sapio requested Judge Inch for a reduction in bail.

"I certainly shall not reduce the bail in this case," said Judge Inch. "Secret Service men have informed me that one government witness has been killed. He was shot through the heart and I do not feel disposed under the circumstances to reduce bail."

United States Attorney Howard W. Ameli declined to explain the incident to which Judge Inch referred. Mr. Ameli said that it was a "very delicate and confidential matter" on which Secret Service agents are now at work.

Lawrence Meltzer, 26 years old, of 115 Fifteenth Street, Union City, and Herman Littner, 21, of 624 Sixteenth Street, West New York, N. J., were held in $5,000 bail each yesterday for the Federal grand jury by Commissioner Edward R. Stanton, in Hoboken, on a charge of possessing counterfeit money. The men were arrested by Secret Service agents who alleged that they had $500 in bogus money in their possession when arrested.

Special Receptacles in the West End Are Painted Sky Blue.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 16.—Special postboxes painted sky blue are being erected in the streets of the West End to attract customers for air mail. Londoners have never seen blue postboxes before, all the government's postal equipment being painted a bright red.

The postoffice has, at the same time, introduced another innovation by issuing free adhesive labels marked "By Air Mail" with the pocket books of stamps.

The blue boxes will be for air mail only and will be cleared at times to catch the various air mail routes connecting with the Continent.

AUTHORITY: On July 21, 1928, four Studebaker President Eight strictly stock model cars started. On August 8-9, these cars finished 30,000-mile runs at more than a mile a minute average speed for the entire distance. The runs were made on the Atlantic City Speedway one and one-half mile board track.

The first President roadster completed its 30,000-mile journey in 26,326 minutes and the second in 26,329 minutes total elapsed time. Each roadster exceeded 68 miles per hour average speed for the entire distance — 68 miles per hour for 19 days and 18 nights. The fastest 1,000 miles of each roadster was the last 1,000, viz., the thirtieth, 71.67 and 69.65 miles per hour.

The first of the two sedans, closed cars upon which wind resistance is greater than open cars, finished its 30,000 miles in 28,057 minutes, an average of 64.15 miles per hour, and the second finished in 28,128 minutes, or 63.99 miles per hour.

ELECTIONS IN INDIA SET FOR SEPTEMBER

POLICE WAR ON PICKETING

Twenty Hurt in Riots as Thirty-eight Are Seized—Twelve Tried and Sentenced in an Hour.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SIMLA, June 16.—The Viceroy, Lord Irwin, gave orders today for a general election of the Legislative Assembly, to be held in September. He indicated he would dissolve the Council of State at the termination of its coming Simla session so that the elections to the new Council may be concurrent with those to the Assembly.

The dates for the elections to the provincial legislatures are matters within the discretion of the Provincial Governors. Today's announcement is early enough to enable the Governors to fix them for September, if they regard that month as convenient.

It is understood the Viceroy will appoint Sir George Rainy leader of the House in the Legislative Assembly. Sir George is the senior member of the government in the Chamber.

Police Arrest Pickets.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BOMBAY, June 16.—Another serious conflict between the police and a mob occurred in Bombay today when, for the first time since the provisions of the recent viceregal ordinances have been enforced, the police were attacked by boycott volunteers.

After last night's rain today was fine and Congress pickets were active. Twenty-six pickets posted outside a dozen or more of the leading British shops in Hornby Road—Bombay's equivalent of Fifth Avenue—were taken into custody shortly after 10:30 A. M. and had the novel experience of being tried and sentenced within an hour to four months' rigorous imprisonment.

For the last fortnight the city's principal foreign merchants have been hampered by uniformed congress volunteers who have been stationed in pairs outside their shop entrances to warn off all intending Indian purchasers. A number of unpleasant incidents in which women shoppers have been molested were reported to the police, but they were powerless to act until the Viceroy's latest ordinances were declared effective in Bombay.

Police Use New Powers.

These were duly gazetted over the week-end, with the consequence that police, with detachments of British troops held in reserve, suddenly descended on the offenders today. They appeared on Hornby Road with two armored trucks shortly after 10:30 A. M. and, proceeding from shop to shop, arrested every picket they encountered.

This operation was scarcely noticed by the passing public until the white-capped volunteers began to demonstrate in the streets outside.

Then there suddenly appeared another batch of twenty-six Satyagrahists [civil disobedience volunteers], again in their familiar yellow uniforms. They marched by twos and threes up to the entrances of the same shops with Nationalist flags over their shoulders and announced that they had come to carry on the boycott. They, too, were promptly arrested and, offering no resistance, were taken to the police headquarters.

The police were equipped today with a new weapon. They carried slim canes, three feet long, with leather thongs attached to one end, and they applied these with vigor. There were about a dozen charges, and, where the crowd was slow in withdrawing, the Indian Sepoys, led by European officers, drove into them with force. Twenty were wounded, including two police sergeants, one of whom was struck in the face of a Parsee with a walking stick. The Parsee was arrested.

Mrs. Munshi Exhorts Crowd.

A dramatic appearance was made late this afternoon by Mrs. Munshi, vice president of the Bombay Provincial Congress Committee. She made her way to a balcony over the turbulent crowds and urged them to remain peaceful and to go home. She had no sooner finished speaking than the police made still another charge, driving the rioters up two side streets running off Hornby Road. Here also a number were wounded.

Considerable excitement was caused by the arrival in the midst of the crowds from the British shop of the Whiteaway Laidlaw Company of a foreigner dressed in what appeared to be khaddar (Indian homespun cloth). He is alleged to have remained before the shop, exhorting the crowds to continue their demonstration, until the manager of the Whiteaway Laidlaw Company came out and requested the police to remove him. The English-owned Evening News of India tonight reported he was subsequently chased by the police when he failed to obey their orders to move on.

This man came afterward to your correspondent's hotel and exhibited the lining of his coat with a Baltimore tailor's label to prove it was not khaddar. He claimed to be a newspaper man, formerly attached to The Baltimore Sun. He gave his name as Roswell Russell and stoutly contradicted the suggestion he had been deliberately causing trouble.

While these events were proceeding in the centre of the business section of Bombay, a detachment of women satyagrahists, draped in their customary saris [scarves] of bright-hued orange "cloth of sacrifice," were picketing Kuljijetha Market, which is the largest cloth market in the city. This manoeuvre on the part of the "war council" was a test of the extent to which the British were determined to enforce the new ordinances. To their keen disappointment, however, the women were not arrested, the authorities having decided that no matter to what lengths the Congress leaders go in placing women in the forefront of battle they will confine their attentions to the men.

DIES IN AUTO CRASH AT NIAGARA FALLS

Special to The New York Times.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., June 16.—In the presence of hundreds of sight-seers on both sides of the river an automobile plunged through the railing on the north side of the upper steel arch bridge and dropped to the rocks of the Canadian shore, 200 feet below, just before noon today.

The owner and driver of the car, Charles R. Reaves, aged 25, of Epworth Circle, Niagara Falls, Ont., was found dead and crushed on the front seat by a rescuing party.

Reaves was an employe of the W. A. Rogers, Ltd., plant in this city, the star of the company's basketball team and the ace of the Taylor & Bates soft ball team. A few minutes before the accident he hurried from the plant, leaped into his car and drove to the upper bridge on his way home for luncheon.

The floor of the bridge was slippery from the spray of the falls and as Reaves approached the Canadian end it is supposed he applied the brakes and started a skid. The heavy sedan swung to the side from the roadway. Reaves was seen trying to straighten it out, but the car crashed against the railing and four of the light six-foot sections gave way.

Reaves had been married less than two years, and his wife and baby were waiting for him when news of his death reached them.

Mercury Again at 84 Drives Crowds to Shore; Showers Today Are Expected to Bring Relief

Soaring again to a high of 84 degrees, the same maximum as recorded for Sunday, the heat yesterday caused great discomfort in the city and drove good-sized crowds to near-by bathing resorts. Lack of breeze made the day seem hotter than Sunday. Three drownings occurred in near-by waters and several rescues were reported at the Rockaways, where the surf was unusually rough.

The mercury touched the high point at 4:20 P. M. and then began to taper off. The hourly temperatures from midnight on were as follows:

1 A. M.	68	11 A. M.	76
2 A. M.	68	12 M.	79
3 A. M.	67	1 P. M.	81
4 A. M.	66	2 P. M.	81

6 A. M.	67	4 P. M.	83
7 A. M.	67	5 P. M.	83
8 A. M.	69	6 P. M.	81
9 A. M.	71	7 P. M.	79
10 A. M.	75	8 P. M.	78

The following water casualties were reported:

BLASCO, STANLEY, 36 years old, of Mattituck, L. I., drowned in Long Island Sound near his home after diving from a rowboat. He leaves a widow and nine children.

STEFANSZYN, JOHN, 18, of 58 Dundee Avenue, Clifton, N. J., drowned in Godedefroy's Pond, Clifton, when seized with cramps while swimming.

VINCENT, JOSEPH, 25, of 26 Highland Avenue, Yonkers, teller for the Westchester Trust Company, disappeared from the wheel of a cabin launch off the Yonkers Yacht Club, returning from an outing to Croton with a party of friends. The body was not found.

Edward Hill, 13 years old, of 2 East 117th Street, cried for help at 6 P. M. last night when cramps seized him thirty feet out in the Hudson River off 132d Street. Passengers on a Hudson River Night liner cheered as Francis Breheney, 22, of 970 Anderson Avenue, the Bronx, plunged in fully clothed and brought the lad ashore.

JULIAN LAMAR GETS DIVORCE AT RENO

Artist Charged Wife Interfered With His Work—Mrs. George E. D. Smith Wins Decree.

Special to The New York Times.

RENO, Nev., June 16.—Julian Lamar, portrait painter, received a divorce here today from Lucy H. K. Lamar, New York social registerite and artist. Mr. Lamar's suit was filed in April and trial of the case was delayed until forty days after service outside the State. Mrs. Lamar did not appear.

Mr. Lamar charged that his wife was of an exeremely jealous nature and that she interfered with his work.

Mrs. Lamar attracted attention when she refused to move from Mr. Lamar's apartment in the National Arts Club in New York and the club's officials refused her service of any kind there. The Lamars were married March 10, 1920, and separated in 1928.

Mrs. Mary E. Smith, who sued Helen C. Mead or alienation of the affections of her husband, George E. D. Smith, former president of the Royal Typewriter Company, and who in turn was sued for divorce by Mr. Smith in New York about a year ago on grounds of infidelity, received a decree of divorce on grounds of desertion.

The complaint set forth that the couple married in Buffalo in 1905, and that Mr. Smith deserted his wife in 1923. A property settlement made out of court provides that Mr. Smith shall pay his former wife $7,200 a year for the remainder of her life, whether she remarries or not.

Frank C. Delaney, counsel for Mrs. Lamar, said last night that Mrs. Lamar as a resident of New York was not interested in what her husband did in Reno and, on the advice of her attorneys had decided to ignore it. He termed the charges on which the decree was granted "absolute fabrications."

The George E. D. Smiths are former residents of Great Neck, L. I. In January, 1929, Mr. Smith brought suit for divorce in Supreme Court, Nassau County, charging his wife with misconduct. Mrs. Smith denied the accusation and filed an answer in which she asked $5,000 a month alimony, $35,000 in counsel fees and $10,000 for expenses in defending the action. She also accused her husband of "being interested in a tall, slim blonde," who, she said, was Miss Helen C. Meade, an employe in his office.

Soon after that Mrs. Smith filed a counter-claim for divorce, naming Miss Meade as corespondent and in March, 1929, she sued Miss Meade in Supreme Court for alienation of affections, asking $500,000 damages.

In July, 1929, Mrs. Smith filed an amended answer to Mr. Smith's suit, charging that he had made a will making Miss Meade sole legatee of his estate and that he had given her a Summer home, a yacht, diamonds and automobile with a chauffeur, valuable securities and thousands of dollars' worth of clothing, while giving his wife only the bare necessities of life. She estimated his salary—he was then president of the typewriting company—as $50,000 a year, his annual income, including royalties, as $200,000 and his stock holdings in the company as $1,250,000.

WORK ON RADIO CITY TO BE BEGUN IN FALL

ing. According to the statement, they will lease a total of 1,000,000 square feet.

David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation, was credited in the statement with concluding the negotiations with John R. Todd of the Todd, Robertson & Todd Engineering Corporation, which acted for Mr. Rockefeller.

Architect's drawings of the new centre will not be available for about two weeks more. They are understood to show how the design accommodates itself to a few structures, such as The Tailored Woman, occupied under long-term leases, or by owners who refuse to sell, such as the Collegiate Church of St. Nicholas.

Text of the Statement.

The statement issued for Mr. Rockefeller by Mr. Todd and for the electrical interests by Mr. Sarnoff, together with Merlin H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Company, and Hiram S. Brown, chairman of the board of the Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corporation, was as follows:

A project of building and architectural development that will transform a business and residential area, three blocks square in the heart of New York, into a great institutional centre devoted to the entertainment and cultural arts encompassed by radio progress in the fields of sound and vision, was announced today in an official statement issued on behalf of the John D. Rockefeller Jr. interests by John R. Todd of the Todd, Robertson & Todd Engineering Corporation, and of Todd & Brown of New York, who are in charge of the entire development.

Except for one or two structures, the area from Forty-eighth to Fifty-first Street, fronting Fifth Avenue, and from Fifth Avenue clear across to a similar frontage of three blocks on Sixth Avenue, will be leveled, and building operations will be begun this Fall, in a project designed to establish a great centre for the creation and distribution of outstanding dramatic, musical and educational events upon a national and even upon a world-wide scale. The development, which will involve a total investment, estimated by building authorities to be over $250,000,000, will be financed by the Rockefeller interests. It will be entirely completed by the Fall of 1933.

The announcement of the plan to create a great cultural and architectural monument in the heart of New York, necessarily involving a great building program that is expected to be reflected in employment conditions here, followed direct negotiations concluded by Mr. Todd, acting for the Rockefeller interests, and by David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation of America, who represented the radio interests, no brokers participating. Definite announcement of the transaction was withheld pending the acquirement of the necessary property on the Sixth Avenue side of the development, so the exits and entrances might be provided from that side.

Brownstone Houses to Go.

Within a few months, according to the plans now announced, areas of brownstone houses reminiscent of the former social glory of that part of Fifth Avenue, structures that housed stores, restaurants and shops and office buildings, will be plucked from their roots to make way for a new metropolis of the entertainment and cultural arts.

On the site will arise a complete architectural unit that will include four great theatres, devoted respectively to a new conception of variety entertainment, to sound-motion pictures, to musical comedy presentation and to dramatic productions. A great symphony hall that would complete the picture of the musical arts is also under consideration. Twenty-seven broadcasting studios, some of which would be three stories in height, will be built to accommodate the requirements of music, entertainment, education and information that would be radiated from this centre. New office buildings in architectural harmony with the rest of the development will be built to house the various industries and services associated with the development of the electrical communication and entertainment arts.

The city within the city which the new architectural development entails, as described by Mr. Todd, will radically alter the skyline in midtown New York, establish new standards of city planning and provide an enduring architectural monument that will vie with the world's greatest metropolitan projects.

Fronting Fifth Avenue and forming the central structure on that side of the development will be an oval building of moderate height and great beauty of design. On the first floor will be located many fine shops. The second floor will be occupied by a large banking institution, and on the roof a restaurant will be built, with an outdoor promenade running around the entire building. This oval building will extend to a magnificent garden plaza that will cut through the development and will run parallel with Fifth Avenue from Forty-eighth to Fifty-first Street. No efforts will be spared to make the plaza, the width of which will be almost as great as the length of the average city block, the most impressive boulevard of its kind in the world. Fountains, statuary and beautiful garden plots will intersperce the whole extent of the plaza.

Skyscraper to Be Dominant.

Over the entire development will tower a great sixty-story office building in which twenty-seven broadcasting studios will be located, extending from the west side of the plaza through to Sixth Avenue. From this central office building a grand corridor, about three stories in height, will run to the other office buildings from Fifth to Sixth Avenue.

The streets surrounding the new development will be widened, it is announced by Mr. Todd, to give the new structures fronting them more light and air, to provide better curb facilities for shops and buildings and to add to the beauty of the whole architectural unit.

Transportation arteries from every direction will lead to and from this new radio city, but the traffic problem will be reduced to a minimum by huge underground bus terminals and by subterranean parking arrangements that will take care of many thousands of cars and form underground boulevards for automobile traffic. In addition, plans are now being drawn for a great parking tower to give additional facilities for motor parking. All deliveries within the radio metropolis will be effected from underground.

Statement by Todd.

Leaders of the interests associated in the project issued statements. That of Mr. Todd follows:

A development of this character which would at once create an architectural unit that would typify American progress in city planning and provide a centre for the radiation of the best type of entertainment and of musical culture, has long been the dream of those connected with the project. The new electrical arts, which have extended enormously the fields of sound and vision, promised for the entertainment and educational arts the greatest possible service to the greatest possible number. Mr. Sarnoff and his associates in the broadcasting and motion picture fields, Merlin Hall Aylesworth and Hiram S. Brown, fortunately, were not only sympathetic to the cultural purposes of such a plan but saw an opportunity for greater progress in the era of electrical entertainment which such new facilities would provide.

Sarnoff Sees Liaison Needed.

Mr. Sarnoff's statement follows:

The public service which the new arts envisioned in the era of electrical entertainment can render, it is becoming increasingly clear, will depend more and more upon the liaison they are able to maintain with the entertainment and educational arts. Technical development must go side by side with artistic development. Both are vitally necessary to each other. Research and technical progress in the communication arts would be largely vitiated if the artistic output carried did not keep pace with the needs of advancing intellectual progress. On the other hand, the entertainment and educational arts can only find their greatest expression through the vast public which the modern facilities of communication provide for the artist and the educator. The more intimate relationship between the radio on one hand, and the stage, the screen, the concert hall or the rostrum upon the other, the greater the progress we can expect in the entertainment and educational arts.

The new development will provide an interchangeability of service and technique that should do much to advance all the arts encompassed in the era of electrical entertainment. The artist that will step upon the new variety stage, with the developments in sight broadcasting promised eventually, may step before a nation-wide and even a world-wide audience; the musical or dramatic performance accorded the critical favor of an immediate audience will quickly find its way to the smallest cross-road through the screen or the record; creative talent will have the encouragement of vast facilities of expression included in broadcasting, in the stage, in the talking picture, in the electrical record. The project of a radio city, I believe, will greatly advance the services which entertainment and musical education can render to the public, both in and out of the theatre.

Aylesworth Looks to Future.

Mr. Aylesworth, in his statement, said:

Television, it is true, is still largely in the toddling stage, but the vast possibilities of sight added to sound in nation-wide broadcasting cannot be ignored in planning for the future. We are building our new studios, therefore, for tomorrow, as well as for today. We are taking into account in the development of our plans the fact that broadcasting, established upon a democratic basis in the United States, is not only a medium of mass entertainment, but that it has added to the cultural and educational values of modern life. With the great theatrical and musical enterprises to be created in this development, the broadcasting centre of the country will be joined in a vast artery of communication with the dramatic stage, with opera, with variety, with talking pictures, with the symphony hall. The artist will be at the door of the broadcasting studio, and broadcasting facilities will be at the side of every artist whose performance deserves a wide audience.

Radio broadcasting has become the recognized means for the syndication of entertainment, education and information upon a nation-wide, and on occasion, upon a world-wide scale. It has far from exhausted all the services that might be rendered through the medium of sound; it will have vastly greater opportunities when television emerges from the laboratory to give radio the new dimension of sight. The technical and artistic experience which the National Broadcasting Company has gained in years of operation will be embodied in the twenty-seven new broadcasting studios to be completed within the next two or three years. Some of these studios, to be two or three stories in height, will be concert halls in effect. In addition, however, every one of the four great theatres to be erected on this development will be equipped for broadcasting service.

All the theatres, in effect, will be broadcasting studios; all will be equipped for the broadcasting of sound, and eventually, when technical progress has made sufficient headway, for the broadcasting of sight directly from the stage.

Ten of the twenty-seven broadcasting studios will be designed for photography and recording. The broadcasting building will be constructed so that radio fans may have the opportunity to see the artists at work.

Thus, with the entertainment and cultural project now announced, broadcasting will have at its call new reservoirs of dramatic, musical and entertainment service.

Brown Tells Uses of Theatres.

Mr. Brown's statement follows:

With sound, which has revolutionized the motion-picture art, and with other technical developments in the offing, the motion picture has become a relative by marriage to all the entertainment arts. True, it has developed a technique and an artistry that is peculiarly its own, but it has at the same time widened enormously the opportunities for the stage, the opera and for other forms of entertainment.

In leasing and operating a theatre devoted to variety, a second devoted to sound, a third devoted to musical comedy and a fourth to dramatic productions, the Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corporation is providing itself with the facilities for the greatest possible development of its business. It proposes to use the technique of all the arts in the creation of its entertainment programs and it will obtain this first-hand under this new plan.

In the entertainment centre now to be established, RKO will be able to tap the creative talent developed on the variety, musical comedy and dramatic stages and on the air. It will have the opportunity to test the audience's reaction to any musical or dramatic production before deciding to place it before the country on the screen. The association of motion pictures with the sister arts of radio, electrical recording and other forms of entertainment can only result in raising the values and standard of the screen.

Of the four theatres to be leased and operated by RKO, one will be a great variety theatre with a seating capacity of over 7,000 that will introduce many new conceptions in variety entertainment—an entertainment program that will reflect all the forms of the entertainment and musical arts. Lighting effects made possible by recent electrical progress and a stage built upon an engineering principle that will make it visible from all parts of the house will be among the new features.

The second theatre, which will have about 5,000 seats, will be especially designed for sound motion pictures and will set new standards, we believe, in this form of entertainment. Theatres built heretofore have been built upon the acoustical and visual principles of the older forms of motion picture entertainment, although sound has since been added to all the larger theatres. This time we shall create a beautiful theatre structure around the radio and electrical developments that have recently revolutionized the motion-picture art. It will be a theatre built for the opportunities that sound has brought to the motion picture and the possibilities that may flow from further technical developments.

The third theatre will be especially designed for musical comedy productions. Sound has welded music to the screen. This theatre will provide us both with a source for the development of creative talent and with a public experimental station that will guide our motion-picture directors in the presentation of better entertainment for the screen.

Finally, we shall have a theatre devoted to dramatic productions of a selective character for the same reasons that apply to musical comedy productions.

In conclusion, the joint statement declared:

In addition to the four great theatres, over a million square feet of space will be leased in the various office structures to be erected in the new radio city by the Radio Corporation of America, the National Broadcasting Company, the RCA Victor Corporation of America, the RKO Corporation and its subsidiary, Radio Pictures, and RCA Photophone, Inc. The Radio Corporation of America will have its executive offices in the sixty-story central office building.

The architects appointed for this project are Reinhard & Hofmeister, Raymond Hood, Godley & Foulhoux, and Corbett, Harrison & MacMurray.

CHILD HEALTH TRAINING CALLED SCHOOLS' DUTY

Dr. Kilpatrick Tells Conference It Is Integral Part of Education.

Special to The New York Times.

SAYVILLE, L. I., June 16.—More than 150 educators and medical men interested in child health education from all parts of the United States and Canada met at the Hotel Cedarshore here this evening in the opening session of the sixth conference called by the American Child Health Association. Professor Thomas D. Wood of Teachers College, Columbia, chairman of the White House Conference on Child Health and Protection, opened the meeting.

The conference will last through Saturday night. It aims to define the basic principles of child health education and to enable leaders in this field to compare notes on their problems and methods of handling them.

In addition to the elementary and secondary school sections, the conference will include general sessions which will discuss health service, teacher training and home and school cooperation. There will be morning, afternoon and evening sessions.

Following an informal address by Dr. S. J. Crumbine, general executive of the American Child Health Association, who welcomed the delegates and outlined the aims of the conference, Dr. William H. Kilpatrick, professor of education at Teachers College, presented the first formal paper. He discussed the development of health teaching as an integral part of education rather than as a separate subject.

Among those attending is Dr. Jose Padin, Superintendent of Schools in Porto Rico, who is planning to make an intensive drive in child health education when he returns to his official duties. Dr. H. E. Barnard of Indianapolis, director of President Hoover's Child Committee, is also here.

Sturdy bodies are a feature of the Ford Truck

WITH their ample loading-space and carefully planned dimensions, the new Ford truck bodies meet a wide range of haulage requirements. The platform body illustrated is the foundation-unit for several types which are designed for many industrial, commercial and agricultural purposes. Among them is the standard stake body with stakes 26 inches high.

The platform body may be used with either the open or enclosed cab. It is built of heavy, seasoned hardwood, enclosed in a pressed-steel frame.

In common with all Ford bodies, the platform type gains in appearance through the improvements recently made in the front of the truck. Radiator and hood are higher and narrower. Front fenders meet the running-boards in a more sweeping line. Cabs have been redesigned for better appearance and afford the driver full comfort.

A number of new and important features have been incorporated in the Ford truck chassis. Among them are a spiral bevel-gear rear axle, a four-speed transmission, a heavier front axle and spring, larger brakes and a power take-off opening. Dual rear wheels are optional at small additional cost. You have a choice of two gear ratios.

In addition to the important new mechanical features of the chassis, these strong, good-looking and serviceable bodies increase the value of the Ford truck and broaden its range of usefulness.

SENATE APPROVES ERIE CANAL PLAN

ILLINOIS PROJECT FOUGHT

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Considerable headway was made by the Senate today toward the disposition of the rivers and harbors authorization bill, which is one of the few remaining pieces of legislation to be disposed of before adjournment. Virtually all amenuments to the bill by the Commerce Committee were adopted, with the exception of that involving the Illinois River project about which most of the controversy over the measure will revolve.

The Senate accepted, after some debate, the committee amendment authorizing the Secretary of War to accept from the State of New York the Erie and Oswego Canals and to operate them at their present depth as barge canals only at an annual estimated cost of $2,500,000.

This amendment provides that the canals shall not be operated "with any intention to make them ship channels or to hinder or delay the improvement of the St. Lawrence waterway as the seaway from the Great Lakes to the ocean."

In continuing consideration of the bill tomorrow, the Senate will proceed with amendments relating to the Illinois River project. The fight on this hinges on the question of the amount of water that may be taken from Lake Michigan. Efforts are being made to effect a compromise.

Favors St. Lawrence Canal.

In a speech on the Erie Canal proposition Senator Vandenberg, Republican, of Michigan expressed the belief that the St. Lawrence waterway project would materialize within five years. The waterway would open the Great Lakes, he said, "to 88 per cent of the large vessels of the oceans."

The Canadian Government, he predicted, would agree to the project because it was clearly to the advantage of Canada to do so. However, he said, in case there was no agreement with Canada within the next five or six years, "we must take up the possibility of developing the New York route even though it would be six times as expensive and, in my opinion, sixty times less advantageous."

He declared that "the land-locked Middle West must have an outlet to the ocean."

"The committee amendment," Senator Vandenberg asserted, "puts the St. Lawrence proposition in the most advantageous position it has ever occupied. It terminates the rivalry between the St. Lawrence and all-American routes, which has been the chief obstacle in the way of progress."

Senator Vandenberg opposed the federalization of the Erie and Oswego Canals, declaring that they had been "a white elephant on the State of New York" and would continue such under government operation. The government, he said, was assuming "an unpromising economic liability."

Copeland Opposes Canals for Ships.

Senator Copeland of New York, opponent of the St. Lawrence waterway propect, declared the canals should be operated as barge canals only. He explained that he not only opposed the St. Lawrence waterway, but was as "firmly set against any canal as a ship channel." He described the St. Lawrence project as an "all-British route."

Provisions for nine-foot channels for the upper Mississippi, at a cost of $7,500,000, and for the expenditure of $15,000,000 in addition to funds already authorized in the development of the upper Missouri River, are included in committee amendments adopted today by the Senate.

An amendment was adopted providing for the development of East Chester Bay, N. Y., in accordance with a recent report of the chief of engineers.

ARMY PRISONER ESCAPES.

Private on Parole for Desertion Flees From Fort Wadsworth.

The Staten Island police were asked yesterday by army headquarters at the Fort Wadsworth reservation to send out a general alarm for John R. Neigh, private attached to the Sixteenth Infantry, who escaped from the fort.

Neigh was a prisoner, serving a sentence for desertion. A few weeks ago he was placed on parole for good behavior and was permitted to do outdoor work on the reservation unguarded. He is 5 feet 5¾ inches tall, weighs 145 pounds and has blue eyes and brown hair. He was attired in blue jumper and blue overalls and wore heavy army shoes when he escaped. His home is Cleveland, Ohio.

CALLS ALL SCIENCE TO WAR ON CANCER

Dr. Bloodgood at Johns Hopkins Declares Many Cases Are Improperly Treated at Start.

QUICK DIAGNOSIS TRIED

Fifty Physicians at 3-Day Meeting Make Experiment as Dr. W. J. Mayer Praises Test.

BALTIMORE, June 16 (AP).—All sciences were called upon today to join in a national cooperative research for the causes and cure of cancer.

The call was issued at a three-day cancer meeting at Johns Hopkins University, which began today, and was made by Dr. Joseph Colt Bloodgood.

He said that a start on the cooperative work already has been made in establishment by the Chemical Foundation of a special cancer journal, designed to make full details of cancer research available to the medical profession, in reorganization of the American Society for Control of Cancer and in establishment of the Garvan Cancer Research Laboratory here.

"Recent careful studies of histories of individuals who come under observation of experienced cancer students with recurrent and hopeless cancer, show that the number of these cases improperly treated in the earlier and more curable stages is so large as to justify bringing this evidence before the medical profession.

"Thus changes can be made in our hospital standardization, so that adequate and properly equipped cancer clinics will be established wherever necessary to meet the demands of all the people."

Fifty of the physicians today were assigned to study a method of cancer diagnosis whereby it is hoped to save more lives in operations. Each had a microscope and under it a small, frozen section from a human growth that might, or might not, be cancer. The samples wre real, and the "histories" of the human sufferers real.

Each specialist was told to imagine that his sample came from a person on the operating table, the operation just starting, its extent to depend on his decision, made in five minutes, whether the sample was cancer. A negative answer meant escape from a mutilating, possibly dangerous, operation, but a mistake meant failure to remove a cancer and probable death.

No lives were at stake today because the samples were from the Johns Hopkins preserved collections.

Dr. Bloodgood read a telegram from Dr. William J. Mayo endorsing the quick diagnosis, stating that it should be done "in two or three minutes," is of great benefit, and is practiced at the Mayo Clinic.

Dr. Bloodgood said the meetings were made possible by the aid of Francis P. Garvan, president of the Chemical Foundation; Col. Ira Copley, the Illinois publisher; the American College of Surgeons, through its assistant director, Dr. Crowell, and a few personal friends.

Dr. Bloodgood announced two recent advances in cancer protection, one a method of transillumination introduced by Dr. Max Cutler of New York and the other, new cancer stains deevloped by Dr. Charles F. Geschickter, research worker in the Garvan Experimental Laboratory for Cancer at Johns Hopkins. Dr. Geschickter is expected to describe them on the last day of the meeting.

SEES "THIRD DEGREE" USED.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Attorney General Mitchell was accused by Senator McKellar, Democrat, of Tennessee in a Senate speech today of subjecting Federal Judge Harry B. Anderson of Memphis to a "third degree." An investigation of charges involving Judge Anderson has been authorized in the House and a special committee appointed to conduct the inquiry.

Senator McKellar inserted in the record a letter to Mr. Mitchell in which he asked what authority the Attorney General had to investigate a Federal judge for the purpose of bringing impeachment charges against him and why he had chosen to conduct the investigation in secret.

Attorney General Mitchell in reply said that agents of the department were investigating the administration of bankruptcy laws in Judge Anderson's district, but he denied that an investigation had been made of Judge Anderson with a view to impeachment.

NEW HAVEN LINE OPENS FIGHT FOR BOAT LINES

Contends at Boston Hearing That Sound Traffic Does Not Suppress Competition.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, June 16.—Before John Howell, an attorney examiner of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad today opened the presentation of its case for continued operation of its steamship lines running between Long Island Sound ports and New York City.

In 1918 the railroad received from the commission "temporary authority to continue operation. The reopening of the case at this time is an outgrowth of a complaint brought by the Colonial Navigation Company, an independent line operating steamers from Providence and New Bedford to New York.

Officials of the New Haven road and its subsidiary companies were heard today. Tomorrow the first of a large number of shippers favoring the continued operation of the New Haven-owned lines will take the stand. The Boston Chamber of Commerce is backing the New Haven in the proceedings.

Among the witnesses were E. G. Buckland, chairman of the New Haven, and President J. Howland Gardner of the New England Steamship Company and of the Hartford & New York Transportation Company, subsidiaries of the New Haven, operating its Sound lines.

Mr. Buckland declared that operation of the lines today is substantially the same as in 1918, when the Interstate Commerce Commission found it in the public interest. He presented figures to show that operation of the lines by the New Haven has not served to suppress or curtail competition.

SENATE REQUESTS LOAN EXPLANATION

GLASS LEADS IN ATTACK

Says "Untenable" Excuse Given Two Years Ago in Similar Case Does Not Apply Now.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—The Senate today adopted a resolution offered by Senator Glass calling on the State Department to inform the Senate "upon what authorization of law" it "bases its right to disapprove or approve investment securities offered for sale in the money markets of the United States by foreign governments, corporations or individuals."

The resolution as adopted read:

Whereas press dispatches from Washington have repeatedly alleged that the State Department has given informal approval, to be followed by its formal sanction, of the flotation in the United States of approximately $100,000,000 of German reparation bonds by the so-called international bank with headquarters in Europe, and

Whereas, in course of Congressional discussion, frequent reference has been made to an alleged "order of the State Department" prohibiting Federal Reserve Banks from establishing business relation of any sort with said international bank;

Therefore, be it resolved: 1. That the Secretary of State be and hereby is requested to inform the Senate upon what authorization of law, constitutional or statutory, expressed or implied, does the State Department base its right either to approve or disapprove investment securities offered for sale in the money markets of the United States by foreign governments, corporations or individuals.

2. By what sanction of law, constitutional or statutory, does the State Department assume the right to direct the action of the Federal Reserve Board or banks with respect to their lawful powers concerning the business of banking in foreign countries or the investments of these banks in foreign securities offered in the money markets of the United States.

Senator Glass said that two years ago the department supervised a similar flotation and that he had protested against the "usurpation." He was told in reply to his protest, he said, that the President, in conjunction with the State Department, was charged with the conduct of foreign affairs, which he termed a groundless excuse.

"I did not pursue the matter when Congress convened because I had been told on the side in a quiet way that the then Secretary of State would be glad to discontinue the practice itself," Senator Glass declared in a Senate speech today. "I was also told at that time that the State Department had assumed this function, which it had no lawful right to assume, because it wanted to compel a certain foreign government to adjust its indebtedness to this country. That has been done, and even this untenable excuse no longer applies."

BYRD'S MEN TIDY UP FOR LANDING HERE

mittee on Reception for Distinguished Guests.

It was learned yesterday that Captain Ashley McKinley and other members of the Byrd expedition who returned to New York ahead of the main contingent will be on board Admiral Byrd's ships, the City of New York and the Eleanor Bolling, when they anchor at Quarantine, and will share in the city's welcome.

Mrs. Richard E. Byrd, the Admiral's mother, in company with a large party from Virginia will arrive at the Hotel Vanderbilt tomorrow from Winchester. In the party will be former Governor Harry Flood Byrd of Virginia, the Admiral's brother, and Mrs. Byrd; Mrs. Richard E. Byrd, the Admiral's wife; Captain Tom Byrd and Mrs. Harry Frost of Middlesburg, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Huck of Winchester and Mrs. J. A. Massie.

City Hall Park resembled a miniature lumber yard yesterday as sixty carpenters proceeded with the work of building grand stands for the Byrd reception. The stands are expected to accommodate 5,000 persons. One, in front of City Hall, extends almost the full width of the park between Broadway and Park Row. Additional stands are being erected on the east and west sides of the City Hall steps, and the main stand, in which the Mayor and city officials will receive Rear Admiral Byrd, is being constructed on the City Hall steps. It is expected that the work will be finished today.

Admiral Byrd has accepted an invitation to address the Bond Club of New York at a special luncheon to be held June 26, it was announced by the club yesterday. The attendance will be limited to members of the club and the guest of honor.

Plan Special Mail Seal.

To commemorate the dedication by Admiral Byrd of the Floyd Bennett municipal airport in Brooklyn on June 26, a souvenir seal, or "cachet," will be stamped on outgoing air mail by the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce on that date, it was announced yesterday.

William David Lellis Jr., industrial secretary of the chamber, said that several thousand self-addressed envelopes with air mail stamps had been received from philatelists throughout the country, with the request that they be stamped with the chamber's cachet and mailed back on "Brooklyn Byrd Day." The cachet, he said, is of commercial as well as sentimental value to collectors.

"It was as the result of thousands of requests for cachets from philatelists throughout the country," he said, "that the chamber designed the special seal. Self-addressed and stamped envelopes, accompanied by requests for cachets, have been received in the mails for the past two weeks. At present the number is averaging several hundred a day. The letters come from all parts of the country, from California to Florida, for manifestly stamp and cachet collecting knows no boundaries. About 10 per cent of the letters include requests for autographs of Admiral Byrd, but this request the chamber will be unable to fulfill."

Expecting that the volume of this mail will increase greatly as the date of the dedication approaches, Mr. Lellis said that the chamber would probably employ a special force of office boys to stamp and mail the letters.

BYRD HOLIDAY AT ALBANY.

Program for Reception of the Admiral Announced.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 16.—A half holiday will be declared in Albany when Admiral Byrd arrives here on June 24, Mayor Thacher declared tonight after a meeting of the plan committee. The ceremonies will be broadcast over the WGY network.

Admiral Byrd will probably reach Albany about 4:30 o'clock, coming on a destroyer. The Mayors of Albany, Troy, Cohoes, Watervliet and Renssaelaer will welcome him at the Yacht Club pier and escort him to the steps of the Capitol, where Governor Roosevelt is to present the State's Distinguished Service Medal.

Troop B of the National Guard and an escort of police and State troopers will be stationed about the Capitol. Mayor Thacher and Rear Admiral William B. Franklin, Naval Militia Commander, will ride to the Capitol with Admiral Byrd.

In another car will be General William H. Haskell, commander of the New York National Guard and his staff. General Ransom H. Gillett and members of the Mayor's staff will ride in another car.

After the presentation, Admiral Byrd will be a guest at the Executive Mansion, returning to New York at 7:30 that night.

Navy Details Warship for Byrd.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 16. — The Navy Department has ordered Vice Admiral Arthur L. Willard, Commander of the Scouting Fleet, to detail a destroyer to report to the Third Naval District at New York to transport Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, retired, from New York to Albany for a reception on June 23. Admiral Willard later reported that he had designated the Bainbridge for this service.

BYRD GOING TO MONTICELLO

As "Jefferson Guest" He Will Address Institute at Virginia Aug. 9.

Special to The New York Times.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., June 16.—Admiral Byrd has accepted an invitation to attend a reception in his honor at Monticello, home of Thomas Jefferson, on Aug. 9, in connection with the Institute of Public Affairs of the University of Virginia, which he will address.

Admiral Byrd has been elected the second "Thomas Jefferson guest at Monticello" by the governors of the Jefferson Memorial Foundation.

In a radio message to Dr. John H. Finley of New York, who extended the invitation for the governors, Admiral Byrd said:

"I will be delighted to be Thomas Jefferson guest at Monticello and consider myself most highly honored."

Thomas A. Edison, who was made the first Jefferson guest last year, has been invited to come to Monticello to pass on the keys of the mansion to Admiral Byrd.

LEAGUE ARMS PARLEY WON'T BE DELAYED

Washington Has Heard of No Plans to Postpone Session Set for November.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Unofficial reports from Geneva that the sessions of the Preparatory Commission on Disarmament of the League of Nations are to be postponed were described by State Department officials today as apparently confused.

The commission is to meet in November, and, so far as is known here, there has been no consideration given to deferring that session. Before the London Naval Arms Conference it had been tentatively considered to hold a meeting of the commission this month, but no date in June was ever set and, as was repeatedly stated during the London conference, it was finally decided not to bring the commission together until November.

In the meantime, it is expected the London treaty will be ratified and there will be opportunity for France and Italy to discuss further their special naval problems.

The United States intends to continue its cooperation in the work of the commission, and is agreeable to holding the meeting in November. There has been no consideration given here, it was stated, to a change in that program.

*"Beyond 30 years of age, the mortality among overweights rises rapidly with the age and with the weight," says Dr. Brandreth Symonds in an article in The Medical Record. We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky instead," you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

WANTS EPISCOPACY FREED OF ROMANISM

Dr. Cummins Urges High Church Bishops to Follow Dr. Delany Into Catholic Fold.

Declaring that the action of Dr. Selden P. Delany in resigning from the Church of St. Mary the Virgin to enter the Roman Catholic Church "would greatly relieve the Protestant Episcopal Church of a nuisance, an anomaly and embarrassment," the Rev. Dr. Alexander G. Cummins, secretary-treasurer and one of the founders of the Protestant Episcopal Church League and editor of The Churchman, called upon Bishops yesterday to use their official power to put an end to Roman practices in the Episcopal Church.

The Protestant Episcopal Church League was formed four or five years ago to oppose the Anglo-Catholic movement within the Episcopal Church and to maintain liberal thought among laity and clergy

Dr. Cummins, who is also rector of Trinity Church, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., in commenting on Dr. Delany's resignation said:

Urges Bishops to Curb Romanism.

"Those who know the current history of the Protestant Episcopal Church were not surprised and could feel no regrets when they heard that Dr. Delany had become a Roman Catholic. For some time he has progressively introduced Roman practices, ornaments, paraphernalia and services in the Church of St. Mary the Virgin. He has consistently advertised this fact in the daily metropolitan press. After an extended period of disloyalty to the teachings of his Church and facing a waning congregation out of sympathy with his teachings, there was no alternative left to him but to enter the Roman communion. His action will greatly relieve the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of New York of a nuisance, anomaly and embarrassment.

"If only some other rectors and even some Bishops who are of his type and still hold office under questionable circumstances in this Church would follow his example a great many Episcopalians would rejoice and the Church would be stronger because of their tactful procedure. The diocese of New York and some other dioceses of this Church need Bishops of the type of Dr. Barnes, English Bishop of Birmingham, who have the courage of their convictions and who in loyalty to the standards of their Church, should exercise their official power to put an end to ecclesiastical and alien practices. In such case the laity and majority of the clergy would cooperate with them.

Laity Held Resentful.

"The vast majority of the laity are Protestants and are amazed at the supine Episcopal indifference of certain Bishops toward those Anglo-Catholic clergy with a Roman twist who consistently defy rubrical provision and canon law. It is evident now that Anglo-Catholicism in the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States and in the Church of England has reached the peak of its influence. It is declining; it has not played fair with Church authorities or with congregations; its methods have been indirect, its teachings alien and archaic, its mental attitude sectarian and arrogant; its strength is mainly clerical and the laity are increasingly opposing it.

"It is evident that wherever the Anglo-Catholic Party has influence the Protestant Episcopal Church is failing in membership and power."

TWO ASSAIL DELAY OF SHOALS BILL

Senators Black and Norris Blame Administration and Power Companies.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—The administration and power corporations were blamed for the failure of Congress to enact Muscle Shoals legislation at this session in Senate speeches today by Senators Black of Alabama and Norris of Nebraska.

Senator Norris said that "if the power trust were not concealed in the wood-pile," the House conferees would have accepted the compromise offer recently made by the Senate conferees, whereby the nitrate properties at Muscle Shoals would be leased to private operators, while the power properties would be reserved for government operation.

The Muscle Shoals bill is still in deadlock in conference, and Republican leaders have virtually abandoned hope of untangling the matter at this session.

CONVICTED REDS FREED.

Two in Newark Put on Probation—One Gets Suspended Term.

Three Newark Communists convicted of hostility to the government escaped prison terms when Judge Walter D. Van Riper sentenced them in the Essex County Court of Quarter Sessions in Newark yesterday.

Dozier W. Graham, 65 years old, a Negro and a former Baptist minister, who was found guilty of inciting an assault on the Newark police, received a suspended sentence. Samuel D. Levine, convicted of advocating the overthrow of the United States Government, and Dominick Flaini, convicted on both counts, were placed on probation for two years.

Graham is the Communist candidate for United States Senator from New Jersey, while Flaini and Levine are running for the House of Representatives on the same ticket. They were among nine Communists arrested in a raid by Newark policemen on Communist headquarters, 93 Mercer Street, Newark, February 11.

PLAN TO REVISE RULES OF THE FEDERAL COURT

Twenty Lawyers Appointed by Judge Knox to Make Recommendations for Changes.

Judge John C. Knox, senior jurist of the United States Court of the Southern District of New York, announced yesterday that the court had appointed twenty lawyers on six committees of the Federal bar to study and suggest revision of the rules of court practice in the district. The attorneys, in line with the court's policy of improving its routine, will be asked to consider suggestions sent in by groups of lawyers, merchants or others interested.

Judge Knox requested that all suggestions be sent to the committee chairmen. When the survey is complete and the committees hand in their recommendations, Judge Knox and his colleagues will consider the data and decide on changes to be made.

Carl A. Head, 55 Wall Street, was designated chairman of a committee on general and common law, which will study the rules for admission to the Federal bar. Other members of the committee are Theodore Kiendl and Harold Harper.

A committee composed of Robert T. Swaine, 15 Broad Street, chairman; William H. Davis and Nathan Burkan will study equity cases, including receivership proceedings, improvement of accounting methods, distribution to creditors, periodic reports to creditors and procedure in copyright and patent cases.

Admiralty procedure will be studied by D. Robert Englar 64 Wall Street, chairman, John W. Griffin and Roscoe H. Hupper.

James H. Rosenberg, 165 Broadway, chairman; Edwin L. Garvin, Robert P. Stephenson, Lloyd K. Garrison and Harold C. Kneppel will study methods to obtain the maximum expedition, efficiency and economy in the administration of bankrupt estates.

Court advertising, including simplification and shortening of all forms of legal notices and advertisements, and possible reductions in advertising rates, will be studied by Earl B. Barnes, 100 Broadway, chairman, Mark W. Maclay and Maurice P. Davidson.

The last named committee will study calendars, "excluding criminal and motions, but including examination of practicability of adoption of a calendar practice similar to that established in Cleveland, Ohio, for handling assignments of cases to parts for trial by a single official and keeping counsel informed in advance of approximate time of expected beginning of trial."

Members of this committee are Harry D. Nims, 17 East Forty-second Street, chairman, George Z. Medalie and Stephen H. Philbin. Judge Knox asked that all suggestions be sent in in writing to the various chairmen as soon as possible.

SCHOOL BOARD DEFENDS READING OF THE BIBLE

Supreme Court Justice Ford heard argument and reserved decision yesterday on the application by the city of New York and the Board of Education to dismiss the complaint in the suit of Joseph Lewis, president of the Free Thinkers' Society, to restrain the Board of Education from permitting the reading of the Bible and the singing of hymns in the public schools. The court gave the attorneys, Assistant Corporation Counsel Mayer and Arthur Garfield Hays, until June 23 to file their briefs.

Mr. Mayer contended that under a provision of the city charter in existence for the past seventy-nine years the reading of the Bible is authorized in the schools. The principals of the various schools, he said, have the discretion to choose the Bible readings and any pupil objecting to hearing the reading is excused from the assembly during that period.

The Assistant Corporation Counsel also maintained that the Bible reading and hymn singing do not constitute interference with religious liberty.

Mr. Hays in arguing for the plaintiff contended that many of the fifty-eight selections chosen to be read in the schools are meaningless without an explanation and insisted that Bible reading was a mode of worship. He expressed doubt as to whether many intelligent persons actually believe the story of creation in the Book of Genesis. "The fact that the city provides five different kinds of Bibles shows a purpose to favor some particular sect, since the principal may decide which version he favors or thinks his pupils prefer," said Mr. Lewis's counsel.

MATCHEK'S FRIENDS JAILED

Eleven Celebrating His Release in Belgrade Get Month's Term.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BELGRADE, June 16. — Eleven guests Saturday evening at a dinner in a Belgrade restaurant to celebrate the release of Dr. Matchek, who had been charged with conspiring against the Yugoslavian dictatorship, have been arrested and sentenced to a month's imprisonment for making their joy too evident.

Among those sentenced were two of Dr. Matchek's lawyers, Drs. Boskovic and Kostic; two members of the Pribicevic party, Dr. Peter Gvozdic and Philip Markotic; two youths, Gasparac and Stefanic, who had just been released from prison after having been tried with Dr. Matchek, and two journalists. Your correspondent, the only other journalist present, escaped without a penalty.

An official communiqué states that although the defendants in the Matchek process and their friends had been warned to avoid action calculated to disturb the public order they gave vent to "tendencious cries."

Nelson Kelly, another official of the corporation, without revealing further details. It is expected that a change in the personnel will be officially announced tomorrow.

It was also learned from an authoritative source that Frank Ambrose, veteran operations manager, had resigned his post at the Curtiss Airport in Valley Stream. He has been succeeded by Walter Avery of Caldwell, N. J.

DAWES AND HOOVER CONFER ON TREATY

Ambassador Approves Special Session Plan and Urges Senators to Support Passage.

ALSO CALLS ON STIMSON

Special to The New Yo k Times.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Ambassador Dawes is a guest at the White House, where he conferred with President Hoover for an hour and a half today on the status of the London naval treaty in the Senate and on foreign affairs in general. Secretary Stimson joined them for a time, and later Ambassador Dawes paid a brief visit to Secretary Stimson at the State Department.

Mr. Dawes, it is understood, is fully in sympathy with President Hoover's calling of a special session of the Senate to deal with the treaty. The Ambassador visited the Senate this afternoon and talked with old friends, impressing the value of the treaty on them and asserting that the discord over cruiser tonnage was being magnified too much.

Whimsical as Ever.

The Ambassador was as whimsical as ever when newspaper men talked with him at the White House. When asked what he had talked to Mr. Hoover about, he smiled broadly and said that, since becoming a diplomat, he had fallen back on the "protection of ambassadorial robes".

In view of the fact that he conferred yesterday with Dwight W. Morrow at the latter's home in Englewood, N. J., much curiosity existed whether Mr. Hoover had asked Mr. Dawes about the inside situation regarding the New Jersey Republican Senatorial primary, to be held tomorrow.

Denying that he intended to resign his post in London, Mr. Dawes said that on the contrary he expected to return there at the end of a month in this country. He discussed future plans with personal friends in a way that left the impression that he is delighted with his present post and proposes to continue in it.

Although there have been suggestions from Chicago that Mr. Dawes would be asked to assume the rôle of "dictator" in that city's latest drive against gangsters, the Ambassador said no such offer had been made. He intimated that, if his opinion of the Chicago situation were asked, he would have a good deal to say. He deplored crime conditions in Chicago.

The Ambassador is staying at the White House until he departs for Chicago tomorrow afternoon. He expects to be busy for the next three weeks with preparations for the Chicago World's Fair.

Wears Diplomatic Collar.

The familiar collar with a V-shaped opening, almost as familiar a Dawes characteristic as the underslung pipe, was missing from the Ambassador's attire today. He wore a wing-shaped collar, common to members of the Diplomatic Corps.

"After I got over to London, I bought some of these," said the General, indicating the wing collar, "and I found out that for twenty years I'd been wearing a damned uncomfortable collar. Anyway, I never attempt to set fashions."

Ambassador Dawes answered a battery of questions in the press gallery.

"Shoot," he said, and removed his underslung pipe.

"What about the treaty?" he was asked.

"It ought to be passed speedily and under cloture."

"Still for cloture?"

"Yes, and it could be obtained in one session of the Senate if there was a single Senator brave enough to refuse unanimous consent until a cloture rule was adopted."

"What do you think of the President's statement on the tariff bill?"

"I am an Ambassador, and cannot comment on domestic matters. Anyway, I don't think I can take the headlines away from the President. To do that once was enough." He referred to his speech against the Senate rules when he was inaugurated Vice President.

"Will England adopt retaliatory tariffs agianst the United States?"

"I talked to the President and Secretary Stimson about foreign affairs. See them."

He stuffed his pipe with English tobacco and puffed violently.

"Through?" Then—"Don't take the bull by the horns, grab him by the tail; it is easier to leave go."

The quotation was apropos of nothing, he remarked as he departed.

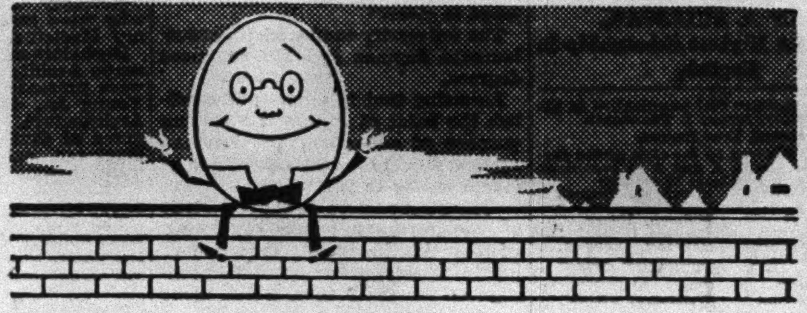
MRS. McPHERSON PAYS $135

Evangelist Spared Extra Customs Penalty—Mistake Admitted.

Mrs. Aimee McPherson, Los Angeles evangelist, who arrived from her tour of the Holy Land last Friday night aboard the North German Lloyd liner Europa, appeared at the custom house yesterday morning and paid $135.55 in duties, the forfeiture value of undeclared apparel she had purchased abroad.

Assistant Solicitor George W. Brewer, to whom Mrs. McPherson paid the duties, said he had not penalized her because he was satisfied her failure to declare the dutiable goods was a bona fide mistake. The evangelist had worn the garments and was under the impression that this rendered them free from duty.

The foreign value of the undeclared goods was $86. This with the forfeiture additions brought the value to the sum assessed.



Newspapers rise…

the JOURNAL goes marching on!

NEW YORK has witnessed the rise and fall of many newspapers.

They rose to greatness on an idea or a personality—then they forgot to serve and to interest—and they withered away.

Great minds, great forces, they created great newspapers. But when they passed away, lesser minds and feebler hands could not maintain, much less increase, their legacy.

But one New York newspaper—ever modern, ever alert, ever serving today's people and today's market—lives and thrives as it has lived and thrived for 30 consecutive years—the largest afternoon newspaper in America:

THE JOURNAL GOES MARCHING ON!

Approximately 2,000,000 substantial New Yorkers—the men and women to whom the savings banks advertise two and a half times more in the Journal than in any other newspaper—turn nightly to the Journal for news, for education, for entertainment, and for guidance in their buying.

The vitality to grow with New York—the humanity to interest New York—and the ability to serve the Business Prosperity of New York—these are the qualities that make the Journal at once the newspaper of New York and the market place of the richest single trading zone in all the world.

Whether it is today's news you seek—the living portrait of New York this afternoon—or whether you seek the buying interest of the 9,000,000 who give their trade to New York stores—the newspaper you want to read and to use is New York's dominant evening newspaper and America's largest evening newspaper.

Read the Journal regularly. Use it to advertise the values you wish to offer in the richest market in the world.

ASKS OF EDUCATION NEW LEADERSHIP

915 DEGREES CONFERRED

Dean Hammond Presents Names of Candidates Who Are Made War Alumni by the University.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, June 16.—In his address to the graduating class of Cornell University today, President Farrand spoke on the "Searching Mind." A new leadership is demanded, he said, and "the vital question is whether or not our higher education system can produce it." He declared "the challenge is clear."

The university conferred 765 baccalaureate degrees and 150 advanced degrees.

Asserting that to arouse and establish the habit of inquiry is a leading purpose of education, Dr. Farrand applied this to world conditions of today, saying in part:

"The most noticeable characteristic of contemporary public discussion, whether in the social, economic or political fields, is lack of that knowledge of the facts upon which alone sound judgments may be based. Assertion is substituted for analysis.

"The decade just passed has been one of attempted readjustment in the face of world conditions for the understanding of which history and experience afford but little aid. A new, broader and more informed outlook must replace the familiar but inapplicable conceptions upon which the discouraging legislation of the day is based."

The program was preceded by an organ recital given by Professor Harold D. Smith, who also played the processional as faculty and seniors filed into the hall. The Rev. William F. Hastings, pastor of the First Congregational Church, announced the invocation.

Colonel Joseph W. Beacham Jr. presented the candidates for Second Lieutenants in the Officers Reserve Corps and acted as chief marshal. The names of those who were made war alumni of the university were presented to President Farrand by Professor William A. Hammond, dean of the university faculty.

Professor Robert M. Ogden, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, presented the candidates for the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Chemistry.

Dean Albert R. Mann of the State Colleges of Agriculture and Home Economics presented the candidates for Bachelor of Science degrees, and Dean Pierre A. Fish of the State Veterinary College presented those who were made Doctors of Veterinary Medicine.

Bachelors of Architecture, of Landscape Architecture and of Fine Arts were presented by Professor George Young Jr., dean of the College of Architecture. Candidates for the degrees of Civil Engineer, Mechanical Engineer and Electrical Engineer were presented by Professor Dexter S. Kimball, dean of the College of Engineering.

The degrees of Bachelor of Law were conferred in absenti, as most of the candidates were taking the June bar examinations. Professor Robert S. Stevens, acting dean of the Law School, presented their names.

Candidates for the degree of Master of Arts and Doctor of Philosophy were presented by Professor Rollins A. Emerson of the Graduate School.

KELLOGG ADDRESSES CLASS

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 16.—As a memorial to its former president, Dr. William H. P. Faunce, Brown University this afternoon announced a gift of $600,000 from John D. Rockefeller Jr. for the enlargement of Rockefeller Hall on the campus.

One of the stipulations attached to the gift is that the name of Mr. Rockefeller shall be removed from the building and the name of Dr. Faunce substituted.

President Barbour, in announcing the gift at the alumni meeting, said it was "in appreciation of Mr. Rockefeller's friendship for Dr. Faunce and to perpetuate Dr. Faunce's memory in some such way as to serve a real and permanent need of Brown."

In his letter announcing the gift, Mr. Rockefeller paid a tribute to President Barbour and said he was very much pleased to be able to make this gift so early in President Barbour's administration. More than $77,000 in other gifts were announced at the same time.

The Carnegie Corporation gave $5,000 a year for five years for the purchase of books to strengthen the departments of undergraduate study, which are in need of help in that respect.

The Miss Abbott's School Alumnae Fellowship gave $30,000 from the alumnae to Pembroke College to provide a fellowship for study at Brown or elsewhere.

From the Brown Alumni Loyalty Fund came $20,000 for the general purposes of the university.

Painting of Lincoln Obtained.

"Generous gifts" from John Nicholas Brown to the John Carter Brown Library were announced and also a gift from "a friend," which has made possible the purchase of the long lost Chappel painting of the "Last Day of Lincoln," to be added to the collection of Lincolniana in the John Hay Library.

Frank B. Kellogg, former Secretary of State, was the chief speaker at the alumni exercises and also received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from the university.

Mr. Kellogg emphasized good-will between the Latin-American nations and the United States and the training of men in American colleges for consular and commercial service in the countries south of the Rio Grande.

After awarding diplomas to 357 graduates of Brown University and Pembroke College, President Barbour conferred the honorary degrees. Others receiving them were:

Stresses Pan-American Good-Will.

"When I was Secretary of State," Mr. Kellogg said in part, "I addressed a letter to the head of every university and college in the United States asking his cooperation in a movement for exchange of students with the universities and colleges of all the Latin-American countries, and I was gratified by the sympathetic response. Nicholas Murray Butler, head of the Carnegie Endowment, has taken great interest in this subject. The John Simon Guggenheim Foundation has set aside $1,000,000 for the establishment of fellowships for Latin-American students desiring to study in the United States and for advanced students of the United States who desire to undertake special research in Latin America.

"I often wonder if we realize the importance of more intimate relations with the great States lying south of the Rio Grande. With them we have many things in common. Their people are devoted to the principles of individual liberty and self-government. They all obtained their independence at the beginning of the last century. They established representative self-government, very largely based on the Constitution of the United States.

"They are educated, able, progressive people. They have vast undeveloped natural resources conducive to the growth and progress of nations. In a large sense their industries complement ours. We have with them a very large and growing commerce. It is evidently to our interests to have with them the most intimate relations not only in business, but in educational and social activities.

"The only barrier between those countries and the United States is the barrier of language. I know of nothing which could be done that would be of greater benefit to the United States and I believe also a benefit to those countries than for the universities and colleges of this country to furnish every facility possible for the accommodation of South American students and to encourage our students to attend their universities and colleges. I do not wish to be understood as in any way discouraging the exchange of students and professors with the colleges of other countries, but I believe there is a greater field for this with Latin America than with any other part of the world.

Denies That Ill-Will Exists.

"Our business institutions are now thoroughly awake to the necessity of giving our young men proper education for commercial and professional activities in Latin America. They have found that it is necessary to send representatives to those countries who speak the language and understand the people, and the government is thoroughly convinced that our diplomatic and consular representatives in those countries should have the same education and qualification for service.

"It is true that we hear considerable about our bad relations with Latin America, that they are suspicious of our motives and are afraid of our imperialism and that we are generally disliked south of the Rio Grande. I know that in the main there is no truth in these statements.

"We should be warned not to place too much credence in the expression of a few newspapers both here and in South America which are constantly complaining of what they call North American imperialism and trying to stir up international animosities.

"The countries of Latin America have made greater progress in conciliation and arbitration of international disputes than any other countries in the world. Treaties for conciliation and arbitration have been made between practically every Central and South American country and many with the United States. These treaties in the main are in advance of most such treaties in the rest of the world.

"I have no intention of discussing the general movement throughout the world for peace, but to impress upon you the importance of conciliation and arbitration and judicial settlement in their relation to foreign affairs. I am sure that the ratification of the general treaty for arbitration between all the American States is considered of supreme importance in our relations with South America."

CANISIUS HEARS McKEE.

Aldermanic President Condemns Modern Corruption.

Special to The New York Times.

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 16.—A condemnation of modern literary frankness was voiced by Joseph V. McKee, president of the New York City Board of Aldermen, at the sixtieth commencement of Canisuis College here today. It formed a part of his threefold criticism of a world which today he said was filled with public corruption, shoddy literature and sinking moral standards.

In conclusion he said that "the worst angle of the situation is public indifference."

The Rev. Randolph J. Eichhorn, president of the college, conferred diplomas upon 140 graduates.

JOHN D. JR. SPEAKS TO HIS SON'S CLASS

SEES ALUMNI AS FATHERS

Declares That Parents Can Best Instruct Youth by Their Own Examples.

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., June 16.—John D. Rockefeller Jr. of New York City, speaking at the annual alumni dinner at Dartmouth College today, told the senior class, who were present as a group, that "this world has no prize to offer, whether it be wealth, power or position, that is worth having at the price of tarnished honor or a guilty conscience."

"The greatest things in life are the things of spiritual quality," he said.

Mr. Rockefeller, whose son, Nelson, is a member of the senior class, spoke on behalf of the parents of the graduates. He found the close relationship of the alumni to the college comparable to that of father and son.

"The greatest influence of a father on his son is the influence of personal example," said Mr. Rockefeller and he added that his own father had been an example to him.

In giving advice to the graduating class, Mr. Rockefeller quoted from an unnamed writer to say:

"My son, live so that you can look any damned man in the eye and tell him to go to hell."

Mr. Rockefeller had the highest of praise for Dr. Ernest Martin Hopkins, president of Dartmouth College, and stated that "if a boy comes to me for advice on what college to attend, I should suggest that he find out what college Dr. Hopkins is president of and go there."

Other speakers on the program were Clarence C. McDavitt of Boston, president of the General Alumni Association, and Professor D. L. Stone of the Dartmouth faculty.

Denies Guilt for Sailor's Death.

CAMDEN, N. J., June 16.—Albert Saunders, 24 years old, of 949 Newton Avenue, pleaded not guilty in Criminal Court here today on an indictment charging first degree murder. Saunders was held for the death of Angelo Solury, 26 years old, a sailor attached to the United States cruiser Chester, which is being completed here. Solury was fatally injured in a street fight on June 7.

Princeton to Confer Degrees and Honors on 435 at Commencement Today

PRINCETON SENIORS IN CLASS DAY EVENTS

IVY PLANTING A FEATURE

Dr. Hibben Opens Exercises by Presenting University's Keys to Class President.

88 GET RESERVE HONORS

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 16.—The senior class of Princeton symbolically severed its ties with the university at the close of the Class Day exercises today by breaking clay pipes against the Revolutionary War cannon, half buried in the centre of the old quadrangle. At the 183d commencement exercises tomorrow morning, 435 seniors will receive diplomas on the steps of Nassau Hall. The number is fourteen fewer than last year's total.

Before the traditional ivy planting and the "cannon ceremonies," which have been a feature of the Princeton Class Day for a century and a half, the keys of the university were presented by President John Grier Hibben to Benjamin V. Hedges, president of the senior class and master of ceremonies, thus formally opening the Class Day exercises and turning the campus over to the graduating class.

Orator Speaks for Class.

Mr. Hedges introduced Alfred M. Wade of New Canaan, Conn., who as class orator made the first official speech of the day. Robert C. Gibson of Chicago, Ill., brought the Alexander Hall ceremonies to a close with the reading of the class poem. Wiliam D. Barfield of Jacksonville, Fla., planted the ivy under a stone bearing the class numerals and set in the wall of Nassau Hall, which is covered with the ivy of previous classes.

In the afternoon the class marched in caps and gowns to the south side of the old quadrangle for the "cannon ceremonies." Joseph L. Parsons of New York, the class historians, reviewed the events in the past four years, and George C. Miles of Miles City Mont., made the presentation of gifts to various members of the class. The class ode, written by Shelby C. Davis of Peoria, Ill., and Denny Brereton of Lake George, N. Y., was read. The ceremonies closed with the breaking of the clay pipes which the seniors had been smoking throughout the exercises.

Last Senior Sing.

The last senior sing was held on the steps of Nassau Hall this evening. The graduating class sang its class ode and turned over the steps to the class of 1931, which will continue the custom of senior singing next Spring.

Nineteen members of the graduating class were elected to Phi Beta Kappa at the annual meeting of the society in Whig-Clio Hall this morning. The men thus honored were:

Gordon Atkins
William D. Barfield
George M. Benson
Elbert B. Borgerhoff
John M. Bradbury
Hobart L. Brinsmade
John H. Brooks Jr.
Robert M. Goldenson
Louis Gutmann
Benjamin Labaree
Arthur M. Mizener
Donald L. Newborg
Lester W. Smith
Roy H. Snyder
Sydney G. Stevens
John H. Thacher Jr.
Howard Trivers
William Turnbull 2d
Albert E. Wood

This number, plus the twenty-eight seniors previously elected, brings the total number of Phi Beta Kappa men in the class of 1930 to forty-seven. One of this number, Francis A. Meade of Baltimore, was killed in an automobile accident last Spring.

Officers of the Princeton chapter for the coming year were elected at this morning's meeting as follows:

DUANE REED STUART, Professor of Classics, vice president.
J. DOUGLAS BROWN, Assistant Professor of Economics, secretary.

Degrees and Awards.

The Bachelor of Arts degree will be conferred tomorrow upon 277, the Bachelor of Science degree upon 132 and the degree of Bachelor of Science in Engineering npon twenty-six. Eighty-eight will receive commissions in the Officers' Reserve of the United States Army. Graduate degrees numbering 100 will be awarded. Wilson Farrand, '86, clerk of the board of trustees, will announce ninety fellowships and graduate scholarships for 1930-31.

The academic procession will form at 11:15 and will march into the front campus through the Fitz Randolph Gateway to take seats on a platform on the steps of Nassau Hall.

Charles H. Lindsley of Cincinnati, Ohio, winner of highest honors in chemistry, will deliver the Latin salutory oration. President Hibben will confer the academic degrees, after which Augustus Trowbridge, dean of the Graduate School, will present the candidates for honorary degrees. William Koren Jr. of Princeton, who won highest honors in modern languages and was voted by his classmates the most brilliant and most scholarly senior, will give the valedictory.

The benediction by the president and singing of "Old Nassau" will conclude the ceremony. Immediately following the exercises alumni trustees will be elected at a meeting in the office of the Graduate School.

'ARTERIES OF STUDY' DESCRIBED AT SMITH

GRANT HONORARY DEGREES

Eva Le Gallienne Is Made Doctor of Human Letters—Seniors Announce Engagements.

Special to The New York Times.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., June 16.—Professor William E. Hocking of Harvard University, speaking at the fifty-second commencement exercises of Smith College, told the 460 graduates that they were five "Arteries of Education." Our schools cannot supply them, he said, for they must be supplied by the individual. The first he listed as "work well done," for "in the state of a man's work can be discerned his moral and intellectual frontier." The second, he said, was "play well played," and the third "people well met," for "the meeting of people should be a fruitful art." "Reading well chosen" he listed as the fourth artery, and "reverence" as a habit of mind as the last.

Interest in life, he concluded, was the "undercurrent of confidence," which, like the heart, sends the current of life through the arteries.

Seven honorary degrees were conferred by President William Allan Neilson.

Miss Lillian Wald, founder and president of the Henry Street Settlement in New York, received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws, and Miss Eva Le Gallienne, founder and director of the Civic Répertory Theatre, was made Doctor of Humane Letters.

Five Smith College graduates also received honorary degrees. They were Dr. Josephine E. Milligan and Dr. Dorothy R. Mendenhall, who were made Doctors of Science; Miss Nina E. Browne, archivist and librarian, Doctor of Literature; Mrs. Grace Hazard Conkling, poet and lecturer at Smith College, and Mrs. Harriet Seelye Rhees, daughter of the first president of Smith and wife of the president of Rochester University, Masters of Arts.

The candidates for degrees marched across the campus to John M. Greene Hall, led by Miss Katrina Cooley, class president, and Miss Penelope Crane, president of the Student Council. They were followed by the trustees and faculty.

The Rev. Edward A. Estaver of the Northampton First Baptist Church spoke the invocation.

Last night, according to custom, several seniors informally announced their engagements in response to a class supper roll, by running around the banquet hall amid the cheering of their classmates. Some will be married immediately, while others will defer the event. The president and deans were guests at the supper, and Miss Nancy Hamilton was toastmistress.

Academic degrees were conferred upon the following:

Special to The New York Times.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., June 16.—President Day conferred 194 degrees, 183 in course and eleven honorary, this morning at the one hundred thirty-fourth commencement exercises of Union College.

John Van Antwerp MacMurray, former Minister to China and now director of the Walter Hines Page School of International Relations at Johns Hopkins, gave the honorary chancellor's address to the graduates. He received the honorary degree of doctor of laws.

Speaking on "Standards and Tolerance," Mr. MacMurray told the graduates that they could take pride in their own traditions of race, nationality, family, profession and cultural background, and yet retain the breadth of mind to realize and to sympathize with a like pride in others, and to respect their devotion to a wholly different set of standards.

The Rev. Dr. George Alexander, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of New York City, presented the candidates for degrees. Those in course were: Bachelor of Arts, 96; Bachelor of Science in Civil Engineering, 23; Bachelor of Science in Electrical Engineering, 16; Bachelor of Science in Physics, 3; Bachelor of Science in Chemistry, 3; Master of Science in Electrical Engineering, 7; Master of Science in Physics, 2; Master of Science in Chemistry, 1; Doctor of Medicine, 20, and Pharmaceutical Chemist, 12.

PRINCETON TO DROP SCIENCE DEGREE

RULE EXCEPTS ENGINEERS

Anonymous Gift of $250,000 for Undergraduate Centre Announced —Appointments Made.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 16.—The bachelor of science degree was abolished by the board of trustees of Princeton University at its commencemetn meeting here today. Beginning with the class of 1934, which enters Princeton next Fall, every graduate, except those in the School of Engineering, will receive the bachelor of arts degree. This degree will indicate the completion of a nontechnical liberal course of undergraduate study.

The work in preparatory school and in the freshman year has determined in the past the degree which an undergraduate received. The abolition of the bachelor of science degree will place emphasis upon the character and the quality of the work during the greater part of his college course. The bachelor of science degree in engineering still will be conferred.

An anonymous gift of $250,000 toward the fund for the erection of the undergraduate centre was announced at the meeting. The undergraduate centre will house the publications and other non-athletic extra-curricular activities and will serve as a centre for the social life of the campus.

Senator David A. Reed of Pittsburgh, a graduate of the class of '00, was elected to a charter trusteeship. eSnator Reed was a representative of the United States at the recent London naval conference and now is serving his second term in the United States Senate.

The gift of fifty-nine selected publications on government and international relations from the Yale University Press was announced. The books have been presented to the department of politics as a collection in memory of the late Chief Justice William Howard Taft and the late President Emeritus Arthur Twining Hadley of Yale, both of whom took an active interest in the Yale University Press.

Dewitt Clinton Poole, who is a member of the advisory board and of the administrative committee of Princeton's new school of public and international affairs, was appointed a lecturer in the school. Professor Philip Marshall Brown was appointed a lecturer in the department of politics.

The board of trustees approved the appointment of Dr. Wilhelm Kroll, Professor of Classical Philology in the University of Breslau, as visiting professor of the department of classics for the first term of the next academic year. Dr. Eugene Pacsu of the University of Budapest was appointed as assistant professor in the department of chemistry. Lewis Ferry Moody, formerly of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, was appointed as Professor of Hydraulic Engineering. Dr. Luther Harris Evans of Dartmouth College was appointed as assistant professor in the department of politics.

The trustees approved the promotion of Assistant Professor Alpheus Thomas Mason to associate professor; Assistant Professor John Boardman Whitton to associate professor and Instructor Charles Rosenbury Erdman Jr., to assistant professor. These three are in the department of politics.

In the department of classics the promotion of Instructor Francis Richard Borroum Godolphin to assistant professor was approved, as was the promotion of Instructor Archibald McDonald McIsaac to assistant professor in the department of economics. Instructor Alfred Edward Sorenson of the School of Engineering was promoted to assistant professor.

A leave of absence for the next academic year was granted to Assistant Professor Francis Barreto Stewart of the department of chemistry, and leave for the first term of the next academic year was granted to Associate Professor Albert Friend of the department of art and archaeology.

Solicitor General Thatcher at Banquet Says It Is Now an "Educational Accomplishment."

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 16.—Yale alumni and seniors today, in class reunion custom, mingled pomp and pageantry with picturesque and colorful portrayal of historical personages.

Alumni from the forty-year class of '90 to the triennial group of 1927 wore either the traditional white and blue of the older alumnus or the dashing color of the recent graduate.

The older classes clung to the tents erected on the lawns of their headquarters, while the younger toured the shore resorts and the suburbs in automobiles or, often in costume, played a round of golf over the new Yale course, or on the New Haven or Racebrook Country Club courses.

Several members of the classes of '66 and '67 were the oldest represented, although that of 1870 was the oldest to hold a reunion program.

That of the 1880 class, traditionally the oldest to muster its members for a formal reunion rally, were gay with about thirty present. Colonel Norris G. Osborn, editor of The New Haven Journal-Courier, was entertaining his classmates of the semicentennial reunion.

Sheffield Class Day Celebrated.

At the Sheffield Scientific School class day exercises this morning the oration was delivered by Frank B. Stocker of Scranton. Raymon E. Sargent of Denver and John P. Bent of Harrisburg gave the class history and prophecy. The ivy oration was written by Samuel P. McCalmont, who is with the varsity crew at Gales Ferry.

John A. Hazard of Syracuse delivered the class oration and Tom Prideaux of Hillsdale, Mich, recited the class poem for the academic seniors. The class history was read by Maurice Hanson of Duluth and the ivy oration by Henry E. Bussell of New Britain.

Thomas Day Thacher, Solicitor General of the United States, said at the alumni banquet of the Yale Law School this afternoon that Yale of today is not an educational experiment but an educational accomplishment. He asserted that the quarter-century development of the law school since his graduation had been astonishing, and that the power of analysis which it gave its graduates equaled any other asset which law graduates possess.

Alfred Mitchell Bingham, son of United States Senator Hiram Bingham, member of the Law School senior class, who has been prominent in student affairs during his course, said that the school lacks imagination, but that he regards it as not more than twenty years behind his ideal in teaching, while other law schools are thirty years behind.

Commencement Exercises Today

The university will award 710 degrees to members of the class of 1930 tomorrow and in addition sixty-six commissions in the Officers' Reserve o fthe United States Army and the United States Naval Reserve. To members of the senior class in Yale College and the Sheffield Scientific School there will be given 333 Bachelor of Arts degrees, 181 of Bachelor of Philosophy and 196 of Bachelor of Science.

The commencement exercises for the two undergraduate departments will be held tomorrow morning and will open with the overture to Wagner's "Die Meistersinger" and a prayer by the university chaplain, the Rev. Elmore M. McKee. President James Rowland Angell will announce the honors and prizes, and then the candidates for degrees will be presented.

Senior appointments in Yale College, including the honor list, based on general scholarship averages for the four-year course, were announced. Twelve members of the class of '30 attained the highest appointment of Philosophical Orations, thirty-nine of High Orations and eighty-five of Orations.

DREXEL AWARDS DEGREES.

Colonel Rees Tells Students Learning Includes Thinking and Doing.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, June 16.—Degrees were awarded to 160 men and women, diplomas to thirty-six and certificates to two at the commencement, exercises of Drexel Institute here today. Colonel Robert Irwin Rees of New York, president of the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education, delivered the address, in which he praised the cooperative system of education as adopted some years ago by Drexel Institute.

"Education must combine theory and practice," he said, "and much of the thinking done must be in the determination of the relation of the one to the other. Learning, then, is made up of thinking and doing."

Preceding the commencement program, a tablet to perpetuate the friendship between Anthony J. Drexel, founder of Drexel Institute, and George W. Childs was unveiled in the new men's lounge of the college.

ALUMNI HONORS DR. BROWN.

N. Y. U. Chancellor Receives His Portrait in Home Ceremony.

A large oil portrait of Dr. Elmer Ellsworth Brown, chancellor of New York University, was presented to him yesterday by the New York University Alumni Federation. The presentation was made by Arthur Butler Graham, the Federation president, at Chancellor Brown's home, 2,201 Loring Place, University Heights. Ben A. Ross, secretary of the federation, and George R. Boynton, the artist, were present at the informal ceremony.

Mr. Graham said in his presentation speech that "New York University must be loved by her students and her alumni through and because of those who, by years of devoted effort to her administration, have won our affection and esteem."

"The Alumni feel," he concluded, "that as time goes on and you and we shall be no longer here, there shall be something tangible to recall to future generations the image of a man who strove valiantly to keep our Alma Mater secure in her great position; was a guide to her students, a friend to her alumni, and an inspiration to her administration."

HOUGHTON AT ROCHESTER.

In University Address He Urges Public Opinion Deciding on War.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., June 16 (AP).—Provision whereby public opinion, alone, shall determine whether or not a nation goes to war is the next big constitutional problem confronting self-governing peoples, Alanson B. Houghton of Corning, former Ambassador to Great Britain and Germany, told University of Rochester graduates here today.

Three hundred and thirty-five men and women students, comprising the largest graduating class in the history of the university received their diplomas at exercises this morning.

Mr. Houghton, who made the commencement address, was among the six persons receiving honorary degrees. The degree of Doctor of Laws was awarded to him.

WELLESLEY CLASS HEARS R. B. FOSDICK

Those Who Value Individualism Need Not Despair, He Tells Commencement Throng.

322 RECEIVE DIPLOMAS

Gift of $300,000 to $9,000,000 Fund From General Education Board Is Among Many Announced.

Special to The New York Times.

WELLESLEY, Mass., June 16.—There is hope for a change from the tyranny of the "bacchanalian orgy of consumption" upon which American prosperity has been built, Raymond B. Fosdick of New York City told the class of 322 graduates at the fifty-second annual commencement of Wellesley College in Alumni Hall today. Mr. Fosdick urged the graduates to check their desire to consume, and not to become "merely part of the purchasing power of the country."

"Individualism in the Machine Age" was Mr. Fosdick's subject. Although the status of the individual seems to be swallowed up in a collective mechanism, he said, those who value individualism and the "good life" need not despair.

"The status of the individual is being swallowed up in the collective mechanism," he declared, "and from a nation of self-sufficient, independent farmers, each his own master, we have become a nation in which at least two-thirds of us work for other people or corporations. When we speak of freedom today, we mean freedom of the crowd."

Two honorary degrees of Master of Arts were conferred on Margaret Hastings Jackson, head of the Italian Department and curator of the Frances Pearson Plimpton Library of Italian Literature, and Alice Van Vechten Brown, head of the Art Department, by President Ellen Fitz Pendleton.

DECLARES COLLEGES LEVEL DOWNWARD

Dr. G. E. Vincent, in Address at Harvard, Holds Quantity Rivals Quality.

SEES HOPE IN HARVARD PLAN

This Would Enable Students of Ability to Escape the Leveling Process in His Opinion.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 16.—Declaring that the future of the higher American educational system is "in the lap of the gods," Dr. George E. Vincent, former president of the Rockefeller Foundation, pointed out in his Phi Beta Kappa address at Harvard this afternoon that the situation is in reality not so bad as critics would have it.

The hope for escape from the present collegiate "mediocrity" lies in such a system as is set forth by President Lowell of Harvard in his house plan, he stated.

Dr. Vincent's address was the feature of the annual exercises of the Harvard chapter of the society, which marked the second day of the university's commencement activities. A business meeting at 9 o'clock opened the day's ceremonies, and at 11:30 the Phi Beta Kappa members and their friends gathered in Appleton chapel for the literary exercises.

The president of the society, Dr. William S. Thayer, '85, of Baltimore, presided. The poet was Stephen Vincent Benet, whose narrative poem, "John Brown's Body," won the Pulitzer Prize a year ago.

Dr. Vincent spoke in part as follows:

"How is liberal education faring in American institutions of higher learning today and what are the prospects for the future?

"To ask these things is to open floodgates for opinion, complaint, denunciation, defense, extenuation and a trickle of praise. On the whole it is an open season for higher education.

"The first attack is on numbers, quantity production, and on the motives which bring the many. The influx of students, notably in the last ten years, has almost overwhelmed the colleges and the undergraduate departments of the universities.

"The fact is that the upper layers of mediocrity have invaded the colleges. No other country is trying to give higher education to so large a share of its youth. It may well be held that this is no more than the duty of a rich democracy. But the consequences are clear. The exceptional few are sacrificed to the mediocre many. The process is one of leveling downward. Overburdened teachers, running an instruction machine for hundreds, have little time or energy to give to hunting out and guiding exceptionally capable and ambitious students. Yet it is in these students that liberal education puts its hope. Culture is diffused from the few, not concentrated from the many. Quantity is here as elsewhere the rival of quality.

"Nor do the critics spare the teaching staff. A former university president finds professors selfish, unprogressive and actuated by what he calls a trade-union spirit. They are said to be so narrowly specialized in their interests that they are incapable of grasping the wider relations of their subjects.

"From the standpoint of liberal education the graduate school is of peculiar interest, for here are trained the future college teachers. The serious question is: does this experience of what is often pseudo-investigation, and this specialization even in the once liberal strongholds of the classics, history and philosophy arouse in the teacher the spirit and ideals of liberal culture? One finds it hard to be sure that they do. Many flatly declare that they do not."

Phi Beta Kappa elected twenty seniors, four honorary members and new officers for the chapter. The officers are: Judge William C. Wait, '82, of Medford, president; Professor William W. Fenn, '84, of Cambridge, vice president; Professor William G. Howard, '91, of Cambridge, secretary, and Seth T. Cane, '08, of Boston, treasurer.

WORK FELL IN MAY IN MANUFACTURING

Employment, Which Usually Declines From April, Decreased 1.6 Per Cent.

EARNINGS CUT 2.4 PER CENT

Bureau of Labor Statistics Report Embraces 3,271,015 Workers in 13,388 Plants.

OTHER LINES ROSE SLIGHTLY

Thirteen Groups Inclusive Showed 0.9 Per Cent Fewer Were Employed Than In April.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Manufacturing industries, which have shown declines in activity from April to May in five of the last seven years, reported a decrease of 1.6 per cent in employment and 2.4 per cent in earnings in May, this year, as compared with the previous month, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Excluding manufacturing, the total for the remaining twelve groups as reported today by the bureau showed an increase of one-tenth of 1 per cent in employment, and a gain of 1 per cent in payrolls. The combined total for the thirteen groups, covering 39,422 establishments, with 5,063,416 workers whose earnings in one week were $135,496,232, showed 0.9 per cent fewer employes, and a decrease of 1.2 per cent in payroll totals.

The bureau explained that its reports did not cover the building trades and construction work, in which an improvement in employment conditions was indicated. Federal, State and municipal construction work, the bureau said, has increased steadily under the current program of expansion, and building permit reports for May showed a continued increase over the previous month, which also indicated an increase in employment.

Six Groups Show Increases.

Six of the thirteen industrial groups covered by the bureau, namely anthracite mining, quarrying, electric railroads, telephone and telegraph, power, light and water plants, and crude petroleum production, showed increased employment, while seven groups, manufacturing, bituminous coal mining, metalliferous mining, wholesale and retail trade, hotels and canning showed decreases.

The figures for the several groups, it was added, were not weighed according to the relative importance of each industry, and therefore they represented only the employes in the establishments concerned.

"The percentages in change in May employment and payroll totals in manufacturing industries were based on returns made by 13,388 establishments in fifty-four of the principal manufacturing industries of the United States," the bureau said. "These establishments in May, 1930, had 3,271,015 employes whose combined earnings in one week were $87,477,094.

"Fifteen of the fifty-four separate industries had more employes in May than in April, the greatest gains having been in the ice cream, woolen goods, cement, brick, rubber tire and slaughtering industries. The automobile industry reported an increase of 1.5 per cent in employment and a gain of 0.8 per cent in earnings.

"Each of the fifteen industries reporting increased employment also showed increased payroll totals, with the exception of newspaper printing, which coupled a small gain in employment with a slight decrease in earnings.

"Four groups of industries—food, tobacco, stone-clay-glass and vehicles—showed employment gains in May. The food and tobacco groups also reported increased earnings.

Lines Showing Decreases.

"The outstanding decrease in employment in May was a seasonal one of 41.7 per cent in fertilizers, marking the close of the Spring shipping season.

"Nine of the ten industries of the textile group had fewer employes in May than in April and decreased employment also occurred in the following important manufacturing industries: Electrical machinery (3.8 per cent), steam car building and repairing (1.0 per cent), foundries (2.5 per cent), and boots and shoes (3.9 per cent). Employment in the iron and steel industry remained practically unchanged, a decline of one-tenth of 1 per cent in employment occurring between April and May.

"Decreased employment and earnings were shown in each geographic division in May, with the exception of the mountain district, which showed a gain in both items.

"Per capita earnings in manufacturing industries in May, 1930, were 0.9 per cent lower than in April, 1930.

"In May, 1930, 10,776 manufacturing establishments reported an average of 85 per cent of a full normal force of employes, who were working an average of 94 per cent of full time; the percentages reported showing a decrease of 2 per cent in average normal force, with no change in average time operated."

BOLIVIA CENSORS NEWS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUENOS AIRES, June 16.—The correspondents of the leading Argentine papers have informed their editors that a strict censorship in La Paz prevents them sending any information regarding the situation in Bolivia, which two weeks ago was reported as threatening.

For more than a week the only report on the political situation arising from President Hernándo Siles's resignation and the attempt of his supporters to rewrite the Constitution to permit him to succeed himself has been that the Nationalist party is preparing for a popular manifestation in support of the present government.

VERMONT GIVES DEGREE TO MRS. COOLIDGE

She Becomes Doctor of Laws at Commencement at Her Alma Mater.

Special to The New York Times.

BURLINGTON, Vt., June 16.—When Grace Goodhue Coolidge received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from President Guy W. Bailey at the University of Vermont commencement, 2,000 spectators did honor to the Burlington girl who became mistress of the White House by rising and remaining standing while the degree was conferred.

As President Bailey handed the diploma to her, there was tremendous applause.

Professor Frederick Tupper, head of the Departmen of English, in presenting the name of Mrs. Coolidge for the honorary degree, said:

"I present for the degree of Doctor of Laws, Grace Goodhue Coolidge, daughter of Burlington and of this university; all our's when the school girl and college woman lived and worked among us; our's still, though not unshared, when the first lady cast her kindly spell of act and speech and manner over the hearts of a nation; our's now when we honor in her guise the crown of achievement, the art of all arts, the power of grace, the magic of a name."

Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge marched in the academic procession and the former President was seated on the platform beside President Bailey during the exercises. Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge were guests of the university at the trustees dinner this noon.

The degree of Doctor of Laws was also bestowed on Hugh Doak Hart of Philadelphia, who delivered the commencement address on "The Mature Person," and to Justice Leighton P. Slack of the Supreme Court of Vermont.

The degree of Doctor of Humane Letters was conferred on the Right Rev. Francis John McConnell of New York City, of Mechanical Engineer on J. Royal Kinney of Boston and Master of Arts on George L. Shattuck, M. D., of Providence, R. I.

The university graduated fourteen from the College of Agriculture, twenty-one from the College of Engineering, 142 from the College of Arts and Sciences, thirty from the College of Medicine and thirty-eight from the two-year teacher training course, making a total of 245 degrees conferred in addition to eighteen advanced degrees.

Phi Beta Kappa elected twenty-two members of the graduating class to membership for scholastic high standing. Herrick Mower Macomber of Burlington received the summa cum laude award.

RULE LIMITS DOCTORS IN APARTMENT HOUSES

Deegan Holds Number of Offices of Non-Residents Must Not Change Nature of Building.

Doctors and dentists are to be permitted to establish their offices in apartment houses throughout the city provided that the number of these offices in any one such building is so limited that the character of the multiple dwelling is not changed from a residence to a business building, according to a ruling yesterday by Tenement House Commissioner William F. Deegan.

Explaining this apparent reversal of his stand taken some time ago when he said that doctors and dentists could not maintain offices in apartment houses where they did not live because it was "in violation of the statutes," Major Deegan said yesterday he had finished consultations with legal authorities and experts and had come to the conclusion that it was to the advantage of the residents of the city to permit doctors and dentists to establish offices in apartment houses.

KEEN CONTEST IN HUDSON

Three-Cornered Fight Waged by the Republicans—Triangular Battle Also Is On in Warren.

A sidelight in today's New Jersey primaries will be the selection of party nominees for freeholder. All of the twenty-one counties of the State, except Camden and Union, will elect freeholders this Fall from candidates chosen at the polls today.

Keen competition for these posts is reported in several of the counties. With only fifty-eight ensuing vacancies, the ballots show a total of 151 candidates.

Factional differences which have divided Hudson County's Republican forces in the Senate and Assembly races are likewise reflected in a three-cornered Republican fight for the freeholdership nominations. The so-called regular Morrow Republicans are supporting S. Paul Epstein, C. Edward Hellstrom and Sadye E. Linkletter to fill three vacancies on the Hudson County board. The Frelinghuysen forces have named Patrick O'Connor, Charles E. Edge and Frank R. Lawler. A third group, opposed to the leadership of Paul Seglie, county Republican chieftain, has conducted an active campaign for Frank P. Clancy, Louis R. Geayer and I. Ross McCombe. In the Democratic camp there is no opposition, the nominees being William P. Kearn, William J. McGraw and Edward J. Murnane.

Minor Contest in Essex.

In Essex County there is a minor contest for three vacancies, with three outgoing Republican members; Louis F. Dodd, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Harris and Arthur T. Muir, running against Harry G. Eaton, Margaret B. Laird and John Coughlin. Prevailing opinion yesterday favored the incumbents to win by an easy margin. Atlantic County has six freeholdership contests, with thirty-two candidates for seventeen vacancies.

Warren Republicans are staging a triangular contest for the single vacancy which occurs this year on that county's board. The organization was reported yesterday to have been quietly supporting George S. Whitsell of Oxford, Steward of the County Home, against Alexander Woolf of Stewartsville and Thomas A. Shields of Hackettstown.

Burlington County Republicans, divided into two factions for several years, held a peace parley early this year and agreed to stop war over the county offices, but left the United States Senatorial situation open without restriction. As a result the county rivalries are in the main good-natured, but there is plenty of feeling over the Senatorial fight.

Many of the counties also are nominating candidates today for sheriff, clerk, register, coroner and other county offices, but few of the contests have stirred interest beyond the county borders.

400 BRIDGE TEACHERS CONFER ON CONTRACT

Work Addresses Convention Here on Principles Underlying Variation of Auction.

Principles and methods of teaching contract bridge were explained yesterday by Milton C. Work, auction and contract bridge expert, before the third annual National Conference of Bridge Teachers, which opened at the Hotel Delmonico, 502 Park Avenue, for a five-day session.

More than 400 bridge teachers attended, some coming from the far West and South. One, Mrs. Raymond J. Burns, flew from Pittsburgh. Morning and afternoon sessions, from 10 A. M. to 12 and 3 P. M. to 5, respectively, are devoted to short lectures by Mr. Work, assisted by his professional partner, Ralph Reed Richard of Detroit. Every evening the teachers will compete for prizes donated by Mr. Work.

The teachers received a booklet containing fifty lesson hands for use in their classes, based on Mr. Work's system of playing.

At the end of the afternoon session Mr. Work met a group of the teachers for discussion and analysis of disputed points in the game.

The game of contract bridge has largely superseded that of auction and is now played almost exclusively in bridge clubs in this country and in Europe, some of the teachers declared. While a large part of the rank and file of beginners still play auction, it was said that they also were rapidly swinging to the contract.

GRAND JURY CLOSES INQUIRY ON CANFIELD

Returns No Indictments, but Asks That Its Findings Be Sent to Secretary Mellon

Without returning an indictment, a Federal grand jury ended yesterday an investigation begun six weeks ago into alleged corruption in the prohibition unit by handing up a presentment to Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe in which it recommended that a complete transcript of the records of its hearings, at which forty-one witnesses testified, be sent to the Treasury Department of the United States "for such action as the conditions disclosed warrant."

Federal Attorney Tuttle declined to reveal what were the "disclosed conditions." He announced that he would send all testimony, records and documents in the inquiry today to Secretary Andrew W. Mellon. The investigation began after the conviction in Federal Court of eight of twenty-five defendants, officials and employes of the Columbia Cereal Beverage Company, Hudson, N. Y., for conspiracy and violation of the prohibition law.

HULBERT IN FROM EUROPE.

Says Germans Have Replaced Militarism With Athletics.

Murray Hulbert, first vice president of the American Olympic Association, returned here yesterday on the Atlantic transport liner Minnetonka, after having attended the International Olympic Congress in Berlin. He was accompanied by Mrs. Hulbert and their two daughters.

Mr. Hulbert said that Germany had replaced her former military life with athletics, and that the country is a network of gymnasiums and athletic fields.

In Berlin, he added, is one field of eighty acres, on which athletes from all parts of Germany train and then are graduated. "The indications are," said Mr. Hulbert, "that in the games at Los Angeles in 1932, Germany will carry off many of the honors."

A. N. Rosenthal, Artist, Gets Divorce

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, June 16.—Albert N. Rosenthal, an artist, obtained a final decree of divorce from Mrs. Henryetta N. Rosenthal in Common Pleas Court today. He charged misconduct on the part of his wife and named four men as corespondents. He filed suit in February, 1929, when he charged "constructive desertion," his attorneys explaining that Rosenthal "deserted" his wife after alleged "intolerable conditions created by Mrs. Rosenthal made living with her burdensome."

NATION AWAITS VOTE IN JERSEY TODAY

of Jersey City is unopposed for the "long term" place as is Miss Thelma Parkinson of Vineland for the "short term" nomination. The fact that Mr. Morrow is running for both seats will necessitate having his name on each ballot twice, but his headquarters said during the day that not much loss was anticipated from this.

Little trouble is expected at the polls as the Republican campaign has been waged without most of the customary bitterness of New Jersey political battles. In a few local elections such as the municipal primary in North Bergen, however, steps are being taken to prevent any outbreaks. Representatives of the Senate committee on campaign expenditures—headed by Senator Nye—will be in the State to observe conditions.

Morrow in Final Appeal.

Mr. Morrow delivered his final radio address from the Municipal Casino in Asbury Park, where a rally was held. Later he went to New Brunswick for his last meeting.

In his radio talk he said:

"Mrs. Morrow and I together during the past five weeks have been able to visit every county in the State of New Jersey, save one. It has been a pleasant and a happy task. We have met personally many men and women that we did not know before. Whatever may be the result of the primary, the pleasure and the happiness of those meetings cannot be taken away from us. I should like this final message on the air to be taken by the tens of thousands of Republican workers in the State as a personal note of thanks from Mrs. Morrow and myself. We thank you from our hearts for what you have done during the past weeks and months. We thank you for what you are doing today. We thank you for what you are going to do tomorrow.

"This is not the time nor place to talk about the many domestic and foreign problems that may come before the United States Senate during the next six years. Each candidate in a political campaign must choose for himself what subjects he considers it important to discuss. I have talked about the subjects that I considered important. No man who desires fairly to represent the great constituency of New Jersey with its 4,000,000 people can make specific pledges upon the many questions that may come before the Senate during a six-year term of office. He can, however, do his best to give his attitude toward public qeustions that may arise. He also owes an obligation to the party to carry on his primary campaign in such a manner that he will be able to support loyally and effectively in the Fall campaign the candidate that is chosen by the Republican voters on Primary Day I have tried to fulfill that obligation. The responsibility for the choice of the candidate rests upoon the voters."

Mrs. Morrow went to the Ridgewood High School last night for her final adress of the campaign, and in the course of it revealed that yesterday was the twenty-seventh anniversary of her marriage. She spoke informally about the contest and her own speaking tour and urged a large primary vote.

Mr. and Mrs. Morrow will vote early this morning at the Legion Building in Englewood. Former Senator and Mrs. Frelinghuysen and members of their family will vote in Raritan, while Mr. and Mrs. Fort will go to the polls in East Orange.

Ottinger Extols Morrow.

Former Attorney General Albert Ottinger of New York went to the New Brunswick meeting to deliver an address in behalf of Mr. Morrow and said:

Dwight Morrow is the one man since 1912 who will be able to speak as a Republican in the broadest sense and to be heard with sympathetic affection and esteem by the Republicans of the Left Wing and the Republicans of the Right Wing. Business prosperity needs Dwight Morrow. Here is a business man technically equipped from both the practical and theoretical standpoint. When he speaks the optimistic word the nation will listen because the nation knows that Dwight Morrow understands. But you may feel certain that in attempting to re-establish business conditions, Mr. Morrow will have first and foremost in his mind the solution of the great unemployment problem because he realizes, as you do, that the greatest problem before this country today concerns itself with labor. He sympathizes whole-heartedly with the struggles of labor. He is proud of what labor has achieved in this country and the dignity which it has attained."

Frelinghuysen Attacks Morrow.

In his radio appeal former Senator Frelinghuysen assailed Mr. Morrow as the candidate of a group of machine politicians who, he charged, were responsible for corrupt conditions in many counties. Mr. Morrow's failure to repudiate the support of these men, he avowed, indicated his tacit consent to their practices.

"I have challenged the political machine responsible for the corrupt conditions in the State today," he said. "I have faith that the voters of New Jersey will support me in my fight against these conditions and the men responsible for them."

He also assailed United States Senator David Baird Jr., Morrow supporter, who had been quoted on Saturday as saying that President Hoover favored the nomination of Mr. Morrow. Mr. Frelinghuysen said that Mr. Baird's purported statement "only goes to show to what lengths Mr. Baird will go for his candidate."

Fort Scores Baird Statement.

Mr. Fort, too, in a statement earlier in the day, attacked Mr. Baird and said "I deeply regret that Senator Baird's statement forces me to withdraw my expression—made a day or two ago—of belief in the Senator's political honesty."

Meanwhile, among Morrow supporters it was said that Mr. Baird had been misunderstood and that what he had really said that it was his personal opinion that Mr. Hoover wanted Mr. Morrow to win, not that he had information which enabled the voters to be assured that this was so. Reports that the White House had been seeking Mr. Baird all day Sunday to get his own interpretation of his talk before the White House denial was issued were said at Washington to be untrue.

Mr. Fort also said:

"One phase of the campaign, however, has disappointed me greatly. My candidacy was in large part designed to produce a debate upon prohibition—its merits and demerits. But since I entered the race, my opponents have been strangely silent on the subject. I have defined and redefined the evils, old and new, and talked about the benefits, as I see them. But, if either opponent has joined me in matching the evils they see against what used to be, or questions a single benefit I claim for prohibition, it has missed my eyes and ears. Can it be that we have had no such debate because they cannot dispute that things are better and that neither can explain away the facts."

The principal interest in the House of Representatives primaries lies in the fight for the Republican nomination in the Ninth District, now represented by Mr. Fort. In this district Peter Cavicchia of Newark is the organization aspirant. Meador Wright of Orange is running as a dry, while Joseph Cassini of Orange is the third candidate. Daniel F. Minahan is unopposed for the Democratic nomination. Another contest that is arousing interest is in the fight for the Republican nomination in the Fifth District, where Representative Ernest R. Ackerman, dry incumbent, is being fought by Wesley A. Stanger of Cranford, running on an anti-prohibition plank.

The battle for the Republican nominations for Assembly seats in Hudson County provides the most tangled situation in the primary. In Hudson three different sets of Republican candidates are seeking these places, Morrow Republican, Frelinghuysen Republican and Regular Republican.

ALL MEXICO INTERESTED IN MORROW'S SUCCESS

Finance Minister's Forthcoming Visit Also Focuses Interest on the United States.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, June 16.—Mexicans are keenly interested in the New Jersey primary elections for Senator, and with most of the American colony here they hope for the success of Ambassador Morrow.

Mexico also is greatly interested in the forthcoming visit to the United States of Luis Montes de Oca, Minister of Finance, and a group of financial experts, who will hold a series of conferences with Thomas P. Lamont's committee of bankers. They will seek for a new international debt pact, following Mexico's default in payment of interest since Jan. 1, 1928.

Mexico's representatives probably will leave here before the end of the week, and their conferences in the United States probably will last less than ten days. Among the subjects to be dealt with may be some definite proposals for the rehabilitation of the Mexican railways. This subject must figure prominently in the conversations and will doubtless be accorded serious consideration by the bankers, who have the assurance of General Calles that what may be proposed will be complied with.

In general terms, the Mexican-American situation is considered likely in the near future to reach a stage that will see another debt agreement closed, with such relations as will enable Ambassador Morrow to take his definite leave, with his Mexican task brought to completion and with such satisfactory relations between Mexico City and Washington as have not existed for many years.

WILL CHECK IMPULSES ON RADIO PICTURES

Special Operators on Land to Compare Results Before Photos Are Broadcast to Liner.

Photoradio recording equipment has been installed at Somerville, N. J., as a link in the chain of facsimile picture reception planned for the liner America when that vessel sails from Germany on Thursday for the United States, according to the Radio Corporation of America. During the return voyage of the America a daily picture service of an experimental nature will be carried on with equipment installed on the ship before it sailed from New York recently. The equipment at Somerville is to provide an opportunity for two special operators to give the photoradio transmissions the final check before they are broadcast.

Transmission of facsimile matter is centred in 66 Broad Street, New York, where scanning machines pick up the relative picture values from the originals and transform them into impulses of electricity. These are carried by wire to transmitters located at Rocky Point, L. I., and New Brunswick, N. J. All the pictures sent to the America, however, will be from the New Brunswick station.

Land wires from the New York office go directly to the transmitter, through the Somerville station, which is situated well away from man-made static and interference. At that point the two operators maintain machines which turn part of the electrical energy of the line wires into pictures again. They also receive the transmissions of the New Brunswick station, so an actual comparison of the wire or radio signals in picture form can be made.

Announce Teachers' Leaves Soon.

The list of teachers receiving leaves of absence this semester will be made public within a few days, George J. Ryan, president of the Board of Education, announced yesterday, following the receipt of a protest from the Teachers' Union, which declared that the delay in publishing the names was hampering the instructors' preparations.

CUSTOMS BOAT RESCUES 42.

Boys Adrift on Raft and Party on Stalled Boat Towed Ashore.

Forty youths and girls, presumably Jerseyites, and two Brooklyn boys yesterday were praising the Customs Harbor Patrol, whose vililance and energy, usually directed to frustrating rum-runners, was diverted Sunday afternoon and evening to acts of rescue.

Customs Launch 514, in charge of Inspector James Asten, it was revealed, was cruising in the upper bay near Red Hook Flats, when it sighted a raft drifting on a strong current toward the Narrows. Two boys on it were calling for help. Inspector Asten threw them a line and towed the raft to the Erie Basin, Brooklyn. The boys identified themselves as Janes Lynch, 11 years old, of 92 Coffey Street, and Harold Grant, 13, of 369 Van Brunt Street.

The second act of rescue was performed when the 514 came upon the motor boat Tuscan, whose eengine had gone dead near the Bay Ridge Flats. The boat, in charge of the owner, Arthur Schwehr of 909 New Road, North Bergen, N. J., was towed to Beard's shipyard in the Erie Basin. Later the young people aboard it were taken to Edgewater, N. J.

25,000 ON THE MALL HEAR GOLDMAN BAND

Director Warmly Greeted at Opening of Summer Concerts in Central Park.

A. B. A. MARCH A FEATURE

Bandmaster's Composition Has Its First Hearing—A Varied Program Suited to Many Tastes.

The Goldman Band, Edwin Franko Goldman directing, gave the first concert of its thirteenth season last evening on the Mall in Central Park. Almost 25,000 people filled every available seat before the shell, and many stood on the hill behind it, far in the rear on all sides of those who were fortunate enough to secure seats, and there were scores on the benches within earshot. The total number of hearers was greatly swelled by the microphone which stood at the edge of the platform.

The donors of the concerts "for the benefit and enjoyment of the people of New York," Daniel and Murry Guggenheim, were there to greet the bandmaster on the opening night, as were many well-known figures in city affairs.

Boy Scouts served as ushers through an arrangement between Mr. Goldman and Charles H. Crosley, Deputy Scout Commissioner of Manhattan. They assisted the uniformed police, though the order and quiet of the large crowd was notable.

When the director appeared on the platform he was cordially welcomed by the auditors. The sixty odd instrumentalists were clad in cool white. Their leader differed only in his blue coat. From the symphony of the Winter, only the harp and basses stood out and the spectators saw instead euphoniums, trombones, trumpets, clarinets and a bewildering array of woodwind, brass and percussion instruments.

The program was calculated to fit many tastes. Opening with Carl Goldmark's Oriental Processional March from "The Queen of Sheba," it proceeded to Mendelssohn's romantic overture, "Ruy Blas;" the soaring chorale from Bach's cantata, "Awake, the Voice Calls;" the introduction to the third act and the favorite bridal chorus from Wagner's "Lohengrin;" Chabrier's rhythmic "España," Bellstedt's Fantasie "Princess Alice" for cornet solo, with the veteran Del Staigers; Tchaikovsky's fourth symphony and Rachmaninoff's C sharp minor Prelude. Mr. Goldman's latest march—A.B.A.—dedicated to the American Bandmaster's Association, received its first hearing at this concert. There were, of course, several encores, among them, Victor Herbert's "Punchinello."

The evening was ideal for outdoor music. The sky did not darken until some time after the intermission, and even then the electric lamps and signs in the skyscrapers furnished sufficient illumination for the assembly.

Tomorrow's concert will be the opening of the series at New York by Lake, Wagner, Bach, Humperdinck, Chabrier, Puccini, Ochs and Bellstedt.

Louis Albert Duhain, a real estate operator, who was cut off in the will of his wife, Mrs. Ida Yates Duhain, lost a share in an estate of $1,421,071, according to the appraisal of Mrs. Duhain's estate filed yesterday. Mrs. Duhain, who was the widow of Simon R. Weil, and married M. Duhain on July 23, 1927, made her will on Nov. 22 of that year. In it she deprived him of any share in her property "for reasons best known to him." She died on March 29, 1928. Her husband tried unsuccessfully to break the will.

The will gave $203,267 each, as a fifth of the residuary estate, to the Salvation Army, the New York Skin and Cancer Hospital, the New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, the Home for the Aged of the Little Sisters of the Poor, and St. Vincent's Hospital. The proceeds of jewelry, sold for $19,075, went to the Cathedral of St. John the Divine for a niche in memory of Mrs. Duhain's former husband. Her sister, Mrs. Clara Y. Matthias got $20,000 in cash, while $50,000 went to the latter's son, Edwin F. Matthias.

The bulk of the estate consisted of securities worth $1,169,000, which included $211,529 of New York City corporate stock.

Mrs. Rhinelander's Will Filed.

Mrs. Katherine Blake Rhinelander, widow of Thomas Newbold Rhinelander, lawyer and member of a prominent New York family, left her estate, valued at more than $10,000, entirely to her daughter, Frederica Landon of New Canaan, Conn., according to her will filed for probate yesterday in Surrogate's Court. Mrs. Landon is executrix, and her husband, Harold M. Landon, is co-executor. The will was signed on April 19, 1929. It was witnessed by Grace A. Haskin of East Orange and George W. Wickersham.

Colonel Williams's Estate to Family.

The will of Colonel Timothy S. Williams of Brooklyn and Huntington, L. I., former president of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit System, who died in Manhattan of heat exhaustion on June 3, was filed for probate in Suffolk County Surrogate's Court today, but no petition showing the estate's value was filed. To the widow, Mrs. Alice W. Williams, is left all furnishings, bric-a-brac, silverware, jewelry and personal effects, including live stock and automobiles, in the two homes, and she is intrusted to distribute certain family furniture and silverware to Mr. Williams's sister and two brothers.

Mrs. Williams is named trustee of a trust fund of $30,000 created for Alice W. McDonnell, the testator's niece, with the provision that as much as is necessary for Miss McDonnell's support, maintenance and education be spent from the income, the remainder of the income to be added to the principal, which Miss McDonnell is to receive at the age of 35. If she dies the principal and what is left of the income is to revert to the residuary estate. The Brooklyn Trust Company is made trustee of a $100,000 trust fund for a sister, Miss Bess M. Williams, who is to receive the income during her lifetime and to have the power to dispose of the principal by will.

The income of the residuary estate is to go to the widow and at her death the principal is to go to Miss Bess Williams, Chauncey E. and Herbert H. Williams, brothers, and Miss McDonnell, in four equal parts. The widow and the Mechanic's Bank of Brooklyn are named as executors. The will was dated June 30, 1915.

URGES CIRCUITS OF STOCK COMPANIES

POOR BUSINESS DESCRIBED

Chairman Houtain Tells Convention That He Objects to Dictation of Labor Unions.

Unusually poor theatrical business in stock theatres, caused chiefly by the current depression, labor union demands and competition from the talking pictures, was the chief topic discussed at the opening session of the third annual convention of the Theatrical Producing Managers' Association, representing approximately eighty-seven stock managers, of whom about sixty are active, at the Hotel Pennsylvania yesterday afternoon. Only a few members attended the meeting, over which George Julian Houtain, general counsel and executive chairman of the organization, presided.

Frank Gillmore, president of the Actors' Equity Association, advised the stock managers to keep abreast of changing conditions. He urged that the quality of the companies be maintained in order to cope with the strong competition faced by them throughout the country. Another difficulty of the stock situation, he said, was that the New York market did not supply enough plays suitable for the smaller cities.

"Unfortunately, New York is the only large producing centre in the country, and the playwrights cater only to the metropolitan taste," Mr. Gillmore pointed out. "I think that the situation will be improved in the near future. I am told that the Erlanger office intends to use Los Angeles as a production centre, and I am glad to hear that."

Many competent actors, Mr. Gillmore asserted, are not available for stock because of the arduous task of learning a new part every week. A solution for this would be a circuit of three or four theatres in neighboring communities, through which an actor would be given at least three weeks to prepare a rôle. The Equity head added that he was planning to interest capital in such a venture.

As Mr. Gillmore was about to depart he was asked to take this message back to Equity from Mr. Houtain: "I believe in the efficacy and worthwhileness of labor unions, and I am unalterably opposed to bringing down salaries to a minimum. But I object to having a labor union dictate to me the number of workmen I need and the number I must employ. One of the reasons why the stock business is in the condition it is, is that a great deal of the money paid out goes to the men behind the scenes who pull ropes and arrange sets to the detriment of actors' salaries and managers' profits."

Invitations to attend yesterday's meeting had been extended to the heads or representatives of the stage hands, scenic artists and musicians unions and Dramatists' Guild, Mr. Houtain said, but none were present.

Others who spoke were Frank Miller, representing the play brokers; James Thatcher, who controls a circuit of New England stock companies; Wales Winter, a casting agent, and Charles Champlain, a stock manager.

Analyzing the poor business in the stock theatres, Mr. Thatcher said: "Until we can compete with the entertainment the talking picture houses give our business is going to be bad. Personality is what counts in stock. Then, I think we have been giving our customers too many clean comedies. Plays that are a little risqué have as much appeal in Hartford, Springfield and Providence as they have in New York. I'm going to try out that policy from now on, even if I do lose money on it."

The sessions today and tomorrow will be open only to members of the organization. On Wednesday the election of officers will be held.

PRESTON STURGES WINS MEGRUE PRIZE OF $500

'Strictly Dishonorable' Receives Award of Dramatists' Guild of the Authors' League.

"Strictly Dishonorable" has been awarded the Megrue Prize of $500 by the Dramatists' Guild of the Authors' League of America, Inc., it was announced last night. Under the terms of the award the Guild annually selects a play, written by a member of the Guild and produced in New York City, "which makes the audience a little brighter and a little more cheered when it leaves the theatre than when it came in." Preston Sturges, author of "Strictly Dishonorable," will receive the prize. Besides the comedy now running on Broadway, Mr. Sturges wrote "Recapture," produced during the past season, and "The Guinea Pig."

The prize to "Strictly Dishonorable" is the second of ten annual awards to be made, the first having gone to "Little Accident." A fund of $5,000 was donated to the Dramatists' Guild for the series by the late Roi Cooper Megrue and his mother, Stella Cooper Megrue.

VOTES APPROVAL OF LEGGE.

Senate Committee Also Backs Reappointment of Teague.

WASHINGTON, June 16 (AP).—The Senate Agriculture Committee is willing to give Alexander Legge, the chairman of the Farm Board, an opportunity to finish the work he started a year ago in administering the new farm act, and today unanimously approved his nomination for reappointment.

Mr. Legge's nomination, along with that of C. C. Teague of California, representing fruit and vegetables, was laid before the Senate without comment and early confirmation is in prospect, although there is no assurance of unanimous approval there.

While President Hoover renominated Mr. Legge for the full six-year term, friends of the chairman understand that he intends to stay for only a year or so in order to get the work of the board well established.

SCREEN NOTES.

Betty Compton, who appeared here in the musical comedy "Fifty Million Frenchmen" and who was engaged by Warner Brothers a month ago to act in a talking picture skit called "The Legacy," filmed in Hollywood, has been awarded a long-term contract, it was announced yesterday. Miss Compton expects to leave for California some time this week.

Beginning Friday, Gilda Gray, dancer and film player, will appear at the Roxy in a specially devised stage presentation called "Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp." Miss Gray will be at the theatre for one week.

HOLD A CLOSED MEETING.

Theatrical Producers Said to Have Discussed Vestal Copyright Bill.

Theatrical managers and producers held a closed meeting at the Hotel Astor yesterday afternoon. Afterward William A. Brady, who called the theatrical men together, refused to tell what had happened, stating that the meeting was "a purely private matter" and that those present had agreed no statement was to be made. It is understood, however, that the principal point of discussion was the Vestal copyright bill, to which many managers are opposed since its provisions give authors the control over every right of their works.

Mr. Brady, then recovering from his recent operation, appeared in Washington on May 19 before the House Committee on Patents to voice the claims of theatrical producers in respect to the bill.

"The Long Road" to Be Tried Out.

"The Long Road," a play by Hugh Stanislaus Stange, which deals with the effect of the World War on an American family, is scheduled to be tried out by Herman Gantvoort for two weeks, beginning July 14. The play, which is listed for September presentation on Broadway, will have a cast numbering twenty-five. The leading rôles in the tryout engagement will be acted by Otto Kruger, Sue MacManamy, Paul Kelly and Claude Cooper. Mr. Stange, another of whose plays, "After Tomorrow," is soon to be produced by John Golden, will stage "The Long Road."

New Numbers in "Garrick Gaieties."

Two numbers have been added to "The Garrick Gaieties" at the Guild Theatre. One of them is a sketch dealing with the difficulties of buying theatre tickets at the box office. It is the work of Gretchen Damrosch Finletter. The other is a song, "The Last of the Red Hot Monarchs," by Thomas M. Knight and Charles Schwab.

Jocelyn Lee, Film Actress, Marries.

LOS ANGELES, June 16 (AP).—Jocelyn Lee, film actress, and Luther Reed, director, were married here last night. Dr. James H. Lash, pastor of the Hollywood Congregational Church, performed the ceremony before a small group of friends of the couple.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"Mystery Moon" is scheduled for a postponed opening next Monday evening at the Royale Theatre. "Stepping Sisters," now at the Royale, will move at that time to the Theatre Masque.

Charles Richman has succeeded Carl Anthony in the rôle of Judge Dempsey in "Strictly Dishonorable." Mr. Anthony, who created the part, is now on vacation.

"Change Your Luck," the Negro musical show which began an engagement at the George M. Cohan Theatre on June 6, will be withdrawn after Thursday night's performance.

Craig Ward last night appeared in "The First Mrs. Fraser" in place of Lawrence Grossmith, who was suffering from a cold. Mr. Grossmith is expected to return to the cast tonight.

Joseph Macaulay has been engaged by Arthur Hammerstein for the musical version of "The Bird of Paradise." Mr. Macaulay is now in Hollywood, where he recently appeared in Mr. Hammerstein's first talking picture, "The Lottery Bride."

The Hampton Players will begin their Summer season of productions in Southampton, East Hampton, Quogue and West Hampton on July 2 at Southampton. Rehearsals will begin today for the first play, "Let's Get Married," a new comedy by Frances Goodrich and Albert Hackett. H. C. Potter and George Haight will manage the company.

Jacob A. Weiser will again give his courses on "Playwriting Principles" and "Playwriting Practice" at this Summer's evening sessions of the College of the City of New York.

Sidney Ross, who intends to become an independent producer here next season, is interested in the French engagement of Vsevolod Meyerhold and his Russian theatre, according to word from Mr. Ross in Paris. Meyerhold, who may later come to New York, will begin his French season tonight with Gogol's "Revizor," which Jed Harris will present here in the Fall under its American title of "The Inspector General."

COHAN REVIVES HIS 'SONG AND DANCE MAN'

Curtis	Harry Lillford
Charles B. Nelson	Robert Middlemass
Joseph Murdock	Jack Leslie
"Hap" Farrell	George M. Cohan
Crowley	Jack Williams
Jim Craig	Edward F. Nannary
Jane Rosemond	Mary Philips
Mrs. Lane	Eda von Buelow
Leola Lane	Isabel Baring
Freddie	Manuel Duarte
Miss Davis	Jane Thomas
Tom Crosby	Joseph Allen
Anna	Harriet Keen

The lights in front of the Fulton Theatre last night brightly spelled out the name of George M. Cohan. Less vividly did they illuminate the title of the play, "The Song and Dance Man." But they were just about right in the relative importance they gave to player and vehicle, for after a matter of six years this "American comedy," to quote from the billing, remains about what it was before—a desultory, rather rickety and frankly sentimental tale of the theatre in which Mr. Cohan, a First Actor of many seasons' standing, achieves one of the finest performances of his career.

Many of those who saw Mr. Cohan's play when it was new in this town have doubtless forgotten the details of its hokum story, but it seems unlikely that they have forgotten his characterization. That, at least, has not been affected by the passing seasons. It should be good news for lovers of acting to learn this morning that Mr. Cohan's portrait of the kerosene circuit hoofer is still full length and complete in every particular. In his hands the vaudevillian of a vanishing tribe is drawn with tenderness, understanding and with a sympathetic humor. There is in the creation, too, what seems to be a touch of nostalgia for an era almost gone from the theatre, for the halcyon days when the Four Cohans flourished. The impersonation is, in sum, a perfect thing of its kind, and it calls forth once again the huzzas that were sounded on Mr. Cohan's behalf when he performed last August in "Gambling."

The play, as indicated, provides a far from flawless setting. But it is no more than a setting, and the brilliance of the central characterization helps to minimize its defects.

Of the members of Mr. Cohan's stock company, Mary Philips stands out for her performance of a quick-tongued boarding house chatelaine. Edward Nannary depicts admirably the humors of an unimaginative police officer trying to be coy and subtle, and Joseph Allen was applauded last night for some jokes that were far from fresh.

OLCOTT PLANS DEBUT FOR GIRL PIANIST SOON

Noted Singer Returns From Europe With Wife and Their Adopted Daughter, 13.

Chauncey Olcott, noted singer of Irish ballads and for many years a favorite on the American stage, arrived in New York yesterday morning on the Cosulich liner Vulcania after more than seven months in Europe.

Accompanying the singer were his wife and their 13-year-old daughter, Janet, whom they "discovered" in Monte Carlo last year and whom Paderewski considers a great pianist, according to Mr. Olcott. It is expected that she will make her musical début within a year.

At the Hotel St. Regis, where he is staying for a few days before going to Saratoga Springs for the Summer, the singer, who will be 70 years old on July 21, said present-day living conditions, music and the theatre were "finer than they ever were." In Italy he said he found conditions under the dictatorship of Mussolini "greatly improved."

RIDICULOUS.

Senator REED of Pennsylvania said in his speech last Thursday: "I think the farm rates, the rates "in the agricultural schedules gen"erally, are ridiculous." But on Sunday President HOOVER stated that most of the increases in the tariff are "largely directed to the interests of the farmer." Summing up the advantages of the bill, as against what he admitted to be its many "inequitable compromises," he ranked high the fact that it "gives "protection to agriculture for the "market of its products." Yes, the indignant farmers will say, but marketing at what price? Senator WATSON, who magnificently predicted that the tariff would at once put everything on the up grade, ought to be specially interested in the dispatches from Chicago showing that the break in wheat down to 95 cents a bushel is there attributed in part to the effect of tariff legislation which, on the sacred and magical Republican theory, was going to boost the price of all farm products. Similarly the new bill was to relieve the stock market of all its haunting anxieties and start everybody cheering for the Republican party, that alone knew how to bring back prosperity in full tide. But that old gospel could be preached today in Wall Street only with the accompaniment of jeers and hoots.

It is a good thing to have these ancient superstitions about the tariff get so rude a jar just as the new bill is about to become law. The claims made for it have been "ridiculous," and they are now proved to be so to the satisfaction of even the man in the street. An impartial and sober economist would not contend that the tariff has had much of anything to do with the general depression in business or with the further slump on the Stock Exchange and the decline in commodity prices. But the high priests of protectionism have appealed to the test of fact, and now they are confounded by their own faulty logic. They will have to confess either that they have been deceived themselves or have sought to deceive the people. At Washington and in every city where there is a market for securities and grain and cotton, the high tariff doctrinaires have these days a terrible amount of explaining to do. There is one true explanation which they will never give—namely, that bad luck has at last pursued and overtaken their bad reasoning. If ridicule can kill, politically, in this country, as it is said to do in France, the Republican party will have to pay a very high premium for life insurance.

THE IRREPRESSIBLE CONFLICT.

Is this 1928 or 1930? Triumvir HILL of Binghamton is firm for the earlier date so far as prohibition is concerned. He wants the Republican State Convention to repeat the law enforcement resolution of the National Republican Convention of 1928. That binds the Republican Party to "the observance and vigorous enforcement" of the Eighteenth Amendment. To such theoretical observance and enforcement, so long as the amendment stands, every party must commit itself. It was notorious in 1928 that large numbers of New York Republicans were opposed to the amendment. In two years the agitation for its repeal has grown enormously. The evidences of this even among sturdy Drys in Congress and in many States are so many and so strong that only a temporizing politician would think of blinking them.

The division between Wet and Dry Republicans grows sharper every day. There can be no ground of compromise between them. A cowardly silence, an attempt to find a middle position, the rehearsal of an outworn patter, will not serve. The report of the subcommittee on legislation of the New York County Advisory Committee recommends the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and, preliminary to and more immediately practical than that, a redefinition of "intoxicating liquor" consonant with common sense and fact instead of the humbug which Congress, in the high noon of the Anti-Saloon League, put into the Volstead law. The majority of city Republicans and a growing number of up-State Republicans will approve these attempts to do something to remedy an intolerable situation.

It is not proposed to keep the States that wish to be Dry from being as Dry as they can. It is proposed to restore, in LINCOLN'S words, "the right of each State to "order and control its own domestic "institutions according to its own "judgment exclusively." There can be no harmony between principles that are deadly opposites. The standpatters on the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead act cannot live together with the Republicans who are determined to make that act reasonable and sane and tear that amendment from the Constitution. One side or the other must lose. The Republican Party of New York, so long committed to a policy which the people of the State have emphatically rejected, ought to have learned before this that evasion, trimming, make-believe, do not pay.

ANY DELAY VALUABLE.

The Republican leader in the Board of Aldermen, Mr. BALDWIN, promises to do what he can to slow the legislative machinery on the sweeping increases in the salaries of high city officials approved by the Board of Estimate. With an overwhelming and presumably docile majority against him, the vigorous minority spokesman can probably do no more by refusing unanimous consent for immediate consideration than to obtain a short delay. If he can prevail upon the city's masters to order adequate hearings, so that the growing chorus of dissent can be expressed for the official record, he will have accomplished a large service. But the success of that effort will depend upon the mood of the Mayor and of Tammany.

Among the unsatisfactory phases of the $519,000 increase its sudden and secret adoption calls for disapproval. Budgets are supposed to be made in the open, with opportunity afforded all persons in interest to be heard on the proposed items. If the alleged inequalities in city pay have appealed to MAYOR WALKER for remedy as long as he says they have, he should have mentioned his program in the course of his campaign for reelection. This is perhaps too much to expect of Tammany politicians. But it was not too much to have expected the Budget Director and the Board of Estimate to invite public discussion in advance of their summary action. The explanation is made that they wished to avert a rush of politicians demanding additional favors for particular officials. This is so weak as to be negligible. An administration with the power and the nerve to do some of the things which this one has done can always rely upon the Mayor's confessed leader, Mr. CURRY, to keep his subordinates from importunity.

If there were any sign of a Tammany minority with courage to express itself, the community might hope for a stay of the salaries in the Board of Aldermen. That body does not share in the plum shower. When it sought to declare itself in on the increases of the Mayor and the Borough Presidents, it was sternly told to "forget it." Perhaps an agreement already exists that the board will be permitted to increase compensation for the members of the next elected board. This will not be so cruel as it sounds, because the Democratic machine can usually return every member who desires re-election. On such a promise the board may be expected to approve these increases as docilely as it did the last, leaving the community only such perfunctory hearing as the Mayor holds before he applies his signature to the rolls. But if the Board of Aldermen, through some miracle wrought by revolt or by the effort of Mr. BALDWIN, would order an adequate and free series of public hearings before agreeing to the rises, it would perform for this city the first important service we have had from it in a long time.

MR. GILBERT'S FINAL WORD.

PARKER GILBERT, writing his last report as Agent General for Reparations, takes particular pains to drive home the chief message of his successive statements. Once more the German people and their government are reminded that the Fatherland is doing remarkably well, but that it must watch its financial step. Admiration for Germany's recuperative powers and confidence in her future are coupled with outspoken criticism of a budgetary policy which has led to the present state of Treasury distress at Berlin. German revenues are ample, but the government has been spending without regard to income.

There are two main items in Mr. GILBERT'S friendly reminder. The system under which all tax collecting is done by the central government but the spending is divided between it and the communes is vicious. Reference to Mr. GILBERT'S earlier reports would show that in 1928-29 the central government handed over to the local authorities 38 per cent of its total income. In the estimates for 1929-30 it was 35 per cent, for by that year Mr. GILBERT'S criticisms were making themselves felt. Worse was the showing for new revenue. In 1926-27 less than 10 per cent of new income went to the communes; in the next year it was 30 per cent; in the next year it was 75 per cent. Only in the 1929-30 estimates was there a decrease. Here was a situation in which Berlin gathered taxes without having full control over their disposal while the communes merrily spent taxes without the pains or odium of collecting.

In the rising costs of unemployment insurance, Mr. GILBERT wants to know why the contributory payments to the insurance fund by employers and workers have not been raised so as to make the fund self-sustaining. From $60,000,000 Federal money spent on unemployment insurance in 1924-25 the increase has been more than fivefold to $320,000,000 in 1929-30. But Mr. GILBERT sees clearly enough the magnitude of the unemployment problem and sees it in a brighter light from the long-distance view. If more than 2,500,000 German workers are now without employment, this does not mean the progressive collapse of the industrial order, as the ardent Communist might be tempted to argue. According to Mr. GILBERT the total employment in Germany today is higher by three or four millions than in the year before the war. Not far from a million men were absorbed by army and navy before the war. The war effort drew into industry great numbers of women workers of whom not all have departed. Many thousands of former well-to-do citizens, ruined by post-war inflation and deflation, have joined the army of employment, or unemployment. Taking all such factors into account, as Mr. GILBERT does, there is no need to despair of the future of the German people. But the government must watch its purse.

NARCOTIC CONTROL.

When Congressman PORTER, heading the American delegation to the convention of the Opium Advisory Committee of the League of Nations, left in 1925 and refused to have anything further to do with the League's activities in that line, he did not drop his labors for the reduction of drug manufacture and the control of importations. His bill for abolishing the Federal Narcotic Control Board and establishing a bureau separate from the Prohibition Enforcement Bureau had the support of the Bar Association here and many national associations of medical men, druggists and social workers. It has now become a law, and the Commissioner of Narcotics, to be appointed by the President, will assume the duties of the former control board with new powers for preventing the spread of illicit drug using.

At present the estimates of Mr. PORTER and of Judge COLLINS of the Court of General Sessions of New York indicate that about 166,000 addicts cause an annual economic loss to the country of a billion dollars. While this includes loss of earning capacity, losses by robberies, the cost of prosecuting dope peddlers and smugglers and of caring for them and criminal addicts in prisons and hospitals, it cannot include the sufferings of the victims nor the possibilities of spreading the habit. In the June Forum LYMAN BEECHER STOWE has an article on the menace of the drug traffic. He emphasizes the danger to young people, even children of respectable families, who think of the narcotic habit as being confined to the underworld and the Orient.

The men at the head of drug rings are not themselves users of cocoaine or of any of the opium derivatives. Secretary JOHN COTTER of the New York Narcotic Survey Committee believes that no criminal of brains and major infamy can be an addict. But many of the peddlers are their own best customers, and they are always trying to win converts to the habit, even though in their lucid moments they may loathe it in themselves. One of the outstanding characteristics of the addict is his zeal and ingenuity in getting others to try his favorite drug. He and his unfortunate companions have a technique which works particularly well with youngsters. No young man of spirit wants to be told that he is not a good sport, that he is afraid to try it just once. In her book, "The Ethics of Opium," ELLEN LA MOTTE says that one-third of the addicts acquire the habit before they are 20 and half before they are 25.

In New York there have been instances of high school pupils approached by narcotic agents. They are, happily, few enough, so that in Brooklyn, when a boy of 16 was discovered to possess a considerable quantity of drugs, the authorities were puzzled because of a lack of precedents. District Attorney TUTTLE, describing the drug traffic as "a subtle, menacing and sinister movement at the root of crime," has suggested that an organization of physicians should determine the amount needed for their profession. Then the Government would have a basis for limiting production, which is now far in excess of what is needed for medical and scientific uses.

PROGRESSIVE REGULARS.

In the proceedings of last week's State Conference, called by courtesy "State Convention," of the Wisconsin regular Republicans, the resolution asking Congress for a national referendum on prohibition invited the most general attention. This was a kind of counsel of perfection, looking vaguely to a perhaps long future. The meeting was notable as marking a new and rather curious step in the evolution of the Stalwart faction, so long somewhat inept and futile. When it escaped from Senator LENROOT and former Governor ZIMMERMANN and nominated and elected WALTER J. KOHLER for Governor, it showed itself the real reform and progressive party. Governor KOHLER has accomplished in his first term improvements in the State Government which the Lafollettians, whose interest in the party machine seems to be much stronger than their interest in the machinery of government, should have brought about long before.

A State budgeting system has been set up. Mr. KOHLER has reorganized the purchasing department and the civil service, consolidated five bureaus into a Department of Agriculture, and so on. He promised a business administration. He has kept his promise. His program is by no means completed. He has even dared to intrude upon the Lafollettian monopoly of "social justice." A commission is studying the educational system of the State. Intelligent and humane legislation for the protection of juvenile dependents and delinquents has been passed. The so-called Progressives felt that he was a dangerous man. Vainly they sought to get rid of him for alleged violation of the Corrupt Practices act. That prosecution added to the number of his friends. He was renominated on his merits. A full ticket of State officers was named. The primaries will decide whether Wisconsin wants an effectual reform in the State Government or government by promise, declamation and "ring."

The permanent chairman of the Oshkosh Conference asked for > action to liberalize the party, and to that end invite within its fold that vast army of citizens who feel that the common good can best be served by a liberalizing dictated and supported by the masses, who by inclination and temperament make up the middle of the road between the reactionary and the radical, a space which provides common ground for the greatest political effort Wisconsin has ever known.

While the masses receive too many invitations to accept them all, and Wisconsin is peculiarly rich in "greatest political effort," it is clear that the Badger Lafollettians have found in Governor KOHLER the toughest nut they have had to crack since the time of the late Governor EMANUEL LORENZ PHILIPP.

DISRUPTION IN CHINA.

Turmoil in China has become so confusing that even there conflicting opinions are expressed about what is actually occurring. It may be said that the Nationalists, under CHIANG KAI-SHEK, are endeavoring to hold the Yangtse Valley and part of Shantung Province against the Northerners under FENG and YEN and the Southerners who have designated themselves as "Communists." If there were unity of purpose between the Northern and Southern groups, the fate of the Nationalists would be sealed. But there are as many differences between the "Communists" and the Northerners as between either and the Nationalists. Meantime, the young Manchurian war lord who has been on the fence during the last few months is reported to be contemplating mediation.

This phase of the revolution differs from that of 1927. There is now no indication that foreign nations are backing one or other of the factions, and the Nationalists no longer are well financed. When the big Nationalist drive began from Canton three years ago Russian agents had for months been training and advising the leaders. There is no sign that Russians are actively helping the present day "Communists." Incidentally, the Russians in those days had no thought of spreading Communism throughout China. Their support of the Nationalists—later withdrawn after a quarrel—was merely an incident in the anti-British efforts of the Soviets. The Nationalists then had funds. Today they are hard pressed for money.

The tragedy lies in the inability of Chinese leaders to cooperate. Time may show that pessimists have been right in insisting that real unification of China is impossible until roads and railroads have been built throughout the entire vast territory. The struggle for power has, in a sense, been stimulated by the lack of a national consciousness. As loyalty has been to the leader, the clan or the region, rather than to the nation, it has been hard for any clique, which like the Nationalists for a time held the semblance of power over most of China, to obtain faithful support from others than their immediate followers.

Most discouraging in the reports from China is the emergence again of old-time war lords. Once more the name of WU PEI-FU is in the dispatches, with SUN CHUAN-FANG, both of whom disappeared when the Nationalists pressed their successful campaign from the Yangtse Valley northward. Except for the absence of CHANG TSO-LIN, who died two years ago, and the presence of CHIANG KAI-SHEK, who, until 1927 was of only local fame, the news now reads as a decade ago. Every man is out for himself. Meanwhile, the unfortunate people in the regions of the campaign pay for cost of the armies. Is this, after all, true "normalcy" for modern China?

ELMER A. SPERRY.

"The lot of every one of us," wrote HORACE, "is tossing about in "the urn, destined sooner or later "to come forth and place us in "Charon's boat for everlasting "exile." This time the lot has come forth for one whose going the whole planet will regret. A passenger on the high seas, remembering the fate of Palinurus, wrote of this great inventor whose mechanical helmsman, called familiarly the "Metal Mike," now guides great ships to their desired havens:

> Now is old Palinurus' occupation >   gone;
> It has been taken o'er by one >   named SPERRY
> Who has installed a "Metal Mike" >   instead—
> He'll soon be putting one on >   Charon's ferry.

Unhappily for us who still remain this side the River of Woe, Mr. SPERRY has gone to his "aeturnum exsilium," but he has left among men an everlasting fame, and imagination allows one to think of his inventive spirit making suggestions to the ferryman about improving service in the crossing for the benefit of those who have to take it later. For Mr. SPERRY was ever thinking of how he might make the dwellers on earth a little more at ease whether on sea or land or in the air. For those who travel by sea he provided not only the pilot who whatever betides holds his rudder true, but also a "stabilizer" to prevent the rolling of the ship and a device for signaling to prevent collisions. For those who travel by air he has helped to maintain the equilibrium of their planes and to lessen the peril of fire and to penetrate the fog. Toward the end of his long series of inventions he perfected an instrument for detecting the slightest imperfection in a steel rail.

What his born genius for invention would have done for a slower-going civilization one cannot imagine, so closely has it been associated with the swifter agents of this mobile age. He would have been put among the Titans in the ancient Greek age. But with all his seemingly miraculous achievements, he who harnessed the motion of the earth to do his bidding was a gentle human being, generous in his sympathies and beloved in his own person. America, claiming him for her own and proud of his contributions, which were recognized by the highest honor bestowed by his own profession in his own country, remembers with special satisfaction that he was acclaimed by his fellow-engineers of the world when he presided at the International Congress of Electrical Engineers in Japan last year.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

New Light on an Old Census. Health Commissioner WYNNE argues correctly that the 1930 Federal Census figures for the population of Manhattan throw serious doubt on the much-debated figures of the 1925 State census. Whether that enumeration undercounted Manhattan by a full 100,000, as the Department of Health now maintains, is, of course, conjecture, but undercounting there unquestionably was. Dr. WYNNE contends that the decline in Manhattan's population between the Federal censuses of 1920 and 1930 gives an average annual shrinkage almost exactly coinciding with the annual estimates of the Registrar of Vital Statistics, but 20,000 less annually than the average implied in the 1925 census.

Perhaps a clearer way of putting it would be to say that if the 1925 census were correct the decrease in Manhattan would have been 340,000 people from 1920 to 1925 and only 88,500 from 1925 to 1930. Undoubtedly the migration from Manhattan during the first half of the decade in the immediate after-war years was heavier than in the second part, but it seems unlikely that the shrinkage after 1925 was reduced as much as 75 per cent. If we assume that the 1925 State census undercounted Manhattan by 50,000, it would still show a loss of population before 1925 twice as great as in the five years after 1925.

A Polyglot Congress. Literally scores of addresses are to be delivered before the World Power Conference in Berlin. Each lecturer speaks his mother tongue. How are Americans, Englishmen, Frenchmen, Japanese, Germans and the rest to understand one another? The problem has been solved and the feat already performed successfully with characteristic engineering ingenuity and efficiency.

At least six languages are represented. Most engineers understand English, French and German. Translations of all papers are made into these. Microphones placed before the interpreters are connected with telephone head sets supplied to the audience. Behind the speaker are six signal lamps, each standing for a language. The Italian lamp glows. Fifty-odd Italians in the audience sit back and listen to a description of hydroelectricity's economic future in Italy. The rest of the audience clasps head sets to its ears and listens to a French, German or English translation by one of three interpreters. All three are delivered simultaneously.

The hearer has only to select the one he wants. If the paper is very long and the strain on an interpreter too great, another takes his place at the end of a predetermined paragraph. The volume may be regulated by any member of the audience from a mere whisper to a deafening bellow. It is probably the first time in history that so many attendants on a congress have followed the proceedings with telephone receivers.

Literary Side of Polo. Few team captains—none of polo—have combined an ability to write about their play with the power of action. THOMAS HITCHCOCK Jr., the young captain of the American four which is to meet the British team at Meadow Brook this Fall, seems to be an exception. He has issued a manual for candidates which does credit both to his knowledge of the game and his skill in English. Even Mr. KIPLING, who wrote the famous story of "The Maltese Cat," would not scorn as an introduction to a polo story what Captain HITCHCOCK says of the positions:

> In placing himself for a play the One should be a great optimist. The Two should be optimistic, but not unduly so. The Three should be on the pessimistic side, and the Back should be a conservative pessimist.

From stud-groom to the most dashing youngster on Old Aiken, those wise in the ways of polo will endorse that paragraph. When it is read in Great Britain perhaps greater doubt will arise whether a team headed by a ten-goal man able both to write and play can be defeated. Yet one of the reasons why Captain HITCHCOCK has sought to reduce to writing his large experience in polo is appreciation of the high quality of the invaders this year.

Blue Prints for Ariel. Consistent with the materialistic metaphysics of the Communist faith is the announcement at Moscow of a Five-Year Plan for art. If a decree of the Government Planning Department provides that in five years there should be an increase of 300 per cent in the output of boots, 150 per cent in the output of grain and 254 per cent, or approximately, in the output of horsepower, why not one stipulating that in five years the present 50,000 urban amateur theatrical groups shall rise to 84,000, and the 21,000 groups in the villages shall become no less than 385,000 groups?

Not only is the number of folk-theatres year by year set down in the new Five-Year Plan, but of course the subject matter and temper of the plays to be produced have been prescribed from the very beginning of the Soviet régime. The new drama, like the new fiction and plastic arts, is to be devoted to the furtherance of the proletarian ideal.

The outcome is not easy to predict. It may at first appear that an elaborate government program applied to the native Russian gift for dramatic spectacle and music ought to produce magnificent results. But considering that the Russian novel attained its extraordinary development in the nineteenth century under political despotism and an active censorship, it may be that under government encouragement and direction the Russian arts may perversely refuse to thrive. Genius has that unruly habit.

Morrow and Prohibition.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I share the admiration for Dwight Morrow felt by every American who is familiar with his outstanding achievements in our industrial and political life. His intellectual power, his judicial poise, his habit of appealing to reason rather than prejudice command universal confidence and respect. But I cannot help feeling that there are flaws in the logic of his proposed remedy for the evils of prohibition.

He declares that he is opposed to the return of the saloon but at the same time advocates repealing the prohibition amendment and giving to the separate States the power to regulate the liquor trade. This would re-establish the status quo ante and wet States would undoubtedly permit the licensed saloon. It may be argued that the licensed saloon is preferable to the speakeasy, but is it logical to denounce the saloon and in the same breath advocate permitting each State to decide whether it will have the saloon or not?

Again, Mr. Morrow says that perhaps the greatest evil of prohibition is the widespread enmity toward the Federal Government which it has excited. He would, therefore, make the State and not the National Government the regulatory and punitive power. But at the same time he asserts that he favors the exercise of the Federal power to the nth degree in protecting the dry States from the wet States. Is there not a discrepancy here? On the one hand he proposes to relieve the Federal Government of the incubus of enforcement and on the other to greatly increase that incubus. For under his plan the Federal authorities would have to watch forty-eight frontiers instead of one frontier of importation, which would make "confusion worse confounded."

I opposed the adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment in its present form. I wished it to be not mandatory but permissive, like the Sixteenth Amendment, giving Congress the power to regulate the liquor traffic nationally. I believe that the Constitution is a document of general principles and not a book of statutory law. But at present it is not a theory but a condition that confronts us. The evils of an enforcement are manifest, but there is good authority for saying that as wise men we should "rather bear those ills we have than fly to others that we know not of." What assurance has Mr. Morrow given us, or can he give us, that his plan will lessen our troubles?

FUNDAMENTALS INVOLVED.

Mr. Roe's Argument on English War Debts Is Disputed.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Under the heading "Fundamentals Involved" James P. Roe favors the public with a letter on the English war debts. His entire argument is made, however, ineffective by an error that destroys his most important "fundamental." He states "that the American Government did actually cancel the debts incurred by England and the Allies for the common war effort. Practically only those debts incurred after the Armistice remain collectable according to the provisions of the World War debt funding arrangement concluded at Washington." This is absolutely contrary to the fact.

If Mr. Roe will examine the combined annual reports of the World War Foreign Debt Commission he will find on page 97 a report addressed to the President on the English debt, signed by Messrs. Mellon, Hughes, Hoover, Smoot and Burton, in which there is the following paragraph: "The payment of principal has been established on a basis of positive instalments of increasing volume, firmly establishing the principle of repayment of the entire capital sum. The payment of interest has been established at the approximately normal rates payable by strong governments over long terms of years."

The treasury reports repeatedly quote Mr. Mellon as stating that there has been no cancellation of the principal amounts of the loans, the only concessions being on interest on four of the thirteen debts.

The figures of the English debt clearly prove this. The original loan was 4,075 millions, to which was added 525 millions accrued interest, making 4,600 millions as the funded principal, which at the end of 62 years amounts to 11,106 millions. If this is carried out this country will have received over 4,300 millions more than she will have paid in paying off the bonds issued to finance this loan and the interest paid on same.

It is to the discredit, if not the disgrace, of this country that these loans have been treated as commercial debts while the circumstances attending their incurrence clearly show they were war subsidies.

UPON WHAT MEAT—?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It requires only a few United States Senators to discredit that entire body in the public estimation, but these few seem too often available.

Does any one of the members of the Foreign Relations Committee really intend the logical implication of his claim, as expressed by formal resolution, that he has a right to examine every note, letter and memorandum connected with the negotiation of any treaty? The plain implication is, of course, that hereafter the Senate wishes to take upon itself the negotiation as well as the ratification of treaties.

To reduce this to an absurdity, just imagine how far the present Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate would have got in negotiating the London naval treaty! Imagine such a committee, divided against itself politically or otherwise, with Senator Johnson spitting fire against the whole proceeding from the time the steamer left New York!

It is correct and necessary that Congressional committees should have as members some of the minority party, whose opposing views may serve as a check on the majority, but a delegation sent to represent the entire country in the negotiation of a treaty should be as harmonious and as loyal to the administration as possible. The delegates from other countries will supply all the opposing views that are needed.

Opportunity for Inventors.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Now that the legal machinery has been set to punish those who disturb our peace with loud-speakers at all hours of the day or night, a wonderful opportunity is offering itself to some enterprising inventor.

You sit in your home and you hear a terrible noise from a radio loud-speaker, but how are you to tell from which apartment it emanates? For instance, my back room faces about nine narrow buildings of three or four floors each. Some one in one of those houses and apartments has been violating the recent law, the first offender of which has already paid a fine of $100. And yet I have not been able to find out whence the sounds come, and am therefore unable to bring that person to the bar of justice.

If no sound-detecting instrument is available it should be invented at once. If such instrument is available on ships for other purposes, I am sure that it is very expensive, and it would be well for some one to bring out a sound detector which should sell for a quarter or thereabouts.

THE WRECK.

Wedged fast into a spit of sand,
  Careening on its side,
The old brig lies inanimate
  Till the incoming tide.

Then, when the waves rush madly up,
  Its rotting timbers strain
As if they felt the mighty surge
  Of ocean once again;

While wild as any prisoned thing,
  It struggles to be free—
To drift out where the breakers swirl
  And put once more to sea.

The wheel creaks (does a ghostly mate
  Resume his old command?)
Then tide recedes—again the wreck
  Lies bleaching on the sand!

PUBLIC UTILITY RATES.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I must acknowledge an obligation to John Bauer for his answers in THE TIMES to two questions of mine which, he says, "go to the fundamentals of rate control" of public utility companies. I cannot say, however, that I find his answers either convincing or satisfactory.

The first question dealt with the matter of what constituted the "investment" on which the rates should be based: whether the original sum or the compound of the original sum and all subsequent sums necessitated by replacement and extensions. Mr. Bauer's answer to this question is summarized in his statement: "As renewals are made they merely replace original property and do not involve any addition to net capital account."

Granted that renewals "do not involve any addition to net capital account," yet, if we consider facts, rather than the terminology of accounting, it will be admitted that they involve actual outlays of capital; call them deductions from net capital account or what you will. They represent expenditures that might otherwise have been reserved for the benefit of the stockholders. Were this not the case, there would be no difference in the situation between a company under the necessity of setting aside a reserve for depreciation and replacement and a company, if such there were, whose original investment was sufficient for all time. One might as well say that the cost of an article that is necessary to repair frequently is no greater than that of one so well made as to require practically no repairs.

My second question was: "Is a public utility corporation entitled to appropriate some of the benefits resulting from economies effected by its own engineering skill, or must all such benefits accrue to the consumers? Mr. Bauer's answer to this question is summarized in these statements: "From the standpoint of justice and fundamental legal requirement no allowance is necessary." "The company is * * * in duty bound to promote efficiency and economy to the utmost without additional compensation." "The special compensation, if provided for under administrable standards, should go to the managements and employes as bonuses or special compensation, instead of additional return to capital." In other words, according to Mr. Bauer, a public utility corporation is in duty bound to effect improvements and economies by the application of capital, not for the benefit of the public and its shareholders but for the benefit of the public and its working force. This is about as rational as if he had said that a public utility corporation is presumed to have invested its capital in the first instance, not for the purpose of profiting by serving the public, as in the case of private enterprises, but for the purpose of benefiting its employes by serving the public. Of course, every company, public or private, is at least morally bound to "promote efficiency and economy to the utmost," but this does not in itself mean that it is not entitled to share with the public the results of such efficiency and economy. Quite the reverse.

Mr. Bauer's theory is destructive of all private enterprise in the public utility field, in the form either of original investment or of improvement of service through the application of inventive skill to that end; for it is not possible to conceive of private capital being invested originally under the conditions that he predicates or, having been invested, of its further application to improved service with the removal of all rational incentive to achieve such improvement. Under those conditions there would be no alternative to public ownership and operation of utilities—perhaps, a consummation that Mr. Bauer may consider devoutly to be wished, but which a minimum of consideration might show to be calamitous from the point of view of the individual customer. It is only necessary to imagine the situation of a user of gas or electricity complaining to a government bureau about some defect in his service, to understand under which system, public or private, his interests would be best served.

That "the managements and employes" of public utility companies, and not "capital," in other words, the stockholders, should enjoy the benefits to be derived from improvements, as Mr. Bauer asserts, is an application of the basic principle of the socialistic economies of Karl Marx: the workers produce everything; capital, the fuel of enterprise, does no work; therefore, the workers are entitled to all the fruits of labor, and capital to none. A theory too absurd for reasoned refutation in the case of intelligent persons.

LORD DERBY'S APPRECIATION

And All Who Received Him Reciprocate the Feeling.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

My first impulse on arriving home is to express my appreciation of the kindness with which I was received in New York and elsewhere in your country. Everybody seemed to take pleasure in making my visit as enjoyable as possible.

I would like especially to convey my acknowledgments to the American newspapers for their friendly attitude from the moment of my arrival in the United States.

May I venture to express the hope that my reception in your great country symbolizes the friendship existing between the United States and Great Britain? It is on the continued close and amicable relations of our countries that the peace of the world depends, and I believe with most Englishmen that nothing is likely to disturb it.

ELMER SPERRY DIES; FAMOUS INVENTOR

PERFECTED GYRO COMPASS

Bachrach Studio.

ELMER A. SPERRY,

World-Famous Inventor Who Died Yesterday at the Age of 70.

Elmer A. Sperry, inventor, died yesterday morning at St John's Hospital, Brooklyn, from complications which set in after he had recovered from an operation for gallstones six weeks ago. He was in his seventieth year.

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 o'clock Thursday morning at the Plymouth Church, Orange Street, Brooklyn. The Rev. S. Parkes Cadman will officiate. Burial will follow in Greenwood Cemetery. The names of the honorary pallbearers will be announced later.

More than fifty years of Mr. Sperry's life had been devoted to invention. At his death, he was said to have taken out nearly 400 patents, about double the number taken out by Edison.

He is best known for his utilization of the gyroscope for the stabilization of ships, airplanes and aerial torpedoes. Only about two months ago a giant army bombing plane, equipped with two Sperry gyroscopes serving as automatic pilots, flew from Sacramento to San Francisco without the guidance of human hands.

He Invented Gyro Compass.

He also invented the gyro compass, which eliminated the variations due to the earth's magnetism. Next he invented "metal mike," the automatic steersman, which keeps a ship on a set course. Next he used it to stabilize ships and to keep them on an even keel in all kinds of weather. Later, he applied the gyroscope to airplanes, with devices to give fliers artificial horizons, enabling them to fly "blind" in dense fogs.

In addition, he invented new systems of street lighting, new machinery for mining, electric devices for trolley cars, an electric automobile, a lighting system for motion picture projection, an electric arc light, a high-power searchlight and electrochemical processes.

Elmer Ambrose Sperry was born in Cortland, N. Y., Oct. 12, 1860, son of Stephen Decatur and Mary (Borst) Sperry, and a descendant of Richard Sperry, who, in 1666, secreted and maintained in the Judges Cave at New Haven Colony three of the judges who had condemned Charles I to death. He was educated in the State Normal School in Cortland and then attended Cornell University for one term, from 1879 to 1880.

He also drove the first American-built automobile through the streets of Paris in 1896.

Inventions Are Manufactured.

Previous to 1910 there were already six industrial corporations founded to manufacture Sperry's inventions, doing then an aggregate annual business of over $5,000,000.

In January, 1929, he sold the Sperry Gyroscope Company, of which he was president, to the North American Aviation Company, and soon after started building up the Sperry Development Company, Inc., and also the Sperry Rail Service Corporation. Just this year he had organized Sperry Products, Inc., as successor to the two last-named companies.

In 1914, he was awarded first prize of the Aero Club of France for his airplane stabilizer; he also was the winner of two Franklin Institute Medals in 1914 and 1929; Collier Trophies, 1915, 1916; Holley Medal, 1927; John Fritz Medal, 1927; Albert Gary Medal, 1929; two decorations from the last Czar of Russia; two decorations from the Emperor of Japan, the Order of the Rising Sun and the Order of the Sacred Treasure; and the grand prize of the Panama Exposition.

He was also awarded three honorary degrees—Doctor of Engineering from Stevens Institute and Lehigh University; and Doctor of Science from Northwestern University.

Member of Many Societies.

Mr. Sperry was founder and charter member of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and of the American Electro-Chemical Society. He was also a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, American Physical Society, American Society of Mechanical Engineers, Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers, New York Electrical Society, American Petroleum Institute, Edison Pioneers, National Aeronautical Association, Aero Club of America, the Engineers Club, National Electric Light Association, Franklin Institute, Japan Society and director of the Museum of Peaceful Arts.

Surviving him are two sons, Edward G. Sperry and Elma A. Jr.; one daughter, Mrs. Robert B. Lea, and five grandchildren, all of whom live in Brooklyn. The inventor's wife died a year ago in Havana. She was born Zula A. Goodman, and the marriage took place in Chicago, June 28, 1887. Another son, Lawrence B., lost his life in 1925 while flying over the North Sea in a plane of his own design.

Mr. Sperry was a Republican, a Baptist, very active in Y. M. C. A. work and a close friend and supporter of President Hoover. Last year when Professor Albert Michelson conducted his experiment at Mount Wilson, during which he obtained a much more accurate determination of the speed of light, Mr. Sperry financed the cost of the apparatus used. One of its essential features was a Sperry superpower searchlight.

ADAMS PRAISES E. A. SPERRY.

Secretary Declares the Inventor Gave Invaluable Aid to Navy.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 16. — Elmer Ambrose Sperry, whose death occurred in New York today, was praised by Secretary of the Navy Adams for his contributions to naval science.

"The United States naval service ashore and afloat," Secretary Adams said, "will learn with deep regret of the loss of one from whom we have received much. As a member of the naval consulting board since 1915, Mr. Sperry has rendered invaluable service as chairman of the committees on mines and torpedoes and aids to navigation and as a committee member on aeronautics, internal combustion engines, and special problems. His numerous inventions, including his gyrocompass, plane stabilizer, high intensity searchlight, and his many refinements on apparatus for accurately controlling the fire of our guns, have assisted materially in placing the navy in first-class fighting trim. It is safe to say that no one American has contributed so much to our naval technical progress."

Edison Pays Tribute to E. A. Sperry.

Thomas A. Edison paid the following tribute to the memory of Elmer A. Sperry: "I had a very high regard for Mr. Sperry, who was a man of great energy and industry. He was a prolific inventor, of great resourcefulness and capacity. Many of his inventions are used by the Navy Department. His death will be a great loss to the country."

LONDON, June 16.—The sixth Earl of Sefton, whose vast estates included a major part of the Grand National Course at Aintree and nearly half of the land upon which the city of Liverpool now stands, died today at his London residence. He was 59 years old. He was well known for his support of coursing and his dislike of the practice of tipping. After serving as Master of the Horse from 1905 to 1907, Lord Sefton resigned in protest against the land legislation of the Liberals. CAMP CLATSOP, Ore., June 16 (AP).—State Senator George W. Joseph, Republican nominee for Governor, died here today while inspecting the camp of the Oregon National Guard. He was talking with Major Gen. George A. White when he suffered a heart attack.

Senator Joseph was born fifty-eight years ago in a log cabin on Joseph Creek, Odoc County, Cal. He herded sheep on the edge of the Oregon Desert, worked his way through the Lakeview (Ore.) BROOKLYN MAY GET LUTHERAN SEMINARY

Relocating of Hartwick (N. Y.) School, 133 Years Old, Is Proposed as Synod Convenes.

DR. PAULSON TO BE DEAN

Start Would Be Made in 1931 in St. Luke's Parish House, With Merger in City Later.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., June 16.—With the opening here this evening of the second annual convention of the United Lutheran Synod of New York, which will be in session through Thursday in the Church of the Reformation, it became known that the synod was planning to establish a theological seminary in Brooklyn.

It is proposed temporarily to house the seminary in the parish house of St. Luke's Lutheran Church at 127 Willoughby Avenue, of which the Rev. Dr. Stephen M. Paulson is the pastor. Eventually it is planned to merge several of the Lutheran theological seminaries in the East and to establish permanently the consolidated institution in or near New York City.

The synod opened with a service of "public confession" and absolution which included a corporate celebration of the holy communion and a sermon by the Rev. Dr. Samuel Trexler of New York City, the president.

Just a year ago in St. John's Church, Albany, the synod was formed by the merger of three synods which covered the same territory, the Synod of New York and New England, New York Ministerium and the Synod of New York, uniting a membership of almost 225,000.

Would Move Hartwick Seminary.

The project for a seminary in Brooklyn was revealed in the "Pre-Convention Bulletin," copies of which were distributed to the ministerial and lay delegates who are here from the 416 congregations within the Synod.

The aim is to move to Brooklyn the Hartwick (N. Y.) Theological Seminary, the oldest Lutheran theological school in America, which now, in its 133d year, has but ten students and two full-time professors.

In a report, published in the bulletin, the Rev. Dr. Andrew Luther Dillenbeck of Johnstown, N. Y., president of the board of trustees of the seminary, says:

"The board of trustees feels deeply the manifest handicaps under which the seminary is laboring in respect to the smallness of the faculty and the location of the institution.

"The board ventures the hope and the prayer that in the adjustment of synodical and institutional relationships in our United Lutheran Church in America some adequate use may be found for this pioneer institution of American Lutheranism so that it may not only contribute a useful past but a fruitful future to the synod's work in this marvelously great field."

Recommendations follow, providing for the relocating of the seminary in St. Luke's parish house, Brooklyn, beginning with the school year of 1931, with the Rev. Dr. Paulson serving as dean and the faculty to consist of Dr. Wolford and Dr. Carney and volunteer teachers.

Provision for financial requirements is requested and adjustment and revision of the curriculum are suggested.

Land Bought for Harvard Chapel.

The Rev. Norman D. Goehring of Cambridge, Mass., Lutheran student pastor in Greater Boston, in his report in the bulletin, announced that on May 8 an agreement was signed for the purchase of additional property for the Lutheran Chapel to be erected at Harvard.

"This purchase will add nearly 4,000 square feet to our present holdings, the additional lot being half as large as the original," Mr. Goehring stated.

"Professor K. J. Conant of the Harvard School of Architecture, has consented to serve as a consulting architect for our project. "While in Germany and Sweden next year he will make a special study of Lutheran architecture with particular regard to our own problem."

In the communion service tonight Dr. Trexler was assisted by the Rev. Paul Andrew Kirsch of New York City, secretary of the synod; the Rev. Dr. Andrew Luther Dillenback of Johnstown, N. Y., the Rev. Walter Krumwiede, pastor of Grace Church, Rochester, president of the Western Conference, and the Rev. Behrend Mehrtens, pastor of Trinity Church, New Haven, Conn., president of the New England Conference

Dr. Trexler Tells of Church Need.

Dr. Trexler, in her sermon, declared that the billion and a half dollars which the churches in America received last year was "pitiably small."

"The Church has a message for the world," he said, "and she is alert in the use of modern methods in bringing it to the people.

"Churchmen are eager to put across the Christian message just as they are eager to accomplish any great enterprise.

"They showed their loyalty by giving a billion and a half dollars during the past year, and yet that sum is pitiably small when contrasted with the great needs facing the Church in education, missions and works of mercy. During the business depression, with its consequent unemployment, she could have relieved distress more effectively if she had more money at her disposal."

PLAYGROUNDS OPEN JULY 1.

The opening of 431 vacation playgrounds on July 1 was announced yesterday by William J. O'Shea, Superintendent of Schools. The grounds will be open for play and recreation from 1:30 to 5:30 in the afternoon and many activities will be promoted by teachers in charge.

Brooklyn leads with a total of 161 playgrounds. Manhattan will have 112, the Bronx 80, Queens 65 and Richmond 13.

Most of the playgrounds are attached to school buildings and a small number, so-called "open air playgrounds," are located in various athletic fields owned by the Board of Education.

Dr. O'Shea, in a circular sent out to the schools, urged that the children be encouraged to attend the playgrounds, which will be kept open until Aug. 29, regularly during the Summer vacation.

CITY SALARY RISES BLOCKED FOR A WEEK

Baldwin's Objection Will Delay Immediate Consideration of Resolution Under Rules.

ASSAILS MAJORITY PLAN

Points to Unemployment and Reduced Incomes of Taxpayers as Reasons for Caution.

MERCHANTS' GROUP SPEAKS

Letter to McKee Asks That Action Be Withheld to Permit Study of the Measure.

A week's delay in passage by the Board of Aldermen of the resolution giving pay increases of $519,000 to the higher city officials was virtually assured yesterday when Alderman Joseph Clark Baldwin 3d, leader of the Republican minority, issued a formal statement that he would object to immediate consideration.

Under the board's rules unanimous consent is required for immediate consideration of any item the first time it appears on the calendar. Objection by Mr. Baldwin or any of his three Republican colleagues at the board's meeting today will result in reference of the resolution to the board's Committee on Salaries and Offices. The committee can report the resolution at next week's meeting. It was said at the City Hall that there was no doubt that the Aldermen would adopt the resolution as soon as they had opportunity to vote on it.

Merchants Also Seek Delay.

Mr. Baldwin's objection will bring about the delay and cause further criticism of the resolution, which is regarded as desirable from a Republican partisan viewpoint. Aside from the political aspect of the salary increases, which the Republicans expect to work to their advantage, the Merchants' Association, in a letter signed by Willis H. Booth, its president, asked for postponement of concurrence by the Aldermen in the pay-rise resolution to permit a study of it by civic organizations and interested citizens.

"I shall, of course, object to immediate consideration of this matter at the meeting of the Board of Aldermen," Mr. Baldwin said. "This is not the time nor the place to work out the equities or inequities of the salaries of city officials who are already receiving far more than a 'living wage.' There are thousands of small home owners and taxpayers in New York who, through no fault of their own, have had their incomes reduced within the last six months. Any one voting for this measure at this time will have a hard time to explain to these people why city officials should face exceptionally good times while the general public is encountering financial difficulties.

Points to Unemployment.

"The city is empowered under the Lusk law to provide temporary relief for those who are out of employment. If the majority government which is so boastful of its friendship for the working people were really solicitous of the working men's welfare it would seem that the accruals which are so suddenly available could be put to better public use than by increasing their own salaries.

"I have repeatedly in committee and in meetings tried to get the majority to pay for various items out of accruals rather than by the issue of special revenue bonds which would increase next year's budget. On every occasion I have been told that no accruals were available.

"My position on this matter is probably best illustrated by the fact that at a meeting of the committee on local laws last Thursday, only a day before this measure was sneaked through the Board of Estimate I tried to move out of committee my bill to prevent salary increases between budget periods. I said in that connection and I repeat in this, that the public deserves an honest budget, and if the majority party refuses to give it to them they should be forced to do so by law."

Mr. Booth's letter, which was addressed to Joseph V. McKee, president of the Board of Aldermen, with copies sent to Alderman Baldwin and Dennis J. Mahon, majority leader, read:

Letter Urges Postponement.

"The Merchants' Association of New York respectfully and urgently requests that the Board of Aldermen postpone decisive action upon the increased salaries for heads of city departments and their assistants as authorized by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment on June 13, 1930.

"This urgent request is made in order that adequate opportunity may be given to civic organizations and to interested citizens for study of the principles involved and the merits of the pending proposal.

"The membership of this association, aggregating about 7,500, consists of a group of very large and important taxpayers who feel they are entitled collectively and individually to a reasonable opportunity for analysis and study of the proposed action.

"On behalf of this very extensive membership, the Merchants' Association respectfully requests an adequate opportunity to consider the proposal before further action is taken."

William H. Allen, director of the Institute for Public Service, denied the recent assertion of Budget Director Charles L. Kohler that the increased salaries fixed for officials he described as "key men" of the City Administration were lower than those paid to executives in private business. Mr. Allen added that the increased salaries showed many inequalities so far as work and responsibility compared with salary.

"The License Commissioner, who is raised to $15,000, has fifty subordinates, while the Police Commissioner, with 19,000 subordinates, gets the same," he said. "The Richmond Park Commissioner, with thirteen regular subordinates and 150 day laborers, is to get the same as Brooklyn's Park Commissioner, with 143 regular subordinates and more than 600 day laborers.

"The Controller's stenographer, at $4,000 when he took office four years ago, is to get $7,500. The Health Department secretary, who has had an increase of $1,000, gets another increase of $500, although hospitals have been taken away from that department. The Street Cleaning Commissioner, whose inefficiency shocked the city for years, permitted the dummy cleaners and gas losses and only last week brought promise of reorganization, gets a $2,000 increase."

Fierro Plans to Take Off For Mexico City Early Today

Special to The New York Times.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, L. I., June 16.—Colonel Robert Fierro, Mexican aviator, who for the past week has been preparing here for a non-stop flight to Valbuena Field, Mexico City, announced after a test flight today that with favorable weather reports he would take off on his 2,500-mile flight early tomorrow morning.

His plane, bought with money raised by popular subscription in Mexico in seven days, is a Lockheed Sirius with a 425-horsepower Wasp motor. It is an exact duplicate of the plane in which Colonel Lindbergh made his record-breaking coast-to-coast flight last Easter.

While here the plane has been equipped with an "air scoop" calculated to cut down the consumption of gasoline. A test flight today indicated that the apparatus is performing satisfactorily. On the non-stop flight the plane will be loaded with 500 gallons of fuel. Colonel Fierro will be accompanied by Armulfo Cortez, mechanic.

DYOTT BACK, BRINGS BABIES OF JUNGLE

TOOK TIGER SOUND FILMS

Menagerie for His Infant Son Coming Later in Week—New Trip to Borneo Planned.

Commander George M. Dyott returned home yesterday after six months in the jungles of India, in which he took the first sound pictures of tigers going about their ordinary business in their native habitat.

He is bringing, besides, a menagerie of baby animals as a present to his 5-months-old son, George Richard Burnaby Dyott, whom he had never seen until his return. The animals are to be given to the Bronx Zoo in the Dyott baby's name. They will arrive later this week on the Norton Lilly Line steamship City of Mobile. The vessel, a freighter, stopped at Boston Sunday and Commander Dyott left it and hurried on to New York by train.

The voyage home, as Commander Dyott described it, was as much of an adventure as his journeyings through the wilds of India. The City of Mobile was a Noah's Ark, with a baby elephant, a young tiger, two leopard kittens, two cub bears, two gosling peacocks and a young gibbon ape which seemed possessed of a devil.

Commander Dyott caught the City of Mobile and ushered his animals aboard at Calcutta. Passenger steamers were crowded with Europeans leaving India because of the unrest there, he said, but he obtained passage on the freighter by signing on as assistant purser. The captain of the ship, Arthur W. Wooster, was a tolerant soul and put up with the menagerie, though he never knew what would break loose from one moment to the next.

"The animals got seasick and had to be nursed one by one in the cabin," said Commander Dyott. "One night I had to hitch a leopard outside the captain's cabin. He said he supposed I would have him sleeping with the tiger next.

Elephant Is Voracious Baby.

"The elephant is a midget of 700 pounds whom I named Runga, after one of the native men who helped catch him. He had to be washed every day like any other baby to keep him cool. His appetite is prodigious. On the voyage he ate eight 100-pound bales of oats and oat straw, five buckets of rice and beans, twenty-five banana trees, forty tins of condensed milk at the rate of a bucket a day, fifty sugarcane stalks and all the bread and buns the sailors would put under his nose.

"We had him out in the open in the well-deck of the ship, but coming through the Bay of Bengal it was so stormy the seas washed over him and we had to put him below. He is an affectionate, friendly fellow and quick to learn. The cub bears are playful but pugnacious, and the tiger is a terror."

The commander showed a wounded hand, the result of the tiger's ill nature when he was feeding it.

"The gibbon ape is black, with white eyebrows and walks on his hind legs," the explorer went on. "We call him 'Gu-Gu' because that is the principal noise he makes. We found that he had a quite definite vocabulary. He would chirp like a bird when he wished to summon attention. When he was curious about something he would utter an interrogative 'woo-woo,' and when contented he would gurgle. He was a problem to take care of, for he was swinging all over the place."

Commander Dyott left New York on his latest expedition last September. He worked up through the jungles of South Central India from Hyderabad Deccan and also spent some time in Assam, in the northeast corner of India, in the foothills of the Himalayas. It was a camera-hunting expedition and in a way a rest after the hardships of Commander Dyott's trip in the wilderness of Brazil in search of Colonel P. H. Fawcett, the English explorer, who, he found, had been murdered by Indians.

Shot Only One Animal.

Commander Dyott previously had visited the jungles of India and had taken motion pictures which were made into the film, "Hunting Tigers in India," which was widely exhibited. On his latest trip he was accompanied by James McInnis, photographer, and W. K. Hawk, sound man, of the Fox Movietone. By studying the habits of tigers they learned how to place their apparatus so that they obtained close-up sound pictures of tigers killing and eating their prey.

Commander Dyott said that he shot only one animal on his entire trip, a tiger which had killed sixty bullocks in a year and was the terror of the neighboring village. He was greatly assisted, he said, by Sir Laurie Hammond, Governor General of Assam. The natives, too, sturdy but shy mountaineers, cooperated with him in every way.

Commander Dyott will spend the remainder of the Summer with his family. He intends to go to Borneo next Autumn, taking Mrs. Dyott with him as far as India.

ACTRESS IS SAVED AS YACHTS CRASH

Claire Windsor on Plant Cruiser Sunk in Collision With Chatfield-Taylor Boat.

PLANT SAILOR DROWNED

Accident Takes Place in Moonlight on Long Island Sound Off Greenwich.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., June 16.—Claire Windsor, motion picture actress, and Philip Morgan Plant, former husband of Constance Bennett, narrowly escaped drowning last night when Plant's boat, the Lolita, collided with the cruiser of Otis Chatfield-Taylor in Long Island Sound off this port. Earl Larrimore of the Theatre Guild and Miss Theresa Lewis, passengers on the Chang Waugh III, the Chatfield-Taylor boat, were thrown into the water by the impact and Ernest Spangler of New York, a sailor on the Plant craft, was drowned.

The Lolita was nearly cut in two by the impact and a few seconds after the collision she sank, leaving Miss Windsor, Plant, E. K. Hatfield, captain of the Lolita, and Spangler struggling in the water. According to reports gathered by the police here, the Lolita, eastbound, cut across the bow to the starboard of the Chang Waugh III, westbound, and before she could clear was struck hard by the fifty-foot cruiser.

"The accident occurred at about 9:35, about two and half miles off Rye," Chatfield Taylor said. "My vessel a fifty-foot motor boat was on its way to New York, with a crew of two and the following guests: John H. Vincent of Greenwich, Theresa Lewis, Earl Larrimore, Eleanor Sherwin, an actress, of 151 East Ninety-first Street, New York, Betty Chandler of Woodstock Tower, Tudor City, and Frederick Gillett.

"The Plant boat was going east up the Sound. It was a calm night with a three-quarter moon. Mr. Plant was at the wheel of his boat. Captain Hatfield, his skipper, called to him to pass our green light to starboard. Plant did not comply and by accident must have turned the helm the wrong way without slackening speed. After striking us he kept on for a way and we thought he was all right.

"We were bent on picking up Theresa Lewis and Earl Larrimore, who had fallen overboard. We looked around and found the Lolita sinking about 250 yards off. Hatfield shouted to save the woman. I took off my shoes and coat and helped pull her out. Both Plant and Miss Windsor were helped aboard our boat. Miss Windsor was calm, although she couldn't swim and had received a bad blow on the jaw. We asked Hatfield if there was any one else, and he said, 'Yes, a sailor, but I saw him a few minutes ago and he seemed all right.'"

A search that lasted an hour and a half was then started with all the searchlights on the Chang Waugh III playing on the water, but no trace of Spangler was discovered. The Chatfield-Taylor boat then put in to the Indian Harbor Yacht Club pier and a report of the collision was at once made to the Greenwich police.

Asked if there was any liquor aboard, Chatfield-Taylor replied that he carried six quarts under a government permit, a part of which the police said was consumed by those who had suffered a wetting. The Chang Waugh III was placed in dry dock for repairs to her crumpled bow.

F. M. WARBURG GIVES JEWISH FUND $150,000

Women's Division Raises $273,800 to Aid the Destitute in Eastern Europe.

A contribution of $150,000 by Felix M. Warburg to the New York Allied Jewish campaign, in which $2,500,000 is being sought in New York as part of a $6,000,000 national goal for the relief of destitute Jews in Eastern Europe and Palestine, was announced yesterday at a tea and rally at the Biltmore, at which Mr. and Mrs. Warburg entertained the campaign workers.

Mrs. Warburg announced that the women's division had raised $273,800. The quota of the women's division was only $250,000, but Mrs. Warburg said that the workers will now attempt to pass the $300,000 mark.

Paul Baerwald reported that the bankers' and brokers' division had raised $453,000, and Louis J. Vorhaus reported $68,000 for the lawyers' and judges' division. Sectional chairmen reported as follows: Samuel A. Telsey of Bronxville, $40,000; Senator Nathan Straus Jr., $80,000 for the Bronx, and Rabbi Nachman H. Ebin $13,000 for Bensonhurst.

James N. Rosenberg, chairman of the campaign, presided at the rally. The speakers were Justice Cohn, Arthur Lohman, Mrs. Banche E. Goldfarb, president of the Federation of Women's Organizations of Greater New York, and Mrs. Abram I. Elkus. There will be another rally next Monday afternoon.

RASKOB GIVES $100,000 AS WARM SPRINGS AID

A gift of $100,000 from John J. Raskob to the Georgia Warm Springs Foundation was announced yesterday by William H. Woodin, chairman of the finance committee of the foundation, at a meeting at the Recess Club. Governor Roosevelt is president of the foundation.

The foundation is attempting to raise an endowment fund of $1,250,000 to permit the enlargement of accommodations for patients at Warm Springs, Ga., where the springs have been found to be beneficial to sufferers from infantile paralysis. The foundation provides treatment at cost to victims of the disease.

The members of the finance committee, which has been active in obtaining gifts, are former Governor Smith, Barron Collier, T. B. Davis, Jeremiah Milbank, James A. Moffett, F. C. Root, Walter Sachs, Percy Straus and Eugene Wilson.

Hand Warns Aides City Must Be Kept Clean; Takes Executive Power From Borough Chiefs

Commissioner Charles S. Hand intends to have New York's streets made as clean as possible hereafter, he announced yesterday following a conference with four deputy commissioners of the Street Cleaning Department, at which he told them strict efficiency would be the watchword of the department and they would be obliged to "toe the mark" in obeying instructions.

Commissioner Hand effected a drastic reorganization of the department, involving the withdrawal of executive duties formerly exercised by the deputy commissioners in charge of the work of their boroughs.

"I intend to use my very best efforts and time," Mr. Hand said, "to increase the efficiency of the department and make the streets as clean as possible."

He announced that in a few days he will call into his office the sixty-two district superintendents and the five borough superintendents and give them the same message he gave yesterday to his deputies. The deputies are James J. Nugent, formerly in Charge of Manhattan, who will now have charge of trials; Michael Laura, formerly in charge of Brooklyn, who will now supervise final distribution of rubbish; Frank A Eschmann, formerly general administration official, who will be efficiency man on the staff; and Charles F. Griffin, formerly in charge of the Bronx, who will now assist with the trial calendar and carry out instructions from the commissioners.

In his talk Mr. Hand blamed the old system of divided authority for some of the inefficiency of the Street Cleaning Department. Pointing out the need for a reorganization, Commissioner Hand said that one of Mayor Walker's main objects in suggesting the formation of a Sanitation Commission was to provide a new administration for the work.

Dr. William Schroeder Jr., chairman of the Sanitation Commission asked the cooperation of the deputies in increasing the efficiency of the force. Also, he made public a letter from Dr. Bernard Sachs, chairman of the Committee of Twenty on street and outdoor cleanliness, commending him for reorganizing the street cleaning force and pledging the cooperation of the citizens reached by his organization.

YACHTSMEN SUFFER $200,000 FIRE LOSS

Boat Equipment Burned With Storehouse of Jacob's Shipyard at City Island.

$1,000,000 IN CRAFT SAVED

W. L. Sutphin's 125-Foot Scotian Towed to Safety—Vanderbilt Firearms Collection Destroyed.

A fire that burned for two hours yesterday afternoon destroyed a two-story frame storehouse in the shipyard of Robert Jacob, Inc., at the foot of Pilot Street, City Island, on the Long Island Sound waterfront, causing about $200,000 damage to boat equipment belonging to yacht owners. The yard contained craft estimated to be worth about $1,000,000, but firemen kept the flames in check and only two small boats were damaged.

The origin of the fire was not determined. An employe saw smoke emerging from the building and turned in an alarm, bringing the shipyard's own fire brigade, which played water on the building until the arrival of the island's two fire companies. Because of danger to the twenty-five boats near by John O'Keefe, battalion chief, turned in a second alarm. The emergency crew of the Bronx Park station and additional apparatus under Robert McGannon, deputy chief, responded from the Bronx.

Places in the building were held by William K. Vanderbilt, Otto H. Kahn, Walter B. Chrysler, L. W. Linsay and W. F. Ingold. Among the equipment destroyed, according to an official of the shipbuilding company, were a valuable collection of firearms used by Commodore Vanderbilt on his hunting trips and part of the fittings of his yacht Ara, which made a scientific expedition around the world beginning in November, 1928. The boat was said to be at Northport, L. I., yesterday. Destroyed also were two suits of sails, worth $20,000, intended for Mr. Linsay's sloop, Blackshear, which is being reconditioned. The contents of the storehouse included silverware, nautical instruments, furniture and engine parts.

Employes saved the 125-foot power yacht Scotian, owned by William L. Sutphin of the Hotel Rockefeller, by cutting the mooring lines and guiding her into the stream. The two boats that suffered damage were on runways and could not be moved quickly enough. They were the Helena II, owned by Charles E. F. McCann, a lawyer of 233 Broadway, and a speed launch belonging to Robert Thach, 120 Broadway.

The flames reduced the building to the floor of the pier and then ate through the heavy planking. Long after the débris had ceased smoldering firemen were pouring water within the wharf wall.

The shelter of the yacht Vanitie, owned by Gerard Lambert, was also consumed. The Vanitie, which unsuccessfully contended to represent the United States in 1920 in the international yacht races, was at Glen Cove, L. I., yesterday.

Several valuable boats were in the yard of B. F. Wood, Inc., adjoining the Jacob shipyard, but the fire did not spread beyond the fence separating them. Numerous pleasure craft in Long Island Sound halted while their occupants watched the spectacle. Traffic on City Island Avenue was tied up for about a half hour while firemen stretched a hundred feet of hose to reach the waterfront.

CAMBRIDGE MAYOR HERE.

Head of English City Will Attend Tercentenary of Cambridge, Mass.

Among the passengers who arrived here yesterday from England on the Cunarder Samaria was Harry Franklin, Mayor of Cambridge, England, who has come to America to attend the tercentenary of Cambridge, Mass. He brought with him his gold chain of office, which was the gift of Queen Anne to Cambridge in 1740.

He explained that he was a native of London and went to the ancient university city in 1921 to enter business as a coal merchant and prospered.

SAYS MILLIONS NEED 'MECHANICAL EARS'

400 AT CONVENTION HERE

Speaker, Using Phones, Denounces Segregation of Pupils With Subnormal Hearing.

Dr. Wendell C. Phillips, former president of the American Medical Association and founder of the American Federation of Organizations for the Hard of Hearing, urged at the opening of the federation's annual convention at the Hotel Roosevelt yesterday that the hard of hearing should organize and demand the installation of mechanical means of hearing in public places. Estimates of the number of the hard of hearing in the United States alone have run from 10,000,000 to 20,000,000 and they should demand the cultural benefits denied to them by their handicap, he said.

About 400 delegates from all over the United States and Canada listened to his address on earphones, over what was said to be the largest amplifying system of its kind ever installed. The hard of hearing, he said, should demand that church and theatrical authorities install the hearing apparatus that science has developed.

"All the church services, good music, the drama and other cultural benefits are at hand and waiting for you if you unite and demand artificial hearing," he said.

He also urged the need for a campaign of education directed at employers and those who examine applicants for positions on their behalf to see that they give the hard-of-hearing "a square deal."

Dr. Phillips drew a distinction between those who were born without hearing or lost it before speech was acquired and those who later in life lost anywhere from 10 to 90 per cent of their hearing. Only the former, he said, are properly to be called deaf.

He said that any one aiding an institution for the separate education of the hard-of-hearing child was "guilty of a spiritual crime." These children, he said, "must and should be kept where they belong, in school with hearing children, where their education, play and psychology will remain normal." He asserted that this could be accomplished by giving them sufficient education in lip reading.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Montrose Strassburger welcomed the delegates to the city on behalf of Mayor Walker. Dr. Harvey Fletcher, director of research at the Bell Telephone laboratories, presided.

Five members of the federation's board of managers were elected for three-year terms. They are:

Dr. GORDON BERRY of Worcester, Mass.
STARLING W. CHILDS of New York.
Dr. AUSTIN A. HAYDEN of Chicago.
Dr. HAROLD HAYS of New York.
H. M. McMANAMAY of Staunton, Va.

Miss Margaret Crawley of the Speech Reading Club of Philadelphia won the elimination round in a lip-reading contest held last night. The contest was based upon the contestants' ability to repeat accurately sentences and the essence of a short story which were read to them. Others finished as follows: Second, Mrs. May T. Crawford of the Philadelphia League; third, Miss Frances H. Downes of the Washington League; fourth, Miss Evelyn A. Parry of the New York League; fifth, Miss Florence Murrin of the Pittsburgh League.

WEST END AV. HOME LOOTED OF JEWELS

Mrs. Joseph Baumann Returns From Hospital to Find Her Gems Missing.

APARTMENT WAS OCCUPIED

Family and Servants of Victim Were in Residence Throughout Her Absence, She Tells Police.

Theft of jewelry which its owner, Mrs. Joseph Baumann of 601 West End Avenue, valued at $100,000, was reported to Police Headquarters yesterday morning. The jewels were found to be missing by Mrs. Baumann from her apartment when she returned home yesterday from a hospital to which she had gone on Thursday for a minor operation. The police estimated the missing jewels value at $30,000.

According to the story told to the police by Mrs. Baumann, the gems were taken from the drawer of a bureau in her bedroom during her four-day absence. During that time it was said the apartment was occupied by her husband, a furniture dealer; an infant child and four servants, a butler, maid, governess and cook.

Some member of the household was said to have been in the apartment all the time during Mrs. Baumann's absence, except between 3 and 8 o'clock on Sunday afternoon. The apartment, which occupies the entire sixth floor of the building, might have been entered through a window in Mrs. Baumann's bedroom which opens on a fire-escape, the police said.

Mrs. Baumann, who was confined to her bed upon return from the hospital, expressed confidence in her servants. The gems were fully insured, it was said.

Among the pieces missing, as listed in a report to the police, were a necklace of 107 matched pearls, valued at $15,000; two bracelets set with diamonds and emeralds, valued at $5,500 and $4,000; a platinum ring set with diamonds and emeralds, valued at $2,200; a diamond solitaire, valued at $1,750, and several smaller pieces including two pearl necklaces, a bowknot breastpin set with diamonds, a watch studded with diamond chips and a circular breastpin.

Most of the jewelry was said to be family heirlooms.

CIVIC UNION PLANNED TO ADVERTISE NEW YORK

Committee's Suggestion to Merge All Associations in Publicity Effort Adopted.

The report of the committee on plan and scope in the movement to advertise New York as an all-year-round city was adopted yesterday at a meeting in the Board of Trade quarters, 41 Park Row, attended by representatives of steamship, railroad, hotel and other interests. The committee, of which Neil Mooney, general passenger agent of the New York Central Lines, is chairman, recommended that all civic, commercial and trade associations of the city join to form a non-profit corporation to carry on the work of publicity.

Those attending the meeting pledged their cooperation and assistance in carrying out the committee's proposals.

W. J. L. Banham, president of the Board of Trade, emphasized the point that the campaign was not a Board of Trade movement although it had its inception under the board's auspices. He reported that one steamship company had agreed to print special placards of New York for display in foreign countries and that a nation-wide radio broadcast of the reasons "why people should come to New York" had been promised by another company. He commended the newspapers for aiding the campaign by publicity. Mr. Banham said six months would be required to set the machinery of the campaign in motion. He will invite heads of various associations to attend a conference at a date to be announced later.

NEW TYPE SUBWAY CARS URGED BY CITY CLUB

Proposes the Elimination of Vestibules and Installation of Three Divided Doors.

In a letter to the Transit Commission the City Club renewed yesterday its suggestion that the recent order requiring the Interborough to buy 289 new steel cars be amended to call for elimination of car vestibules and the installation of three divided doors on each car. Such equipment, the letter declared, would make possible faster loading and unloading of trains, shorter station stops and less congestion.

The letter was in reply to a recent letter sent to the City Club by Chairman William G. Fullen of the Transit Commission, in which it was said that the commission's engineers believed that the suggested new type of car could not be satisfactorily adapted to practical operation because the company has three different types of cars which could not be mingled in individual trains.

"Such new equipment," the club's letter declares, referring to 289 new cars with divided doors and no vestibules, "could be applied as twenty-eight or twenty-nine complete new trains operated exclusively, for example, on the Lexington Avenue line during the rush hour period, with better loading facilities thus afforded at all express stations of that line. The relief that would result to the existing congestion is obvious."

Commenting on the fact that the car loading standard set up by the Transit Commission's service bureau was almost identical with that "common decency" standard promulgated by the City Club several weeks ago, the letter declared that either standard could be maintained if the express tracks on subway lines were completely utilized. Safe operation, the letter said, could be maintained with less than the present two-minute headway.

Will Rogers Tells Exactly How the Tariff Thing Came Up

To the Editor of The New York Times:

BOSTON, Mass., June 16.—Mr. Hoover is going to sign. I will give him credit. He didn't stall around and keep everybody in doubt. He just lined up like it was a cold swimming hole, shut his eyes, gritted his teeth and is pouncing in.

You see the whole thing come up for no reason at all. During the heat of the campaign, when Norris switched to Smith, why Borah and a bunch of them got panicky, rushed to Mr. Hoover and told him in order to save the farmer vote to promise to call a special session and revise the tariff. He naturally did as advised. Now he can't find out who wanted to revise not even Borah and his gang.

Norris's support which scared them was him and his immediate family. Yours,

WIL ROGERS.

PERTH AMBOY BLAST WAS NOT ACCIDENT

But Police Fail to Find Clue to Its Cause—Storekeeper Denies Owning a Still.

ADMITS DRY CONVICTION

No Trace of Bomb Revealed in 12-Hour Search of Wreckage—All Missing Are Located.

Special to The New York Times.

PERTH AMBOY, N. J., June 16.—The explosion in the heart of the business section here last night in which two persons died and a score were slightly injured "could scarcely have been an accident," it was said today by John E. Toolan, Middlesex County Prosecutor, after a twelve-hour investigation.

I. David Fass, in the basement of whose Smith Street haberdashery store the blast took place, was questioned many hours by Mr. Toolan, Police Chief N. J. Tomneson and Chief of Detectives Joseph Gutowski. They learned nothing to indicate the cause of the disaster.

Fass, they said, was arrested on June 27, 1927, on a prohibition charge, when he paid a $200 fine. He denied there was a still in the basement, and experts from the Newark Police Department and the United States Department of Labor failed to detect the odor that usually accompanies still explosions. Fass admitted having visited the store thrice yesterday, although he did not keep it open for Sunday business. He said the purpose of his visits was to adjust the awnings. His last visit was at 9:30 P. M., an hour before the explosion.

Storekeeper Had $50,000 Insurance.

According to Mr. Toolan, Fass said he carried $20,000 insurance on the store and insurance to 80 per cent of value on $30,000 worth of stock. He insisted that he had not the faintest idea of the cause of the disaster and appeared to be in a state bordering upon nervous collapse.

Besides the theories of incendiarism and a still explosion, the authorities were pursuing two other possible explanations of the tragedy. One was that it had been caused by an oil heater in Fass's basement, the other that it was a bomb. Mr. Fass said the oil heater was not in use, and heating experts called in by the police doubted whether fuel oil could have caused a blast of such violence. Specialists of the Newark bomb squad failed to find anything in the débris that looked like a bomb or part of one.

None of these theories, however, were to be discarded until removal and thorough examination of the débris. Mr. Toolan estimated that this would take two or three days. A solution of the mystery, however, might be encountered before them, he said. Fass's safe was recovered, but so far as the police would admit, nothing of interest to the inquiry was found in it.

While a dozen men searched the wreckage for clues, electric line men ran emergency wires to restore Perth Amboy's power and light. This work was completed early in the afternoon. At the same time glaziers were busy repairing windows over a radius of a block, hundreds of square feet of plate glass having been smashed.

"Missing" Accounted For.

Meanwhile relatives and friends of those living near the scene of the blast or in one of the three buildings destroyed had checked up and found that persons who had been reported last night as missing had all been accounted for. Luckily enough, residents of the building were out at the time of the blast. Most of the injuries were slight cuts and bruises. In addition to those reported last night, the following received emergency treatment, the police said:

EDWARD SCANNEL, 406 High Street.
ARTHUR JOHNSON, 140 Brighton Avenue.
GEORGE FARNO, Florida Grove Road.
CHARLES BROWNMILLER, Smith Street.
Mr. and Mrs. GEIL, 708 West 177th Street, New York.
FRANK BUNENTZ, address unknown.
JOHN FRANCE, address unknown.

With daylight today the scene of the blast resembled that of an air raid. Of Fass's store and the two adjoining it, that of I. Mann, optometrist, and the Climax Stationery Store, nothing remained but piles of brick, small portions of tottering wall, tangles of charred timbers and scattered here and there, clothing, pieces of chairs and tables.

Smith Street, opposite the scene of the explosion, was massed with spectators all day. They were kept back by a cordon of police. Crowds also gathered about a heavy metal door found two blocks from the scene and said to have been hurled there by the explosion.

Two persons were still in the Perth Amboy Hospital today suffering from shock, possible internal injuries and contusions when bowled over by the detonation. They are Mrs. William Edwards of 609 Carson Avenue and Joseph Holland of 990 Amboy Avenue. Both are expected to recover.

J. H. Thomas in Dominion Post.

LONDON, June 16 (AP).—J. H. Thomas, former Lord Privy Seal, today took over his new duties as Secretary of State for the Dominions. He succeeded Lord Passfield, former Secretary of the Dominions and Colonies, now Colonial Secretary.

TICKET RULES FIXED BY THEATRE LEAGUE

Fifty Per Cent of All Seats to Be Kept at Box Office Under By-Laws of Group.

SELLERS TO BE TRACEABLE

Brokers Are Required to Stamp Tickets When They Are Sold, Transferred or Exchanged.

AID OF PUBLIC REQUESTED

Notices on Envelopes and Programs Will Ask That Organization Be Notified of Overcharges.

The League of New York Theatres, the official name of the organization recently formed as the New York Theatre League, whose object is to eliminate ticket speculation, made public yesterday for the first time the detailed plan of operation which is intended to limit premiums to be charged by brokers to 75 cents and to end the practice of compelling brokers to buy seats en bloc.

According to the by-laws, 50 per cent of all seats will be on sale to the public at the box office. If the accredited ticket brokers demand more seats, the managers will be required to furnish additional seats, but "at no time shall the amount assigned to the box office for the public be less than 25 per cent of the orchestra seats except as qualified by the rules."

So that there shall be desirable seats at the box office, there will be retained in the box office's quota certain desirable rows designated by the board of governors in accordance with the gridiron principle of having rows for brokers alternate with those on sale at the theatre.

Brokers to Decide Division.

The division of tickets among the accredited brokers is to be determined by the brokers themselves, and if they cannot agree the division will be made by the governors.

Stringent regulations have been adopted to identify the source from which the tickets are sold and to insure against "digging" and to protect the public from being victimized through "snowballing" of prices by unscrupulous operators.

All tickets issued by member-managers will bear on their face or back the following notice:

"This ticket is a license and subject to revocation by the manager if purchased from any person other than a representative of the box office of this theatre or the accredited broker; and is also worthless unless sold directly by —— (broker) to whom it was issued. If purchased from any other person or firm, or if the line above is not stamped, it is invalid and may be refused when presented at the theatre.

"Issued to......... Ret'd by.........
"Transf'd by..... Ret'd by.........
"Exchanged by... Sold for........"

When the theatre issues tickets to a broker it will stamp his name on the first of the foregoing lines and the broker will stamp his name after "returned by" if he does not sell the ticket. In the same way the broker will stamp his name on the other lines if he transfers the ticket or exchanges it.

All unsold tickets consigned by the managers to the brokers will be returned to the box offices by 7:30 P. M. for night performances, or 1:30 P. M. for matinee performances.

Will Ask Public's Aid.

Ticket envelopes at box offices will bear the following legend:

"Please cooperate in stopping ticket speculation. If you paid more for this ticket than the price which appears thereon, plus 75 cents advance, notify the League of New York Theatres, Inc., at —— (address)."

A sign not less than 18 by 24 inches is to be displayed prominently in the offices of accredited brokers declaring that they are an accredited broker of the league and that no tickets will be sold by them for an advance of more than 75 cents over the box office price.

Theatre programs will carry a notice giving the names of accredited brokers and requesting information of any overcharge made by any person in excess of the charge permitted.

Investigators will have the right to inspect the records of sales of seats by members and brokers. The physical transfer of tickets from a manager to a broker will be handled by the governors of the league. Tickets returned to the box office will be turned in by the brokers directly.

Detailed provisions have been made in the by-laws for sale of tickets of brokers not selling their original allotment.

An important provision in the constitution respecting membership declares that a person or firm controlling more than one theatre shall be entitled to only one membership. The governors are empowered to make rules to protect the public, to make rules governing the sale of seats and to inspect the books of members and brokers to see whether they are complying with their obligations.

The movement to end ticket speculation began about six months ago at a meeting held in the Empire Theatre. For several months it was carried on by a committee consisting of Arthur Hopkins, Brock Pemberton and Gilbert Miller. Then a formal organization was launched and Mr. Hopkins became president, while the following governors were chosen: Former Governor Alfred E. Smith, L. Laurence Weber, John McBride, Lawrence Langner, David Marks, Frank Gillmore and Edward C. Carpenter. The governors represent the public, the theatres, the managers, the brokers, the actors and playwrights.

All but three or four managers are in the league, which expects to have virtually all "buys" end by July 19.

Brooklyn Gas Hearing Deferred.

An adjournment of the rehearing on the Brooklyn Gas Company's rate schedule until June 25 and 27 was granted yesterday by Milo R. Maltbie, chairman of the Public Service Commission, to allow Archibald S. B. Little, expert gas witness for the city, an opportunity to study data relating to the operations of the company which had been ordered by Commissioner George R. Lunn, who had until yesterday presided in the case.

REAR ADMIRAL RICHARD E. BYRD

"The New York Times . . . . . has made contributions to scientific discovery and public education as important as those of our leading scientific institutions"

American Geographical Society.

With the homecoming of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd and his men from this successful expedition to the South Pole, another great news story of exploration, adventure and scientific value is added to the long list of those which The New York Times has given to its readers.

The daily dispatches received by The New York Times wireless station direct from Little America contained thrilling stories of experiences, observations and discoveries told by Admiral Byrd himself and by Russell Owen, staff correspondent of The New York Times, the only reporter with the expedition.

News of the flight from the Ice Barrier over the South Pole and return was flashed to The Times by radio on November 29, 1929, and published in The Times the next morning. Children in school studied the geography of Antarctica as Antarctica was being discovered, learned their history as history was being made.

"In accomplishing this unrivaled feat in Radio Science," said The American Geographical Society, "The New York Times has gone far beyond commercial objectives and has made contributions to scientific discovery and public education as important as those of our leading scientific institutions. The achievement is due to no lucky accident but to a long-continued policy of support and encouragement to scientific expeditions in many parts of the world."

What The New York Times has done in the past twenty months in obtaining by radio for its readers the story of the Byrd Antarctic Expedition is but a logical continuation of its efforts in the past.

In 1926 Commander Richard E. Byrd and Floyd Bennett flew from Kings Bay, Spitsbergen, to the North Pole and return. Their own personal narratives of this achievement sent by radio appeared exclusively in New York in The New York Times. Again in 1927 when Commander Byrd with Bernt Balchen, Acosta and Noville flew across the Atlantic from New York to France the stories of Byrd and Balchen appeared in New York only in The Times.,

Lindbergh, Chamberlin and Levine, Maitland and Hegenberger, Amelia Earhart, the flight of the Bremen, the Wilkins North Polar Flight —all the notable conquests of the air have been told by the fliers for The Times readers. And even before the age of radio and aviation The New York Times gave its readers complete, often exclusive, news of Science and Exploration—of Admiral Peary, discoverer of the North Pole; of Captain Scott, who reached the South Pole and perished; of Stefansson, Arctic explorer; of Howard Carter, discoverer of the tomb of Tut-ankh-Amen; of Dr. McGovern, who visited forbidden Lhassa; of William Beebe of the Sargasso Sea Expedition.

Dieudonne Coste waits in France to hop off on his attempt to fly the Atlantic, east to west. Captain Charles Kingsford-Smith, Australian aviator, is preparing to fly from Dublin to New York. British scientists leave to survey the Greenland ice cap to establish a safe and quick air route to Canada across the Arctic. Captain Robert A. Bartlett, one of Peary's aides, sails from New York in his schooner Morrissey to carry an expedition of ten scientists to Greenland.

The New York Times exclusively in New York will publish the personal narratives of the aviators and scientists of these flights and expeditions. Be sure to order regular delivery of The Times in advance. The Times does not accept returns from newsdealers, who are prepared only to supply the minimum normal demand. The Times is always sold out early and you may be disappointed.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HOYLAKE, England, June 16.—The first day's qualifying play in the British open golf championship has left Britain and the United States in a very level position. Archie Compston and Leo Diegel led the field over the Royal Liverpool course with scores of 70, with Bobby Jones, W. E. Soulby, Henry Cotton, Percy Alliss and J. J. Taylor three strokes behind.

At Wallasey one of Britain's young professionals, W. T. Twine, heads the list with 68. James Bradbeer is two strokes worse, George Von Elm and Mark Seymour are at 71 and Don Moe and Horton Smith are 75.

The weather has been wonderful and every one is delighted with the condition of the courses.

Jones started out just after noon at an awkward and disturbing time for most people, but Bobby arranges his affairs well, and an early breakfast followed by a chicken sandwich and a glass of milk at the psychological moment brought him to the tee in what is described popularly as "the pink."

The general impression his round of 73 left on my mind was that even counting five slips—he made two in the first half and three in the second—he played well within himself. Naturally, the crowd followed him, experts and tyros alike.

Toward the end a lady demanded of her escort how Bobby and his partner, Norman Newton of the Havana Country Club, "stood." The electrifying answer was: "I think they are all square."

At the first hole Jones was trapped on his second low-flying iron shot. That cost him a 5, but after that he played perfectly until the "dowie" short seventh, where he failed to hole a short putt for a 3.

Misses Five-Foot Putt.

At the next hole, "The Far," he had a magnificent shot which trickled past the hole into the rough beyond. From there he ran five feet past and missed another five-foot putt. For all that he was out in 36 and started home with a 4, that nearly was a 3, and a 2.

But at the next, "The Hilbre," he was bunkered to the right of the green in a perfectly horrid place under a vertical bank and, trying for a 4, took 6. He dropped another shot at the short thirteenth, "The Rushes." Here he was bunkered to the right, but followed that with a beautiful 4 at "The Field," which was a 3.

He got another fine 4 at "The Lake" by aid of a delicate run-up and a good putt, but he frightened us at "The Dun" there. Bobby pulled his brassie slightly and was just short of the pot bunker at the left entrance to the green, and then he fluffed his chip and just barely clared the bunker.

However, he got his 4 and finished well in two 4s. He took twenty-eight putts in all.

Few in Diegel's Gallery.

Meanwhile Diegel, who had started earlier, was doing great things almost unattended. He started none to well in 4, 5, 5, 4. With the exception of 5s at the eighth and fourth, his golf was wonderful and his finish was electrifying.

His score to the turn was 37, and, like Bobby, he got a 3 at "The Briars." But coming home Diegel was immense. He started 4, 3, 4, 3, and then after a 5 at "The Field" reeled off the remaining four holes in 4, 3, 4, 3 for a 33.

The 3 at "The Dun" was the result of a wonderful spoon shot that finished close to the pin, and that at the last hole was gained by a putt of three yards.

Jim Barnes played well enough, but met disaster at "The Dun"—the sixteenth hole—which cost him 7. He was short of the green in two, his third found a trap and then he took three putts to finish in 77, which means he will have to do very well at Wallasey tomorrow.

The British players have done well enough. Cotton, Alliss, Taylor and Soulby, an Irish golfer, all returned 73s. H. E. Jolly, D. McCulloch, the Scottish champion, and E. H. Bixborough are one stroke worse, with C. W. Witchcomb, Major Hezlet and Abe Mitchell at 76.

Like Barnes, Mitchell came to grief at "The Dun," two bunkers costing him a 7. Douglas Grant, whom both Britain and the United States can claim, also scored a 76.

Reaches Turn in 35.

Reaching the turn in 35, he reeled off the first six holes going home in 4, 3, 4, 3, 4, 4. His 3 at the thirteenth was the result of a good recovery from a bunker and a ten-foot putt.

Compston was then one better than Diegel, but he was short in 2 at "The Dun," short with his run-up and then missed his putt for a 4. He got a 4 in the seventeenth, and at the last hole only just missed the necessary 3.

At Wallasey Von Elm started like a flash with 3, 4, 4, 3, then for five holes putted poorly and took five 5s to be out in 39. Then he retrieved his lost touch on the green and came home in 32.

Moe was around in 75, and that is no more than just good enough at Wallasey.

Nearly 300 in Field.

HOYLAKE, England, June 16 (AP).—William Thomas Twine, tall young professional golfer from the Bromley and Bickley Club in County Kent, shot a record 68 over the Wallasey course today to lead a big field of nearly 300 in the first qualifying round of the British open championship.

Leo Diegel, Archie Compston and Jim Bradbeer, a London veteran, were tied for second place, with scores of 70, but Diegel and Compston played the course of the Royal Liverpool Club, over which the championship proper will be fought. This course is at least two strokes harder than Wallasey. Diegel and Compston equalled the course record.

Among the Americans, Joshua Crane of Boston and F. C. Stevens Jr., Los Angeles, who had 77 and 79, respectively, may have to do as well tomorrow as they did today. Estimates tonight fixed 158 as the probable figure needed to qualify after the final eighteen holes tomorrow.

Horton Smith expressed satisfaction at his finish after he had suffered a poor start. He was twice in the rough at the second and then took three putts for a 6. At the short fourth he had to hole a 30-foot putt down hill for his 3. He scored a birdie 3 at the sixth and then had trouble again at the eighth and ninth.

Coming home, the tall young pro made only one mistake, getting in a bunker at the fifteenth and taking 5, one over par.

Two London Pros Over 100.

The day's play placed dozens in the upper 70's and 80's, with two unattached pros from London going over 100.

Mark Seymour was advised of his father's death after he had completed his round in 71 and immediately withdrew from the competition.

The field today was cosmopolitan, with players from Greece, Africa, Cuba, France, Italy, Spain and other countries. The contestants were benefited by the fine control of the galleries. An army of linesmen stretched three miles of rope to keep the crowds off the fairways and back from the greens.

The costumes too were varied today. Sid Ball played with knees bare in a sort of a Boy Scout uniform. Another wore a net over his sleek hair. Cyril Tolley split his sweater in one of his terrific lashes at the ball.

Gabriel Gonzales of the Royal Puerta de Hirro Club, Madrid, speaks no English, so the officials translated a long list of local rules for him and sent along an interpreter for his benefit. He had a good round of 78.

Sandy Herd, who won the championship here twenty-eight years ago, had 79.

RICH'S 148 LEADS IN QUALIFYING TEST

DAY MARKED BY UPSETS

Cruickshank and Sweetser Among Those Who Fail to Survive in U. S. Open Preliminary.

By WILLIAM D. RICHARDSON.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., June 16.—Another graduate of the Apawamis caddie school sprang into prominence by leading the field in the sectional qualifying round for the national open championship, which is to be played at Interlaken next month.

Rocky Rich, who learned his game when carrying clubs around Rye courses and is now assistant professional at Bonnie Briar, set the pace for a field of 137 pros and amateurs by playing the Quaker Ridge and Fenimore courses in 148 strokes.

His total, made up of a 79 on Fenimore this morning and followed by a scintillating as well as record-making 69 over Quaker Ridge, led the field by one stroke. Former Champion Johnny Farrell of Quaker Ridge, Herman Barron of Tamarack and T. Philip Perkins, former British amateur champion, tied for second place, one notch behind the 24-year-old leader.

However, the main objective of today's thirty-six-hole test was to qualify for the fourteen coveted places and it resulted in some surprising upsets. Only those whose combined totals were 154 or less succeeded in making the grade.

Others Who Were Successful.

The fortunate ones, in addition to those already mentioned, were Bill Mehlhorn, Walter Kozak, the metropolitan P. G. A. champion, and Pat Circelli, a newcomer, all of whom had totals of 151; Clarence Hackney of Atlantic City, Tom Creavy and Willie Klein, who tied at 153, and Joe Turnesa, Johnny Golden, Joe Ford and Eddie Schulz of Troy, who brought up the rear with 154.

Just outside the pale, one stroke away from a chance to play for golf's greatest prize, were Bobby Cruickshank, who fought Bobby Jones tooth and nail for ninety holes at Inwood in 1923, losing in the final hole, and the veteran Mike Brady, who just missed last year.

Jess W. Sweetser, Maurice J. McCarthy, the metropolitan amateur and New York State amateur standard bearer; Tommy Kerrigan, Tony Manero, Eddie Held and Cyril Walker were others who fell by the wayside in the stern chase.

Rich Has Ten One-Putt Greens.

Ten one-putt greens tell the story of Rich's record round at Quaker Ridge. Of course he had to be playing his irons to get down in a single putt on so many greens, and he was, for not all of the putts he holed were long ones. His first birdie came when he holed a four-yarder for a 3 in the fourth, and the second when he poked a spade shot eight feet from the pin for a 2 on the ninth.

Out in 34 Rich equaled par on the return voyage, a birdie 3 on the seventeenth offsetting his 4 on the short thirteenth where he missed the green.

His card with par:

MISS HICKS WINS LONG ISLAND MEDAL

By LINCOLN A. WERDEN.

Special to The New York Times.

GLEN HEAD, L. I., June 16.—The Women's National Golf and Tennis Club links and the women's Long Island golf championship seem continually to take prominent parts in Miss Helen Hicks's golfing career. It was here two years ago that she gained national attention as a 17-year-old girl who eliminated a former champion, Miss Marion Hollins, in the first round.

Last year, Miss Hicks began a fine year of golf in the North by winning both the medal and the title in this tournament, and today, in the same event, marking the first competitive play since she returned from Europe, she holed the course in eighty strokes and won the medal again.

If it were not for two 7s, her score, one of the best she has had over the course, might have been well down in the 70s, for otherwise she had nothing higher than a 5 and finished with two fine 4s that brought her within a stroke of the course record of 79 accredited to Mrs. N. K. Toerge of the home club.

Mrs. Anderson Scores 84.

Mrs. J. Laroque Anderson of Cherry Valley, who has been playing well all season and who was runner-up in the Metropolitan a few weeks ago, was the closest in the field of forty-six to Miss Hicks's mark. Mrs. Anderson, despite a three-putt green for a 6 at the first hole, was out in 41 and finished in second place among the qualifiers with an 84, while Mrs. Van Deventer Crisp, also of the Women's National Club, finished third with an 86.

Mrs. Crisp had rather an unusual round considering a streak of poor putting, for on six greens she used three putts and on another, the thirteenth hole, she holed the ball only after four putts. Nevertheless, the other departments of the game were working well, for she was out in 42 and back in 44.

Mrs. Federman Putts Poorly.

Another of the entrants, Mrs. Leo Federman of Fresh Meadow, just back a short while with Miss Hicks from the international matches and the British championship, qualified with an 89, although she encountered considerable difficulty with her game around the greens, taking three putts on four of them.

Following these were Mrs. Norman K. Toerge with 90; Mrs. Henry March of North Shore, Mrs. William Bassett of the Engineers, Miss Dorothy Millang of Old Country, who returned 91s; Mrs. C. H. Sayre of the Engineers, Mrs. C. D. Smithers of Nassau and Miss Rosina Jones of Lenox Hills grouped at 92. Those with scores of 95 or lower qualified.

MISS SINGER'S 83 LEADS QUALIFIERS

Defending Champion Wins Medal in Women's Westchester and Fairfield Title Golf.

Special to The New York Times.

HARRISON, N. Y., June 16.—Scoring a 39 on her outward round and a 44 on the return trip for a total of 83, Miss Catherine Singer of the Westchester Country Club, defending titleholder, won the qualifying medal in the eighth annual women's Westchester and Fairfield Golf Association championship, which opened today over the links of the Green Meadow Country Club.

Miss Singer, a one-handicap player in the metropolitan district and listed at scratch in the local association, led home by two strokes Miss Francis Snyder, a newcomer from Apawamis.

Each of the young stars came close to women's par for the course, 81, and both missed approximating this by returning higher scores over the slightly harder incoming nine. Miss Singer had a 44 to Miss Snyder's 45 on the last nine.

Medalist Plays Consistently.

The champion was two over men's par on only two holes, and in six instances equaled par figures. In the other ten she was a single stroke over. In contrast to this, Miss Snyder had one birdie, seven par holes, five where she was one stroke higher than par, four where she was two higher and one where she was three above.

The leaders' cards and men's par for the course:

Out—
Par	4	3	4	3	4	4	3	4	5—34
Miss Singer	5	4	4	4	5	4	4	4	5—39
Miss Snyder	5	4	3	3	4	6	4	4	7—40

Miss Singer	6	5	4	4	6	5	3	5	6—44	—83
Miss Snyder	5	5	6	4	5	5	3	6	6—45	—85

The play in general was good over a course that is none too easy. Six players were under 90 and a score of 99 failed to qualify for the first flight. Among those who just gained entrance into the championship sixteen was Miss Marie Jenney of Hudson River, former metropolitan titleholder, who scored a 95.

Miss Loughran Triumphs.

In addition to the regular qualifying round, scores and handicaps were used to obtain a rating in a special handicap play. This was won by Miss Beatrix Loughran of Millbrook, a prominent figure skating star, who turned in a 48, 56—104, which, with her handicaps of 23, gave her low net of 81. Mrs. Alex Walker, Apawamis, with 47, 47—94 and a 12 handicap, was second with 82.

Miss Snyder missed an opportunity to win the driving contest as she was by far the longest hitter of the field of seventy-five, but her lengthy tee shots of more than 200 yards were all out of bounds and this competition was won by Miss Jane Evans Siwanoy with an average of 175 yards. Mrs. Charles G. Fraser, with an average of 173, was second.

MILLER DEFEATS WHITE ON POINTS

GILLIS OUTPOINTED BY RITZ

By JAMES P. DAWSON.

Ray Miller, Chicago lightweight, who boasts knockout victories over Jimmy McLarnin and Sid Terris, last night was forced to extend himself to his limit to win a hairline decision over Sammy White, Negro boxer of Brooklyn.

They clashed in the ten-round feature bout at Dexter Park arena, Woodhaven, and at the final bell Referee Eddie Forbes and Judges George Fitzpatrick and William P. Dunn rightfully gave their decision to Miller, but the Chicagoan's margin of victory was so slim that some of the crowd jeered the verdict.

Miller won by the margin of a single round. He carried the first and second, and clinched the victory with a closing rally in which he won the ninth and tenth rounds. White won the fourth and the sixth and seventh rounds and held Miller even in the third, fifth and eighth rounds.

The Belgian, at least, was entitled to a draw. He was the aggressor throughout and, though outboxed early in the fray, he never took a backward step and pounded Ritz steadily in fiery exchanges at close quarters. Each boxer weighed 137 pounds.

Kyugore Kimura, Japanese featherweight, won the decision from Al Peters, east side, in their six-round bout. It was an exciting battle in which the Japanese boxer was the aggressor throughout. Kimura weighed 122½ pounds and Peters 119.

Eddie Roberts, Ridgewood welterweight, had an easy time winning the decision from Johnny Brezio, west side, in the first six-round bout. Brezio substituted for Marty Roth. Roberts weighed 147¾ pounds and Brezio 143½.

T. Yamanaka, Japanese middleweight, knocked out Frank Ponzo, Harlem middleweight, in the first round of a scheduled four-rounder. Yamanaka finished Ponzo, who substituted for Harry Fuller, in 1 minute 50 seconds. The victor weighed 152 pounds and Ponzo 155¼.

In the opener of four rounds, Henry Shacter, East New York featherweight, won the decision from Lou Pompolano, Ridgewood. Shacter weighed 127½ pounds and Pompolano 123½.

W. Ham Gardner of the Buffalo Country Club, who set a new course record and equaled Marston's mark for the tournament with a 67 for the first round, shot an 82 for an aggregate of 149 to land second place. Marston's tournament record was made in 1924 over the old Huntingdon Valley course.

Giants Lose to Cubs on Grimm's Homer in 9th; Herman Helps Robins Stop Cards

CUBS UPSET GIANTS ON GRIMM'S HOMER

Wallop in 9th With 3 on Bases and Two Out Spells Defeat for Hubbell.

5 GIANTS HIT FOR CIRCUIT

Terry, Jackson, Allen, Leach and Hogan Connect, but the Bases Are Empty.

By WILLIAM E. BRANDT.

Five sparkling home runs by the Giants, each booming out across the Polo Grounds with the bases empty, were not enough to win for the Giants yesterday because the only one the Cubs had to their name came in the ninth with the score tied and the bases filled.

Charlie Grimm, veteran first-sacker of the league champions, smote the game's deciding homer, with two out. Nine thousand fans saw the Cubs take a two-games-to-one lead in the second-place series, their 8-to-5 victory depriving the Giants of a chance to leave home tonight in second place.

The Giants could not score at all except with home runs. As late as two out in the Cub half of the ninth, however, it looked as if the first four Giant homers were enough to win.

Cubs Tame Till Eighth.

The Cubs, after clicking Carl Hubbell's drifters for five hits and two runs in the first two innings, became dormant until the eighth. But in each of the last two innings they filled the bases, with none out.

In the eighth a great throw to the plate by Fred Leach prevented the score from being tied. A pass to Wilson, Stevenson's single and Grimm's safe bunt filled the bases. Hartnett's long fly to Allen scored Wilson and put Stevenson on third. Pinch Hitter Tolson lifted a shorter fly, which sailed to left.

Leach caught the fly going full speed ahead, and his throw sailed true as an arrow to O'Farrell standing on home plate. O'Farrell tagged out Stevie for a double play, retiring the side.

But in the ninth the bases quickly filled with Cubs again. Pinch hitter Danny Taylor singled. Blair walked. English beat out a bunt. In spite of the fact that the big shots in the Cub batting order were coming up, Hubbell very nearly escaped with his victory.

Cuyler and Wilson Turned Back.

Cuyler and Wilson hoisted high flies too close to the infield for the man on third to try to score. Stephenson's smash over second took a bad hop as Critz rushed for it, the ball falling at his feet for an infield single and scoring Taylor with the tying run. Hubbell's first two pitches to Grimm were strikes, but when he tried to get the third strike over Grimm lined the ball into the lower right-field stands, putting the Cubs four runs ahead.

Hogan, pinch-hitting for Jackson, opened the Giants' ninth with a homer into the right-field stands, but like the first four Giants' homers, its power was belittled by the absence of base runners.

The home-run hitters of the Giants were Terry, Jackson, Allen, Leach and Hogan.

Secretary James J. Tierney announced yesterday that the Fourth of July double-header with Brooklyn at the Polo Grounds will be staged on an A. M. and P. M. basis, the morning game starting at 10:30.

HERMAN'S HITTING HELPS ROBINS WIN

Brooklyn Ace Scores One Run, Drives In 3 and Team Leads Cards in Series.

LOSERS THREATEN IN 9TH

Blanked by Phelps Till Final Inning, They Tally Thrice—Moore's Great Catch Ends Game.

By ROSCOE McGOWEN.

Uncle Wilbert Robinson gave his line-up another shake-up yesterday by posting Jake Flowers and Eddie Moore in the second base sector, Babe Herman snapped out of his long batting slump and the league-leading Robins retained their three-and-one-half-game advantage over the Cubs, taking the third game of the series with the Cards. The score was 5 to 3. Another big weekday crowd of 12,000 saw the game.

Babe Phelps held the Cardinals to five hits and no runs for eight innings but in the ninth a terrific drive by Andy High clipped the big right-hander on his pitching hand and probably took something away from his pitching power.

Robins Start Scoring Early.

The Robins started scoring early, strictly through the medium of Herman's bat, which had been inactive on thirteen previous trips to the plate. On his fourteenth attempt in the opening inning Herman slammed a double down the right field line and scored when Bissonette's high fly to right was lost in the sun by Peel. Herman drove in the next run in the third with a rifle-like single to left after Phelps had crashed a double against the right centre wall.

In the fourth Flowers doubled, moved to third on Hendrick's single and scored when Gelbert threw over Bottomley's head. In the seventh Herman's double sent the fourth and fifth tallies across.

Three of the runs were scored off Sylvester Johnson, starting Cardinal pitcher, who went out for a pinch hitter in the fifth, and the remainder off Jim Lindsey, who also went out in the eighth for a substitute batsman, Frankhouse finishing the game.

Herman Adds Brilliant Catch.

Herman, in addition to his hitting, turned in one brilliant catch when in the seventh with two out he robbed Mancuso of a double by spearing the latter's hard drive far to his right while going at top speed.

An official announcement from President York's office said that Buck Newsom, right-hand pitcher, has been optionally assigned to Jersey City, subject to five days' recall notice. His departure brings the Robins down to the twenty-five-player limit.

BOSTON, June 16 (AP).—Burleigh Grimes and Bruce Cunningham were roughly treated by the Cincinnati Reds today and the Reds took an 11 to 1 decision over the Braves. BRAVES TRADE GRIMES.

Send Pitcher to Cardinals for Sherdel and Frankhouse.

BOSTON, June 16 (AP).—The Boston Braves today exchanged Burleigh Grimes, veteran National League pitcher, for Willie Sherdel and Fred Frankhouse of the St. Louis Cardinals' pitching staff.

The deal was completed by Emil Fuchs, president of the Braves, after a telephone conversation with Sam Breadon, owner of the St. Louis team, who was in St. Louis.

Grimes is a high-salaried pitcher, his pay being estimated at from $15,000 to $20,000 a year. He came to Boston this season from Pittsburgh, where he had been a hold-out, in exchange for Percy Lee Jones, pitcher, and an unnamed sum of money. Sherdel is regarded as a steady member of the Cardinals' hurling staff, and Frankhouse has been successful as a relief pitcher.

SENATORS RALLY TO DEFEAT BROWNS

Heavy Attack in Late Innings Drops St. Louis to 6th Place in League Standing.

ST. LOUIS, June 16 (AP).—Unleashing a heavy scoring attack in the last three innings the Washington Senators defeated the St. Louis Browns today, 9 to 7, in the third of a four-game series after losing the first two.

The defeat stopped a four-game winning streak for the Browns and dropped them from fifth to sixth place in the league standing.

Neither starting pitcher was able to weather the storm of base hits. Brown, who relieved Hadley, received credit for the victory and Kimsey was charged with the defeat.

HOMERS HELP BEARS TURN BACK BUFFALO

Zitmann's Drive Ties Score and Munn's Blow With Windle on Gives Winning Margin.

Pitcher Leroy Parmelee settled down after a poor start yesterday at Newark and came through with a nice hurling performance to enable the Bears to defeat Buffalo, 6 to 2. It was the third consecutive victory for Newark over the Bisons. Parmelee allowed only five scattered hits.

Buffalo gained an early lead by scoring twice in the third, but a rally by the Bears in the fifth provided a winning margin. A homer by Zitzmann tied the count. Then Windle followed with a single and Munn a homer to give the Bears the lead.

J. SELIGSON SCORES IN TITLE NET PLAY

Beats Schaeffer of Alabama, 6-2, 6-2, as Eastern Intercollegiate Tourney Opens.

S. SELIGSON ELIMINATED

By ALLISON DANZIG.

With Julius Seligson of Lehigh University, 1928 national intercollegiate champion, leading the way with a 6—2, 6—2 victory over George Schaeffer of Alabama, the finest field to compete for the Eastern intercollegiate lawn tennis championship started out yesterday on the turf courts of the Crescent A. C. in Bay Ridge, Brooklyn.

Every section of the country, with the exception of the Southwest, sent representatives to play for the title won last year by Gregory Mangin of Georgetown University, and to tune up their strokes on grass for the national intercollegiates starting at Haverford, Pa., next Monday.

At the end of the opening day of competition Richard Lewis and Arthur R. Neill of the tournament committee, assisted by P. Schuyler Van Bloem, president of the Eastern Association, had reduced the field from fifty-two to thirty-three in the singles. All of the favored array were included among the survivors with the exception of Donald Strachan of Princeton and Bertram Hammell of Swarthmore, both of whom failed to put in an appearance.

Many New to Grass Courts.

Most of the players entered in the list are newcomers in the East and to grass courts, with the old guard represented by Seligson, Maurice Bayon and Clifford Sutter of Tulane, Stanley Harte of New York University and Casper Nannes of Rutgers. Among the most interesting of the newcomers are three members of the team of the University of California, Los Angeles Branch. One of these, Clifford Robbins, accounted for the major casualty of the day when he defeated Sidney Seligson of New York University at 12—10, 6—1.

Seligson, younger brother, of the newly-crowned metropolitan clay court champion, had an excellent opportunity to win the opening set when he led at 4—2, but Robbins at this juncture renounced the back court for the net and there conducted himself in a manner worthy of the traditions of California tennis. From 2—4 he went to 5—4 and 40—0. Seligson extricated himself from this perilous position, but his jerky ground strokes finally yielded to the more fluent drives of the Californian.

Leonard Dworkin, captain of the Pacific Coast team, showed the quality of his mettle in defeating Sidney Snitkin of Lehigh at 6—2, 6—3, and Elbert Lewis, the third member of the trio, holder of the Pacific Coast intercollegiate championship, disposed of J. Tavalin of St. John's College of Brooklyn, 6—2, 6—2.

Takes Five Games in Row.

One of the most dearly earned victories of the day was turned in by Nannes. Trailing at 2—5 in the third set, the Rutgers youth took five games in a row from H. M. Kennedy of Princeton to win at 7—5, 3—6, 7—5, after two hours of play.

David Jones, Columbia University sophomore, allowed Robert Rutan of Brown only two games, and Lytle Chambers of Centre, son of the veteran Metropolitan player, Charles Chambers, defeated Milton Lambert of St. John's, 6—1, 6—4. One of the few unlooked-for developments of the day was the defeat of Donald Frame of Harvard by Sidney Berger of N. Y. U., 7—5, 7—5.

LEAGUE LETS RULES STAND.

National Executives Take No Action on Lively-Ball Issue.

The National League's regular June meeting held at President Heydler's Fortieth Street office yesterday was given over to discussion of various matters of policy, without producing any new rules or provisions. In spite of the fact that the intraleague trading season was prolonged an extra day because of June 15 falling on a Sunday this year, no last-minute deals were forthcoming.

Twenty were present, every club except Chicago being represented. The Cubs' president, William Veeck, was detained in Chicago because of illness in his family.

Discussion of the lively ball and placing numbers on the players' backs, revealed that almost all of those present favored keeping things as they are.

WASHINGTON, June 16 (AP).—Art Shires, Chicago first baseman, will come to the Washington Nationals in a trade announced tonight by Clark Griffith, president of the local club, in which Garland Braxton, pitcher, and Catcher Benny Tate will go to the White Sox.

Griffith said Shires will not get the first-base assignment regularly so long as the veteran Joe Judge is able to play. However, the latter is out of the game temporarily with a "charleyhorse."

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., June 16.—In smooth water and a light Summer breeze that wafted over Long Island this afternoon, Weetamoe led Enterprise and Whirlwind, two of the other new America's Cup yachts, as well as Resolute, the old cup defender, over a twenty-five mile course, in the third meeting among the craft.

Weetamoe showed, as she did in their second race last Thursday, that with a peaceful zephyr and unruffled water she can travel fast. She showed a tenderness, however, when the southwest breeze, that was only twelve miles an hour at first, increased to seventeen miles and her rail went under, while the decks of the other racers were dry.

Weetamoe won by 1 minute and 13 seconds from Enterprise, which was 45 seconds ahead of Whirlwind. Resolute was 5 minutes and 3 seconds astern of Whirlwind.

Vanitie Arrives Late.

Vanitie was late in arriving at the line, a mile east of the buoy off Eaton's Neck, and the race was started without her. She followed over the course, however, starting 21 minutes and 51 seconds after the others.

She footed faster than her competitors on the first leg, getting a freshening breeze astern, and covered the whole course 4 seconds faster than Weetamoe. Even though she made the best time she could not win, as she is forced to allow more than 4 seconds per mile to the others.

The contest, held by the Seawanhaka Corinthian Yacht Club, was sailed in unusually fast time. Weetamoe covered the 25 miles in 2:05:49. Nearly one-third of the race also was against the wind, but on the windward work the yachts had a flood tide to help them along.

There were two reaches, the first a close one, which Whirlwind, of the boats away together, took, leading Enterprise 3 seconds over nine miles. Whirlwind's time for the distance was 43 minutes and 37 seconds.

Weetamoe Forges Ahead.

The second was a broader reach of eight miles, and Weetamoe turned the tables on Whirlwind, leading her by 21 seconds. Weetamoe's time was 31 minutes and 50 seconds.

Enterprise was third of the new boats on both of the reaches. On the second Resolute beat both Whirlwind and Enterprise by actual time. She was only five seconds slower than Weetamoe on the leg.

On the wind for eight miles, it was a two-boat race between Weetamoe and Enterprise. Whirlwind had her new rig with three head sails instead of two, as the others carry, but she did not point as high as her rivals.

The course took the racers from Eaton's Neck to Crane Neck Point to the east, then across the Sound to a buoy off Southport, Conn., and back to Eaton's Neck.

Whirlwind Across First.

Whirlwind was the first at the start. She went away at the leeward end of the line, with Weetamoe to windward, and second over. Enterprise was with Weetamoe, overlapping her. Weetamoe and Enterprise began a battle for position, and both held high for a time. This permitted Whirlwind to go on free, and lay the course.

When they reached the first mark only eight seconds separated the three new boats. Whirlwind arrived three seconds before Weetamoe, which was five seconds ahead of Enterprise.

The second leg was a broader reach. Enterprise and Resolute carried staysails under their ballooners, while Enterprise also had a jib set. She began picking up out in the middle of the Sound, and immediately Weetamoe and Whirlwind set their staysails to get more canvas and stave off Enterprise's rush.

Just then the wind slacked a trifle, Enterprise taking in her ballooner, as did the others. A jibtopsail was set quickly on Weetamoe. In the change of sails Enterprise got under Weetamoe and Whirlwind, and they took her wind, with the result that she fell back.

Weetamoe was not only 21 seconds faster than Whirlwind on this reach, but 32 seconds faster than Enterprise.

For the windward work home, Weetamoe carried a larger jibtopsail than the others and it gave her an extra pull. Whirlwind had the smallest topsail.

Off Huntington the breeze strengthened and they heeled under it. Weetamoe's lee rail went down until it was awash. She took in her jibtopsail and seemed to foot even faster without it. There was no catching her in the going of a steady light breeze and only rippled water.

In the fleet that followed the racers today was the navy destroyer Sturtevant, under Lieut. Commander M. P. Refo Jr.

The cup boats will race off here again tomorrow, and the Boston yacht Yankee may join the fleet. She was at City Island today taking on new sails.

An additional race may be arranged for Wednesday by the Stamford Yacht Club. On Thursday the cup boats will move to New London for the Yale-Harvard crew races. Then they will continue to Newport for the three contests off that port next week.

FIRPO MAY RETURN TO RING

Argentine Boxer Will Seek Bout With Dempsey.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUENOS AIRES, June 16.—Luis Firpo announced today that he is ready to begin training for a return to the ring if Dempsey will agree to meet him and he is prepared to deposit a guarantee.

The Argentinian is going to the United States in July or August on business and hopes to sign a contract with Dempsey while there.

Firpo does not think Schmeling will retain the title very long and is willing to meet him, but he wants to fight Dempsey first.

NEW YORK BOXERS WIN.

New York boxers triumphed in all four bouts with Philadelphia representatives in an amateur intercity boxing show conducted by the New York Athletic Club at its country home in Travers Island last night before a crowd of 3,000.

The summaries:

Intercity Bouts.

CARNERA CALLED FOR ARMY.

French Authorities Decide Boxer Is Liable to Service.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 16.—Although he has passed the age of compulsory military service, Primo Carnera, giant Italian pugilist, who became a naturalized Frenchman before his departure for boxing appearances in the United States several months ago, will be obliged to fight for France if and when she goes to war.

This was decided today by the civic officials of Saint Germain, who acted favorably just a year ago on Carnera's application for French citizenship. When the boxer returns to France he probably will have to pay a nominal fine for his failure to appear at the Saint Germain City Hall when his name was called in the 1930 class of young Frenchmen who must do army service this year.

Carnera should have presented himself there to explain that his age of 24 entitles him to be excused from peacetime military service.

HARVARD GAINS LEAD IN YACHTING SERIES

Amasses 52 Points in the First Three of Six Races for Intercollegiate Title.

YALE AND PRINCETON TIED

Each Has 45 Points in Events Off Pequot Y. C.—Protest May Affect Crimson's Standing.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTHPORT, Conn., June 16.—With boats bending low under a strong southwest wind and a choppy sea, W. D. Taylor skippered the first crew of the Harvard entry to one victory and two fourth places today in three contests of the intercollegiate yacht races, sailed off the Pequot Yacht Club over a four-mile windward and leeward course, to gain chief honors.

Unless a protest made by Rush Mariner, skipper of the first Yale entrant, that Taylor forced him to injure his start in the second contest by forcing an overlap, is granted tonight by Briggs Cunningham, chairman of the regetta committee, Harvard will lead for the first three of six races with 52 points. Yale and Princeton each tallied 45.

John Muhlfield sailed the second Yale boat to victory in the first race in 50 minutes and 45 seconds, Mariner, at the helm of the other Yale boat, coming second, less than a minute later, and P. H. Cumming, skipper of the No. 2 Princeton craft, bringing his boat home in third place, almost a minute after Mariner.

Cumming won the third contest, defeating James Moore of Dartmouth and John D. Fox of Williams by 11 and 15 seconds, respectively.

Victor King, skipper of the first Dartmouth crew, gained second position in the second race, in which Harvard reached the finish line first.

The last race, starting at 4:40, was the fastest, Cumming's time for the four miles being 47:43. Shortly after the start white caps covered the Sound and sailing was wet for the men in the low craft. On the return leg, with spinnakers pulling hard, the boats tossed and rolled in the heavy seas.

The original plan of the committee was to hold two races for three days, but due to the weather conditions this morning, Mr. Cunningham decided to run them off in two days. Tomorrow's first race will begin at 10 A. M., with the last two set for the afternoon.

Besides the championship trophy for the winner of the regatta, the George May Trophy will go to the holder of the highest score among Harvard, Yale and Princeton.

Flimsy Defeats Capture by a Length in Aqueduct Feature With Okaybee Next

AQUEDUCT FEATURE ANNEXED BY FLIMSY

CHARON IS HOME FIRST

By BRYAN FIELD.

Harry Payne Whitney's silks again were carried to victory when his Flimsy was first in the Miss Woodford Handicap, best offering on the card at Aqueduct yesterday. Flimsy ran coupled with Murky Cloud, but the two Whitney horses were second choice in the betting at 9 to 5, the public favor going to Mrs. George Carroll's Okaybee.

Okaybee ran third, Capture, from the Rancocas Stable, making a great move in the stretch to run to within a length of Flimsy at the wire.

A vigorous driving finish by Sonny Workman staved off Capture's rush, and when he landed Flimsy safely the winner of the $1,005 purse, he had completed a double. In the curtain-raiser he scored with the Greentree Stable's Checkerberry in an easy four-length victory. These were Workman's only two mounts and he went to dinner with a riding average of 100 per cent.

Flimsy had a five-pound weight concession over Okaybee, which carried 123 pounds, and when Mrs. Carroll's horse did not run into a wide lead it looked bad for those who knew how she tires in the stretch.

Flimsy Always Near Front.

Flimsy ran step for step with Okaybee down the back stretch and around the bend, never being more than a short part of a length in back of the leader. When the two settled down to run it out in the long straightaway to the wire, Flimsy proved herself easily the better of Okaybee.

Capture's rush made things look interesting for a moment or so, but Workman kept his mount going, and the Rancocas bid was squelched without too much trouble. The race was at six and a half furlongs and Flimsy finished in 1:20 3-5. Her stable-mate, Murky Cloud, was fifth behind Lost Agnes. Spellbound and First Lady completed the field, which was for mares, 3 years old and upward.

The Newtondale Stable, which won with Kildare at long odds in the Queens County Handicap on opening day, chalked up another victory in the Accelerator Purse. Charon was the color bearer this time and he won by a neck in a driving finish from Verdi, the 13 to 10 favorite.

Charon Returns 4 to 1.

Charon was a 4 to 1 shot and took the lead right after the break to run on top practically from start to finish. Joe Passero, who piloted Kildare to victory, was in the saddle on Charon and he outrode George Ellis on Verdi.

The race was strictly between the two, which fought it out for the victory, and the third horse was eight lengths back of Verdi. This was Believe Sally. Four others brought up the rear. The race was at a mile and Charon's time was 1:39 1-5. He carried 107 pounds against 120 for Verdi.

There was an interesting 2-year-old race, fifth on the program, and a big plunge in the betting preceded the victory of the Wheatley Stable's Brusher. Brusher was backed from 10 to 1 down to 3½ to 1, and won easily by two lengths.

ILLINOIS A. C. PURSE IS WON BY MORSEL

Le Mar Stock Farm Silks First in Featured Sprint at Washington Park.

CHICAGO, June 16 (AP).—Morsel, the coal black 3-year-old sprinter of the Le Mar Stock Farm, captured the Illinois Athletic Club Purse at six furlongs, the feature at Washington Park, today. Justinian, the Greentree Stable entry, was second and Crofton third in the field of twelve.

Such sprinters as Wisdom and Flat Iron never threatened the leading three.

Morsel, rated behind the pace by Jockey Shropshire, got through on the rail as the last bend was reached and sped into a clear lead. Justinian came fast and Shropshire had to ride his mount out to make the purse safe. Morsel was second choice in the betting and paid $9.32 in the mutuels.

YALE'S POLO TEAM MEETS ARMY TODAY

TWO CUP GAMES ON CARD

Sands Point to Oppose Fox Hunters, U. S. Army to Face Eastcott, in Westbury Challenge Event.

Yale's fast and brilliant polo four will ride into action against the United States Military Academy combination today on Herbert Memorial Field at the Rumson Country Club in the semi-final match of the intercollegiate polo championship. Every indication is that it will be one of the most thrilling battles in the annals of the college titular series, for the Yale quartet contains no less than three potential international players, a trio that rides hard and fast and drives with deadly accuracy, or should if it lives up to past performances.

If victory should fall to Yale, the Eli four then will clash with Princeton in the final contest next Saturday afternoon and Yale would seem to have an excellent chance of capturing the crown, since the Blue horsemen defeated Princeton two weeks ago in easy fashion, though two of Princeton's stars then were out of the line-up and have since returned to action.

The probable line-up:

Yale.	Army.
1—M. G. Phipps	1—F. F. Wing Jr.
2—J. P. Mills	2—C. A. Brandt
3—Stewart Iglehart	3—J. F. Haskell
Back—J.C. Rathborne	Back—R. E. Beebe

Two Games on Schedule.

The Westbury Challenge Cup tournament will continue today with two contests scheduled for fields at Meadow Brook. One game, that between Sands Point and the Meadow Brook Fox Hunters, to be played at 5:30 P. M., is a second round struggle. The other match, bringing together the United States Army four and the Eastcott quartet, is to be started at 4:30 P. M.

Another second round game will be played tomorrow when the Shelburnes meet the Meadow Brook Ramblers. With the playing of the Army-Eastcott game all of the first round matches will be out of the way. Rockaway and Aiken, having drawn a first round bye, played their second round match last Saturday and Aiken, winning by 13 to 5, has already reached the semi-final round.

J. H. WHITNEY AT RACES.

Shows No Ill Effects of Polo Accident Suffered Sunday.

AUSTRALIANS TRAIL ENGLISH IN CRICKET

HAS TOTAL OF 572 RUNS

Rivals, With Only Nine Wickets in Hand, Must Collect 369 Tallies to Gain Victory.

NOTTINGHAM, England, June 16 (Canadian Press Cable).—Australia has been set the all but impossible task of making 369 runs to win the first cricket test match from England at Trent Bridge tomorrow.

In an exciting second innings today the home team emerged with the good total of 302, which, added to the 270 total of its first innings, made an aggregate of 572.

The Aussies made 144 in a weak first innings which ended this morning and lost one wicket of their second innings in the fading light late this afternoon before stumps were drawn. They thus have nine wickets in hand.

Hobbs and Hendren gathered in extra laurels during their batting today, as each passed their thousand runs for the season.

The match continues to draw a fine attendance, the gates being closed when 27,238 had collected in the enclosure.

CRESCENT CRICKETERS WIN.

Flick Scores Half-Century in 152-59 Victory Over Newark.

A half-century of runs by H. R. Flick and phenomenal bowling on the part of J. Finneran, who captured eight wickets at a cost of twenty-two runs, were the factors which scored a 152-to-59 victory for the cricketers of the Crescent Athletic Club over Newark in their New York and New Jersey Association championship match at Watsessing Park, Newark, yesterday.

R. Macpherson, H. A. Marsh, R. Swallow and R. C. Rosser also contributed double figures to the Crescent total. S. Hart's twenty-two was the highest score made for the home team, J. Robson and E. Swingler also adding doubles.

BLESSE KEEPS POST AS VARSITY STROKE

Retained as Pace-Setter by Glendon of Columbia—Crews Row in Choppy Water.

Special to The New York Times.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 16.—A choppy Hudson River greeted the seven Intercollegiate Rowing Association squads which took to the water for both morning and afternoon practice spins today.

But despite the limited workouts for the oarsmen, two major questions were answered during the day. The first was that Bill Blesse of Columbia would retain his seat as stroke oar of the Blue and White varsity boat. The second was that Walter Voehringer of the University of Pennsylvania would keep his seat as stroke oar in the Penn varsity shell.

Last Saturday Coach Glendon said that unless things were satisfactory, today would see a change in the stroke seat. As none occurred, the only surmise was that Rich is satisfied. Coach Rusty Callow, too, made it known last week that he would make a change in his stroke oar if he was not satisfied. When Penn took the water today Voehringer was at his regular post, and again the surmise could be only that Coach Callow is satisfied.

Ebright Is Dissatisfied.

While Columbia and Penn are apparently set, the same is not the truth with the Golden Bears of California. The diminutive coach, Ky Ebright, is not satisfied, and his varsity oarsmen know it.

The defeat last week at the hands of Navy rankles, especially in the face of the fact that Navy is also in camp here and will be among the starters on June 26. Ebright is figuring that what Navy did once it can do again—unless there is an improvement.

Ebright informed his varsity oarsmen today that an improvement must take place in a day or so or two regulars would lose their places. He did not name the oarsmen.

"Those who I have in mind ought to know," he said, "and if they don't, they'll know when I make some changes."

Activities Are Curtailed.

M. I. T. did not get on the water for the morning workout, being the only crew in camp which did not. Water activities generally were curtailed, however.

Coach Callow allowed only his junior varsity boat out in the morning, keeping his varsity and freshmen off the water. The afternoon workout found Fleitas missing from the Penn freshman boat and Groat was in his place.

The other afternoon spins, all conducted under the shelter of the highlands, failed to produce any apparent changes. The crews limited their afternoon workouts merely to short rows, sticking close to the shore.

HARVARD AND YALE HAMPERED BY WIND

ELI TIME TRIAL LIKELY

Harvard Not Expected to Be Sent Against Watch Again—Both Eights Have Improved.

By ROBERT F. KELLEY.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 16.—A strong, stubborn breeze that blew steadily upstream all afternoon held the crews of Yale and Harvard in their training quarters until early this evening and even as the sun began to sink, forced them far across the river to find smooth water.

The course, left all the afternoon to the waves, was dotted with shells when the eights did get out, however, for both Yale and Harvard went down to where the flags mark the lanes for Friday's racing.

The work during the day, both morning and afternoon, consisted of paddling, with occasional rowing at a higher beat. Charles Whiteside, Harvard's coach, said this evening that he did not expect the Harvard crews to take another time row before the race.

Yale May Get Trial.

It is still possible, however, that Ed Leader will send the Yale varsity over once more tomorrow evening, and, if conditions are right in the morning, the Yale juniors and freshmen may also have time trials.

This morning Yale's crews went upstream around the bend above Gales Ferry, but none did much work. The men took short paddles to limber themselves again after the Sunday rest.

Harvard, too, had a fairly light workout this morning and tonight all of the crews went downstream, Yale paddling below the submarine base and Harvard going down in the same water.

The first glimpse of the Yale crew since its early season racing makes it apparent that the eight has improved a good deal in training here. The men are in splendid condition and are rowing very well.

Harvard also appears to have come along in training. It has not been as consistent as Yale, but on good days the boat has gone along well. Coach Whiteside says he feels that the crew has improved here.

Franz Colloredo-Mannsfeld apparently has recovered entirely from the ailment which drove him from his stroke seat for awhile when training first started. On his return Whiteside put him at the 2 varsity seat until he caught up on the work he had lost. Then he sent him back to stroke and Armstrong went to 4. Armstrong's replacement of Charles Hovey is the only change in the boating since the Cornell race.

Varsity Uses Sims Boat.

The Harvard navy is rowing in three different shells. The varsity has decided to use the Sims boat, imported from England; the juniors are using a boat built by Bill Lutz, the veteran Harvard builder and rigger, and the freshmen are rowing in a new Pocock.

Harvard is using its new Red Top quarters this year for the first time. The new boathouse is twice as large as the old and contains every modern convenience. A wide float enables the men to take the shells out without having to turn them.

Veterans along the river are excited over the times at which the Yale varsity has been caught in its rows. Unofficially, Yale has been caught, during four time rows, at 20:35 and 21 flat downstream and at 20:48 and 20:15 upstream. The record for the course upstream is 20:14 2-5, made by Yale's 1926 crew. The downstream record is 20:01, made by Harvard in 1916.

These four times, if they are at all accurate, make it seem that Yale's eight has come along to a good deal of speed. They have started discussion of a possible new record, but conditions make records and this year's race is downstream. Prevailing winds here are upstream and it is rarely that this race is rowed downstream with a following wind.

REGULATIONS ISSUED FOR REGATTA FRIDAY

Coast Guard Announces Rules to Be Enforced During Yale-Harvard Races

Regulations to be in effect along the course of the annual crew races between Yale and Harvard on the Thames River at New London, Conn., Friday, were made public yesterday by Captain H. H. Wolf, in command of the patrol of the United States Coast Guard. The Coast Guard will police the route between the railroad bridge at New London and Gales Ferry.

The regatta program will start on Thursday afternoon, when the combination crews of both colleges will row. Three races will be held on Friday, starting with the freshman contest and winding up with the varsity event.

The freshman race will start at 10:00 A. M. Daylight Saving Time, and will be rowed over a two-mile course. The junior varsity race, also over a two-mile course, will start a half-hour later. At 7:30 P. M., Daylight Saving Time, the varsity race will be conducted. The race will be four miles downstream, from Bartlett's Cove to the New London railroad bridge.

Rules.

Boats must be anchored or moored at least thirty minutes before the scheduled time for the start of a race.

Any boat, except the official boats, that follows the crews during a race, will be arrested and penalized.

Power boats must remain anchored or moored until fifteen minutes after the finish of the Varsity Race and of the morning races. The safety of the crews at the finish depends upon the strict observance of this rule. As soon as the Varsity Race has finished a red and blue lighted letter according to whether Harvard or Yale has won, will be displayed above the railroad bridge.

When the fifteen minute interval is over, boats must not exceed a speed of twelve (12) knots an hour until they have passed through both bridges.

A number of rapid, short whistles from any coast guard patrol will be a warning to stop.

Airplanes.

Sea planes or flying boats must not anchor in, take off or taxi through the waters governed by these rules on the day of the regatta.

Warning.

Boats arrested for violation of these rules will be detained in custody of the coast guard until they have secured the necessary information to prosecute the offender. The law provides heavy penalties for any violation of these rules.

DARTMOUTH CHECKS CORNELL IN TENTH

GAME ENDS LEAGUE SEASON

FINAL STANDING OF TEAMS.

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., June 16.—A long drive by Lauri Myllykangas in the last half of the tenth inning today broke up the most brilliant game played in the Eastern Intercollegiate League this year and Dartmouth defeated Cornell by 1-0. The contest closed the league campaign.

Gunnar Hollstrom of the Green and Bob Lewis of the Ithacans pitched unbeatable baseball for nine innings, each letting their opponents down with four hits and striking out three. Lewis had a shade on his rival, for fast double plays pulled Dartmouth out of holes in the first and second innings, while the Cornell twirler was facing only twenty-eight men over the regulation route.

McDonough Twists Ankle.

In the tenth Captain Bart McDonough of Dartmouth singled. In stealing second he twisted his ankle and had to be carried from the field. Howard Harvey ran for him and Myllykangas, who had seen his batting crown taken away from him by going hitless up to this point, slashed a powerful drive to deep left centre. He rounded the bases on the blow but officially got credit for a double.

Cornell, the best fielding team in the league, proved its worth today, although Dartmouth did not make an error. Red Rolfe, brilliant shortstop of the victors, broke the league record in accepted chances when he handled eleven assists in impressive fashion.

Tied in Stolen Bases.

Maiorana of Cornell tied with Albie Booth of Yale and Bill Graupner of Penn for the base-stealing championship of the league, and the league record for scoreless innings was also shattered.

Cushman of Cornell came within an ace of winning the game in the ninth inning, when he hit one of Hollstrom's offerings to deep right field for a triple which he tried to stretch. A perfectly executed relay, Myllykangas to Rolfe to McDonough, caught him as he slid home. The only other extra-base blow was a double by Barber in the second, but he was neatly picked off second base by Lewis.

Sports of the Times

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

By JOHN KIERAN.

LEO DIEGEL turned in a neat first round at Hoylake. Of course, Laughing Leo had an advantage over most of the golfers in the British open championship. He had been practicing with the Prince of Wales. It will be remembered that the Prince of Wales came to the rescue of Bob Jones in a foursome just before the Walker Cup matches. Bob plunked the ball into a trap with the match at stake, and his royal partner chipped it out dead to the pin to stave off defeat. The Prince chap always does the diplomatic thing.

At the same time it may have been a mistake for Leo to dash around the course for a 70 so early in the competition. This is an endurance contest, not a sprint. A gaudy qualifying round is just so much decoration. All that is necessary is to qualify. Beyond that, the qualifying scores are unimportant. As soon as they are gathered in, they are bundled up and thrown out again. Those who qualify start what is in effect a new tournament.

Just why this is done is one of the minor mysteries of golf. Those who take their golf seriously say that the longer the test, the better the test. In that case, the score for 108 holes should be a better test than the score for 72 holes, and all who qualify and finish in the British open will have played 108 holes of stroke competition.

There may be some answer to this and, again, there may be no answer. Nobody ever will understand this game completely.

Fundamentals.

With Bob Jones a popular figure on both sides of the Atlantic and international competition occupying so much space on the sports pages, interest in golf has spread beyond golfers. For the benefit of those who are not familiar with the technical arrangements and the difference in methods of play, a few fundamental points might be noted.

The British amateur championship was a match-play tournament. It was player against player, the score being immaterial and the winning of each match being the important point. As long as a player defeated his opponent, he moved ahead. If he lost, he was out.

The British open championship is a tournament of stroke competition. The competitors play in pairs, but they are not opponents except in a general sense. Each player is really playing the whole field. The man with the lowest total score is the winner.

When Bob Jones and George Voigt went off the tee together in the British amateur, the official chart had it: Jones vs. Voigt. If they were to go off the tee together in the British open, the chart would have it: Jones and Voigt.

To golfers this is all very simple, but, from the queries that are heard, it has not been thoroughly understood by many sports followers who have only a general interest in golf results.

Stretching Out.

A half century ago the British open championship started and finished the same day. They will be at it for six days at Hoylake this week. The great increase in the number of players and the lengthening of the test to seventy-two holes brought this about.

Indeed, as noted above, each player who finishes the tournament is now required to play 108 holes through the fact that a qualifying test of thirty-six holes has been added.

Our own open championship brought out such unwieldy fields that the sectional qualifying program was put into effect, beginning with 1924. Even with this program, it takes three days to run off the seventy-two-hole tournament for those who have qualified in previous sectional tournaments. In case of a tie, an extra day is needed. There were ties for first place in four of the last five national open championships.

Seven-League Boots.

Taking into consideration the time to be spent and the distance to be covered, what a man really needs to win an open championship is a strong constitution and a pair of seven-league boots.

As far as the British open championship is concerned, it's a six-day chase during which any one who sticks will have to cover thirty miles on foot. Only John D. Rockefeller Sr. uses a sidecar at golf, and he isn't entered in the British open.

There are many otherwise brilliant players who haven't the stamina to stand up under the actual physical strain of this lengthy tournament program. There may be some mental strain to it, too. Golfers say there is. However, golfers are prone to exaggerate everything except their scores.

It is more than a coincidence, however, that Bob Jones, Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen, Horton Smith and other top-flight players are rather robust individuals. Vardon, Taylor and Braid, the Great Triumvirate of other years, were sturdy men. Frail fellows have won championships from time to time, but only the stronger lads held the pace over any lengthy period.

Add a Little Skill.

Of course, main strength, even with awkwardness added, isn't quite enough to guarantee the winning of a golf title. If they keep on stretching out these tournaments, only a long-distance walker will have a chance, but in the meanwhile, skill counts.

Still, it might not be a bad idea to hold back instead of sprinting at the start of a thirty-mile chase. That's why Leo Diegel's snappy round of 70 is noted with a vague feeling of regret. That would make a great last round over the wind-swept seaside course near Liverpool. Several times in his career Leo wasted wonderful rounds by playing them a day or two too soon. Jock Hutchison had the same habit.

Walter Hagen never played it that way. He loafed along in qualifying rounds. It gave him a comfortable feeling. He knew he could do better when it was worth while to do better.

Bob Jones doesn't sprint in qualifying rounds. That is, not intentionally. He has won his share of medals in the qualifying rounds for our amateur championship, but they were gathered casually. That wasn't what he was aiming at or striving for.

It is to be hoped that Diegel will ease off on his second round. He can hardly fail to qualify, with the start he has. Here's a chance for him to relax for a day, take it easy, play for exercise only and put himself into a mental state in which he will have a comfortable feeling that his best rounds are ahead of him and not behind him.

NEWTON, Mass., June 16.—Holy Cross scored its seventeenth victory of the baseball season today by defeating the Boston College Eagles. The score was 17 to 12.

The Eagles scored early, leading by 10 to 3 at the end of the fourth inning, but the victors batted hard against O'Connor, Dixon and Herman to score 4 runs in the fifth and 9 in the sixth inning, in which Ryan and Lawrence hit successive home runs.

DARTMOUTH APPOINTS COMMITTEE ON ROWING

Heneage Says Crew for College Is Nearer Realization—Baseball Awards Made

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., June 16.—The Dartmouth College athletic council today appointed a committee to consider the feasibility of rowing as a sport at Dartmouth, and Harry Heneage, supervisor of athletics, stated that a Dartmouth crew in the future is coming nearer and nearer to realization.

The committee is headed by L. G. (Pudge) Neidlinger, '23, Boston, who is now a coach at Princeton; Professor Fletcher Low, '15, of Hanover, and Mr. Heneage.

If Dartmouth has a crew the practice site selected undoubtedly will be Mascoma Lake at Enfield, N. H., where there is a four-mile sweep of water, obstructed only by a wooden bridge, which would be torn down.

Further business of the council was the appointment of Rodney Hatcher of Washington, D. C.; Kingsley Fall of Great Barrington, Mass., and John H. Reno of Macomb, Ill., as undergraduate members.

The athletic council awarded baseball letters to twelve players, three of whom will be graduated this year. The awards follow:

Capt. Bart McDonough of Woburn, Mass.; Edward J. Jeremiah of Somerville, Mass.; Gunnar Hollstrom of Lawrence, Mass.; Harold Andres of Newton, Mass.; Tom Eagan of Somerset, Mass.; Howard Harvey of Townsend, Mass.; Lauri Myllykangas of Fitchburg, Mass.; Edward Picken of Audubon, N. J.; Robert A. Rolfe of Penacook, N. H.; Edward Stokes of Beverly, Mass.; Henry Barber of Cambridge, Mass., and Wilbur Mack of Westfield, Mass.

WISCONSIN REGATTA IS PUT OFF BY RAIN

Crew Races With Washington Set for This Morning—Coast Cub Boat Swamped.

MADISON, Wis., June 16 (AP).—Rain, accompanied by strong winds, kicked up high waves on Lake Mendota late today and forced postponement of the crew races between the University of Washington and the University of Wisconsin until 9 A. M. tomorrow.

Washington's freshman shell was swamped as an attempt was made to start the first race and the Badger yearling boat was half filled with water. Coaches called the race in hopes of favorable weather in the morning.

Appointed Assistant to McCracken, Lafayette Football Coach.

Special to The New York Times.

EASTON, Pa., June 16.—Bob Mitinger, guard on the Lafayette football team of 1922 and 1923, when he was teamed with Frank (Dutch) Schwab and John Budd, two of the greatest linemen ever to play for the Maroon, has been named assistant to Herb McCracken, head football coach at Lafayette, according to an announcement today by D. Leroy Reeves, graduate manager of athletics.

Mitinger's contract is for one year. He will succeed W. Cullen Gourley, assistant to McCracken for six years, who announced his resignation several weeks ago.

HARVARD TO PLAY YALE NINE TODAY

Clash at New Haven Will Be the 158th Meeting on Diamond Between the Rivals.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 16.—The Yale nine practiced today on the Yale Field diamond, on which it will meet Harvard tomorrow before a commencement crowd of about 12,000. The contest will be the 158th meeting between the rivals with the score in victories standing—Yale, 82; Harvard, 74, 1 tie.

The teams will play their entire series this week, traveling to Boston tomorrow night together to take part in the second and last game on Wednesday before the Harvard commencement crowd.

There will be no third game, because Yale has booked the third and deciding match with Princeton for the Polo Grounds in New York City for next Saturday and, as Yale cannot take part in another game before next week, Harvard will not remain in training until that time. Harvard had agreed to come to New Haven for the third game, if needed, next Saturday.

Coach Joe Wood tonight named Bill Newton or Ned Jennison as Yale's probable pitcher tomorrow. Wood today made a line-up change, assigning right field to Fred Linehan, former substitute catcher, largely because of his batting. Coach Fred Mitchell is expected to name either Charlie Devens or Bill McHale to pitch for the Crimson.

The probable line-up:

Harvard.	Yale.
Bassett, rf	McKenzie, cf
Mays, ss	Booth, ss
McGrath, cf	Linehan, rf
Ticknor, lf	Vincent, 1b
Nugent, 2b	Snead, lf
Wood, 1b	Warren, 3b
Desroches, 3b	Maine, c
Batchelder, c	Beyer, 2b
Devens or McHale, p	Jennison or Newton, p

DR. ALEKHINE AGREES TO MEET CAPABLANCA

Accepts Next Feb. 15 as Final Date for Defense of World Crown—Match Looms for U. S.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 16.—After an exchange of letters with José R. Capablanca, challenger, Dr. Alexander Alekhine, world's chess champion, has agreed to accept Feb. 15, 1931, as the last date for a match for the championship with the Cuban master. Capablanca and Alekhine have been in negotiation with regard to a match for some time, but have not as yet come to an agreement as to details.

The champion contends that he did not receive a challenge to play in Cuba, and it now seems probable that a match will be organized early next Winter in the United States, as Alekhine maintains that under London rules he is justified in refusing to play in Cuba, since he is a native of a northern country and feels that the southern climate puts him at a disadvantage for the intellectual effort required by a great match. Both Capablanca and Alekhine will be in Paris presently, and chess players here hope to bring about a meeting to settle the details for a match. Alekhine has suggested Leonard Tauber, president of the French Chess Federation, as treasurer for the match, and as referee, Dr. A. Rueb, president of the International Federation.

TWO WORLD MARKS LOWERED BY KOJAC

Swims 220 Yards Back-Stroke in 2:32 1-5, to Better Standard by 7 Seconds at Yale.

BREAKS 200-METER RECORD

Surpasses Time of 2:37 8-10 Made by Irye of Japan—Zorilla and Ray Ruddy Also Win.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, June 16. — George Kojac of Rutgers, holder of more individual records than any other present intercollegiate swimmer, today gave one of the most spectacular performances of his career when he bettered the world's backstroke records for the 200-meter and 220-yard distances.

He swam the 220 yards in 2:32 1-5, which is exactly seven seconds better than his own mark made in 1927 at the Boys' Club in New York.

Today's record will be claimed, and, it is confidently expected, will be adopted as a matter of form for the 200-meter distance, which is 218 yards. The world's record for this distance is held by Toshio Irye, the Japanese swimmer, who, in 1928, covered the 200 meters in 2:37 8-10.

Kojac's record was made in the Carnegie pool in an authorized A. A. U. meet as an athletic feature of the Yale commencement program and was witnessed by several hundred spectators, including several from Hawaii, who have been instrumental in inducing the Yale team to take part in the Hawaiian international intercollegiate championships next month.

Alberto Zorilla of Argentina and Ray Ruddy of New York took part in the exhibition races but failed to create records. They easily won their events, however.

Domestic Demand Increasing

The increasing consumption of electricity for domestic purposes is serving to substantially augment central station output. During the first quarter of this year domestic consumption increased 395,000,000 kilowatt hours, a gain of 14.4 per cent over the corresponding quarter last year.

We recommend the senior securities of well-established electric light and power companies for conservative investment.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Yesterday's heavy decline in the stock market, with transactions rising above those of any market since the 8,000,000-share day of Monday, May 5, was not altogether unexpected by Wall Street; but it appeared to create much mental confusion as to its particular cause. True to the professional habit of finding new explanations when old ones have grown wearisome by repetition, the very prevalent Wall Street idea of yesterday seemed to be that the break was the market's response to formal enactment of the tariff. This theory forgot altogether the almost equally prevalent presumption of a week ago, that the passage of the tariff bill into law would be greeted enthusiastically on the Stock Exchange. It also overlooked the quite unmistakable fact that, except for a day or two toward the end of the debate, enactment of the law was never doubtful.

The much more obvious explanations for the renewed break on the Stock Exchange were, first, that large and conservative interests had not withstood effectively the past week's insistent selling from other quarters; second, that the signs of early trade recovery had been disappointing, and, finally, the resumption during the past few days of the rapid fall in prices for commodities. Wheat for July delivery broke 3½ cents a bushel further yesterday, selling at 95⅝ cents; which is not only 12 cents under the price of a week ago but, except for one day in May of 1929, is the lowest price touched at any time since the war. All other grains declined 2 cents or thereabouts, along with wheat. Cotton went ½-cent a pound lower for the day; it has now fallen 3 cents, or 18 per cent, since the third week of May.

Probably the violent decline in these agricultural staples will be ascribed hereafter, in longer retrospect, to the recent effort at holding prices artificially and with government money, in reality on the chance that something would happen to the harvests that would reverse the existing supply-and-demand position. Nothing of the kind has happened. In grain the present indications are for good average harvests throughout the world. The new supplies will come on a "carry-over" from the old crop only slightly less than the very large surplus of a year ago. Europe has largely filled its consumers' needs from its own unprecedented wheat crop of 1929, and the export trade has therefore not relieved the burden on our markets.

All experience has taught that such an outcome necessarily leaves the position of a market worse because of the artificial measures which had previously been applied to help it. This latest heavy break in prices may give the long-postponed stimulus to the export trade. But meantime it has brought widespread disappointment, as indeed has the action of staple prices quite outside the field of agriculture. A strong belief existed, two or three weeks ago, that the process of downward readjustment had at least been checked; yet the lowest price of the year was touched last week in seven staple products, and thirteen have reached their lowest since this month began.

Total sales on the Stock Exchange yesterday were more than double Friday's. Many of the day's declines were unusually large, the extreme losses ranging from 7 to 19 points in a list of stocks including some of the soundest issues. Industrial and railway shares shared pretty equally in the losses. There were some sharp upward reactions from the lowest, but even these canceled only part of the decline. Time money rates were reduced another fraction; the stock markets of the past week must have cut down heavily Wall Street's borrowings at the banks.

Second Dividend for Claimants of City Service Mutual Casualty.

A second dividend of 10 per cent has been declared by Albert Conway, State Superintendent of Insurance, on all allowed claims of the City Service Mutual Casualty Corporation, which, by an order of the Supreme Court, was placed in liquidation because of insolvency on Dec. 15, 1925.

A first dividend of 20 per cent was declared on July 20, 1928, when the Supreme Court authorized the superintendent to pay further dividends as fast as funds were derived from the 200 per cent assessment on members and policy holders. The second dividend will go to persons injured in automobile accidents and to beneficiaries of those killed in such accidents.

Stock Change Plan Revised.

The New York Stock Exchange has received a further notice from the Virginia Electric and Power Company, stating that the proposed change in the capital stock of the company will be 250,000 shares of $6 preferred stock of no par value instead of 260,000 shares as reported on June 12.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

Wall Street saw evidence of genuine and widespread liquidation in yesterday's disastrous decline on the Stock Exchange. The break was the widest since last November and it carried the general list into new low ground for this year. The net losses in active issues ranged from 3 to 20 points. Transactions on the Stock Exchange aggregated 5,657,320 shares, the heaviest turnover since the 8,279,260-share volume on May 5 which established the previous high record for 1930. A list of the stocks with wide losses in yesterday's market would take in almost every active issue, beginning with United States Steel, the market leader. The precipitate decline was attributed to an entirely different kind of selling from that which was held responsible for the weakness of last week. Professionals short of the market were apparently content to stand by and watch their profits increase. The liquidation was of the character which the professionals have for days been trying to promote.

Stocks That Broke "Wide Open."

More significance was attached yesterday to the declines of 5 to 10 points in stocks because they were so numerous and were recorded in the so-called pivotal stocks, but casual onlookers got their greatest thrills in watching the breaks of 20 points in J. I. Chase, of 22 points in Allied Chemical, of 22 points in American Machine and Foundry, of 15¼ points in American Tobacco, of 15⅛ points in Houston Oil, of 20 points in Peoples Gas, of 11⅝ points in United Aircraft, of 18⅛ points in Worthington Pump and of 11½ points in Westinghouse.

⁂

How the Averages Fell.

In declines such as that of yesterday Wall Street pays more attention to the averages than ordinarily. There was the greatest curiosity to know just how far the average price of various representative groups of stocks fell. According to the compilation of THE NEW YORK TIMES, covering fifty stocks, the net loss was $11.81, while twenty-five industrials declined $19.76. These figures compare with the record break of $22.96 in the average price of fifty stocks on Nov. 6 of last year and with a fall of $37.24 in the average price of industrials on the same day last year. Twenty-five rails showed a net loss of $3.86 yesterday.

⁂

Commodities at New Lows.

While many brokers were inclined to ascribe yesterday's stock market slump to the new tariff, others laid greater emphasis on the decline in commodity prices. Of the twenty-six commodities in THE NEW YORK TIMES's daily index, thirteen, or exactly one-half, established yesterday new low marks for the year.

⁂

Follow the Leader.

The action of the Federal Reserve Bank yesterday in reducing the price at which it will purchase bankers' acceptances to 2⅛ per cent for short bills gave rise to discussion in banking quarters as to whether the bank was following or leading the bill market. It has frequently occurred that a reduction in the reserve's bill-buying rate was the signal for a cut in open market rates, and such reductions are always an important measure when the central bank is trying to bring down money rates. Contrary to general expectations, however, dealers did not respond to yesterday's action. Several of them remarked that the cut in the Reserve Bank's buying rate had little meaning, since it only brought that rate to the level at which dealers were selling in the open market. In effect, they said, the Reserve Bank was following the market, not leading it. A few bankers were not so sure. They said they looked for lower open market bill rates to appear soon.

⁂

An Unannounced Act.

The sudden announcement of the Taplin interests that they are negotiating to buy from the Pennsylvania its control of the Lehigh Valley and the Wabash and to repurchase from the Pennsylvania interests control of the Pittsburgh & West Virginia came with unexpectedness from sources which seemingly had been inactive for months. It is the intent of the Taplin interests to put into effect the plan first proposed by L. F. Loree, then by William H. Williams and finally by the Interstate Commerce Commission in its consolidation plan. The Taplins have come out with concrete plans for financing the project, something which the commission asked Mr. Williams to do but which he has not as yet done. The prospects of success for the Taplins in their undertaking therefore seem to be as bright as those of Mr. Williams.

Rumor Mongers' Triumph.

The mysterious "they" who have flooded the financial district with so many unlikely rumors lately achieved something of a triumph yesterday when it was noised about that two of the three largest banks in the city were about to be merged. Remarkable as have been the merger developments in the banking field, there were few so credulous as to pay much attention to yesterday's rumor. Officials of both banks declared the notion too absurd to merit public denial.

⁂

A Van Sweringen Move.

The Van Sweringens, who never have declined to be progressive, provided an innovation in railroad finance yesterday by proposing to popularize Chesapeake & Ohio stock by dividing it four for one. This step is taken admittedly to enlist public support for the road, which would be the top of the railroad structure that the Van Sweringens proposed to erect in the East. This conceivably would help them in putting through their plans in Washington.

⁂

Trust Leaders at Odds.

Some investment trusts are buying and some are selling, according to reports in Wall Street yesterday. Usually, it has been pointed out, there is a tendency for this group of financial men to move more or less in the same direction. This time it is different. Several trusts, among them some very large ones, are reported to have borrowed funds to take advantage of what they consider to be excellent bargains, while others—this group seems at present to constitute the mapjority in number if not in size—are reported to be contributing their share to the selling which has been carrying the market down.

MONEY.

Monday, June 16, 1930.

Lower quotations for time money, which put the general level down to the lowest since Fall of 1924, featured the money market. Business on the whole was moderate, the interest of borrowers being confined to six months', which was done at 3½. Stock Exchange day loans were 2½ per cent and no concession prevailed for street money. Acceptances were steady, bills being in good demand, but supply was scant. Merchants' paper was unchanged in discount in quiet market.

CHATHAM PHENIX NATIONAL BANK AND TRUST COMPANY, New York City, Trustee.

The Company's Common Stock is listed on The Chicago Stock Exchange.

Mr. W. L. Pearson, President of The Saxet Company, has reported to us as follows:

COMPANY AND BUSINESS: The Saxet Company is a Delaware corporation. Through distinct and wholly owned subsidiary companies, all organized under the laws of Texas, it is engaged principally in the production of natural gas, oil, sand and gravel.

Approximately 27,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas are sold daily at the Company's wells in the White Point, Saxet and Refugio fields in South Texas under favorable long term contracts to Houston Gulf Gas Company for distribution in Houston and vicinity and to the City of Corpus Christi which owns and operates its own distributing system. The net earnings from natural gas operations alone for each of the years ended April 30, 1928, 1929 and 1930 were in excess of the interest requirements on this issue of Bonds. At present more than 5,000 barrels of high lubricating content oil are produced and sold daily from 5 different fields all located in Texas. An average of 70 cars of washed and screened sand, gravel and railroad ballast are produced and shipped daily from an extensive deposit near Victoria, Texas, believed to be the largest single deposit in Texas. Ballast is sold under contract to Missouri Pacific Railroad, over 300,000 tons having been delivered during the 12 months ended April 30, 1930.

The territory served by the Company's subsidiaries extends along the Gulf Coast of Texas in which area are such important commercial and transportation centers as Houston (the largest city in Texas), Beaumont, Port Arthur, Galveston, Corpus Christi and Brownsville. Within and adjacent to this territory are vast and highly diversified natural resources which should assure to this territory a continuance of the rapid growth in population and commercial importance for which it is noted.

SECURITY: These Bonds will be secured, in the opinion of counsel, by deposit with the Trustee of all of the capital stock (except directors' qualifying shares) and first mortgages on all of the property, now owned or hereafter acquired, of each subsidiary company. Mineral rights may be subject to the usual farm mortgages and similar liens. The net sound value of the properties (exclusive of current assets and good-will) represented by the securities pledged to secure these Bonds, as determined by independent engineers' appraisals and/or costs of acquisition, is in excess of $9,500,000.

C. & O. PLANS SPLIT IN CAPITAL STOCK

Applies to I. C. C. for Authority for $191,528,367 Issue at $25 a Share.

SEEKS WIDER DISTRIBUTION

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—A plan to bring about wider distribution of stock in the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway was proposed to the Interstate Commerce Commission today when the road, through Herbert Fitzpatrick and other counsel, made an application for authority to issue not exceeding $191,528,367 of common capital stock, of par value of $25 a share, in exchange for an equal amount of stock of $100 par value.

The application refers to stock outstanding, held in the road's treasury or authorized to be issued. It was shown that the railroad operates in Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and the District of Columbia.

"Experience of corporations engaged in many lines of commerce and industry, as well as the experience of bankers, indicates that, other factors being equal of course, investors prefer to invest in shares having a relatively lower market price than was customary ten or fifteen years ago," the application says.

"While formerly the $100 par share of stock was considered the most desirable unit of corporate ownership, broader participation of the general public in corporate ownership has caused the unit share to be reduced, so that shares having a market value of from $25 to $50 per share are now generally considered the more desirable unit of corporate ownership."

Factors in Wider Distribution.

According to the brief, reduction in the market value of shares by reason of stock dividends, split-ups and rights is usually accompanied by an increase in number of stockholders. Many factors contribute to such a result, it is asserted, but the regularity with which an increase in number of stockholders occurs with the accomplishment of a reduction in market value of shares by stock dividends, split-ups and rights, indicates a relation of cause and effect.

"The market value of the applicant's common stock on June 7, 1930," the brief continues, "was and for some time past has been in excess of $200 per share. The average holding of the applicant's common stockholders in December, 1929 (after elimination of its largest single stockholder), was 104.8 shares, having a current market value as of June 2, 1930, of $22,322.

"Such acreage holding (in market value) was approximately 50 per cent larger than that of any one of the other three large eastern railroads, namely the Pennsylvania, the Baltimore & Ohio and the New York Central; approximately 400 per cent larger than that of the Pennsylvania, which had the smallest average holding, and the average holdings of these four railroads vary directly with the relative market price per share.

"The applicant therefore has good reason to believe that the reduction in par value per share of its common stock, and hence in the market value, will greatly increase the number of the applicant's stockholders.

"The ability of a corporation to raise capital by sale of stock, instead of funded indebtedness, depends not only upon the earnings of the corporation, but also upon the marketability of its shares, and the large number of stockholders means greater marketability for the shares. Likewise, the probability of raising money from its own stockholders by sale of stock is greater if the amount to be contributed by each stockholder is a relatively small amount, than it would be if the amount to be contributed by each stockholder is greater.

Would Ease Financing.

"As shown in the application filed by the applicant in Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company stock, finance docket No. 8,210, the capital obligations of the applicant, even after the issue and sale of the $38,294,600 amount of capital stock therein authorized, will be divided approximately 53 per cent funded debt, as against 47 per cent capital stock. The applicant believes that the action for which authority is requested in this application will make it easier to raise additional moneys by sale of its capital stock.

"Experience has also shown that corporations which deal largely with the general public benefit by increased participation by the public in the ownership of their capital stock. A common carrier by railroad, such as the applicant, depends largely upon the general public for its freight and passenger traffic, and to the extent therefore that it can increase its number of shareholders, it will increase the interest of the general public in the services of the applicant.

"The applicant therefore believes that the issue of stock proposed in this application will make its shares more attractive to the general public, will therefore increase the number of shareholders of the applicant, and that an increased number of shareholders will increase the ability of the applicant to raise money by sale of capital stock instead of funded indebtedness, and will increase the interest of the public in the activities of the applicant and thereby enable the applicant to perform more effectively its duties as a common carrier."

SEEK BETHLEHEM'S BOOKS.

Opponents of Merger Apply to Youngstown Court for Order.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, June 16 (AP).—A motion asking a court order which would require Bethlehem Steel Corporation to make public virtually all of its books was filed here today by Myron Wick Jr. and the International Shares Corporation, plaintiffs in a suit to block the merger of Bethlehem and Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company.

No date has been set for a hearing on the motion, which asks that the books be subpoenaed before trial on suit begins. Trial date has not yet been set, but the court has indicated that a date in the last week of this month probably will be chosen. Plaintiff's counsel said that depositions will be taken from Bethlehem officials in New York Wednesday.

TRUSTS IN WEST TO UNITE.

Wisconsin to Have $6,000,000 Investment Concern.

Consolidation of the Wisconsin Investment Company and the International Security Management Company to form a $6,000,000 investment trust under the name of the former company but with the Delaware charter of the latter was approved yesterday by the board of directors of each company. This will be the largest trust in Wisconsin.

Under the plan, the stockholders of each company will receive an equal amount of stock of the Wisconsin Investment Company of Delaware. Prior to the exchange of stock the International Security Management Company will issue approximately $1,400,000 of 6 per cent preferred stock to adjust its capital structure to conform with that of the Wisconsin Investment Company.

DETROIT AND SECURITY TRUST COMPANY, Trustee

The following information in regard to this issue is summarized from a letter dated June 6, 1930 from Mr. C. B. Van Dusen, President of S. S. Kresge Company.

BUSINESS: S. S. Kresge Company was incorporated in Michigan in 1916 as the successor to S. S. Kresge Company, a Delaware Corporation, which in 1912 succeeded to a business originally formed in 1897. As of January 30, 1930, the company operated 604 retail stores, two-thirds of which were five and ten cent stores, the balance being in the twenty-five cent to one dollar class. In 1929, the company entered the Canadian field and at the present time operates 20 stores between Montreal and Winnipeg.

SECURITY: These bonds, in the opinion of counsel, are a direct obligation of S. S. Kresge Company and are specifically secured by a closed first mortgage on the Company's recently completed main office and administration building and the land owned in fee upon which it is situated, located in Detroit, Michigan. The mortgaged property faces Cass Park, which is within the one mile circle from the Detroit City Hall. The building contains four stories and basement, is of fire-proof steel construction, and is faced with Indiana limestone. The cost of this property, including only land, building and permanent equipment, amounts to $3,016,000.00.

In addition to this issue of $2,000,000 par value first mortgage bonds, the Company and its subsidiaries have outstanding certain mortgages and land contracts which, as of December 31, 1929, aggregated $16,686,242.72.

EARNINGS: For the five year period ended December 31, 1929, earnings of the S. S. Kresge Company, after depreciation, but before interest and Federal Taxes, averaged $16,491,357 per annum which was at the rate of over 17 times the total of average annual interest charges on mortgages and land contracts outstanding, and maximum annual interest and sinking fund requirements of this issue.

For the one year ended December 31, 1929, such earnings amounted to $17,738,332, which was equivalent to over 19 times such charges and requirements. Net earnings after Federal Taxes, for the three months ended March 31, 1930, amounted to $2,758,999, as compared with $3,177,981 for the like period of 1929. For the first five months of 1930, however, gross sales amounted to $56,057,488, an increase of 1.7% over the $55,078,663 reported for the like period of 1929.

SINKING FUND: The trust mortgage provides for a sinking fund, beginning in 1931, sufficient to retire by purchase or redemption by lot, $1,100,000, or 55% of this issue prior to maturity.

LEGALITY: All legal details pertaining to this issue will be approved by Messrs. Stevenson, Butzel, Eaman and Long, Detroit.

These bonds are offered for delivery when, as and if issued and accepted by us, subject to approval of our counsel.

GOVERNMENT BONDS REACH YEAR'S HIGHS

All Liberty Loans Advance, as Do Treasury 3⅜s, Which Go to 101 23-32.

CONVERTIBLES ARE EASIER

Some Rail Securities Fall to Low Marks—Amusement Issues Are Weak.

New high prices for the year were attained yesterday by four of the active United States Government issues, featuring a session of rather irregular trading in the listed bond market. All Liberty loans made new high marks for 1930, the 3½s at 101, the first 4¼s at 101 26-32 and the fourth 4¼s at 102 25-32. The Treasury 3⅜s of 1943 also attained a new peak for 1930 at 101 23-32.

Foreign bonds presented an irregular front at the close. The new German International 5½s dropped ⅜ point to 90, the price at which the issue was brought out, while the Dawes Plan 7s of Germany were up ¼ point. German provincial and corporation issues finished generally easier. South American loans as a group averaged slightly lower.

With few exceptions the convertible issues of the domestic group closed lower in sympathy with stocks. Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron convertible 6s dropped 3 points to 99¾, American Telephone & Telegraph convertible 4½s of 1939, 2½ points, and International Telephone & Telegraph convertible 4½s of 1939 established a new low for the year at 110, closing at 111, off 1¼.

Several active railroad issues descended to new lows for 1930, among them Chicago & Eastern Illinois 5s at 71, off 3½ points; Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul adjustment 5s at 55, although the issue closed at 55¼, off ¾, and Erie refunding 5s of 1967 at 93½, off ⅝. All active Seaboard Air Line issues duplicated the previous lows for the year.

Amusement issues were generally weaker. Shubert Theatres 6s dropped 4½ points; Pathe Exchange 7s, with warrants, 2 points, and General Theatres Equipment 6s of 1944, ¼ point. Warner Brothers Pictures 6s sold off 1¼ points to a new low at 102¼ at the close. Loew's, Inc., 6s ran counter to the trend, moving up a half point in light trading.

NEW STOCK PURCHASE PLAN

General Foods Supplements 1928 Offer to Include Other Employes.

A supplementary plan for subscriptions to stock of the General Foods Corporation to include employes ineligible under the third employes' stock purchase plan of 1928 was announced yesterday. It will be effective immediately. Under the present plan an employe may subscribe at $50 a share for any number of shares, instalment payments for which do not exceed 20 per cent of his salary. The offer will expire on Aug. 1. The announcement of the offer, made by C. M. Chester, president, said:

Payment of subscriptions will be made in monthly instalments to be deducted from wages, and interest at the annual rate of 5 per cent will be allowed on all payments. Subscriptions may be canceled on request of the subscriber or on his leaving the company's service and all sums paid, with interest, will be returned to him. Until further notice for four years the corporation will buy back at the purchase price any shares purchased under the plan.

"In the event of the subscriber's death either the money paid in, plus interest, or the highest market value of the shares quoted on the New York Stock Exchange on the date of the subscriber's death, shall be paid to his estate."

NEW BOND FLOTATIONS.

Securities of Industrial and Other Companies to Be Placed on Market.

Saxet Company.

A new issue of $5,000,000 The Saxet Company of Delaware first lien collateral 6 per cent convertible bonds, series A, due on June 15, 1945, will be placed on the market today by G. E. Barrett & Co., Inc. The bonds will be priced at 99, to yield approximately 6.10 per cent. The proceeds will be used to retire all present funded indebtedness of subsidiary companies and to increase working capital.

The bonds will be convertible into common stock of the company at the option of the holder from Dec. 15, 1930, to June 15, 1935, at $16 a share; thereafter to June 15, 1940, at $25 a share, and thereafter to maturity at $40 a share. The company agrees to set aside annually not less than 33 1-3 per cent of its net earnings, after interest, depletion and depreciation, to purchase and retire bonds of this issue in the open market at not exceeding the prevailing redemption price, or for the acquisition or improvement of property exclusive of maintenance.

The company owns subsidiaries engaged in the production of natural gas, oil, sand and gravel in Texas. Its net income for the twelve months ended on April 30, after operating expenses, royalties and local taxes but before depreciation and Federal taxes, was $1,202,461, or more than four times the annual interest requirements on these bonds.

S. S. Kresge Company.

Initial public offering of first mortgage bonds of the S. S. Kresge Company will be made today by the First Detroit Company and the Continental Illinois Company. The offering will consist of an issue of $2,000,000 first mortgage 5 per cent sinking fund bonds, due on June 1, 1945, priced at 98½, to yield 5.15 per cent. The bonds will be a direct obligation of the company and will be secured by a closed first mortgage on the new administration and office building of the company in Detroit, whose cost is placed at $3,000,000.

Earnings of the company for the five years ended on Dec. 31, 1929, after depreciation but before Federal taxes and interest, averaged more than seventeen times the annual interest charges on the mortgages and land contracts and maximum annual interest charges on this issue. The company has paid dividends regularly on its common stock since 1913, and since 1919 at the rate of 6 per cent.

Central German Power.

Offering will be made soon of a new issue of $4,000,000 of notes of the Central German Power Company of Magdeburg, Germany, due on June 1, 1934, by an international syndicate headed by A. G. Decker & Co. It is expected that the issue will be priced to yield about 6.50 per cent. The notes will be guaranteed unconditionally by the German General Electric Company, the Dessauer Gas Company and George von Giesche's Heirs Mining Company. The stock of the borrowing corporation, which was organized in 1929, is owned jointly by the Dessauer Gas Company, the Giesche interests and the city of Magdeburg. The first unit of the company's generating plant is being constructed by the German General Electric Company, and two-thirds of its initial capacity have been sold under contract for forty years to the three organizers.

GASOLINE CUT IN THE WEST.

Leading Companies on Coast Drop Prices 3 Cents a Gallon.

Major marketing companies on the Pacific Coast yesterday reduced gasoline prices in that area 3 cents a gallon, led by the California Petroleum Company, a subsidiary of the Texas Company. For some time independent refiners near Los Angeles have been selling gasoline below the price of 20 cents a gallon posted at service stations by the major companies. This, in addition to large stocks and heavy output, is said to have caused the cut.

Late last week, the Standard Oil Company of California restored prices of crude oil at Santa Fe Springs to the level prevailing prior to its cut on May 17.

American Steel Car Lines, Inc.

5% Equipment Trust Gold Certificates

Series "E"

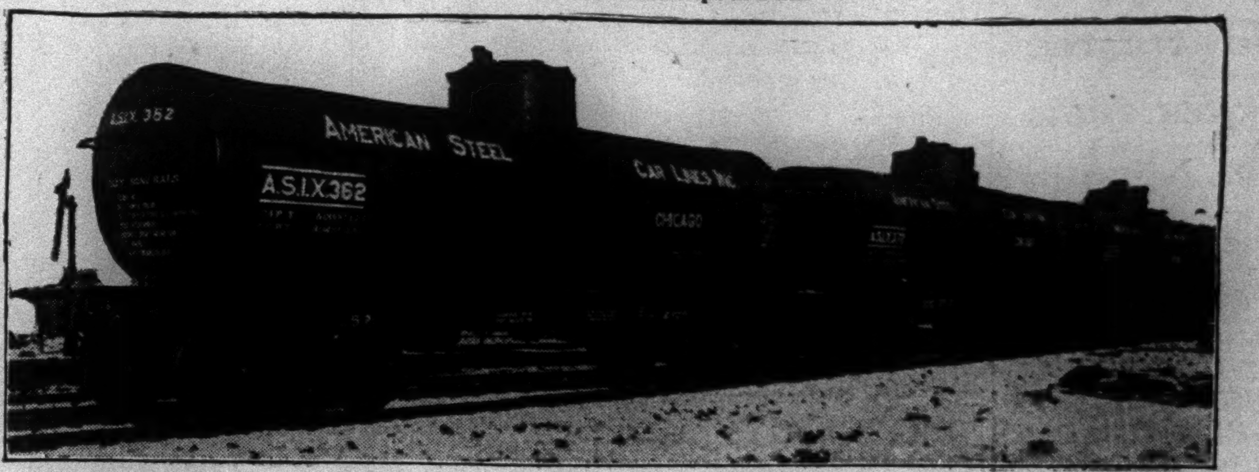
AMERICAN STEEL CAR LINES, INC.

Issued under the Philadelphia Plan



General type of American Steel Car Lines, Inc., 8,000 gallon capacity tank car.

American Steel Car Lines, Inc., is an operating company engaged in the ownership, leasing and renting of steel tank cars to Railroads, Refiners, Manufacturers, and all classes of shippers requiring steel tank cars. The Company ranks as one of the major tank car lines engaged in furnishing cars for the transportation of various edible and inedible liquid products.

Equipment Trust Certificates are a form of investment issued to provide funds for financing the purchase of rolling stock for railroads and car lines—companies operating railroad cars.

Equipment Obligations issued under the Philadelphia Plan have been pronounced one of the strongest of corporate obligations, the contract is perhaps more nearly standardized in these issues than for any other type of corporation security. It is drawn so that all of the obligations which generally are issued in serial form mature well within the life of the equipment. The period of payment usually runs for ten to fifteen years, while the equipment itself has a life much longer, or in most cases several times the period of the last maturing series of the obligation. The useful life of a tank car according to the rules of the American Railway Association is estimated at approximately 33 years.

The Strength of the Philadelphia Plan when certificates are issued serially lies largely in the fact that title remains with the trustee for the benefit of the certificate holders, and that the railroad or operating company does not take title to any of the equipment until all of the cars are fully paid for. This ever-increasing equity back of the lessening amount of obligations outstanding has contributed to the strong position of Equipment Obligations among investors.

We offer subject to prior sale limited amounts of each maturity of the following certificates

Where Can I Invest My Money Safely?

To invest a substantial sum of money safely and well is no easy matter. It's a big problem. The biggest difficulty of all is to find enough sound, properly diversified securities, with adequate yield, to absorb the investment fund.

And even when this can be done the mere physical job of finding the proper securities, of caring for them, and watching them, assumes burdensome proportions.

All Good Qualities Combined

Now comes a new form of investment specifically designed to give every desirable quality an investment should have with none of the frequent disadvantages.

Briefly, it is done in this way: The oldest and safest investment known is real estate first mortgages. We buy, with our own money, first mortgages on improved business and residential properties in New York City and the contiguous counties of Westchester and Nassau. Each and every one of these mortgages is legal for trust funds in the State of New York.

We then sell to the public Certificates, for any amount, odd or even, in a group of combined mortgages. Wide diversification is thus automatically built into the security.

The prompt payment of interest and principal is Guaranteed by a fund of $10,000,000 which is administered under the regulations and supervision of the Insurance Department of the State of New York.

To obtain this safe and sound investment is simplicity itself. It's as simple, quick and easy as buying Liberty Bonds or Travelers' Checks. Simply write or come to us, and state the amount of the Certificate you want. It's yours promptly—without any red-tape or delays. No transaction could be simpler, quicker, easier.

Interest Paid Automatically

When you get your Certificate there are no coupons or other details to bother with. Interest payments are made to you promptly, without effort on your part, on the first of any months you wish.

Yours for the Asking!

The whole story of this new idea is told in "A SIMPLE INVESTMENT THAT IS SAFE." It tells all the facts of the real estate first mortgage business. Gives helpful facts and knowledge that can be put to immediate use. A copy is yours for the asking, without the slightest obligation to you, of course.

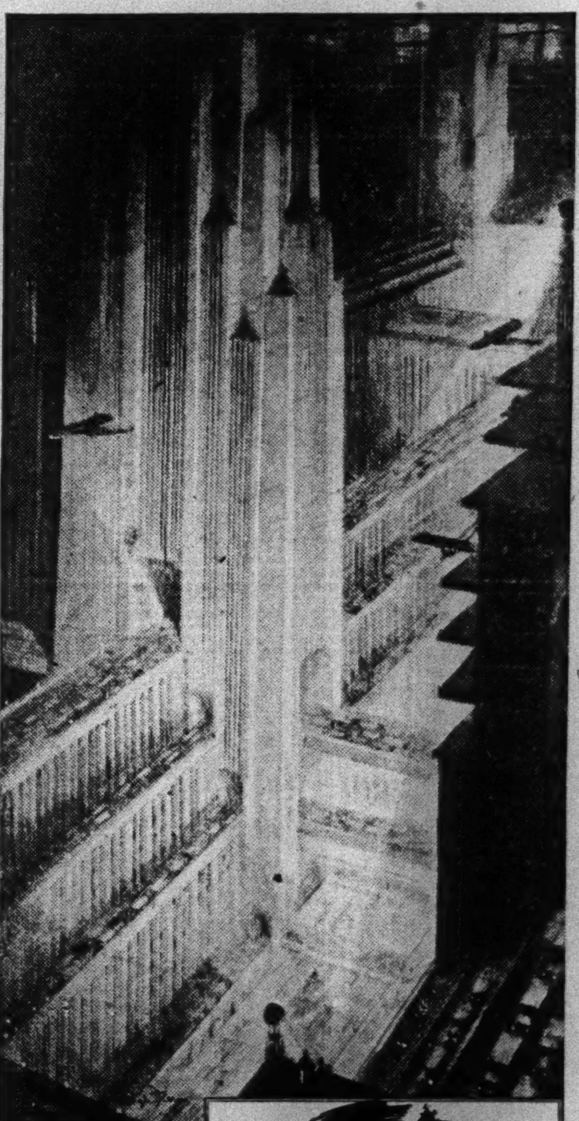
FINANCIERS and other business men and women and investors throughout the country depend upon The New York Times—both news and advertising columns—for prompt, trustworthy information and statistics.—Advt.



New York in 1980 as Hugh Ferris, the famous architect, imagines it will look. What will this 42nd Street and Fifth Avenue plot be worth then?

The Northwest corner of Fifth Avenue and 42nd Street as it was in 1872. The growth of New York is evident by the appearance of this corner today.

You may see New York looking like this

Millions of dollars profit every year are going into the pockets of those who invest in New York real estate. Are you getting your share? You can see fortunes being made all around you. Indeed many of the great fortunes of the city are based on real estate.

Why this amazing continuous rise in values? Simply because on Manhattan there are 77,867 inhabitants to the square mile—and the U. S. average is 36! The supply of land can't grow—but the demand grows every year. Is this growth helping to build up your estate?

For the Small Investor

You don't have to be wealthy to start. Now the small investor is permitted to share in the profits of New York real estate—by investing in income producing buildings under the French Plan. The Fred F. French Companies give you the benefit of their twenty years' experience in selecting sites and constructing buildings. You may invest any convenient sum—$100 to $100,000. Get the complete story! PIPE LINE STOCK BREAKS ON CURB Missouri-Kansas Shares Drop More Than 20 Points, but Make Some Recovery.

SPONSORS END SUPPORT

Short Selling Too Heavy for Parish & Co. to Meet, Official of Firm Explains.

Common stock of the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line Company had yesterday a wide-open break on the New York Curb Exchange upon notice that it had been suspended temporarily from the Chicago Stock Exchange. After opening at 36⅛, it sold up to 36¼, its former high level, touched last week, and then, due to the absence of support buying orders, it dropped to 15. Subsequently it rallied to 21½, but at the close of the market it showed a net loss of 14⅞ points for that day. More than 95,000 shares were dealt in.

During the recent weakness in security prices generally, Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line stock held steadily near its record price. It was common gossip in the financial district here that it was "pegged" by its sponsors, Frank P. Parish & Co. of Chicago. Recently the pipe line Company announced an expansion program which called for construction of a natural gas pipe line to Omaha, Neb., in conjunction with other companies. Frank P. Parish is president of Missouri-Kansas Pipe.

An official of Parish & Co. said yesterday that there had been considerable short selling of Missouri-Kansas Pipe's stock in the last few days. This, he added, reached a volume yesterday that made it advisable for Parish & Co. to withdraw their supporting bids, although the situation in no way involved the value of the stock.

Heavy selling yesterday of nearly all the popular issues on the New York Curb Exchange carried the whole list downward more sharply than at almost any other time since last November. No group was able to withstand the selling pressure.

Utility stocks declined more than 5 points in several instances, with a large turnover. Among those carried down were Electric Bond and Share, United Gas new, United Light and Power, American Gas and Electric and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore. Other utility issues that declined were Brazilian Light and Traction, Middle West Utilities and Niagara Hudson.

All members of the Standard Oil group were off, but not sharply. Gulf, Vacuum and Humble Oils were closed several points lower, while Cities Service, with a turnover of more than 150,000 shares, receded more than 3 points.

In the industrial group, Deere, International Salt, Fox Theatres, A. O. Smith, Driver Harris and Technicolor were off. Investment trusts and holding companies, including Goldman Sachs, Transamerica, Pennroad, Central States Electric and United Founders all closed lower.

Marks of Understanding

Better business is the result of knowing human and material conditions—it's the mark of facts and figures. Larger profit is the mark of foresight and control. Loss and waste mark avoidable incidents—or accidents. While the sincere desire of American business to serve efficiently and well is the most enlightening mark of all—the mark of human understanding.

"Understanding" Business is the mark of Modern Accountancy. Exact, well defined and clearly defining, its application is the check mark of modern progress.

RESERVE BANK CUTS BILL BUYING RATE

⅛ of 1% Drop Announced, to 2⅛ Up to 45 Days and 2¼ for Longer Maturities.

EQUAL TO SELLING PRICE

But Dealers Appear Unwilling to Accept Invitation to Reduce Quotations.

The rate at which the Federal Reserve Bank of New York will buy bankers' acceptances from banks and dealers was lowered one-eighth of 1 per cent yesterday to 2⅛ per cent for all paper up to forty-five days' maturity and 2¼ per cent for all bills of longer maturity. The reduction brought the Reserve Bank's bill-buying rate to the selling price which dealers have been quoting and was generally taken as an invitation to the open market to reduce its rates.

Among bill dealers, however, the invitation was regarded with no great favor. While one important house had been quoting a rate of 2⅛ per cent bid, 2 per cent asked, prior to the announcement of the drop in the Reserve Bank's buying rate, the rest stubbornly maintained the old rate of 2¼ per cent bid, 2⅛ per cent asked, and announced their determination to adhere to that schedule as long as possible.

It was remarked by the majority of dealers that bill rates were at so unusually low a rate that any further reduction might seriously disturb the market. While call money and other forms of high-grade liquid investments yield the present low rates banks are content to hold on to their bills, but a further slash in the yield rate might bring a flood of bills onto the market.

Demand Chiefly Foreign.

At the same time, it was said, demand, while still very good, was limited for the most part to foreign buyers. If too low a return were to be offered to these investors, they might decide to take their funds elsewhere. So far as the action of the Reserve Bank was concerned, many dealers felt it to be without special significance. The latest cut, they pointed out, only brings the bank's buying rate to a point equal to dealers' selling rates and does not imply a pressing invitation to carry paper to the central bank. So long as dealers can dispose of their bills to other buyers at the same rate they will not be disposed to carry their wares to the Reserve.

Money rates remained easy yesterday in the face of the turnover of upward of $2,000,000,000 involved in the treasury financing operations, the tax payments, remittances from foreign governments in payment of war debts and disbursements of interest and dividend payments.

The treasury's receipts and disbursements during the day came so close to balancing each other that the extent of the overdraft, customarily contracted by the treasury to bridge the gap between income and payments on the tax dates was estimated at no more than $75,000,000 to $100,000,000. Demand on the part of local banks for participation in the overdraft is understood to have been light, but the excess credit injected into the market by the government's temporary borrowing was largely mopped up by the member banks in paying off their own indebtedness to the Reserve and replenishing reserves which they had overdrawn in anticipation of the overdraft.

March Situation Different.

The situation in no way resembled that of last March. At that time the treasury contracted an overdraft of $200,000,000. The member banks did not participate greatly in the overdraft nor were they in debt to the Reserve. The result was that the sudden injection into an already easy money market of this enormous amount of credit forced call money rates to the low figure of 1½ per cent in the over-the-counter securities market and sent bill rates down from above 3 per cent to 2½ per cent in the space of a few days. The easy money spree indulged in at that time was later found to have been premature and all rates rebounded after the overdraft was paid off.

Call money yesterday renewed at 2½ per cent and at one time in the day some funds were lent at 2¼ per cent. The tone of the market was not really soft, however, and in the afternoon outside money at less than the official figure dried up. An explanation offered for this firming was that the payments from foreign governments to the United States Government yesterday were made in cash for the first time in years because the United States Government obligations were now selling at a premium. About $30,000,000 was reported withdrawn from the call market, and it was suggested that these withdrawals were occasioned by the cash payments of foreign governments.

In the time money market demand for funds centred chiefly on six-months' money, which is quoted at 3½ per cent. The rate for ninety-day money was dropped to 3 per cent, a new low price for the year to date. Present easy conditions in the money market are expected to last for some time and completion of the treasury operations is not expected to have much firming effect.

DROP IN BILLS FOR MAY.

A reduction of only $31,510,423 in the volume of outstanding acceptances in May was announced yesterday by the American Acceptance Council in making public its survey of bill volume at the end of last month. The decline, which was far smaller than had generally been expected, was taken to indicate that a considerable volume of new bills was already being drawn, and it was suggested by Robert W. Bean, executive secretary of the council, that the seasonal decline in outstanding acceptance credits had already run its course. The report for the close of the present month, it was said, was likely to show an increase.

The total volume of bills on May 31 amounted to $1,382,206,855, compared with $1,413,717,278 at the end of April. As of the last day of May the outstanding volume of bills was $275,038,003 higher than on the corresponding date a year ago. The fact that bill volume has been maintained at a level materially above last year's figures and is already giving signs of increasing, bankers say, indicates that an active demand for credit from business exists, despite the slack state of trade. Current rates in the bill market, it is pointed out, offer business the opportunity to finance itself at the cheapest price which has been available for six years, and the figures of the Acceptance Council indicate that advantage is being taken of this opportunity.

Changes Slightly Significant.

Commenting on the survey, Mr. Bean said:

"The changes in the current report, for the different types of acceptance credits, are without special significance, with the exception that warehouse secured credits show a continuance of the liquidation that properly should rule for this type of business at this season, declining $13,000,000 in the month and $127,000,000 since the peak at the beginning of the year. The only other reduction of any considerable amount was in exports, which went off $23,000,000. Acceptances for foreign stored or shipped goods declined $1,500,000 and imports $1,000,000, while gains were made of $2,500,000 in domestic shipment bills and of $4,400,000 in dollar exchange bills.

"The Boston Reserve district banks reported an increase of about $1,000,000 and the same gain was found in the reports of banks in the San Francisco district. All other districts reported slight reductions.

Demand More Active.

Notwithstanding a very low investment yield, the demand for bills both from the Federal Reserve Banks and the outside market has been encouragingly active for the past month, exceeding on numerous occasions the supply of newly created bills available. This condition has been largely responsible for the recent cuts in the bill rates to the present low level which has not prevailed previously since October, 1924.

"The present rates are considered sufficiently low but if the investment market demand for bills cannot be supplied, further cuts may be necessary to induce accepting banks to release their bills as soon as they are made."

Wins $10,551 Award in Light Case.

A judgment for $10,551 was filed in the Supreme Court yesterday in favor of Walter Silber, against the Direct Control Light Corporation and Jesse L. Livermore, Wall Street operator, in a suit for $13,600 for services. The plaintiff alleged he had been engaged in 1927 to negotiate a contract between the Direct Control Light Corporation and the Connecticut Telephone and Electric Company in connection with the liquidation of the light corporation's plant in Long Island City. The judgment was based on a verdict for $9,000 before Supreme Court Justice Hammer, to which interest and costs were added.

BANK STOCK PRICES TOUCH YEAR'S LOWS

FIRST NATIONAL OFF $500

Prices of shares of virtually every important bank and trust company in the city sank yesterday to new low levels for the year to date in trading on the over-the-counter market. The decline had nothing to do with the banking situation, but was a part of the general downward plunge of security prices in all markets.

The extent of the reactions varied from one or two points to as much as $500 a share in the case of one high-priced issue and affected most severely the shares of the more prominent institutions. The largest decline was that experienced by the shares of the First National Bank which fell from a bid price last Saturday of $5,300 a share to a closing bid of $4,800.

Other large shrinkages in market value included a drop of $54 a share in the bid price of Guaranty Trust Company, $13.50 in Chase National shares, $14.50 in National City Bank shares, $25 in Bank of New York and Trust shares, $24 in Central Hanover shares, $30 in Commercial National and $15 in County Trust.

Following is a table of bid and asked prices of leading bank stocks compared with Saturday's closing bid and showing the large number of new low prices reached:

UNLISTED STOCKS DECLINE.

Some Issues Finish Day at Low Marks for This Year.

The over-the-counter market was marked yesterday by a decided downward trend, with weakness persisting until the end. Stocks closed at their lowest for the day and some at the lowest for the year.

Insurance stocks were dull, with price changes numerous. Among those which closed lower were United States Fire, Transportation Indemnity, St. Paul F. & M., Peoples National, North River, National Liberty, Home, Hanover, Halifax, Great American, Baltimore American, Aetna Fire, Aetna Life, Aetna Casualty and Surety and Hartford Fire.

Moderate selling sent industrials off, those showing the greatest change being Scovill Manufacturing, Lawrence Portland Cement and Bowman Biltmore second preferred. Dictaphone Corporation was among the few that showed gains for the day.

Utility preferred stocks were fairly active and steady, but the common stocks were generally lower. Communication and chain store stocks were quiet, with a generally weaker tone.

REPLIES TO ATTACK ON RADIO ASSOCIATION

President of Radio Manufacturers Says Grigsby Grunow Concern Was Forced to Resign.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., June 16 (AP).—Morris Metcalf of this city, president of the Radio Manufacturers' Association, today issued this statement in reply to one given out yesterday by B. J. Grigsby, chairman of the board of the Grigsby-Grunow Company, in announcing that his company had resigned from membership in the Manufacturers' Association:

"A statement by the chairman of the board of the Grigsby-Grunow Company has appeared in today's papers, assigning as his company's reasons for its resignation from the Radio Manufacturers' Association the failure of Radio Manufacturers' Association to take an active stand on issues of vital interest to members of the industry.

"I wish to state emphatically that the actions of Radio Manufacturers' Association are not determined by any member or group of members, but by a majority vote of the membership or of its board of directors, and that the resignation of Grigsby-Grunow Company was requested by the unanimous vote of those directors present at the regular meeting of the board held at Atlantic City, N. J., June 6. The reason for such request has nothing to do with the patent situation or, in fact, any phase of the radio business situation as it now exists. The reasons leading up to the request for the resignation of the Grigsby-Grunow Company are generally known in the trade, and it is a matter of surprise to me that that company should wish to refer to the matter in any way."

MARKETS IN LONDON, PARIS AND BERLIN

New German Loan Ends First Day on English Exchange at 5-32 Discount.

FRENCH STOCKS DECLINE

Abundance of Cheap Money Fails to Spur Buying—German Boerse Depressed.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 16.—Dealings in the $60,000,000 British portion of the German international loan opened on the London Stock Exchange this morning at ⅛ premium. There was no great surprise when the bonds found no buyers at this figure and the price subsequently eased to ⅜ discount. Later, however, there was a rally to ⅛ discount, but the price at the close of business was 5-32 discount.

In the light of today's facts the charge is made that there has been a good deal of "window dressing" in connection with this issue. It is said that banks and insurance companies, the government department and other holders of large funds were assured by their large applications that the loan would be oversubscribed because it was thought expedient that the operation to which the British Government and the Bank of England were committed under the Young Plan should not suffer the ignominy of failure. As a popular issue, the loan has not been the success it was advertised and the ordinary investor is not responsible for more than half of the issue. Applications for amounts up to and including $25,000 received their allotment in full, but applicants for large amounts received an average around 49 per cent of the full amount applied for.

The stock market here was heavy under the shadow of the week-end slump in New York. Gilt-edged securities were generally lower, with the exception of the war loan issues, the 5 per cents improving to £102 7-16, the 4 per cents to £101⅛ and the 4½ per cents to £98¼. Indian bonds, on the other hand, were quite firm and the new loan was at 1¼ premium.

Industrial shares were weak, Columbia Graphophone sharing in the decline at £4 7-32, His Master's Voice Gramophone at £3 15-16 and Vocalion at 8s 9d. Radio Corporation was $2⅛ lower at $41½. Cables and Wireless shares again were marked down, the stock at £37, the B at £17 and the preference at £87.

In the shipping section Royal Mail ordinary recovered to £22 and the 5 per cent debentures to £65. Oil shares were uncertain, the decrease in the American output figures being offset by weakness of the New York market. The Eagle issues were active at 12s 3d and the Mexicans at 12s showed fresh dullness.

Credit conditions were somewhat harder in Lombard Street. Early in the day 2½ per cent was paid for overnight accommodation, but at the close balances were offered down to 2 per cent. Old money was renewed at 2 per cent for either day or week. Rates in the discount market kept firm, owing to falling off in the demand for bills. Most houses quoted 2⅛ per cent for fine three-months' maturities. Silver fell 5-16d on American selling to 15 11-16d an ounce, which constitutes a new low record. Sterling continued weak in the foreign exchange market, declining to $4.85¾-$4.85⅞ on New York.

Tone Weak on Paris Bourse.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 16.—Today's session on the Paris Bourse was no exception to the general depression weighing heavily on the Stock Exchanges. Prices moved irregularly downward in a dull and weak market. The low quotations which nearly all stocks have reached persistently fail to attract buyers despite the abundance of cheap money.

Observers put the blame for the suspicion and lack of confidence among speculators and professional traders on events in China, India and Indo-China, as well as Mussolini's bellicose speeches in Italy.

French rentes fell in sympathy with the market's general tone, closing as follows: The 3 per cents, 87.05; 1918 4s, 101.30; 1920 amortizable 6s, 133.50; 1928 5s, 100.80; 1920 6s, 100.60; 1927 amortizable 6s, 104.65.

Berlin Dull and Lower.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, June 16.—The downward movement continued at today's session on the Boerse, which was weak throughout. Although trading was greatly restricted, the losses were greater than on Saturday as a result of the reserve exercised by private investors and speculators. Neither the favorable foreign trade report for last month, which shows an export surplus of 250,000,000 marks, nor the reduction in the private discount rate to 3½ per cent was able to change the situation.

Salzdetfurth of the potash group registered the sharpest decline of the day, falling 10½ points, followed by Siemens & Halske at 7, Reichsbank 5 and Dye Trust 4 points lower. Other electricals, the mining group, artificial silks and beer and spirits also were offered and weaker.

NATIONS REMIT CASH ON THEIR WAR DEBTS

Make Semi-Annual Principal and Interest Payments in Specie for First Time.

SUMS TOTAL $117,141,598

Cash Interest Payments of $71,355,130 Will Be Credited to the Annual Surplus.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—For the first time since the foreign governments began paying on their war debts to the United States their semiannual remittance of interest and principal today was made in cash.

The payment amounted to $117,141,598, of which $45,786,467 was in principal nad the remainder in interest. All the cash interest payment of $71,355,130 will be credited to the annual surplus nad thus will increase that "paper" figure well over the $50,000,000 estimated by Treasury officials when they anticipated that the debt payment would be in United States securities.

Payments made in securities automatically go to the retirement of the public debt and are not credited to the surplus. Interest payments in cash go to the surplus account, although since the surplus is used for debt retirement the effect is the same is though the payment had been made in securities.

The payments were made as follows:

	Principal.	Interest.
Belgium	$3,450,000	$1,375,000
Czechoslovakia	1,500,000
Estonia		150,000
Finland		129,885
France	35,000,000
Great Britain		66,390,000
Hungary		28,804.73
Italy	5,000,000
Latvia		50,000
Lithuania	36,467.50	94,075.12
Poland		3,137,365.89
Rumania	600,000
Yugoslavia	200,000
Total	$45,786,467.50	$71,355,130.74

In connection with the debt payment the treasury issued a statement in which it said that "* * * the payment of interest in cash rather than in securities will not affect the total reduction of the national debt as contemplated for the current fiscal year.

"In so far as payments of principal are concerned, their payment in cash or securities does not substantially affect our budgetary position, since under the terms of the Liberty bond acts all cash payments on account of principal of obligations originally acquired under those acts must be applied to debt retirement."

The payment was made in cash because in view of the fact that government securities are generally at par or better, there could have been no advantage in their purchase by foreign powers.

The treasury's financial turnover for the day "on paper" was approximately $1,700,000,000. Theoretically, more than $500,000,000 in income and corporation taxes were due as the June instalments on 1929 incomes. Last June the collection was $555,000,000.

A total of $549,000,000 in 4⅞ per cent certificates of indebtedness was retired and $429,000,000 in 2⅞ per cent certificates placed on the market.

Interest payments on the public debt were about $98,000,000.

SECONDARY STEEL LINES.

Youngstown District Reports Unevenness in Business.

Special to The New York Times.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, June 16.—While the business of secondary iron and steel interests in the Youngstown district for the first six months of this year will not equal that of last year, executives are hopeful of a turn for the better at midsummer.

The Standard Slag Company, operating reducing plants throughout the country, reports heavy shipments of slag, largely for railroad ballast and highway construction. The Bessemer Limestone and Cement Company's business measures up to that of last year and is more widely distributed. The Peerless Electric Company of Warren is operating day and night shifts and Sunday turns.

The Truscon Steel Company and the Youngstown Pressed Steel Company, two of the district's largest fabricating interests, are running behind last year, executives advised today. Sales of the General Fireproofing Company are satisfactory. The Powell Pressed Steel Company of Hubbard and the Niles Steel Products Company of Niles are behind last year's schedules, but expect to equal their record when all the figures for 1930 are in.

GOVERNMENT PRINTING HIT.

Editors Meeting at Milwaukee Are Told Competition Is Unjust.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 16 (AP).—Federal printing and supplying printed envelopes was attacked in the report today of H. C. Hotaling, St. Paul, field secretary of the National Editorial Association.

Speaking at the opening session of the Forty-fifth annual convention, Mr. Hotaling characterized the policy as "unjust and unfair" and said that "no private industry can compete with the government, which utilizes its postmasters as private salesmen and makes no charge for transportation."

Progress toward developing a standard form and uniform rules for the audit of newspaper circulations, establishment of a legislative bureau in Washington to keep closer tab on governmental affairs affecting publishers and an improvement in the various departments of papers as shown by annual contests were cited by Herman Roe, Northfield, Minn., field secretary, as milestones of the last year.

Fine Goods Sales Drop Sharply.

The volume of fine goods sold during last week reached the lowest point in several months, although this is not an unusual occurrence for this time of the year, according to the report of the Berkshire Fine Spinning Associates, Inc., yesterday. Trading was confined to small lots for spot delivery. Prices showed no change despite the recession in cotton. Curtailment of a large proportion of fine goods spindles for the present week will presumably take more than 200,000 pieces of goods out of the market, with indications that further curtailment will be undertaken in the future. All fifteen units of this group are closed down and will remain so until next Monday. This removal of yardage is expected to bring about a stiffer market tone.

ARGENTINE PESO DROPS.

Dollar Rate Reaches 118.35, the Lowest Level Since March.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUENOS AIRES, June 16.—The exchange value of the Argentine peso is being adversely affected by the suspension of exchange operations at Rio de Janeiro and Montevideo, which is forcing British-owned railways and other corporations to buy sterling drafts in Buenos Aires for remitting June dividends. These operations, added to the demand of foreign corporations in Argentina for dividend remittances, forced the peso down to 41¾ pence today, a new low level since March. The dollar rate, moving in sympathy with sterling, reached 118.35.

Continued rains have prevented loading of cereals, especially corn, for export, which would have caused some counteracting selling of bills. Uruguayan and Brazilian exchanges have slumped as a result of buying operations in this market.

ALL GRAINS CLOSE TO PRE-WAR LEVELS

RALLYING POWER LACKING

Corn Lowest Since 1926; Oats, With Two Exceptions, Since 1913, and Rye, Since 1900.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 16.—Liquidation and commission house and local selling continued today in the grain markets, and prices are now back to around the pre-war levels. July wheat sold at the lowest figure since 1914; July corn, the lowest since 1926, and oats, the lowest with two exceptions since 1913. July rye was 48⅝ cents, the lowest since 1900. There was noticeable lack of rallying power.

According to the gossip of the trade, many holders of stocks have hedged by sales of grains, especially wheat, which was added to the weakness. Buying of July on scale orders on the way down was aggressive, and it gained somewhat on the September early. The close was at net losses of 2⅞ to 3⅜ cents, showing 11¾ to 12⅞ cents under the finish of a week ago.

Winnipeg was off 4⅛ to 4⅝ cents for the day and 18 cents under the mark of a week ago, with the July 1½ cents below the price advanced by the Canadian pool early in the season on No. 1 Northern at Fort William. Liverpool was 2¾ to 3⅛d lower; Buenos Aires fell 2½ to 3 cents, with July about 3⅜ cents above Chicago.

Only Rally in Wheat Is Near End.

At no time did wheat rally except near the finish, when evening up by the pit element caused an upturn of around 1 cent from the bottom. News, either bullish or bearish, counts for ittle at present, and economic conditions are regarded as the main factor. There is virtually no investment buying. A. A. Legge, chairman of the Farm Board, is scheduled to speak in Kansas tomorrow, and he may say something that will have an effect on the market. No evidence of government buying has appeared of late.

Further rains were reported in the Canadian Northwest, and there was drastic liquidation in Winnipeg. Crop reports from the prairie provinces are expected to show considerable improvement in the next week or so.

Heavy Rains in Oklahoma.

As much as seven inches of rain was officially reported in parts of Oklahoma over the week-end, which may hamper the harvest and do some damage. Reports of export sales of more than 2,000,000 bushels hard Winters, durums and Manitobas were also ignored. This made more than 7,000,000 bushels taken in the last four business days.

Wheat prices in the Southwest are down so that not much above 75 cents a bushel could be obtained for No. 2 hard winter in Kansas at country loading points. The Grain Stabilization Corporation's loss on the wheat that it has bought is estimated at $10,000,000 or more, without considering storage and other charges.

A decrease of 2,148,000 bushels was shown in the domestic visible supply in the last week, making the total 112,335,000 bushels, compared with 114,483,000 the previous week, and 93,430,000 in the week last year.

Primary receipts were 951,000 bushels; a week ago 960,000 and a years ago 1,386,000. Shipments respectively were 560,000, 701,000 and 707,000 bushels.

Corn Weakens With Wheat.

Corn weakened with wheat and because of scattered liquidation, the close being 2⅛ to 2½ cents lower, July showed the most strength, finishing ¼ cent over the September delivery due to short covering and closing of spreads with other grains.

The visible supply of corn decreased 747,000 bushels for the week, making 9,519,000 bushels against 10,266,000 the previous week and 11,628,000 in the week last year. Primary receipts of corn were 1,118,000 bushels; a week ago 1,162,000 and a year ago 1,236,000. Shipments respectively were 641,000, 679,000 and 602,000 bushels.

Prices for the principal grains were as follows:

Holds Textile Industry Can Run Profitably on 5-Day Week

That the textile industry can be operated profitably on a five-day week basis was the opinion expressed yesterday by Donald Daniels of Daniels & Co., cotton goods selling agents of 30 West Twenty-sixth Street, before departing on a trip to his mills in North Carolina. Mr. Daniels inaugurated the five-day week in the plants his company operates in New York, Pennsylvania, Georgia and North Carolina on Feb. 1 for a period of ninety days and expresses complete satisfaction with the experiment.

"The plan has been so successful," he stated, "that we intend to continue it. We are adding 100 more employes on July 1 and an additional 100 on Aug. 1. We find that our pro rata production has been increased 11 per cent and that our workers have benefited exceedingly."

STILL SELL COPPER ABROAD.

More doubt was expressed in copper circles yesterday that a boycott of American copper had been declared by the larger European consumers, as reported when a check-up of the buying for foreign account over the week-end was made. Saturday sales of Copper Exporters, Inc., the exporting association of most of the larger producers, totaled about 1,250,000 pounds and yesterday forenoon additional sales of about 1,750,000 pounds had taken place. It was also reported that inquiries had been received on both days in the usual volume.

While these totals are not large, they average about the same as have been received daily for foreign account since the record buying of the metal in May took place. Officials familiar with the situation of foreign stocks state that the orders which have been placed are all that could be expected when the commitments made in May are taken into consideration, and that they have not ceased entirely is indicative of the fact that reports of a boycott are not to be taken seriously.

Purchases of copper by domestic consumers yesterday were larger than at any time since early in May, when a record was established. Producers reported that the recent reduction on the price of copper to 12 cents a pound had brought forth a fairly large inquiry for the metal and that it did not appear likely that the price would go lower.

A large reduction in stocks will be shown in the statistics of the industry for June, according to copper authorities. The record buying of May, it was explained, had had little effect on inventories, since most of the copper bought last month was to be delivered in June and July, so that a further reduction in inventories in July also is expected.

COTTON DROPS AGAIN IN RESUMED SELLING

July Delivery Breaks $3 a Bale to 13¼c a Pound, Against 16c Two Weeks Ago.

LIST CLOSES AT BOTTOM

Heavy Fall of Wheat and Decline in Stocks Increase Pressure on Staple.

The heaviest general selling movement of the year, which was under way at the close of last week, was resumed when the Cotton Exchange opened yesterday. Pressure on both July and new crop deliveries was increased by a break of 3 cents a bushel in wheat and by weakness of securities. Buying power was limited, which led to a break of $3 a bale in the July delivery, which carried that month to 13¼ cents, compared with 16 cents two weeks ago and representing a loss of 3 cents a pound, or $15 a bale, since the Farm Board took over the long interest of cooperative associations. New October sold at 12¾ cents, with July contracts in New Orleans under 13 cents.

The list closed 37 to 51 points lower than Saturday. Middling quotations at Memphis, Little Rock and Montgomery broke below the 12-cent level.

Extreme weakness prevailed in Liverpool when business was resumed after three holidays, and many over-Sunday selling orders were received by New York houses for execution at the opening here. After an initial loss of 15 to 25 points, the quantity of July contracts undermined prices and uncovered stop loss orders. The heaviest selling was in the last hour and the list closed at the bottom.

Though census figures showed domestic mills used almost 200,000 fewer bales in May than in May last year, reports from both Northern and Southern mill centres indicate even heavier curtailment this month than last. Fall River advices say that more than 1,000,000 spindles have been stopped there in the last ten days and that the machinery will remain idle until trade conditions improve.

LIVE STOCK AT CHICAGO.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 16.—Hogs were strong early today. Lightweights and pigs showed strength throughout the day, but other kinds weakened and finished 5 to 10 cents lower. Top was 5 cents higher at $10.40, with the day's average steady at $9.95. Most sales were at $9.65 to $10.25, with 250 to 350-pound butchers quoted at $9.75 to $10.25 and 160 to 250-pound averages at $9.90 to $10.40 and packing sows at $8.90 to $9.60. Packers bought 31,600 and shippers 6,000, with 6,000 left over. Receipts were 45,000, with 21,000 estimated for tomorrow. Five leading western points expect 76,000 hogs tomorrow, against 66,500 a week ago.

Cattle prices were on the down grade, with sales generally showing 25 cents lower. Many were carried over, with bids showing 50 cents decline. Choice light-weight steers brought $12.75, with a few above $11.50. Most beef cattle sold at $9.50 to $11. Receipts were 15,000.

A small run of lambs was instrumental in lifting prices 25 cents, most natives selling at $12.25 to $12.50 while Idahos brought up to $12.75. Sheep were weak at $2.50 to $3.25. Receipts were 10,000.

CHICAGO, June 16 (AP).—Steers sold in the Chicago Union Stock Yards today at the lowest prices reached since March and April, 1927. Prices dropped 15 to 25 cents today after a steady two-week decline.

Prospects that the cattle alleys soon will be filled with range and grass-fed offerings instead of the choice grain-fed steers now on sale make cattle men view the future with gloomy eyes. Two weeks ago choice steers weighing 1,308 pounds topped the market at $14. Today steers of the same weight were selling for $12. A carload of 1,558-pound steers sold at $12.75 for the day's best quotation, however.

SUGAR, COFFEE, COCOA.

Sugar.

The posted advance of most refiners in the price of refined sugar to 4.60 effective at the close of the market last night brought a fair volume of buying into the market to take advantage of the 4.50 price which has prevailed for the past ten days. A few other refiners have announced a price of 4.70 effective at the opening of the market today and opinion last night was that the refiners who quoted the 4.60 price last night will make the additional 10 point advance.

The raw sugar market also was active and steady, and 9,000 tons of Cubas were sold ex-stores New York, to have it cleared before the new tariff bill goes into effect. Most of this sold at 3.33 duty paid, although one lot brought 3.34. Another sale of 1,500 tons of Philippine also was made at 3.33, duty free.

The futures market was extremely heavy, with every month dropping to a new low quotation. July prior to notice day was at 1.33, only 3 points above the price touched last May in closing a contract. Sales amounted to 49,550 tons.

HEARINGS RESUMED ON LAKE CARGO RATES

Pennsylvania and Ohio Coal Producers Ask Further Reduction to Erie Ports.

WASHINGTON, June 16 (AP).—For the fifth time in the last seven years the Interstate Commerce Commission today again began taking evidence on the adjustment of lake cargo freight rates, the most controversial singe rate issue arising out of American transportation operations.

Representatives of Pennsylvania and Ohio coal producers, who asked that their rates to Lake Erie ports be set at more than 35 cents below West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee rates to the same destination, were heard first.

At the same time, a long list of interventions in behalf of other interests were permitted as the hearings opened. Included in the number so joining in the litigation were the anthracite institute, all Eastern railroads serving Great Lake ports, and civic and business organizations of communities in the Northwest, as well as the State of Minnesota and shipping and dock operators on the lakes.

Opposing any change in the present level of rates were the attorneys for coal operators of the group of Southern coal producing fields.

LARGE OIL MERGER VOTED BY DIRECTORS

Ohio Oil Co. Will Take Over Transcontinental by Exchange of Stock.

BUYER TO SPLIT SHARES, 2-1

Holders of Seller's Securities to Get 4-7 Share of New Issue for Each Share Held.

The Ohio Oil Company, a Standard Oil unit, has concluded an agreement for the acquisition of the Transcontinental Oil Company, according to an announcement yesterday by Amos L. Beaty, chairman of Transcontinental. The merger will be on an exchange of stock basis and will involve a split-up in shares of the Ohio company at two for one, after which Transcontinental stockholders will receive, in liquidation, four-sevenths of a share of the new Ohio stock for each share of Transcontinental held. The Ohio company's new stock will be listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Transcontinental company will convey all its assets to the Ohio company. In addition, the Ohio company will assume all liabilities of Transcontinental, including its funded debt of approximately $11,500,000. The plan has the unanimous approval of the directors of both companies, and special meetings of stockholders will be called soon to act on the proposals. No important stockholder in either company will likely object to the deal, it is said.

The merger is considered a logical one in the oil industry. The Ohio company, through a subsidiary, owns jointly with Transcontinental approximately one-half the producing acreage in the prolific Yates pool, Pecos County, West Texas, where under proration agreements they have an allowable output of more than 60,000 barrels daily.

Ethyl Gasoline Centre Opened.

The Ethyl Gasoline Corporation has opened testing and research centres to cooperate with motorists, refiners and the automotive industry generally at Kansas City, Mo., and Tulsa, Okla., it was announced yesterday. The company, owned jointly by the General Motors Corporation and the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, reports that motorists used more than 1,650,000,000 gallons of ethyl gasoline in the twelve months ended on May 31, or 350,000,000 gallons more than in 1929.

Cancels Preferred Stock.

The Brown Shoe Company has settled its annual redemption requirements by canceling 1,375 shares of the $7 cumulative preferred stock, it was announced yesterday. This retirement leaves 38,500 of the preferred shares outstanding.

5-DAY WEEK ALSO PLANNED

700 Permanent and 400 Temporary Workers Here Benefit—Newark Branch Included.

Nathan M. Ohrbach, Fourteenth Street dress merchant, announced yesterday that he would in the future share a part of his profits with his employes. The new rule goes into effect in July, when the profits of the last six months will be figured out and divided. It was said yesterday that the employes' share would be about 15 per cent of the net.

A spokesman for Mr. Ohrbach explained that the system would be worked out with scientific precision, the percentage for each employe varying with length of service, value to the organization and general merit. The percentage, also, will be changed each year to meet business conditions. The system will operate in both the Fourteenth Street Store and the new branch in Newark. About 700 persons are employed here regularly and 400 more work only on Saturdays.

"It has been our policy ever since we started in business to maintain the most pleasant and profitable working conditions possible for our employes, and now that our business has reached its present proportions we feel that those associated with us become full partners," Mr. Ohrbach's statement read. "Therefore this decision to divide the profits.

"We have also tried in other ways to make our coworkers happy. The store does not open until 9:45 in the morning, thus giving them an hour more than those working in most retail shops. Every employe gets a Summer vacation with pay, and many get an additional vacation in the Winter. Soon we hope to adopt a five-day week, feeling that our employes who are now also our partners, will be able to do better work and lead better lives if given an additional day in which to rest and play."

"Whereas unemployment and hard times hurt every business a few months ago, our enormous increase in sales volume—it amounted to 45 per cent in May over the corresponding period last year—proves beyond a doubt that the crisis has been passed," he declared.

Mr. Ohrbach started his store seven years ago. He rented an old movie theatre at 48 East Fourteenth Street, and converted it. Before he took it over, the old building had been the Penny Arcade and on its second floor was housed the first Nickelodean, the parent of the movies.

SCHLESINGER DEFENDS CLOAK UNION'S RECORD

Charge by Manufacturers' Leader That Body Is on Verge of Collapse Called False.

Criticisms of the cloak union made by Samuel Klein, executive director of the Industrial Council of Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers, Inc., was declared yesterday to be "utterly unwarranted and unfair" by Benjamin Schlesinger, president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, in a statement issued yesterday. Mr. Klein had charged that the union was "in imminent danger of collapse," that only 75 per cent of the cloak shops in New York are unionized and that of these 20 per cent fail to observe union standards.

Mr. Schlesinger said:

"It is generally known that when the Communist elements gained control of the New York Cloakmakers' Union embarking upon the ill-fated general strike of 1926, they pretty nearly disrupted the organization. But since 1928, when the union was purged of Communist leadership and influence and a new administration, which I have the honor to head, was elected, the Cloakmakers' Union has been entirely rehabilitated. Today, the union is as strong in numbers, discipline and morale as it has ever been.

"At this time about 90 per cent of the workers are members of the union. This is a record of which the union might well be proud.

"If there still are shops in the city which operate under substandard or sweating conditions, they persist in spite of the efforts of the union to eradicate them, because their existence is encouraged by unscrupulous employers."

⁂

Seasonal Demand Passes Peak.

Active retail turnover at the week-end was again reflected in a fairly heavy volume of mail orders yesterday. Most of the business, however, continued to be in small lots, according to the resident offices here, with attention accorded beach apparel, sports wear and fill-ins on Summer dresses. In some quarters the view was expressed that the peak of the demand for such items has now been passed and that the weeks directly ahead will be largely devoted to clearances of retail stocks on hand. The number of buyers here yesterday was not large.

Fall Garment Lines Launched.

Opening of a number of leading coat and dress lines here today and tomorrow will signalize the launching of the Fall season in the garment trade. While advance buying is not expected to be large, manufacturers in both sections of the trade assert early business will be free from the style uncertainty handicaps of a year ago. The silhouette continues practically unchanged. Intricate and more feminine styling will mark the new dresses. The coat trade expects benefits from the appeal of several new coatings and the wider use of fur trimmings, which have gone down in price.

Browns Dominate Fall Colors.

Three ranges of browns feature the Fall color card of the Textile Color Card Association, which has just been issued, it was announced yesterday. The card portrays eighty new shades. The outstanding browns include rose and mahogany shades. Reds are accorded considerable importance, especially in a group of four hues ranging from a rose to a deep wine tone. Greens are expected to repeat their popularity and are shown with blue and yellow undertones. In the novelty colors possessing special style significance are rosy copper effects. Twenty-two shades for evening wear and blouses have been titled "Directoire" colors.

Summer Furniture Still Active.

Manufacturers of Summer furniture are the only producers in the market here to escape the regular pre-opening slump in buying, according to reports yesterday. Reorders on wicker and bamboo furnishings for porches and Summer homes have been received in the market in substantial volume during the last ten days. Staple home furnishings have been inactive for the last two weeks as the main interest of buyers is centred on the forthcoming Fall opening scheduled to start Monday.

⁂

Lamp Shades Sought for Sales.

Lamp shade buyers at present are in search of specially priced merchandise which can be offered in special sales this month. Most of the orders have been for chintz shades in empire shapes for bridge and junior lamps. They are wanted to retail around $2.95. Odd-shaped shades, which were popular earlier in the season, are now desired only in the lowest retail ranges. A small but consistent demand is reported for silk shades in colors of green or gold to retail from $5 up. Parchment styles in popular priced ranges are most popular in conical shapes.

Hit Price Emphasis in Glassware.

Price concessions which glassware manufacturers claim they are forced to make to obtain orders are depriving them of even a small profit in an active season, they protested yesterday. One manufacturer pointed out that he booked his greatest volume this Spring, but has no profit to show for his work. Independent and chain stores are placing Fall orders in good volume at this time, he said, but demand prices even lower than the Spring levels. Two-tone effects are wanted in glasses purchased for Fall. Combinations of ruby and crystal and green and crystal lead in color choices. The black and white combination is said to be losing popularity.

Good Demand for Leather Sandals.

Despite the general apathetic condition of the shoe industry, the braided leather sandal, which is marketed under various trade names and is imported from Europe, particularly from Czechoslovakia, is meeting with an excellent response this year, it was stated yesterday. This type of slipper was first introduced here about seven years ago and its popularity has increased each season. Importers cannot forecast as yet exactly what effect the new tariff with its 20 per cent duty on foreign footwear will have on this trade.

⁂

Bathing Suit Trade Holds Up.

Unseasonable weather has retarded the sale of men's bathing suits, but, despite inclement conditions, a good volume of orders is appearing, reported a local manufacturer yesterday. This maker, who has a patent pending on the crossed-strap style of swimming suit, is enjoying a good business in this suit, although it was announced somewhat late in the season, after a great number of commitments had been made. Black and light blue continue to be the predominating colors, with some favor shown sun-tan. Lightweight mohair sweaters with the vee neck and sleeveless slip-ons of the same material, in reddish browns, light greens and light blues are meeting with a very favorable response.

Fall Underwear Ready Soon.

While local jobbers have their Fall lines of men's underwear ready, they will not be displayed until some time after July 4, it was said yesterday. Men's woolen underwear, which has been a neglected item, is expected to be revived somewhat, due to extraordinarily low prices. One manufacturer, who is using a lighter gray shade and including more wool in his product, has offered several lots at reduced prices and has been able to dispose of them readily. The higher tariff on imported wool and wool by-products is not expected to materially affect prices this year, as most commitments have been already made, it was said. The lower quotations prevailing on cotton may offset the slightly higher levels on wool, it is thought.

⁂

Trading in Gray Goods Dull.

Further declines in raw cotton yesterday caused some uncertainty in the gray goods market, but, despite the drop, prices on standard printcloths were held at previous levels. There was a total absence of large commitments. Inquiries were few and only small lots were traded. The market was quieter than on any day last week. In standard printcloths a few orders were placed for 38½-inch 60-48s at 4⅞ cents and for 38½-inch 64-60s at 5¾ cents. Little activity was forthcoming in 39-inch 68-72s, which were disposed of for 6⅝ cents. Trading in the 39-inch 80 squares was also dull, and orders for this construction were filled at the prevailing price range of 8½ to 8⅝ cents. Very little movement was registered in sheetings. Drills were also quiet.

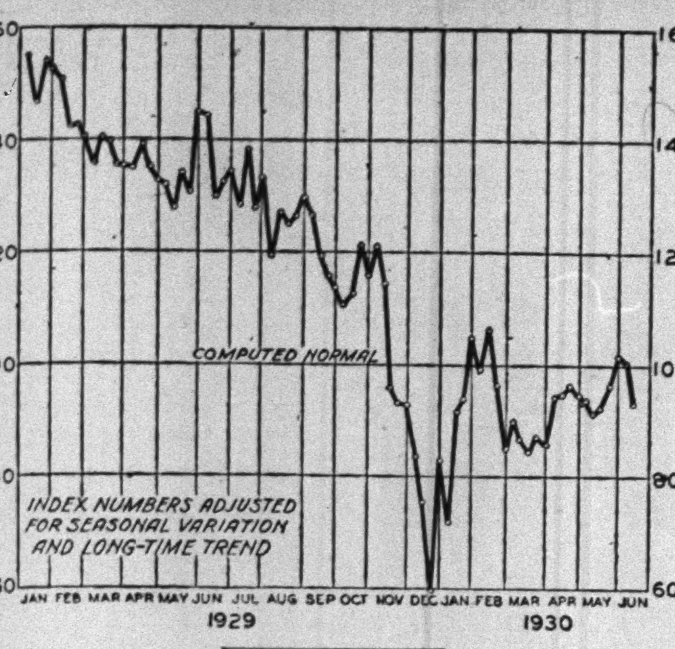
Adjusted Index of Automobile Production Drops Sharply; Only Ford Near a Year Ago



The adjusted index of automobile production, the first of the four components of the weekly index of business activity for which figures are available for the week ended June 14, shows a sharp decrease to 93.1 from 100.5 for the week ended June 7. For the corresponding week last year the index was 129.9.

Ford continues to be practically the only automobile manufacturer whose operations are running at anywhere near the rate of the corresponding date a year ago. As compared with the preceding week, moreover, there was only a slight reduction last week in Ford output, whereas several other important manufacturers cut their output sharply, although a few showed an increase and others showed no change. Some manufacturers are planning to suspend operations almost completely in the near future in preparation for the production of new models, so that it is certain that total output for June will be substantially less than that for May, and it is probable that the decrease will be greater than the usual seasonal decline.

The most encouraging aspect of the automobile situation has been the fact that retail sales in the last six or seven months have not shown anything like as great a decrease as would be indicated by the production figures, although in April domestic sales made a rather disappointing showing because, after rising by more than the usual seasonal amount in February, they declined gradually in the next two months, allowing for seasonal variation, to an April level which was the lowest since early 1928. Nevertheless, the drastic curtailment of production now going on is said to be having a healthy effect on dealers' stocks of cars, which, according to one reporting agency, were lower at the end of May than at any time since the beginning of the year.

The VISCOSE COMPANY announces a quality-control plan

To Identify Reliability in Rayon Merchandise

The time has come when it is necessary to place some distinguishing mark on such rayon merchandise as the retailer and public may purchase with confidence and safety.

The Viscose Company, therefore, is entering into a new contract-agreement with reliable weavers and knitters and manufacturers of rayon merchandise to label articles composed of Crown Brand Rayon Yarns which meet definite fabric-specifications.

The Viscose Company intends to promote this label and the goods it identifies to all factors of the trade, at the same time giving the public a rayon-buying guide. The Crown-mark on rayon merchandise will be made as significant as "Sterling" on silver, and you are invited to participate in the business stimulus which this labeling plan is designed to develop.

Two new Plan Pooks tell all the facts! . . . the booklet for manufacturers giving full details about the contract-agreement and the issuance of labels, the booklet for merchants containing suggestions for tie-in promotion. Write or wire for the copy that applies to your business and let it inform you fully.

What the Quality-Control Plan means to MANUFACTURERS

A distinguishing mark on your goods, identifying the reliability of the basic rayon yarn and high standard of fabric-specifications.

A quality-mark that immediately classes your products apart from cheap and shoddy rayon-goods . . . makes better prices possible without extra sales-effort . . . protects against returns . . . insures future profits.

Rights to the use of Crown Brand Rayon Yarn labels are issued to: 1. Knitters and weavers for use on garments produced by their manufacturing-customers 2. Manufacturers of rayon merchandise who make or purchase their rayon fabrics.

What the Quality-Control Plan means to MERCHANTS

The label acts as a safety-signal to you in buying rayon merchandise... denotes beyond doubt the quality of the fabric and identifies the reliability of the basic yarn. It is added insurance to you against complaints and returns.

The label impresses the shopper with your efforts to protect her purchasing...to help her distinguish between inferior goods and the safe, reliable kind offered in your store.

The label is a strong sales-point in breaking down price-resistance on better rayon goods since the flooding of the market with cheap, inferior merchandise.

REVIEW OF THE DAY IN REALTY MARKET

EAST SIDE FLATS IN DEAL

Childs Leases 43d Street Site—Long-Term Rental for Garage in East 64th Street.

Of chief importance in a quiet realty market yesterday was the purchase by Louis E. Kleban & Sons of the plot, 46 by 75 feet, at 361 and 363 Seventh Avenue, northeast corner of Thirtieth Street, from Samuel Brener for improvement with a twenty-two-story commercial building. The property was taken by Mr. Brener two years ago on an eighty-four-year lease from the Bagdad Traders, Inc., with an option to purchase the fee. This option is being exercised by Mr. Brener. The owners were represented by Levy, Gutman & Goldman, attorneys.

The Kleban concern is having plans prepared for the new building by the architect, Emery Roth. The latter is also preparing plans for the Kleban syndicate for an eighteen-story apartment house on the north corner of Central Park West and Eighty-eighth Street, the plot there having been purchased by the Klebans last April.

In the east side area the two four-story flats at 308 and 310 East Fifty-third Street, a combined plot of 40 by 100 feet, near the southeast corner of Second Avenue, were purchased by James C. Clifford from the Fifty-third Street Operating Corporation. Potter, Hamilton & Butler were the brokers in the transaction.

Samuel Platt has contracted to sell the five-story flat at 129 East 109th Street, fronting twenty-five feet between Park and Lexington Avenues, to Samuel Selzer for $16,000.

The two-story building at 106 West Forty-third Street, adjoining the Elks Club, and 102 feet west of Sixth Avenue, has been leased by the Childs Company, S. Willard Smith president, from Florence Hardart Anglim for the remainder of the term of the lease from June 15, 1930, to April 30, 1946, hitherto held by the Horn & Hardart Company and surrendered by the latter. The rent is to be $10,000 annually plus taxes and it carries an option for another twenty-one years. The plot has a frontage of 22.6 feet. It is directly in the rear of the Childs restaurant at 109 West Forty-second Street and will be combined with that building, giving the concern an outlet on Forty-third Street. Tankoos, Smith & Co. were the brokers in the lease in cooperation with Masten & Nichols.

Quick Money for the Summer Months.
THIS IS VERY UNUSUAL.

We must have a number of well-dressed executive salesmen at once and we are willing to pay big for a few men who can fill our requirements.

We were invited to New York to duplicate the famous Sea Breeze Club of Santa Monica, California, which is now in its fourth year of successful operation. Our campaign lasted all last Spring and we signed up nearly 3,000 memberships and we promised to build a club at West Long Beach that would not only duplicate our famous California club, but would even be better—more up-to-date in appointments and more gorgeous in equipment.

This Club is now finished and was opened Decoration Day and in 3 days nearly 5,000 people visited the Club and were amazed at its beauty of architecture and decorations—located on its own private Atlantic Beach frontage—all this for the enjoyment of a selected group of members.

NOW—we are handling hundreds upon hundreds of people visiting the Club daily—sent by our enthusiastic members—we want men to meet these people—escort them through the Club as representatives of the membership committee—and take applications until our roster is filled. We will not only pay you a handsome commission—but to all who qualify, we will give you a Life Membership in this and the California Club
AND YOU WILL MEET
Harry Richman and Texas Guinan and many other stage and screen stars on our great Gala night of the 26th.

Can use at least twenty men. Quick money—pleasant and dignified work. Please report at 10:30 sharp.

TAPLIN DISCLOSES RAIL MERGER PLAN

Tells I. C. C. of Negotiating to Unite Wabash, Lehigh Valley and 3 Other Lines in Trunk.

PREPARING TO LEASE ROADS

But Is Willing to Arrange for Exchange of Stock Toward Acquisition of Ownership.

WASHINGTON, June 16 (AP). — A plan to merge the Wabash, Lehigh Valley, Wheeling & Lake Erie, Western Maryland, Pittsburgh & West Virginia railroad systems into a single trunk line was described today by witnesses at an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing as being in course of consummation.

Frank E. Taplin of Pittsburgh, now operating the Pittsburgh & West Virginia, announced the activity and his statements were corroborated in part by R. H. Lee, president of the Pennroad Corporation, a holding company conttrolled by the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The Tapian project was brought out incident to a proceeding before the commission in which the Pittsburgh & West Virginia sought authority to take control of the Wheeling & Lake Erie, which is now the property of the Nickel Plate Railroad, a unit of the Van Sweringen group.

Mr. Taplan said he was preparing to lease all of the roads contemplated for inclusion in his merger, but that he also was willing if the commission preferred, to arrange for exchange of stock of the various corporations into a single corporation which would best acquire ownership of all of them.

He said he had tenative arrangements for financial support in conducting the enterprise, though during the course of cross-examination by counsel for the Nickel Plate Company he refused to answer many questions aimed at identifying his abnking associations or the costs of stocks which he now has.

Mr. Taplin recounted a sale of the holdings of himself and associates in the Pittsburgh & West Virginia to the Pennroad Corporation last Fall, but declared he had retained management of the line and was now negotiating for the repurchase of those shares. Mr. Lee confirmed this statement and added that the Pennroad officials had regarded in a friendly light the general plan Mr. Taplin described for merging the group.

All of the railroads in the Taplin plan were tentatively suggested by the Interstate Commerce Commission in its general consolidation scheme as suitable for inclusion in one of the new large systems. However, the commission proposed to associate with this group the Norfolk & Western and the Seaboard Air Line, neither of which was mentioned today.

98 SAIL TOMORROW ON TRAINING CRUISE

84-Day Voyage on the Newport Will Take Young Students to Mediterranean.

DUE AT GIBRALTAR JULY 5

Merchant Marine Candidates Will Return Home Sept. 9—Spending Money Restricted.

Ninety-eight young men who have enrolled in the New York State Merchant Marine Academy as a means of going to sea will sail tomorrow on the training ship Newport for an eighty-four-day voyage to the Mediterranean, this annual training period being combined with a Winter period of training aboard the ship when she is tied up in the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

Captain J. H. Tomb, U. S. N., retired, will be the commanding officer, assisted by the staff of officers who serve as instructors. After leaving the Brooklyn Navy Yard the ship will make her first stop at Gibraltar on July 5, proceeding after a four-day tie-up to Villefranche, where she will stay seven days.

The next stop is scheduled at Leghorn July 22 for a week's tie-up and then the vessel will proceed to Algiers for six days. Returning, the Newport will reach Gibraltar Aug. 10, remain two days and then proceed to Ponta Delgada, where she will remain only a few hours. A twelve-day run to Bermuda will end Aug. 30 and, after a six-day stop, the ship will proceed homeward, arriving here Sept. 9.

The parents of the boys have been asked by officials of the school to limit the funds of their sons to $5 for each port, a form letter to the parents including the following:

"It is requested that the parents or guardians exercise care in giving funds to their sons or wards in the Merchant Marine Academy for cruising expenses, as too much money is liable to cause trouble. It is therefore suggested that an allowance of not greater than $5 be allowed for each port visited, except Ponta Delgada, as cadets will not go ashore at that port. This means that $25 per cadet should be ample for them to enjoy the various ports properly. This is in addition to the amounts for side trips if taken."

The side trips will include a visit of two days to Rome, one day to Florence and one day to Pisa. The boys are grouped in four classes, according to the time they have spent at the academy toward completing their two-year course. Their training is designed to equip them for service on merchant ships.

QUIT INTERCOASTAL GROUP.

Luckenbach, Dollar and American Hawaiian to Leave Conference.

The Luckenbach Steamship Line has announced its withdrawal from the United States Intercoastal Conference, effective in four months in accordance with the conference rules, and the Dollar and the American-Hawaiian Lines have followed suit as a protective measure, it was learned yesterday. If the Luckenbach Line alters its decision and fails to withdraw before the expiration of the four-month period the other two lines will do likewise.

The Luckenbach Line wanted the conference, which includes most of the important intercoastal lines, to limit the American-Hawaiian Line to one sailing every five days instead of two a week as at present, on the ground that an excess of tonnage is operating in the intercoastal trade. Failing in its demand it preferred to leave the conference to operate independently.

It is estimated that 150 ships of the conference and non-conference groups now operate in the intercoastal trade. A shipping man acquainted with the situation said yesterday that sufficient tonnage would be available if 30 per cent of these ships were withdrawn.

LAUNCH FERRYBOAT TODAY.

Walker and Other Officials to See Diesel Craft Chelsea Leave Ways.

The Diesel electric ferryboat Chelsea, first of its mechanical type to be built for the city, will be launched today at the Tebo plant of the Todd Shipyards Corporation in Brooklyn, in the presence of Mayor Walker, Commissisoner Albert Goldman of the Department of Plant and Structures and other city officials and officials of the Todd company.

Mrs. Nancy Walker Burke, sister of the Mayor, will be sponsor for the boat and after the launching ceremony attendants will be the guests of William H. Todd, president of the Todd company, at luncheon at the Hotel Bossert.

The Chelsea is the seventh of the 101-foot type of ferryboats to be built for the city and the third to be launched at the Todd yards. She has a capacity of eight automobiles and 800 passengers afoot and will be operated between Manhattan and Welfare Island. She was completed two months ahead of the building schedule.

RADIO PHONE ON MACOM.

Device Links Welcoming Tug to City Hall and Municipal Building.

Radio-telephone communication from the City Hall and the Municipal Building to the city tug Macom was started yesterday by the Department of Plant and Structures with a brief ceremony at the City Hall.

Thomas F. McAndrews, secretary to Mayor Walker, made a short speech, received on the Macom, in which he pointed out that the new two-way communication would allow the Mayor and other city officials to communicate with their offices while they are aboard the Macom. In the event of a marine emergency, he said, the Police and Fire Departments would find the service valuable, while distinguished guests may be welcomed as soon as they board the boat. He expressed the city's appreciation for the innovation to Albert Goldman, Commissioner of Plant and Structures.

KURE, Japan, June 16 (AP).—The 10,000-ton cruiser Atago was launched at the naval base here today. Admiral Prince Fushimi, Admiral Hyo Takarabe, Minister of Marine, and other naval leaders attended the launching.

DEFENDS CITY'S PLAN TO TAP DELAWARE

WATER FIGHT OPENS HERE

Hearings Begin in New County Court House After Four Weeks of Testimony in New Jersey.

After four weeks of hearings in New Jersey before Special Master Charles N. Burch, the scene of the fight by the States of New Jersey and Pennsylvania to prevent the development of the Delaware watershed as a source of supply to New York City shifted yesterday to the court room of the Appellate Term in the new County Court House here.

Corporation Counsel Arthur J. W. Hilly opened the city's defense before Mr. Burch, who was appointed by the United States Supreme Court, by producing as his first witness George Orrok of 2 Vanderbilt Avenue, consulting engineer for the New York Edison Company for many years.

Mr. Orrok testified, both under direct examination and cross-examination by Duane E. Minard, Assistant Attorney General of New Jersey, that the withdrawal from the Delaware River and its tributaries of the amount of water the city planned to take would not be noticeable to the people along the banks, especially below Port Jervis. The amount the city would take, as estimated by the Board of Water Supply, is 600,000,000 gallons a day, or 219,000,000,000 gallons a year. Mr. Orrok, under questioning by Mr. Minard, said that a slight diminution might be noticed in the flood seasons, and then only. In the upper parts of the river and its tributaries a slight decrease in the volume of water might be noticeable all the time, he declared.

The objections of Pennsylvania and New Jersey to the use by New York City of the Delaware River, the headwaters of which are in New York State, are based on the premise that the reduced flow of water below the New York-New Jersey State line would result in great injury to the future development of the Delaware for waterpower there, he said. Under cross-examination he admitted that since his reports, several small waterpower plants had been put into operation on tributaries of the Delaware. He said, however, that these were on the Mongaup and Neversink Rivers, where conditions were particularly favorable.

The hearings will be resumed this morning, with Russell Suter, executive engineer of the New York Water Power and Control Commission, as a witness.

NO FAIRFAX S O S, COAST GUARD TESTIFY

BOSTON, June 16 (AP).—The testimony of two Coast Guard officers today established the fact that no S O S message was received from the steamship Fairfax on the night she rammed the tanker Pinthis with a loss of forty-seven lives. It was also brought out that it was not until nearly ten hours later that the Coast Guard cutter Tampa, twenty-three miles from the scene of the disaster, was told the Pinthis had gone down with all hands.

The testimony was considered by officials among the most important thus far developed at the government's inquiry into the collision on June 10 between the Boston-to-Norfolk passenger liner and the Chelsea-bound oil carrier.

Another statement was that for twenty minutes after the accident the Fairfax was in communication with two other ships while her operator was supposedly under orders to transmit an S O S call.

Commander Stanley V. Parker, captain of the Tampa, and James Hodges, his chief radio operator, were the first two witnesses of the day.

Parker said that at about 10 o'clock in the evening, June 10, three hours after the crash, the operator on watch, Hodges, was asked by the Nahant Coast Guard Station to raise the Fairfax and inquire about a collision which Boston newspapers heard had occurred.

The operator did so, and received the answer "everything O. K." Hodges did not report the message to the captain because, said Parker, "it seemed a definite assurance" that nothing was wrong.

Not until 5:02 A. M. was the Tampa advised from other sources that there had been a serious crash and sent a message to the Fairfax asking details. It was only then, Parker swore, that the Tampa learned that a tanker had gone down with all aboard.

FOR PASSPORT RATE CUT.

Copeland, Wagner and Stamp Aid Effort to Hasten Action on Bill.

The New York Board of Trade received yesterday assurance of support of its efforts to hasten action on the bill to reduce passport rates in messages from Senators Copeland and Wagner, Sir Josiah C. Stamp, British economist, and D. A. Skinner of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Information was received by the board indicating that chambers of commerce in many parts of the country are writing Senator Borah, chairman of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, which is considering the bill, urging favorable action.

In his letter to the board, Sir Josiah Stamp said:

"I fully agree with your view that there should be cooperation between Great Britain and the United States for reduction of the taxes on travel, and I shall do all I can in England to achieve this object up to the point of abolition of the fee altogether."

COOLEY ON TRIAL; IS ACCUSED BY AIDE

DEFENSE CHARGES A PLOT

Medalie Tells Jury Mrs. Lawler Was on Regular Sick Leave and Explains Double Employment.

Edwin J. Cooley, who as former head of the Probation Bureau, used to investigate persons tried in General Sessions Court, himself nervously occupied a defendant's seat in the criminal branch of the Supreme Court yesterday at the opening of his trial before Justice Albert Cohn on the charge that he fraudulently audited his payrolls.

Anxiously twisting a handkerchief he heard the first and only witness of the day testify that he had kept his sister, Mrs. Marguerite F. Lawler, on the payroll for seven months, taking money from the city at the rate of $166.66 a month, although she actually worked in the Probation Bureau but one month and a few days.

His own life was brought into the proceedings as Assistant District Attorney Thomas A. Aurelio, under a fire of objections temporarily, at least, upheld, referred to his "close relationship" with Mrs. Eileen S. Coughlin, suspended deputy probation chief. These relations, the prosecutor intimated, led to a "hair-pulling rumpus" between Mrs. Coughlin and Mrs. Lawler on May 3, 1929.

That his indictment was the result of a plot by disgruntled subordinates in the Probation Bureau was the contention of Cooley's attorney, George Z. Medalie, who prosecuted Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, former Secretary of State, for payroll padding.

Ousted Aide on Stand.

The witness of the day was Mrs. Belle Fein Klein, bookkeeper in the Probation Bureau for three years before she was dismissed at the instigation of Mr. Cooley last March. In addition to her story that Mrs. Lawler was continually absent from the office where she was supposed to be working as provisional chief clerk, Mrs. Klein testified that Mr. Cooley's sister, during most of her period of employment, never signed the payroll as the rules require all employes to do. It was the witness's opinion that the signatures purporting to be those of Mrs. Lawler were in the handwriting of Mrs. Coughlin.

Mr. Medalie promptly minimized the importance of both these disclosures by formally conceding that as regards the October, 1929, pay check, which is the one at issue in the trial, Mrs. Lawler did no work for it at the bureau and did not sign the payroll.

Mrs. Klein told of the making up of the payroll for each of the months that Mrs. Lawler was listed from April to October, 1929, inclusive. After the first few days in May Mr. Cooley's sister did not reappear, she declared. Several times, she said, she inquired whether Mrs. Lawler's name should be left on the payroll, but the probation chief assured her that his sister was still to be retained on the list.

"Did Mr. Cooley ever tell you she was on sick leave or anything of that kind?" asked Mr. Aurelio. "No," said Mrs. Klein, but her reply was stricken out when Mr. Medalie objected that the probation chief was not called upon to make explanations to his bookkeeper.

Mrs. Lawler's actual stay in the bureau's offices terminated on May 3 after a quarrel with Mrs. Coughlin in the corridor, Mrs. Klein testified.

Woman Is Cross-Examined.

In cross-examination Mr. Medalie, who had previously told the jury that Mrs. Lawler had been away on sick leave, brought out that other employes, including Mrs. Klein, had received pay during absences on account of illness. He was unable to get admission from her, however, that employes had permitted their names to be signed on the payrolls by other persons.

Mrs. Klein attributed the dismissal of herself and her husband, Abe Klein, also a former employe in the bureau, to false charges which she insisted have already been disproved in an investigation by Commissioner of Accounts James A. Higgins, whose report has not yet been made public officially. She admitted feeling "a genuine grievance" against Mr. Cooley, but declared she bore him no malice.

A jury was quickly chosen after the examination of thirty talesmen. In his opening address Mr. Aurelio declared that the State would prove that Mrs. Lawler was drawing pay as a Buffalo public school teacher at the same time that she was on the probation bureau payroll.

Mr. Medalie replied that Mr. Cooley did not know that his sister still had the Buffalo school post and employed her only on the plea of his mother, who said Mrs. Lawler was unhappy there. It was soon evident that Mrs. Lawler was suffering mentally, the attorney continued, and so she received a leave of absence. She is now in a sanitarium and unable to testify. He praised Mr. Cooley's record of twenty-one years in probation work and promised to produce character witnesses.

VANDALS STRIP BODIES OF AUTO CRASH VICTIMS

Dress Taken From One, Fur Coat and Jewelry From Others—2 Die, 7 Hurt Near Camden

Special to The New York Times.

CAMDEN, N. J., June 16.—While ten injured persons, including one newly wedded couple and another about to be married, lay near or in the wreckage of three automobiles and a truck on the White Horse Pike in Lawnside early this morning, vandals stripped a dress from a dying victim and a fur coat from another, stole jewelry and money from three purses and escaped.

This afternoon Roy W. Sanders, 28 years old, of 102 Seventh Avenue, Haddon Heights, N. J., died of his injuries in the West Jersey Homeopathic Hospital here, marking the second death as a result of the accident. His fiancée, Miss Violet Frances Wright, 20 years old, of Toronto, Canada, who was riding with him, died soon after the collision. They were to have been married next month.

The Injured.

GORE, LESTER, 28 years old, of Philadelphia, driver of the machine in which Miss Wright and Sanders were passengers; injuries slight.
VAIL, Miss LUCILLE, 24, of Philadelphia, who was in the Gore car; skull fractured.
GORSKEY, JOSEPH, Mrs. Gorskey's husband; injuries slight.
GIBBON, Mr. and Mrs. JOSEPH, of Johnstown, Pa., who were married last Wednesday; injuries slight.
GILMORE, Mrs. ESTELLE, 29, of Mount Holly, N. J.; injuries slight.
HUDSON, ROBERT M., 30, Philadelphia; injuries slight.

So far as the police could learn, Gore's car was in collision with one driven by Gorskey. The car driven by Hudson, in which Mrs. Gilmore was riding, crashed into these two machines almost before the victims could jump clear of the wreckage. A moment later a Philadelphia store truck, driven by Herman Buehler, crashed into the piled-up mass of wrecked machines. Buehler was uninjured.

130 CADETS COMMISSIONED.

Several thousand members and friends of the Salvation Army gathered at Carnegie Hall last night for the presentation of commissions and appointments to 130 cadets, who have completed a one-year course at the training school maintained by the organization. Commander-in-Chief Evangeline Booth and her staff of officers were present, as well as Commissioner Richard E. Holz, retiring leader of the Eastern Territory, who made the presentations.

Commander Booth presented certificates to Silver Star Mothers, whose sons or daughters have seen service in the Salvation Army. In an address to the cadets she praised the career of Commissioner Holz as an example for them to follow.

Own Your own INVESTMENT TRUST

WITH a five-dollar bill you can begin to build a unique and strictly private investment trust for your son or daughter. You can add to it daily, weekly, monthly—at whatever time and on whatever plan you wish. Specialists will handle all the intricate details for you, investing your money only in mortgages, bonds, and other high-class securities, under rigid State regulation.

You can start this trust today — in time to explain its meaning at the next family conference. Simply bring your money to the Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank. This bank is required by law to operate for the security and profit of its depositors. There can be no safer place for your money.

Yet this security includes a good rate of return. Few first-class bonds yield as high income as an Emigrant Savings Account. For any period from the day of deposit to the day of withdrawal, it pays you 4½% interest, compounded quarterly. This is the highest interest money can earn and still be safe and immediately available. And an Emigrant Account is an investment whose principal can never drop below par.

Even the wealthiest men who have large amounts tied up in "gilt-edge" securities — which have a way of shrinking suddenly in value — appreciate the wisdom of a savings account. One of the world's richest men — if not the richest — is a depositor here. Many men keep several maximum balances of $7500 in trust for various members of their families.

Write or call for our interesting booklet, "Five Steps to Fortune." It discusses the very principles on which most large personal fortunes have been built.

Assets over $386,000,000. More than 224,300 depositors
